Agronsky,

Attacks War In Viet Nam

"The War in Viet Nam presents Americans with the difficult choice between an unattainable victory and an unacceptable peace." This was the theme of noted newsman Martin Agronsky's speech on "The United States and the World Crisis" delivered at the University Gym last week.

Agronsky, speaking before nearly 1,000 students, faculty members, and guests, discussed the Viet Nam crisis and other world problems for nearly two hours.

The CBS correspondent, who is generally recognized as an outstanding news commentator, spoke critically of the present U.S. policy in Viet Nam, and complained that the South Asian war had gone too long "without searching examination and public debate."

DISCUSS GOALS

We can no longer blindly accept the President's policy without question, Agronsky said. It is time for the Congress to publicly discuss our goals and objectives in Asia.

He then traced the history of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam following the defeat of the French in Indo China in 1954.

Agronsky noted critically that our policy had degenerated from finding a political solution to the war to trying to achieve a military solution. "Are we trying to end the war, or are we trying to win it?" he asked.

"Fighting the Viet Cong is like punching a bucket of water, you just can't hurt them," he continued, "we can't end this war with a clear out victory, so we must settle for less."

This "something less" he described as a compromise solution similar to that achieved in Korea.

Agronsky also complained that it is "phony, unfair and unAmerican to label those who disagree with the President's policy as disloyal." He maintained that our lack of success in Asia demanded public debate, regardless of its form.

The newsman was equally critical of the recent U.S. intervention in Latin America. He challenged the right of this nation to criticize Russia for intervention when we have adopted the same policy. He demanded the U.S. respect the rights of other nations to live as they choose, even if they choose to live under Communism.

In concluding his remarks, Agronsky recalled the late

Yearbook Controversy Settled; Underclass Pictures Excluded

After more than a month of controversy among various important C.S.N.S. leaders, the yearbook problem has now been resolved. Underclassmen's pictures will NOT be included in the 1966 EPILOGUE.

The action came in the form of a Senate resolution jointly sponsored by Senators Bill Cunningham and Ben Knowles, which was unanimously adopted by the Senate. The major points of the resolution are summarized below:

RESOLUTION

- The Yearbook budget will be approved without the stipulation that underclassman's pictures appear in the yearbook.
- The Senate regrets the stand which has been taken by the Editor of the EPILOGUE, John Haggerty, concerning student body pictures.
- The Senate praises Tom Hribar, C.S.N.S. President, for his stand to have the student body pictures in the yearbook.
- The Senate and the Executive Officers of the Confederation attempted to have the student body pictures published in the yearbook, but these efforts failed because of the less than "half-hearted" cooperation of Haggarty.
- The Senate instructs the Treasurer to refund the money to the few students who had their pictures taken for the yearbook out of the EPILOGUE budget, if requested.

F. And the Senate and the Executive Officers would also express their regret in the lack of interest on

Halloween Dance Set Saturday

Nevada Southern's annual CSNS Halloween Dance will be held on October 30, and will take place in rooms 15 and 16 in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The dance which will be on a Saturday, has become an annual social gathering of Nevada Southern University.

Starting at 8:00 p.m. in the evening, the dance will offer prizes for the best couple and the ugliest man on campus.

At the dance will be the band known as the "Raves" to provide live entertainment. The dance is a costume ball sponsored by CSNS and is being presented by Sigma Gamma Fraternity.

Campus Leaders Plan The Grand Strategy

Student leaders of all classes are now planning strategy for one of the most important events held on the Nevada Southern University campus—University Days.

The events for this year's U-Days will take place on November 5 and 6. On Friday, November 5, the schedule is as follows:

5:00 am-11:00 am — The members of the Freshman Class will gather all the materials necessary for the construction of the bonfire.

11:00 am-5:00 pm — The members of the Freshman Class will build the bonfire from the materials they have gathered.

5:00 pm-11:00 pm — The members of the Freshman Class will defend the bonfire while the members of the Upper Classes will attack the structure.

11:00 pm — The U-Days Queen will be announced and will light the bonfire.

The bonfire must have the following dimensions: a height of 40 to 50 feet, with a base of 40 to 45 feet.

