Elections Bring Poor Turnout

This year's elections were officially under way with the filing of candidate petitions with the student government office. With the completion of this, the campaigns were in full swing. Colorful campaign posters could be spotted hanging from banisters, riding around on briefcases, lying on the sidewalks, and generously laying around the Service Center in Frazier Hall.

The general feeling around campus was that the campaigns were a little on the light side, with the biggest portion of attention being focused on the Freshman class's candidates for Senators in the C.S.N.S. Senate.

Participation in the campaigns also proved to be sparse. This was evident in the participation of the Freshman class at the Freshman Assembly. Out of approximately seven hundred Freshmen enrolled at N.S.U., only about seventy attended.

The climax of the week's campaigning was on September 30, and October 1, better known as election days. The casting of ballots proved to be rather light on the first day of voting, but things seemed to pickup on the second day.

The final results of the elections were announced at the Rebel Rouser on October 2. The final results were: Chip Mills as Senior Class President, Don Almar as the Junior Class President with Judy Walling as the Junior Class Vice-President. Andy Glass won the Presidency of the Sophomore Class on a write in ballot, while Robert Douglas captured the title of Sophomore Vice-President. The President of the Freshman Class turned out to be Randy Frew with Joe Lendini as the Vice-President. Freshman Class Senators are Bill Boyd and Mike Devere.

The election of Senior and Junior Class Senators will be held later in the year.

Students Get Second Chance

Arrangements have been made to have students get their pictures taken at Ball Studios MONDAY, OCTOBER 18.

"There were only 180 persons who arced enough to have their pictures taken" stated Haggerty.

Fraternities and Sororities

JET SET OFF TO FAST START

It was that time of year again. Once a semester, every semester, the fraternities and sororities plan a series of activities that are commonly referred to as Rush Week at Nevada Southern.

The word rush is appropriately applied to the proceedings of this rigorous week, for Webster defines rush as "a swift, sudden attack or charge".

How true this is! This is really what happens to the poor, unsuspecting rushee who shows a small interest in joining one of these social organizations. Especially if they are a good looking girl or guy with a personality to match their superior physical qualities.

Library and Dormitory Construction Get Expansion Go-Ahead

In the last issue of the REBEL YELL, it was announced that the look at N.S.U. is "looking up", but last week the announcements that were made turned this statement into a very incomplete description of what is taking place on our campus.

We were informed the week of October 4, that two and one half million dollars ($2,500,000)

This year, however, the fraternities at Nevada Southern decided it was about time that the usual dull, insipid stag parties be used for more profitable objectives than just rushing prospective pledges.

This year the Intercollegiate Knights had a "swell scavenger hunt." (That is a direct quote from one of the rushees.) On the lists, such items as a live pigeon, a baby pachyderm, and a feline were found, much to the dismay of the participants of this folly.

It was rumored the Intercollegiate Knights were trying to collect these animals so they could start a small zoo. Then the plan was they would charge an admission fee to raise some money for their organization. Though this escapade was a total ball, it proved to be unprofitable. The few objects that were found, such things as a false tooth, a one-way ticket to Vietnam, and an empty Clear Springs bottle, were of little value.

Many were disappointed to be informed that a certain

AGRONSKY AT NSU OCT. 19

Mr. Martin Agronsky, noted CBS news commentator, will kick off the C.S.N.S. sponsored lecture series for this year at 8:00 p.m. in the gymnasium on Tuesday, October 19th. He will speak on the subject of "The World Crisis and the United States."

Mr. Agronsky will arrive early Tuesday afternoon at McCarran Field where he will be met by C.S.N.S. officers and escorted to KLAS-TV for a filmed news interview. Later that evening, he is scheduled to meet with faculty members and news reporters for a brief discussion session just prior to the beginning of his lecture.

In referring to the lecture, Tom Hribar, C.S.N.S. President, explained the position taken by the student government in having a two-part lecture series for this year by stating, "In the past, we have had more speakers; however, this year we decided to bring nationally known personalities to this campus and to offer to the student body and to the southern Nevada community a quality lecture series. We feel that Mr. Agronsky is a man of this caliber."

Mr. Agronsky is a familiar face to millions of television viewers for his Washington coverage for net work television and for his coverage of the recent presidential conventions in San Francisco and Atlantic City.

He received the coveted Alfred I. DuPont Commentator's Award for his coverage of the Eichmann Trial. Referring to this coverage, one critic put it this way, "It is an accomplishment that has enhanced the respect in which he is held."

Agronsky, generally acknowledged as the best reporter in the capitol, has received the George Foster Peabody Award for his "At Issue" news program.

SONG CONTEST TO BE HELD

Can you hum and put a tune that sounds good down on paper? If so now is your chance to capitalize on your never-before-expressed talents. The Nevada Southern student government is now sponsoring a large scale contest to find a "fight" song for Nevada Southern University.

The contest, which is the first of two to be held, will be open to any student and any member of the community who is capable of composing a song which would be suited for play as a "fight" song for basketball games and eventually for other sports such as football. There will be a first (and only) prize of $100 given to the composer of the selected song. Judges of the contest will select the song on its quality of adaptability for the purpose specified at this time. It is hoped that there will be wide interest in the contest from both students, amateur and professional musicians.

Student chairman of the committee formulating the contest, Chuck Crawford, had this to say about the contest:

"Within one year from now there will be dormitory facilities on this campus; within perhaps two years there will be a student union available. If we are to grow as a university physically we must also expect to grow in spirit. We all most certainly want a university and student body to be proud of and we can get both; but we have to be able to demonstrate our enthusiasm to on-lookers of our progress, we have got to have some unifying means of expressing ourselves. I feel that a school fight song that students can sing at basketball games, particularly a song that is unique to this school, is a first basic step toward gaining this means of expressing ourselves. I look forward to many participants in this contest. The reward monetarily is minimal; $100 is a small token to a professional songwriter, but the contribution that the winner will make to the traditions and spirit on this campus more than makes up the difference. I only wish that I was musically inclined so that I could have a crack at it."

