PARTY MAKES A SHORT VISIT

Keith Scott, piloting his own plane, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Hardison, flew up from Los Angeles today to call on their friend C. Russell Squires of the Age.

They left home at 10:30, arriving at Vegas airport shortly after one o'clock. After luncheon and an hour viewing the recent improvements in this city, they left for home about 3:30, expecting to be home for dinner.

Mr. Scott, who is a licensed pilot, uses his own Stearman plane and declares there is no other way quite so pleasant to travel as the open airway.

NEW TITLES FOR WOMAN

BOSTON, May 9. (UP)—"Housewife" and "housekeeper" no longer are proper titles for women, according to Mrs. James J. Storrow, chairman of the Massachusetts Better Homes Committee. The women of today might better be called "home hostess" or "bugetkeeper," she thinks.

Fifty Millions at Stake in Sutter Land Suit

Heirs of Emigrant Saviour Want Sacramento Lands Restored

By NEA Service

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 9.—The romance and glamor of old California "before the Gringo came" and the hectic chapter of the "days of Forty Nine" soon are to be relived in a drab court room here. The colorful story will center around one of the west's outstanding figures.

Grandchildren of General John Sutter are suing the city of Sacramento, founded on their ancestor's land. They seek property they insist was wrongfully taken from them as the general's vast holdings were wrested from him by force.

Through Attorney Chaunce Tramutolo of San Francisco, these grandchildren are suing to recove. lands Sutter gave this city for parks and streets. The heirs declare the land was sold for commercial purposes, and instead should have reverted to their possession. Some of Sacramento's choicest business property is affected. Should the suit be followed by others there is possibility of lands worth $50,000,000 being involved.

Born in Germany, made a Swiss citizen and trained in the French army Sutter became still more of a cosmopolite for he came to California from the Sandwich Islands with a crew of Kanakas in 1839 to found a Swiss colony. As Indians were hostile in this territory, Mexican authorities gladly permitted him to settle here and erect a suitable fort. Sutter bought the ordnance, small ship, livestock and other supplies of the Russian colony at Bodega Bay and thus helped speed departure of the Czar's pioneers.

Sutter called his estate "New Helvetia," an area 11 square leagues. He built a formidable stockade, with Kanakas as troops, and employed scores of workers of all nationalities in his many enterprises. These included extensive stockraising, grain raising, a flour mill, etc. He was made a Mexican citizen and given an additional 22 square leagues of land by Governor Michel Torena.

Early American emigrants were received with boundless hospitality and given every assistance by Sutter. He spent a fortune in rescuing the ill-fated Donner party in 1846. Soon, every emigrant train leaving the east headed for Sutter's Fort. And late in 1846, Sutter hoisted the Stars and Stripes over his stronghold.

John Marshall, while digging a mill race for Sutter, discovered gold at Coloma. And soon this region was overrun by hordes of miners and adventurers.

The gold find brought the undoing of Sutter. His crops remained unharvested, his enterprises closed as men deserted to seek riches. His cattle and horses were driven away. Squatters tock up his lands in the same ruthless manner.

Sutter, the early saviour of California's first Americans, died in poverty and sorrow. Sutter's Fort has been rebuilt here and is a wonderful museum of early California days. There are county, city, mountain, street and other uses of Sutter's name as a tribute to his memory.

But the heirs, most of whom live in Mexico, are insistent that this city be more fair in handling Sutter's lands than were the early settlers.

Superior Judge W. A. Anderson, of Yolo county, will preside at the first trial. It will be widely followed, for its far-reaching possibilities as well as for its great historic interest.

ROSCOE THOMAS THANKS THE VOTERS

Roscoe W. Thomas wishes to thank the public sincerely for the support he received at the election Tuesday.

"As one of the city commissioner," he said, "the people have expressed their confidence in me in a way which is most gratifying.

"I intend to show my appreciation by giving the very best that is in me to the service of the city. I wish to advise and consult with the people and to carry out the wishes of the majority in all things for the best interests of the city."

VIOLA BURNS SAYS THANK YOU KINDLY

Viola Burns city clerk-elect wants the people of Las Vegas to know how much she appreciates the confidence they have shown in her. In trying to express her feelings to a representative of the Age yesterday she said:

"I naturally was quite happy and somewhat surprised when told that [illegible] I wanted the place and needed it of course, but [illegible] that the six men, candidates for the place all had equal claims with myself and had I not been elected I would have felt no bitterness.

"I want to thank the people for their kindness and to say that I shall do my very best to deserve the confidence they have placed in me."

PICKED THE WRONG PLACE

SPENCER, Ia., May 9. (UP)—It's bad enough to get drunk in Iowa, but to get intoxicated in the county jail, while being held for investigation, was lese majeste, or something, and today Harry Nelson and "Red" Welch are spending 30-day sentences because of the fact.

STUDENT ART EXHIBIT SHOWN

An exhibit of art work done in high school, grammar school and kindergarten is on display this week at school. The high school work, displayed in classrooms in the high school building, includes original "Indian" designs based upon ideas found on pottery unearthed after centuries in a buried state and executed under the direction of Lewis E. Rowe, art instructor, whose particular hobby is Indian work.

A seventeen-page article on "Indian Design," to be illustrated with some of these original student works, will be published under Lowe's name in the October issue of the School Arts Magazine.

Work done by Mr. Rowe and by Miss Hancock, also of the faculty, is displayed at the exhibit along with that of the students. The exhibit will be open this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, from 2:15 to 5.

"I hope most of our visitors will come after 3:30," said Miss Frazier principal, yesterday, "for our classes are all out then. But we would rather have them come before that time than not at all." It was suggested visitors see the work at the kindergarten first and the high school last, in order better to appreciate the work.

Members of the Art Guild of the high school are the chief contributors to the exhibit. They are: Virginia Bachert, president; Lucille McKenzie, vice president; Elizabeth Von Tobel, secretary-treasurer; Marjorie Gifford, Joan Dotson, Mary Stockburger, Evelyn White, Sam Dase, Thomas Carroll, Mary Sheahan, Joy Simon, Mona Kay, Jimmie Down, Yvonne Lodwick, Jerry Davis, Vera Hannig, Theo. Jackard, Banche Lee, nig, Theo. Packard, Blanche Lee, Dimock.

LOU HANSELL IS APPRECIATIVE

Lou Hansell, city commissioner-elect appreciates the support given him in the city election Tuesday.

Mr. Hansell fully realizes the grave responsibility placed upon him and pledges his best efforts to give the city a safe, sane and economical government.

"I thank the people of Las Vegas for their confidence and will do my best not to disappoint them," he said.