Soft tomatoes and raw eggs are the ONLY weapons which may be used by either the defenders or the attackers. This excludes clubs, stones, wire or any other object which could bring injury to an N.S.U. student. If a group of individuals of any class are caught throwing anything other than the specified weapons, that entire class will be excluded from the other U-Days events. The use of flour by the upper classmen is the only exception to the above mentioned rule.

To earn the points for this particular event, the upperclassmen must cover 10% of the bonfire with flour. The Freshman Class will win the event if they can prevent the upperclassmen from covering the bonfire.

A cross country race, three legged race, chug-a-lug contest, pie eating contest, tug of war, football games (boys' and girls'), and a dance contest are the events scheduled for Saturday, November 6. A spaghetti dinner, hosted by Nu Sigma Upsilon, and a dance, sponsored by C.S.N.S. are also planned for Saturday evening.

Chip Mills, Jack Abell, Don Amar, and Andy Glass are planning the strategy for the upper classes, while Randy Frew, Joe Lendini, Mike Devere, and Bill Boyd are working out important details in the Freshman Class camp.

Another aspect of University Days was pointed out by Mr. Tom Hribar at the first Freshman Class meeting held October 12. Mr. Hribar stated, "University Days are a great time for fun and enjoyment, but these events are to be conducted in a friendly competitive spirit. Incidents have occurred in the past which could have resulted into serious accidents. For example, one year, a student threw a garbage can lid at another. Incidents like this one must not occur again. Also, any student who will, or intends to drink the night of the bonfire, is asked to go somewhere else. Remember, do the best for your class, but safety and friendly competition among the classes are the prime objectives."

Judicial Board Appointed For New Year

Tom Hribar, student body president, has announced the appointments of five students to the C.S.N.S. Judicial Board. These students are: Miss Janet Hodson, Miss Vicki Wilson, Mr. Bob Gilbert, Mr. Bill Ruyman and Mr. Randy Frew.

The Judicial Board is equivalent to the Supreme Court in its duties and functions. Its activities range from reviewing laws passed by the Senate to trying cases arising among students on campus.

Members of the Judicial Board are appointed for the entire year and may not be removed from the position unless recalled. A 2.0 grade point average must be maintained while a student is serving as a Judicial Board member.

The first meeting of the Judicial Board was held Wednesday, October 20, at 4 p.m. in the C.S.N.S. Executive Offices. Hribar presided at the meeting which involved tentative plans on the schedule of the Board and the specific times it will be meeting. The members of the Judicial Board will soon be deciding who will act as their chairman during this academic year.

It is prescribed in the C.S.N.S. Constitution that the Judicial Board shall be a working organization of the C.S.N.S. Government. For the past few years this particular branch of the Government has been stalemated for a number of reasons.

Boob on the Brink

The world is a cruel place to be born in, just ask any fetus. Matter of fact ask me, as I was once a member of that pre-natal set.

There I was with not a care in the world. As a fetus I had it made; I didn't have to pay taxes, go to school, worry about dandruff, etc., etc.

As a fetus I got free room and board. I had all year around air conditioning—well at least nine months of it. The temperature never varied more 98.6 except when my pad (mother) had bubonic plague it rose slightly.

I also had indoor plumbing, food, and air was piped in at no charge. All I did was just lay around doing nothing but listening to television.

For all of this I just required to give a kick once in a while, to let them know I was still there.

Then the cruelist thing that could possibly happen to a fetus happened—I was born! I was an instrument baby. They used a pick and shovel.

No sooner was I born than some brute picked me up by my feet and proceeded to beat the hell out of me. If I hadn't been so near sighted I would have "clobbered" him.

From that first day my parents hated me because I looked the spitting image of my Uncle Max, and Uncle Max looks like spit. I was a blue baby until they discovered the trouble and made mom take the pillow off my face.

Their dislike became more evident as I grew older because for birthdays and Christmas I would get such gifts as: one way train tickets, empty ice boxes, dynamite caps, sharp objects, and my own stocked medicine cabinet. Once I came home from school and my parents had moved. For punishments they would send me up stairs in our one story house, or make me stand in the corner—of Charleston and Main Street.