The contest will begin on October the 15th, Friday, and will extend to January 31, 1966. The contest will be judged by a panel of three judges who will announce their decision in the February 2nd edition of the REBEL YELL and in the local papers on that day.

CAMPUS TRENDS . . . The formation of "Freddie Pools" for the purpose of speculating on political ventures . . . Ancient practice of "tumbleweed worship" being given a brief reprise on the N.S.U. campus by the President Pro Tempore of the senate. . . "I bite" sweatshirts in style . . . Student talk of an oratory forum to be located between Frazier and Grant; to be patterned after the father "Berkley" model. . .

U-DAZE CHATTER . . . Rumors in the air of an upperclass plot which will rank with the greatest exploits of Alexander of Macedonia. Some upperclassmen speak of the freshmen being annihilated in 30 minutes. It will be interesting to see what the weapon is! There have been speculations that it is a huge replica of the university's president which will be maneuvered into position on a troop carrier, and then set off as a time bomb near the freshman bonfire. Its contents are rumored to be powdered flour and H₂S gas. . .

ON THE SERIOUS SIDE . . . The chancellor's official investiture ceremony on November 20 at the Convention Center, it is open to the public, very possibly to feature a name speaker of the stature of Senator Robert Kennedy, Vice President Humphrey, or General Eisenhower. . . Boob on the Brink

By LARRY CLARK

I am a very placid "guy" and love just about everybody and everything except for Russians, Chinese, the U.N., Moslems, Hindus, N.A.A.C.P., S.P.C.A., F.B.I., F.O.B., C.O.R.E., C.B.S., K.K.K., and girls under eighteen.

One of my pet peeves is a nearby specialty restaurant that supposedly serves Mexican food (now I know why the average life span in Mexico is 38 years). They are straight out of the Old Testament, they offer burnt offerings. But I do not claim to be a connoisseur of Latin American foods, however, to me con carne is a disease of the leg.

What bothers me is that their food has more hair on it than I have on my head. They don't have a chef, they have a barber. One should say, "pass the salt, the pepper, and the Vitalis". Instead of a knife and a fork, one needs a pair of scissors. They serve the world's only shedding taco. You don't know whether to eat it or to put it on a leash. No one gets food poisoning, they get dandruff of the tongue.

I finally got used to their fuzzy delicacies, but I had to turn one dish back because they parted it on the wrong side.

Another one of my gripes is that Hertz-rent-a-cop. He earns his wages, not by the hour, but by the scalp. It has been rumored that he is a former member of the Nazi S.S. He doesn't censor a violator, he blitzkriegs them.

He has more notches on his gun than Billy the Kid. Matter-of-fact he has run out of handle and tied a two-by-four to his leg. His philosophy is shoot now and then give them a ticket because you get less back talk.

Not only is he a good shot, but also a Karate expert. If you park in the wrong space, he devastates your fender with a judo chop or uses a short kick to the tail pipe.

I'm also sick of attacks made on our school. The ridicule on the landscaping, while other schools can brag about their lush green campuses, we can boast about having the world's only 189 acre rock garden.

Other schools brag of their academic achievements; we can boast of having the highest rate of snake bite!

Looking Down the Barrel

With Chuck Crawford

It could be an "X", a checkmark, a circle, a scribble, a "no", a proper name, or the omission of any of these. These are all methods that Nevada Southern students use to control their student government and class government. The most common methods are the latter two.

I could understand why there were a scant 250 votes cast in the last election. It is getting to be old hat on this patch of desert. Besides the names of "street car student body" or "tumbleweed tech" we are once again trying to earn the less dramatic but far more detrimental label of "apatnetic students". But with a yawn and a little duck of the head in the sand, such a label never goes past the eardrums of the students.

Then it is my turn to analyze the problem and come up with a solution. Could it be that the problem is not with the students in general? What if, instead, we can pin the problem down to those of you that are carrying over seven credits, and further pin it down to those of you who are carrying over seven credits and maintain a 2.0 or 2.2 GPA. And for kicks let's say that those students have a little ability sprinkled with a tiny bit of determination can get into the collection. Now what do we have . . . ? We have the group of students who could, and should consider running for a student government office.

When it comes right down to it, that is a pretty big group of students. You would think that with all those students eligible, at least two or three would wind up on a ballot at one time or another. The result of this is that there is rarely a show for the students to watch, rarely a close election where every vote makes the difference between one type of officer or another.

Maybe, then, there should be something done about this. Maybe you voters deserve to be entertained; after all you are only in college!

I guess it should be your student government that should devise methods to get qualified individuals to seek office and to get you to vote. How about having someone like the second vice president of the student body do only one job: look constantly for those of you who have the qualifications and then convince you that you should seek office. That would work, wouldn't it? Or what about eliminating all elective offices but one and have a dictatorship? You could, at least, not feel guilty about not running for an office. Or student government could start a draft to get workers in student government.

Any of these would be effective in filling positions now filled by elections, but none of the methods are as desirable as the method we have now. Let's face it, there should be more to college than classes for some of you. Participation in a campus government can often impress an employer after your graduation where mere transcripts cannot.

So how do we get the rest of you who will not run for office or work in your student government to vote? Should we take the ballot boxes through each classroom? What about giving cash rebates on your activity fee when you bother to vote in an election? Or we could again eliminate all but one elective office and have that dictatorship.

Again we find that a representative democracy is the most desirable way and that responsibilities must be met if it is to be the most effective way. There should never have to be a write in candidate in any election. The offices should be filled by candidates who cared enough about the office to fulfill the obligations set up for candidates, a petition.

There should never again be only 10 percent or so of the student body voting in an election where the poll is located in front of the library, a building where almost all students wander by at least once in two days. Look at it this way, if you are apathetic voters right now, how good will you be as United States citizens?