I was actually a product of a broken home; my mother broke a chair over my head, a table over my back, etc. My philosophy was "sticks and stones may break my bones," so they hit me with sticks and stones. I was fourteen before I knew that my eyes weren't suppose to be black.

At least my parents taught me how to swim. Dad dropped me in the middle of Lake Mead. The swim to shore wasn't too hard, the difficult part was getting out of that sack.

Looking Down the Barrel

With Chuck Crawford

When Martin Agronsky spoke at Nevada Southern on October 19, his topic was "The United States and The World Crisis." As he illustrated his belief that the United States should never have entered Vietnam, I could not help but think that the public has been made a victim of poor news coverage and uninformative editorials. The result, as observed in many almost-weekly demonstrations, is that the public is blind to the real issues left to be exploited.

Mr. Agronsky mentioned the history of the Vietnamese war and our involvement. He all but admitted that we are aggressors, and consequently deserve the image we are receiving because of our stand. There was not a point that he made that was not factually and logically correct, however, he seemed to have touched least on the point of gravest concern. Why we are there boils down to a simple point of the father-image the United States government likes to take. What is not important is whether or not we have the right to take this responsibility; but rather what we can do about it.

The overall impression I received of the Agronsky speech was little more than another person holding an anti-Vietnam policy demonstration poster. Certainly from every logical point we are wrong to be in Vietnam, but not everything can be defined as being right or wrong from merely examining the economic, physical and international image points of view. Are we wrong in protecting a free government from the less-open subversion of the communists? Why do we continue the war despite the obvious problems it brings?

The answer, I feel, lies in one rather patriotic fact: we have an interest, other than selfish, for preserving freedom of choice, despite geographic differences.

Of course, as Mr. Agronsky stated, this logic may be turned around and the Communist could say that they have the same right to intervene in Latin America.

This might be true except for one difference: So far the Communists have only been interested in overthrowing governments by force and other subversive actions. They have not held interests in preserving the existing governments. This would seem to make the difference between aggression and intervention. Now the question is whether or not intervention is wrong.

Intervention can be wrong. Anything can be wrong with intentions that are wrong. But is the American intention wrong? Certainly 3.5 million dollars a day, hundreds of dead Americans, and the misery of being involved in another war, can gain nothing physically or financially for the United States. The best possible outcome of the war would not even set up a quasi-United States government in Vietnam. The only fruit of victory would be the satisfaction of knowing that we preserved the right of choice in another nation. Does this then, make intervention wrong?

The simple purpose in mentioning any of these points is this: no one wants war, but we are involved in one for reasons that are not as wrong as the outer facts indicate. Therefore, why complicate the situation by demonstrations against the policy. These demonstrations, while they of course express the freedom of the minorities, do not offer any constructive advice while hurting morale and perhaps by doing so prolong our involvement even more. The question is—"why not victory??" Why not?!

YEARBOOK

 the part of the students to get their pictures taken. The pictures would have been published if there had been a sufficient number, but with fewer than 200 pictures taken, a "good looking" underclassmen's section could not have been compiled.

DEAR JOEL

What's this I hear about Chuck Crawford's sore feet?
 —Curious

Dear Curious,

You may find the answer to that question difficult to believe. Recently Mr. Crawford was involved in an expedition, to explore some previously unopened territory between the Tropicana and Red Rock Canyon. At one point in the progress of the expedition, sudden disaster seemed imminent. Some rather irresponsible members of the expedition panicked, and somehow, in the shuffle, Mr. Crawford found himself embarrassingly deserted and alone with two beautiful N.S.U. coeds. So Mr. Crawford did what any red-blooded American boy would do, and fastidiously led the ladies out of the wilderness. As a consequence, Mr. Crawford has sore feet and our congratulations on his new experience.

Dear Joel,

I've heard and read a great many opposing views on the present rash of protest marches against the Viet Nam policy, censorship, motherhood, and almost anything else. What I want to know is, what do you think of demonstrations?

CONFLICTS

Dear Conflicts,

I think demonstrations are fine, if you don't already know how.

JUDICIAL BOARD

Mr. Hribar, however, said of this year's Board, "It is my hope that the members of this Board will realize the vast importance of their position and see to it that the Judicial Board is elevated to its proper perspective."

The Judicial Board is unique in the fact that it can insure only proper legislation passed by the Senate will become law on the Nevada Southern Campus. In so doing, it makes sure that only the desires of the majority of the student body, and not the whims or desires of the few in student government positions prevail.

However, most important of all is the fact that the Judicial Board has the ability to create harmony between the student body and C.S.N.S.

With this power the Judicial Board is the branch of C.S.N.S. government most closely connected with the students of N.S.U.

SPLENDID JARGON

by IAN CASAVOBOO, Guest Columnist

LAUGHTER UNDER THE SUN . . . Never before in the history of the C.S.N.S. Senate has the verbal slip-of-the-tongue by a senator thrown the entire Senate into hysterics as when a certain Sophomore Senator, in her eagerness to be considered for a committee, yelled, "I would be willing to work under anyone". Is that not a lewd pun ??? . . . A report reaches me here at the Rudy Suckman News Bureau that recently a delegation of upperclassmen were spotted by Clark County Sheriff Deputies in the desert west of the campus. The report alleges that the "FOUR SUSPECTS" proceeded to traverse the area in a "LITTLE BLACK V-W, AS IF THEY WERE IN SEARCH OF SOMETHING". When the auto came to a halt, the group supposedly exited from the vehicle, and ran wildly in circles with beer cans in their hands. One of the suspects was "FAT". This they observed from a distance of 300 yards . . .

ARE YOU IN SHAPE ???; U-DAYS IS NEAR . . . As promised by Rudi in his last column, the remainder of this issue's space will be devoted to a brief discussion of "How to Obtain the Most Attractive Scars During University Days". In capsule form, there are basically three ways for a freshman to get "attractive scars". First, a freshman can walk into the camp of the upperclass and say, "Give me a scar!" Secondly, he can do so by attacking the upperclass camp. Thirdly, he can do so by being a good little frosh, and defend his pile of crap commonly called a BONFIRE.

In the case of the upperclassmen, there is basically a list of two techniques to be applied in attaining the exalted rank of "scar belt". First, an upperclassmen can gain a scar by accidentally grabbing a freshman broad, and attempting to teach her the N.S.U. Fight Song behind a bush, but then, getting caught

The Yell of Organizations

IK's

The IK's would like to congratulate the NU SIGMA UPSILON Sorority on their recent victory in the annual IK-NEY Egg Race. The girls won the race for the second year in a row, and once again the men were victorious at the party which traditionally follows the fall event.

The IK's held their first organizational meeting for their upcoming National Convention at Mike Spalding's apartment. The meeting was adjourned to the Town Pump and several other places of similar fame.

On the other side of IK life here at N.S.U., we recently ushered at the Agronsky Lecture and the Community Concert held at Las Vegas High School.

The IK's also recently held a car wash at the Phillips 66 Station across from the campus. Those pledges are OK as car washers so when they "drop out" they can all get jobs at the local car washes. That should teach them to leave one of my hub caps dirty.

SIGMA GAMMA

Sigma Gamma is pleased to announce that the IK's have finally consented to play us in football again. We are still trying to decide whether we should skunk them again or let them have some points this time.

Last Saturday Alpha Omega hosted a mountain party for us. We enjoyed our first opportunity to meet their new pledges. It was a pot-luck affair.

This Saturday night, CSNS is sponsoring the Halloween Dance. There will be contests and prizes for the Ugliest Man, (you may be a winner), best costumes, and best couple. There will also be a door prize. Everyone is invited to this dance which is being presented by one of the finer campus organizations.

Our pledge class officers are Barry Lagan, president, Gregg King, vice president, Arturo Neito, secretary, Roger Gordon, treasurer, and Chuck Kenerson, sergeant at arms. They will probably go to the Halloween Dance as ghosts as they have been known to disappear in the past.

Our appreciation to Mr. Lyons who is our new advisor, and who attended a recent sit-in with us, for his interest in Sigma Gamma.

ALPHA OMEGA

Support Alpha Omega pledges! They have reluctantly put "Plan T.P." into effect to raise money for their dues. It will only cost you a penny a square so save your money. The pledges are all making advances in the field of poetry, too. Just ask one of them about Moses or the farm animals and see what happens.