DEAR JOEL

Dear Joel,

I am a freshmen in my first semester at Nevada Southern. I am wondering about the fact that lately I have seen many of the prominent student leaders walking about campus with large grass stains on their backsides. Could you tell me if this is some distinguishing mark I should recognize and respect? Curiously,
 Joe College

Dear Joe,

This mark should be respected and revered by all students, for it is a sign of true prowess. These marks are worn only by those students crafty and swift enough to escape the wrath of Jack Defevre, in his never-ending vigil against grass-walkers.

Dear Joel,

I have a point of etiquette that I would like settled. I belong to a secret fraternity, dedicated to preserving the Play-boy image at N.S.U. It is our policy to always carry several textbooks and folders when walking with a playmate in the corridors, so as to avoid the distasteful necessity of holding hands, since this Victorian custom tends to create jealousy among the many playmates competing for our attentions. However, some of the willer playmates have resorted to the tactic of quickly switching sides before we have an opportunity to change the books to the other hand. What etiquette should be used in order to avoid the embarrassment of such a situation?

Perplexedly,
 Joe University

Dear Joe,

Let your playmates carry your books.

Dear Joel,

I am faced with a purely practical problem. Where is S.S. 309? Sincerely,
 Joe Campus

Dear Joe,

The answer to your question is laughingly simple. Starting from Chancellor Moyer's office, proceed up the northern stairway three floors, turn right, then left at the first cross corridor . . . oops! On second thought, you'd better go south on the eastern north-south corridor to the last cross-corridor then turn right and follow that corridor . . . oops! Starting from the south stairway, go to the third floor and go down six classrooms along the eastern corrdor. The seventh door is the janitor's room, a good starting place. To hell with it, all classes scheduled for room 309 are meeting in the Red Barn.

NSU PROFS CONDUCT FORUM AT UCLA

On October 10, 1965 three Nevada Southern University professors conducted a panel at UCLA which dealt with the discussion of the modern German Play by Rolf Hochhuth, THE DEPUTY.

The professors, Dr. Jerry Crawford; Dr. Charles Sheldon, and Mr. John Baliff, were chosen to lead the symposium discussion by The Theatre Group which is connected to UCLA through the UCLA extension program.

The play, THE DEPUTY, was discussed in conjunction with the west coast premier of the American adaptation of the play by Herman Sumlin and Jerome Rothenberg. The production opened in August and was immediately sold out for its entire six week run. As a result, the production was extended into October where it again has been sold out.

Dr. Crawford, Dr. Sheldon and Mr. Baliff attended the Theatre Group premier on October 8 and performed on the panel in Royce Hall of UCLA on Sunday, October 10. Clergymen of both the Catholic and Jewish faith were also members of the panel.

Dr. Crawford, a professor of English and drama here, is a graduate of Drake University and later attended Stanford University for his Masters degree in theatre arts. He obtained his Doctorate in speech and dramatic art from the University of Iowa. A playwright himself, Dr. Crawford spoke to the panel on the dramatic and theatrical value of the play and its adaption.

Dr. Sheldon is a professor of political science and obtained his B.A. and M.A. degree from the University of Washington and, his Ph.D. from the University of Oregon. He spoke on the modern historical and political implications of the play.

Mr. Baliff is a professor of philosophy at Nevada Southern. He is a graduate of Stanford University, obtained his M.A. degree from Pennsylvania State University where he is now near completion of his Ph.D. He spoke on the philosophic implications of the play.

These three professors plan to conduct the first Honors Colloquium to be offered at Nevada Southern in the spring semester of 1966. This course will focus on THE DEPUTY. Such a colloquium is quite unique in the educational system of the country and represents a new and stimulating venture for Nevada Southern students.

SONG CONTEST

It is hoped that next year another contest will be run offering a prize for the best school alma mater composed. As of now only a fight song (comparable to that of Michigan etc.) will be considered. A complete copy of the rules will appear in the local papers on Friday, October 15, or may be obtained through the REBEL YELL office, Grant Hall room 114.

SENATE INTERNSHIP ANNOUNCED

The departments of political science of the Reno and Las Vegas campuses of the University of Nevada, in conjunction with Senator Howard Cannon, are instituting a congressional intern program beginning in January, 1966. One student will be selected for this program through joint selection by the departments of the two campuses.

The recipient of the internship will serve in Senator Cannon's Washington office for a period of five months. The student will be enrolled in Political Science 306, and receive 6 credits for the course. In addition, he will be required to register for a three-credit course in political science at a university in Washington, for a total of 9 academic credits during his internship.

Expenses Paid

The internship will carry a sufficient allowance for living and miscellaneous expenses during the five-month period in Washington. Senator Cannon will also provide assistance for transportation expenses.

Requirements for application for the internship include junior or senior standing at the university and completion of 12 credit-hours in political science. Exceptions may be made for juniors and those who have not had 12 credits in the field but are interested in the program and have good academic standing.

Those students who meet the above qualifications, regardless of their current respective majors should contact immediately any one of the faculty members of political science (Messrs. Cho, Lapitan, Sheldon, and Tsurutani) before November 1, 1965.

Since Freshmen Orientation, N.S.U.'s campus has been in a seige of uproar over the underclassmen pictures in the yearbook controversy. Various petitions were circulated to determine majority opinion. In the last issue of the REBEL YELL C.S.N.S. president, Tom Hribar, and REBEL YELL editor, Chuck Crawford, announced that underclassmen pictures, due to a popular majority, would go into the '66 edition of the EPILOGUE.

Beneath a barrage of false rumors, insults, and pressure for conformity to the wishes of the student body—the wishes being, in this case, rather loosely interpreted by Tom Hribar—lies John Haggarty, editor of the EPILOGUE. Mr. Haggarty's reasons (which have largely been ignored in this turmoil) for wishing to leave the underclassmen pictures out of the EPILOGUE this year are part of his fundamental plans for the yearbook. His goal is to upgrade the EPILOGUE from a high school type documentary yearbook, with lots of pictures and little style, to a college yearbook with the creative spirit and maturity that college itself stands for.