Congratulations to the ATO's. Their "Hard Times" party and dance was more than a huge success. The first half of the evening was spent at the home of Fred Hubbs. There were refreshments served and a roar of chatter as the guests prepared to jerk, rug, and who knows what else, to the "swingin" music of the Midnight Suns in the Henderson Elks Lodge. After the dance, the entire ragged group went to breakfast at the Showboat Hotel. Needless to say the comments of the observers there were priceless.

Another great event was the Charleston party we had with Sigma Gamma Fraternity on October 23. Among other activities, there was a tug-of-war a dodgeball game and a game of hide and seek? The evening was concluded with group singing and a delicious bar-b-que.

Oh, just in case you are wondering what those campus scarecrows are all about, they are the illustrious work of the Alpha Omega Pledges and Actives. Their purpose is to let everyone in on the details of the Alpha Omega Halloween Disco tonight 8:00 at the Teenbeat Club. From the looks it seems as if there will be an enthusiastic crowd of costumed students attending. We certainly hope to see you there too. Remember, there will be a $10.00 cash prize for the best costume.

Well, see you tonight ghouls and boys.

NU SIGMA UPSILON

Any reason why the I.K.'s are avoiding eggs these past few days? Yes, N.E.Y. proved again that there's more to sorority girls than just chicken feathers! Our annual egg race took us through an obstacle course only Marines could survive, however, candidates Malone, Koot, and Hribar failed miserably. Needless to say we won the event, as judges Bill Koot and Cynthia Achultz officiated. All in all we loved it Guys! The party given by our opponents was located "Hidden Treasure", a new desert retreat. Now, if we can remember how to get there again to pick up the party people we left behind, or better yet, to find some of our members who are still lost and looking for it???

N.E.Y.'s activities invaded the pledge meeting on October 17th, carrying a beautifully decorated "Welcome Cake" and gifts for each of the actives' little sisters. The activities plan to show their sisterly love in various ways, car washing and apartment cleaning not excluded, of course.

The pledge class has many forthcoming money raising events planned, and under the watchful eye of Marcia Griffin, pledge trainer, each of these girls will be instrumental in carrying out these plans.

The pledge class has nominated the following officers: Bonnie Essex-President, JoAnne Polumbo-Vice President, Kathy Brookline-Secretary, and Betty Leavitt-Treasurer.

Our congratulations are extended to active Nancy Harris and pledges: Teri Hayes, Bonnie Hayes, Gayle Callery, and Vicki Wilson. All these girls were chosen as N.S.U.'s five song leaders. It must be an example of something!

Don't forget the Preference Ball!!!

NEWMAN CLUB

While I was working in my lab late one night, my eyes beheld an eerie sight". The Newman club held their Morgue Party which was open to all CSNS organizations, Friday, October 16th.

The evening's activities began with a "guided" tour through Palm Mortuary located on Main Street. Following the tour, the body snatchers convened in Saint Anne's Social Hall, where they "lived it up".

The mood was set by the spectral decorations. An eerie feeling crept over everyone as they paraded past the crepe paper coffin situated in the center of the hall. As an added effect, black and purple streamers were strung from one end of the dark hall to the other. The Newman club would like to thank all our fellow body snatchers who supported our endeavor.

On October 29 and 30 several members of the Newman club will attend a convention held in Flagstaff, Arizona. Its purpose is to instruct the officers and members of the club in religious changes in the church and to improve the officers leadership in the club and in his society.

Our last meeting was October 24. It was a business meeting followed by Mass and Communion at 12:15 at Saint Anne's church.

A T O

A.T.O. held its first annual "Hard Times" dance on Saturday, October 16. The dance at the Elks Lodge in Henderson turned out to be a tremendous success with the Midnight Suns playing the latest hits.

A.T.O.'s city league football team lost its first game against the Jokers, but success is expected during the rest of the scheduled games and the tournament. Even though A.T.O. can not win all its games in the city league, at least we can beat Alpha Omega Sorority (18-12).

We held a discotheque on Wednesday, October 20th, at the Teenbeat Club. A.T.O. would like to thank everyone for coming. The night before the discotheque A.T.O. invited Alpha Omega to help make posters.