The first duty of a college yearbook is to represent the school and what it means to the majority of the students in such a way that it will be remembered long after individual names and faces are forgotten. Besides spirit, both creativity and unity must be present so that the yearbook will not only meet the needs of N.S.U.'s students in 1966, but also in the years to come when they wish to look back in their yearbooks and recapture some of the pleasure which they experienced in college.

Perhaps N.S.U. is not ready for a yearbook which is more than a high school documentary. If this is so, it is not a fact of which to be proud. It is a time of immense growth at N.S.U. The faculty, students, and facilities are rapidly increasing and expanding. Student activities have never been so widely supported. We should not, WE CAN NOT prevent John Haggarty from trying to capture in a mature fashion this spirit in the '66 EPILOGUE.

PENNARIO NOTED PIANIST PERFORMS AT LVHS

This year more students than ever before are holding season Memberships in the Southern Nevada Community Concert Association.

These students remember the opening concert, which was on Monday evening, October 11. All these concerts, given in the Las Vegas High School Auditorium, start promptly at 8:15.

Mr. Pennario, world renowned pianist, will play a program from the compositions of Chopin, Debussy, and Beethoven.

The increase in the number of students holding membership cards in the Community Concert Association illustrates the all important fact that the student body of Nevada Southern University is taking advantage of the many activities offered on our campus. If this enthusiasm continues, the prospect of widening the scope of these cultural activities is greatly increased. Student participation shows student interest and proves to a community, for many people must be shown proof of a result before they are convinced, that their money, which is paid to State Taxes, is being put to good use. Therefore, participation has a two-fold purpose; opportunity to a student body, and support to a University on the part of a community with the prospect of an increased activity program.

Sigma Gamma

Sigma Gamma was a little more conventional with their rush activities. They held a smoker which ended up in a friendly poker game. ATO followed suit.

The girls proved to be more conservative than the guys. Nu Sigma Upsilon and Alpha Omega held formal rush teas. Both parties turned out to be successful affairs. Keep an eye out for all Alpha Omega pledges who will be filling their service requirements, which consist of things like sweeping the library and cleaning the student union. Congratulations to Nu Sigma Upsilon for winning the hop-scotch contest.

Generally speaking, all rush activities turned out to be fun for those who participated. Best of luck to all the new rushees.

From the Files

For those members of C.S.N.S. who have doubts about there being progress on this campus, we should like to reprint a story which appeared in the very first issue of the REBEL YELL, more than ten years ago, on April 20, 1955.

Full Swing Soon Fund Drive In

(REBEL YELL exclusive)
Hopes ran high at Nevada Southern last night when it was revealed by a reliable source that May 23 is the date set by the Nevada Citizens Committee for a house to house canvas aimed at securing $35,000 for the 20 acre option offered by Stella Welbourn. The committee also intends to raise an additional $100,000 for the erection of a student union building and to further develop the campus.

Due largely to Nevada Southern telegrams, the 1955 legislature passed a bill which permits the sale of state bonds amounting to $200,000. The funds will be used to erect the first permanent class building. However, a rider was attached to the bill which provided that the southern Nevada students must raise the $35,000 needed for the additional 20 acres.

Editor's Note — The "first permanent class building" mentioned in the article costing $200,000.00 is Frazier Hall. We wonder what ever happened to the $100,000.00 for a proposed Student Union.

REBEL ROUSER MAGIC

"Do you believe in magic?" The IK's of Nevada Southern must. They presented the CSNS Rebel Rouser Saturday, October 2, which turned out to be a smashing success. The surf beat of the "Midnight Suns" was loud, inspiring, and stimulating as seen through the emotions expressed by many of the N.S.U. students. The vivacious students jumped into the swim, frug, trip, jerk, and even the Wha-Wha-Tusi. With every song, more students filled the dance floor and more new dances were born.

The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the newly elected class officers. Tom Hribar, the Student Body President, announced and introduced the newly elected officers. They are the following: Chip Mills senior class president and Don Almar, junior president. The Sophomores elected Andy Glass as their president and Judy Walling as their vice-president. Last, but not least, the Freshmen selected Randy Frew as their class president and Joe Lendini as their vice-president. The Freshmen senators are Bill Boyd and Mike Devere. CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL!!!!

After the announcement of the class officers the dancing resumed and the new officers were congratulated. Over all, the evening was an enjoyable one and everyone seemed to have a good time. (Even the chaperons) If you didn't make it to this dance, break away from those books and trip on over to the next one to be held at the end of this month.

Accounting Students Honored

The Nevada Society of Certified Public Accountants has recently honored two Nevada Southern Accounting students. Mrs. Bonita Rae Orchard was presented a certificate for being the most outstanding first-year accounting student. She was selected by the accounting staff on the basis of academic excellence in Acc. 101 and 102.

Mr. Michael Cox was presented with a $200 scholarship for having the highest grade point average of any accounting major having completed his junior year. Mr. Cox carried 18 hours last Spring and received 18 hours of A.

Both of these students are to be congratulated for their fine work. Best wishes to them in their future work at Nevada Southern.

Lost and Found

Those students who have had the misfortune of losing some of their valuable school items may have the chance to reclaim them by stopping in at the publications office. Lost articles have been piling up and we would like to see them returned to their owners.

Rhodes, Fullbright Scholarships Offered

Dr. Robert McQueen, Chairman of the Scholarship and Prizes Board at the University of Nevada, has announced that elections to Rhodes Scholarships will be held in the United States this December for entrance to Oxford University in October, 1966.

The following are the qualifications for one desiring to become a Rhodes Scholar: he must be a (male) citizen of the United States, with at least five year's residence, and unmarried; be between the ages of eighteen and twenty-four on October 1, 1965; by the time of application have junior standing at some recognized degree-granting college or university in the United States; and receive official endorsement from his college or university.

A Rhodes Scholarship appointment is made for a period of two years in the amount of $2,400 per year with the possibility of an extension of a third year if the student's record at Oxford and plan of study warrant such an award.

Application may be made by a student either in the state in which he lives, or in the state in which he received at least two years of his college education. Applications must be in the hands of the secretary of the state committee not later than November 1, 1965.

Application blanks and copies of regulations may be obtained from Dr. McQueen.

Dr. McQueen has also announced that the Fullbright-Hays grants are now available to American students for graduate study in Latin American countries. Trip transportation, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year are provided for by the grants. Interested students may apply for three Latin American countries.

A good academic record and a well rounded knowledge of U.S. culture and institutions are the only qualifications a candidate for these awards should have.

Grants are available for study in the following countries: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Columbia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

Opportunities in the fields of social science, education, humanities, and the arts are available to all candidates.

Additional information and application forms for the Fullbright-Hays grant can also be obtained from Dr. McQueen.

AN INTERVIEW WITH PROFESSOR MOTOLOVEK

By TODD RANDOLPH

We were privileged to obtain a brief interview with Professor Motolovek of Kiev University during his nation wide tour, which ends the 28th of this month. We met the Professor at McCarran Airport during the short, two hour layover between Tucson, Arizona on his way to the Berkeley Campus of UCLA. The professor's lecture series, dealing with educational techniques of the USSR as opposed to Western standards, was the focal point of the interview.

Question: Professor, what are your opinions as to teaching standards of some of the prominent universities you have visited in the United States.

Professor Motolovek: Indicative of non-state supported institutions I find that the basic student morale is below that of Soviet findings. Also I find much wasted time, energy, and motivation in the social life which U.S. students find so all-important. However, the Soviet Union, in this case, has found that disciplined activities, planned by the faculty, to be most successful.

"If the students know that certain basic rules of conduct must, at all times, be followed, individual party dangers are avoided. We keep our students occupied always, with school functions. The least amount of time spent in individual activity, the better."

Question: What, in your opinion, do you think, could be done to improve conditions of learning found in most of America's Universities.

Professor Motolovek: No student should have to hold a part time job while attending college. All students should have the most time possible dedicated to study, study, and more study.

Question: What have you found in your research to be the most notable qualities of American Universities?

Professor Motolovek: The faculties of America's colleges are almost constantly of high quality, however, the quality of your students in abysmally poor. The ability to learn, the talent, the intelligence is there, but, all they think about is their petty social status and party schedules.

Question: To what do you attribute the high rates of juvenile delinquency, such as teenage drinking, narcotics, and sexual promiscuity found in most of America's Institutes of higher learning?

Professor Molotovek: Why, to the low brand of leadership, of course. Rules are not strict enough. Students are left too much time for rationalization of their own wrong doings. They have no conscience, no deep feelings for their country or it's standards. In the Soviet Union, students are subjected to reference only after it has been approved by the state authorities. This constructive censorship leaves students with only beneficial ideas, rather than non-conformist, and usually harmful ideas.

The Profesor's UCLA lecture will be the last in his series before returning to Russia.

Senior Pictures To Be Taken

John Haggerty, editor of the Nevada Southern yearbook, EPILOGUE has announced that pictures of Senior Class members will be taken this week at Ball Studios.

All seniors must go to Ball Studios, 1703 E. Charleston Blvd. on October 12, 13, 14, or 15 between the hours of 10 A.M. and 6 P.M. in order for their pictures to be taken in time for the EPILOGUE deadline.

The pictures will cost $2.00 payable on the day the pictures are taken. Proper dress will be coat and ties for the gentlemen and suitable dresses for the ladies.

Mr. Haggarty urged that all seniors take the brief time and minimal cost to have their pictures taken, for this is the last yearbook in which they may appear.

Little Theatre Gets Cosmetics

The newly organized Children's Theatre Division of N.S.U.'s Drama Department was very pleased to receive a donation of $225.00 worth of theatrical make-up last week. This generous gift was directed to The Little Theatre through the efforts of Alpha Omega Sorority.

The Children's Theatre extends a special thanks to Fifth Street Drug Store, which supplied the make-up, and to Sally Moore, president of Alpha Omega, for her interest and alertness.

C.S.N.S. Sends Delegation to Student Union Confab

Tom Hribar, C.S.N.S. President, today announced a four-man delegation which will represent N.S.U. at the Association of College Unions International Convention in Reno on October 28, and continuing thru October 30.

N.S.U., a new member in the national organization, will be represented by Tracey Goetel, C.S.N.S. 2nd V.P.; Bob Jensen, Chairman of the C.S.N.S. Student Center Committee; Larry Green, Committee Member; and Chuck Crawford, Rebel Yell Editor. The group will be the guests of the Reno campus, and will also attend Reno's homecoming celebration.

CREATIVE WRITING WORKSHOP

The student Creative Writing Workshop will present on Monday, October 18, and on every following Monday, poetry readings in the audio-visual room of the Social Science building, at 12:00 noon.

Students interested in reading or writing are invited to attend and to join the workshop, by leaving their name and phone number in Mr. Diamante's office, S.S. 224.

SENATE MINUTES SEPTEMBER 30

Jack Abell called the meeting to order at 9:00 P.M. Those present were: Jack Abell, Ben Knowles, Don Malone, Sandi Sharp, Bill Cunningham, and Chuck Crawford. Those absent were Jackie Womble and Sue Wilson. The minutes were approved as read. The chair stated that the senators are to please post their office hours.

The time of the Senate meetings was changed to every Friday at 7:00 A.M. The chair appointed Ben Knowles to look into each senator's G.P.A.

The Senate then engaged in a discussion of the purchase of redwood tables for the Frazier Patio to be installed by Buildings and Grounds. Sandi Sharp moved to appropriate $230.00 for the purchase of the redwood tables. Ben Knowles seconded the motion. The vote was 5-0-0. Ben Knowles also stated that something should be done about the mess in the Student Center. There was a discussion of hiring help if Diane Spaulding doesn't stir the student body on the P.A. system to pick up their mess.

Article II, Section I, Clause B, Paragraph 3 d, numbers 2-8 of the Constitutional Reorganization Act was discussed. The point of discussion was voting procedures. Ben Knowles moved to table this motion until the next meeting. Sandi Sharp seconded the motion. The vote was 5-0-0.