The future of A.T.O. is looking very bright. Plans are becoming reality for the A.T.O. Christmas formal, which will be held in December. Fred Hubbs is directing the committee for the dance.

BIOLOGY CLUB

At the Biology Club meeting last Wednesday, Dr. Babero, a new faculty member at Nevada Southern, was the guest speaker. He discussed parasites common throughout the world.

Dr. Babero attended the University of Illinois where he received his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. in Parasitology. In the past his work has taken him to Alaska, the Middle East, and Nigeria as well as Louisiana and California.

In addition to teaching Zoology classes at Nevada Southern, Dr. Babero is planning to conduct a complete investigation of the animal populations in Nevada and their parasites which can be transmitted to man.

MUN

On Friday, October 15, the C.S.N.S. Senate approved the appointments of Chuck Crawford and Joey Peer as delegates to the Model United Nations of the Far West. Both were members of the M.U.N. last year.

With majors in Political Science, both have made studies in the area of foreign relations. Because N.S.U.'s delegation to the M.U.N. will be representing Senegal and Costa Rica, Crawford and Peer have given particular attention to the history and political background of these two nations.

It is hoped that 14 Nevada Southern students in all will be chosen to attend the annual session of the M.U.N. which will be conducted at Stanford University in April.

Mr. Antonio Lapitan is the instructor of the Simulation class (Pol. Sci. 233) which is associated with the M.U.N.

COMMERCE CLUB

The NSU Commerce Club held a general meeting October 25. Details were worked out for a blast with a sorority. A fine time is expected with fun and food for all.

NSUCC is continuing its program of inviting prominent

An Insight Into

N.S.U.'s Charles Adams

It seems a little contradictory that Dr. Charles Adams, Associate Professor of English, entered college as a Chemistry major.

His appearance and manner, in the same fashion, does not fit the stereotyped picture of English professors who are supposed to be extremely somber and introspective.

The best view many people have of Dr. Adams is a man-like blur that darts about the campus. He has the appearance of a man who is always up to something.

He generally is seen purposefully striding on Nevada Southern University's desert-like setting—nearly at a trot, sometimes running. When he stops, one sees merry eyes set on a pleasant face.

Dr. Adams is NSU's representative of the University of Nevada Graduate School; an English instructor as well as being a scholar of growing repute.

Last summer his "The Structure of The Cenci" was published in the summer edition of "Drama Survey." In the work he re-examines Shelley's so-called closet drama, reversing a century-old tradition in criticism of the Romanticist's only attempt at playwrighting.

"If I have restored Shelly's play to serious study, I feel I've made a real contribution to scholarship", Dr. Adams pointed out.

The Illinois native received his Bachelor's degree in English from Michigan State University in 1951.

His Master's degree came only a year after from the University of Illinois. He then came west while in the Army and later taught at the University of Oregon. He received his Doctorate there in 1959.

"I changed my major to English because I found I enjoyed it more", he said of his field.

Dr. Adams is very concerned with English as an art form, as reflected in his doctoral thesis titled, "The Search for Form".

The paper explores such movements as Cubism and Surrealism in literature, though the styles are generally thought to refer only to sculpture and painting.

Of art in general, he feels there is a great distance between most viewers and the art they look at in America.

"Mass appeal has become more important in American minds. Much art has become a status symbol. As a result, creative works are commercialized much faster than ever before."

"Americans tend to feel it necessary to be art critics; many of them are not qualified to judge creative works. It goes back to the old cliché 'I don't know much about it, but I know what I like.'"

In class he is casual, often forsaking a chair for a desk-top. Students say he is very demanding.

"Many of our freshmen are not adequately prepared in English," he observed, "but that number is rapidly decreasing."

He feels the burgeoning English department, which added an English A program last year, will be granting Master's degrees "faster than some people might think — if we get the money!"

Mrs. Adams, who has a Masters in English, reflects her husbands interests. They are the parents of two children, Rebecca, 8, and Stephen, 2.

Cossack Choir Comes to N.S.U.

The Confederated Students of Nevada Southern, C.S.N.S., will present the first concert of the 1965 school year, Wednesday, November 16th in the Nevada Southern Gymnasium. There are two main concerts each year.