Chuck Crawford made the point that there is no stipulation on recognition of groups by C.O.C. on page 17-A, Art. IV, Section 2, Clause A of the Constitutional Reorganization Act. C.O.C. only has the power to take it away.

Dr. Owens then presented to the Senate an idea for an on-campus book store. $10,000 would be needed for immediate inventory and one year's salary for the operator. The discussion was tabled to next Friday's meeting so that ideas of the students could be considered.

Bill Cuninghame moved to adjourn the meeting. Chuck Crawford seconded the motion. The vote was 5-0-0. The meeting was adjourned at 10:05 P.M. Respectfully submitted Sandi Sharp Senate Recorder

SIGMA GAMMA

Sigma Gamma is pleased to announce that it has initiated its Fall '65 pledge program. After our pledge-active dinner dance held at the Elks Club last Saturday night, we are confident that this, the Gamma pledge class, will be our finest yet. Brother Louis Hillegas, our pledge trainer, has done an exceptional job of organizing and co-ordinating Sigma Gamma's most aggressive pledge training schedule to date.

We were privileged to sponsor the feature race at Thunderbird Downs Sunday and invited the Intercollegiate Knights to be our guests at the turf club. Many Rebels were on hand to see the Sigma Gamma Handicap and we appreciate their support. Our own race horse, donated to us by arrangement through Mr. Elliot Leib, our new vice-president, will be running later in the season.

This semester's first NSU disotheque, which we sponsored jointly with the Teanbeat Club, was held last Wednesday evening and we must again thank the many NSU students who were there for their support.

Alpha Omega has invited us to their mountain party, October 23, and we are anxiously awaiting this opportunity to meet and mix with their new pledges. The following Saturday night we will be sponsoring the annual Halloween Dance, which will be climaxed by an "Ugly Man" contest.

We wish to welcome Mike Myers, a fraternity man and student from BYU, upon his affiliation with Sigma Gamma. Our sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rounds for the stereo they contributed to our fraternity house.

COMMERCE CLUB

The N.S.U. Commerce Club held a general meeting October 5. The details for their party, the following Friday, were consummated. Dancing, swimming, hot dogs, and refreshments were provided. It was a gasser!!

The first speaker of the year will be Dean Hammond. The new Dean of Faculty will address the club on Thursday, October 21. The lecture will be held in room 103 of the Social Science building at 1:00 p.m. All interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

Male students who want to have the advantages of a national business fraternity as part of their college career, should contact Jerry Schurr, John Lewis, Bob Lear, or Bruce Luria.

The next meeting of the Commerce Club will be Sunday, October 17. . . . contact any member for the time and place.

NU SIGMA UPSILON

Now that Rush Week has passed, Nu Sigma Upsilon would like to welcome our new pledge class and wish them an enjoyable and productive pledge semester. Out of 103 applications and 57 Rushees, N.E.Y. invited 33 girls to pledge. Congratulations are in order for these girls!!

We would also like to thank the members of the student body who, last Sunday, helped to make our Fashion Show a success. The proceeds from "Copesetic" are being used to help support an orphan overseas.

Did we do it? Yes we did! N.E.Y. did, indeed, win a victory over the A.T.O.'s in the challenge hop-scotch tournament. We were a bit disappointed over the A.T.O. obvious lack of enthusiasm over our victory, but C'est La Vie', Boys!

The big question now is, will the I.K.'s prove better than A.T.O. in the forthcoming annual egg race with N.E.Y.? Be there and see for yourself. It will be held on campus the night of October 16th and a great party will be given by the losers. In past years the I.K.'s have provided the eats and drinks; we're sure this year will prove to be no exception.

One final note before closing: Nu Sigma Upsilon has been putting blood, sweat, and tears into the decorations for the Prefence Ball, so don't miss it! Girls, ask your favorite man now! And guys, don't be bashful about asking that favorite girl.

ALPHA OMEGA

Rush week came to a halt for Alpha Omega on October 3rd. Much discussion went into the decision that Alpha Omega, unlike some other organizations, would definitely not accept any new pledges after that date.

The new pledges were formally welcomed into the sorority at a "Welcome Meeting" Sunday evening, October 3rd, at the home of Margie Haddad. The first pledge meeting was held on the following Wednesday, and the Alpha Pledge Class officers were elected at that time.

The new pledges are: Jennifer Sage, Janet Palmer, Ellen Ayoub, Vicki Wold, Pam Mason, Trudy Woods, Shirley Klienpeter, Joan Tauber, Maureen Simpson, Pam Black, Helen Shaw, Sue Stevenson, Kim Geringer, Sue Tobey, Claudette Havas, Pam Noland, Barbara Gove, Debbie Coroneos; Diane Namanny, and Connie Carr.

Alpha Omega had a football game against ATO on October 9th—three guesses who won! We are also planning a big party for October 23rd. Two of our members, Allison Derman and Judy Plemondon, are in the process of planning a function for the sorority in the near future. Details will be revealed at a later date. The pledges are also formulating plans for a party with one of the fraternities.

Congratulations to the new class officers! To the I.K.'s: the Rebel Rouser was a complete success and the decorations were great.

BIOLOGY CLUB

The second meeting of the Biology Club was held on September 30, 1965, in room 207, Science Tech. The meeting opened with an introduction of this year's officers: Clark Anderson, President; Glen Alred, Vice-President; Cynthia Schultz, Secretary; and John Armstrong, Treasurer.

Among the plans discussed for this year's activities were the continuation of the Lecture Series started last year. These lectures are presented by members of the Biology Club on shrubs in the Clark County area, and include talks on the local habitat as well as animal life in this area.

Plans are in the making for increasing the museum's size. Some time in the future we plan to exchange study skins with other universities.

A party was also discussed, but nothing was definitely planned.

I K's

Congratulations are in order to Ken Black, Bob Comings, and Lorenzo McKliff, who were recently made Knights in the Red Eagle Chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights.

Mr. Richard Everson was made Expansion Officer of the I.K.'s, and we are all looking for great things from our newest officer.

The I.K.'s have been busy the last week or so. We ushered at the Warriors-Royals game at the Convention Center. The proceeds of the game went to the N.S.U. Scholarship Fund.

Then, of course, there was the I.K. rush party and the wildest scavenger hunt in history. Most of that evening comes back very fuzzy to me, but some of our stronger members, such as Chuck Crawford, Tom Wingfield, and others, remember it well. What was in that bottle anyway?

The Rebel Rouser, which the I.K.'s presented and C.S.N.S. sponsored, was very successful.

BSU

Horace Duke, Director of the B.S.U. at Nevada Southern, announces that the following schedule will be observed in the NOON DAY MEETINGS of the B.S.U.:

MONDAY: Business sessions and general fellowship. . . . no formal program.

WEDNESDAY: "DISCUSSION on DECESSIONS"—an informal discussion time following short talks by guest speakers.

FRIDAY: Vesper Service—a formal period of inspiration and devotion.

All meetings of the B.S.U. are open to the entire student body.

In noting the Friday Vesper Service, Director Duke, said, "This service will begin promptly at 12:15 PM and will, we trust, prove to be a most interesting experience for those who attend. . . . we plan to use a formal order for this service." The Vesper services will not begin until 12:15 PM, but the meeting room, 201, in the Social Science Building, will be open at 12:00 NOON. Quiet music will be featured during this fifteen minutes, and students are invited to come in and sit for a few minutes of meditation.

The guest speaker for this Wednesday's "Discussion on Deceptions" will be Dr. E. L. Pennington, Pastor of the Sunrise Baptist Church of Las Vegas.

Questions concerning B.S.U. are invited. For more information call Frank Robertson, President, 878-2389; or Horace Duke, Director, 731-2485.

A T O

During rush week, A.T.O. held two rush meetings which were an unprecedented success for the fraternity. The majority of prospective pledges were accepted by the members of A.T.O. With this success, A.T.O. is looking forward to a prosperous and eventful year.

Recently A.T.O. announced its sponsorship of a six man football team in the city league with hopes of being on top. Also, A.T.O. will hold its first fraternity dance on October 16th for members, pledges, and special guests. Preceding the Bowery costume dance, a cocktail party will be held at Fred Hubbs home.

On October 3rd, NU SIGMA UPSILON and A.T.O. held a hop-scotch match with the results being 2-2 tie according to A.T.O.; but, NU SIGMA UPSILON claims they won. It isn't true, it was a tie.

Finally, a tag football game is on schedule, at this time, for October 9th with Alpha Omega. The results will be announced later. The game will be followed by a party.

Juno & The Paycock

The Irish play "Juno and the Paycock", by Sean O'Casey is now well on its way to becoming one of the finest productions Nevada Southern University has ever seen. The cast include some very promising actors and actresses who lend quite a bit of color to the production.

Joyce Webb as Mary Boyle, Dick Volpe as the Paycock, Jody Meswarb as Juno, Brodie Graves as Johnny, and Bob Everhart as Charlie Bentham.

The play is a hysterical tragedy that takes place during the Irish Revolution of the late 20's.

Production dates are November 11-12-13-18-19-20. Admission price is $1.00 and curtain time is 8:00 p.m. We urge you all to come and see it. It will prove a delightful experience, and one you will remember.

CAMPUS ORGAN ORGANIZATION

The Organizers, a new group on campus this year, is beginning its work under Dr. Herbert Wells. Devoted to the construction and assembly of a pipe organ, the club is rebuilding an organ purchased by the Women's Service League from the Army and Navy Academy in Carlsbad, California.

Experimentally, the instrument will combine electronic stops and wind. Early in the assembly it will be converted from pneumatic to electric actuation.

The basic organ cost $400 disassembled, but when it is completed, the total value will be 10,000. During the tentative two year construction period, the club will raise money to purchase parts and replace those too aged for use.

Baroque music will be featured on the finished instrument, especially Bach and Handel. Eventually Bach and Handel chorales and orchestral groups will be played.

Baroque music is an intricate artistic expression of the 17th century composers.

DESERET CLUB

The Deseret Club welcomes Professor Rod Griffin of the Nevada Southern Geography Dept. as their new faculty advisor for this year. Mr. Griffin was the featured speaker at our weekly Institute Forum meeting last Friday, and presented an informal, get-acquainted program to us. We are proud that we have men of such high caliber on our campus as Mr. Griffin. We are looking forward to getting acquainted with and hearing from many other faculty members at our Forum meetings. Our calendar of events for the coming year will also include personalities such as local businessmen, religious and civic leaders, local and county educators, physicians, and those persons which we feel would be of interest and benefit to our club members. We wish to extend an invitation to all faculty and students to feel free to join us in our Forum meetings which are held each Friday from 12 to one. Speakers will be announced and posted ahead of time.

A very successful party was held Thursday night at the Institute. The students danced, enjoyed playing ping-pong and other interesting games, and had refreshments. A good time was had by all.

The officers of the Deseret Club have been invited to attend an Idyllwild Leadership Workshop in California over the weekend of October 15-17. The workshop will include all of the Deseret Club leaders from southern California and surrounding areas. Our five officers and director, Gerald Finch, are looking forward to the trip. Activities will include a get-acquainted social, workshops on becoming better leaders, volleyball, hiking, swimming, etc. Our activities will conclude on Sunday morning with Sunday School and a Testimony meeting.

MUN

Today we are living in a world where almost everything goes by initials. There is N.A.T.O., the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; C.O.R.E., the Congress of Racial Equality; even our own country is often referred to by its initials, the U.S.A. What about the initials M.U.N.F.W.? Have you ever heard of them before? Probably not; so here it is spelled out; the Model United Nations of the Far West.

The Model United Nations of the Far West is an organization of college students especially selected from the student bodies of campuses all over the west. They are specially selected because they have to have enough background of foreign relations to be able to represent a foreign country as it represents itself in the real United Nations. That is the whole idea of the Model United Nations in a nutshell.

To open that nutshell a little, Chuck Crawford and Joey Peer have been chosen as our delegation chairmen to the M.U.N. The delegation will be representing Senegal, a republic on the west coast of Africa, and Costa Rica. They are attending a new class this year, which is specially designed to prepare delegates for this convention. The title of the class is Simulation in International Relations Theory, or Political Science 233. The class has 16 members.

Stanford University of northern California, one of the biggest Universities in the country, is now sponsoring this program.

The class is making a study of each of the countries so it can represent, as closely as possible, the positions of their chosen countries.

REBEL SPORTS AT LARGE

HARRIERS LOSE

Target ● Sports

Las Vegas Basketball fans received their latest look at the professional ranks last week. Missing were only two things, Oscar Robertson and a large crowd. People seemed more interested in the Dodgers and Giants (who-next to Jack Twyman and Rick Barry) received the loudest applause.

Through the dark evening though, there were flashes of superb basketball skill shown. For the Bay City Warriors it was almost a rookie parade, with Rick Bary and Fred Hetzel leading. About Guy Rogers, well, there just aren't enough adjectives. I'll just leave it as "SUPERB". Between Hetzels scoring and rebounding and Barry's excellent shooting, the Warriors have a pair of outstanding rookies. Both should mature quickly in the pros. The Warriors, on the whole, look as if they are ready. Let's hope so!

The Royals lack of luster, due to the absence of Oscar Robertson and a relatively poor performance on the part of Wayne Embry and Jerry Lucas. The brightest part of the Royal's offensive punch was Adrian Smith, who turned in a sparkling performance. Harold "Happy" Haerston showed great hustle and Rookie Jim McGlocklin seems to have what it takes. First year man Bob Love could be a comer.

Highlighting the evening was the honoring of Jack Twyman for his humanitarian work in behalf of his old team-mate, Maurice Stokes. Jack was presented a "Good Guy Award" for his unselfish devotion to a fellow human.

International Air Races Held In Boulder City

By RON WICHERS

The 1965 International Air Races were held in Boulder City September 21 to the 26. Pilots from all over the world came to compete for the honor and glory of being the world's best.

But one plane and one pilot stands out in particular over all the other competitors. Winner of the 1964 National Air Races, the Smirnoff Bearcat is truly an interesting and magnificent machine. It is piloted by the famous Mira Slovak.

The plane itself has a wing span of 35'6", at a height of 13'8". The Smirnoff Bearcat was built by Grumman Aircraft, Inc., and is the last of the propeller-driven airplanes designed as a fighter in the United States. The highly-maneuverable plane, the last of the Navy propeller-driven "Cat" series, came into being after World War II and was used extensively during the Korean conflict. The Bearcat still holds the climb record of 10,000 feet in 50 seconds, which was set at the National Air Races at Cleveland.

Mira Slovak, a Czech refugee now residing in Los Angeles, California, also piloted the Bearcat in the 1965 National Air Races held September 9 to the 12 in Reno, Nevada. In the 1964 National Air Races in Reno, Slovak won the title of National Champion in the unlimited field at the controls of the Bearcat.

Slovak began his career of garnering titles and trophies in college in his native country, competing on track, ski, soccer and tennis teams.

He gained front page fame with an exploit not exactly in the sporting field. This was in 1953 when, as a commercial pilot in a Czechoslovakian airlines, he "requisitioned" one of the company's planes, loaded with passengers utterly unaware of their pilot's bold change of flight plans to escape the communist regime.

Arriving eventually in America, Slovak continued his dashing career by landing his first job as a crop-duster (one of the most hazardous in aviation). Later, in Seattle, he became a friend of Bill Boeng, and thus entered the equally hazardous field of unlimited hydroplane racing. After many regattas all over the country, Slovak crowned his achievements in this field by being named to the Hydroplane Hall of Fame in Seattle in 1963.

Now a competent commercial pilot for an airline, Mira Slovak continues to pursue speed records on his own time as a private pilot in national air races. Like any other competitor in a race, Slovak goes all out to win. During a practice for the Reno races he ploughed straight into a 13,000-volt power line. His Bearcat was showered with sparks and one wing was badly gouged, but he kept control and brought the plane down for hurried repairs and went on to win.

Although "The Poor Refugee" might be lettered on the side of his plane, Slovak doesn't consider himself poor anymore. He thinks of himself as being a very rich man—because he has a chance to live the life he wants to live, and, as he says, "Some people don't even have that chance, you see."

Rebel Harriers Narrowly Defeated

On Saturday, October 2, the Nevada Southern cross country squad traveled to Riverside to meet the University of California. The dual meet was won by U.C.R., 31-24. One of the main factors contributing to the defeat of the Rebels was that the course was run on a hilly terrain, a course somewhat opposite to the conditions our Harriers are used to running.

First place honors were taken by John Slavn of U.C.R. Second place went to U.C.R.'s Bob Barden. Third, fourth and fifth spots went to N.S.U.'s Tim Wipple, Charles Hawkins, and Gary Halko respectively.

Rounding out N.S.U.'s finishers were: eighth, Mike Taylor; ninth, Bob Staley; and twelfth, Bill Longwell.

The much improved Rebel Harriers proved to be a strong competitor for the well-balanced, more experienced California team.

Our "leatherlungs" also participated in the Long Beach State College Invitational Cross Country Meet last September 25. Eight colleges were represented in this pre-season practice meet. They were Nevada Southern, Long Beach State, Cal. Poly. at Pomona, Cal. Poly at San Luis Obispo, University of California at Santa Barbara, Whittier, California at Fullerton, and Redlands. The meet was taken by the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Of the sixty-two finishers, N.S.U. placed 40th, Mike Taylor, 41th, Chuck Hawkins, and 42nd, Tim Wipple.

On Saturday, October 9, Nevada Southern hosted a triangular meet, clashing with Long Beach State College and Los Angeles State.

Commenting on the cause of the "poor turnout", however, he said that "There was very poor publicity for one thing. Students weren't totally aware that pictures were being taken. At least not aware enough to remember to wear a shirt and tie.