In the past, such groups as Peter, Paul, and Mary and the Kingston Trio have visited our college campus. This semester Tom Wingfield, the Universities special events co-ordinator, has scheduled the Don Cossack Choir to perform before our student body.

The chorus under the direction of Nicholous Kostrekoff has arranged many Russian ballads for their audiences enjoyment. The dancers will entertain us by demonstrating a number of the folk dances done in Russia today.

They have been touring the United States the past year and have performed before many college student bodies across the country. Even though they are called a Russian folk singing group, all the members of the choir are American citizens.

Everyone break away from your books and attend this concert and make it a real success!

Target Sports

By TIM TOTH

Aches and pains are flourishing around campus these days. Reason—the Rebels have begun basketball practice. The leisure days are over for our University's cagers.

N.S.U. tackles this year what figures to be its roughest schedule. Meeting such powerhouses as Gonzaga, Idaho State, Rockhurst, St. Joseph's of New Mexico, Montana State, and Baylor.

Silas Stepp, who averaged 17.5 points per game last season, heads the list of six returning lettermen. Included are: Bob Brown, center; Bill Davis, forward; Charlie Payton, guard; Dan Hill, guard; and Ron Wielchowski, guard.

Wielchowski, who opened last season as starting guard, averaged 20 points for the first four games before being overtaken with a rash of succeeding injuries. If a knee operation and hard work have strengthened the knee, Ron should be a top performer for Coach Todd's Rebels.

A top group of transfer players should fill in the rest of the squad. Among the prospects are: Clyde Dawson, 6'3" forward from San Jose City College who averaged 15 points per game last season; Chuck Campione, 6'1" guard from San Fernando Valley College who averaged 16 points per game last season; Dixon Goodwin, 6'1" guard from Ventura College who averaged 20 points per game last season. Other standouts include Ed Terwilliger, Tery Lindberg, Ed Plawski, Bill Ray, Craig Barber, Shelly Wright, and Jerry Lund.

Coach Todd plans to drill the squad on fundamentals and conditioning during the first few weeks of practice.

business leaders to speak here on campus. Plans have been made for a number of well known gaming, labor, and professional men to appear. Names, times and places will be published at a later date.

Affiliation with Alpha Kappa Psi, the nations largest business fraternity, is NSUCC's principal goal this year. Male business students who wish to enjoy the advantages of such an organization are invited to contact Jerry Schurr, John Lewis, Bob Lear, or Bruce Luria about membership.

PRO BASKETBALL NOVEMBER 20

The Los Angeles Lakers and the San Francisco Warriors of the professional National Basketball Association will appear at the Las Vegas Convention Center Saturday, November 20, in a scheduled league game.

This announcement was made by Dave Pearl, game coordinator and member of the board of directors of the University Rebels Club.

Another attraction preceding the pro tilt, will be the unveiling of the 1965-66 Nevada Southern University Varsity Basketball team. Coach Roland Todd will have the Rebels divided equally for an intra-squad game. This game will start at 6:45 p.m.

Tickets for the games may be purchased at the Business Manager's Office at the cost of $2.00 for general admission. Reserved seats may be obtained at the price of $5.00.

"in the act" by a delegation of 15 freshmen males. Secondly, an upperclassman can be assured of a scar by simply coming to the upperclass camp, getting tanked, taking part in a few heroic charges, and molesting women.

I will not be forced into describing how N.S.U. coeds get their scars . . .

UNTIL THE AFTERMATH, MAY I SAY GOOD-BYE, AND MAY THE BIRD OF PARADISE SMILE UPON YOU AND YOUR BROAD THROUGHOUT UNIVERSITY DAYS!

'Harriers Harassed Again'

On October 16, the Rebels travelled to Pomona to engage the tough "Leatherlungs" of California Poly. The meet was held at Mount San Antonio College. The course was a hilly, 3.1 miles long. The fine Cal. Poly team, conditioned for their hilly course, soundly trounced the hapless Rebels, 31-18.

First place went to Cal. Poly's Don Davis, who turned in 17.50 minutes. Tim Whipple, Sixth; Bob Staley, seventh, and Gary Halko, eighth rounded out N.S.U.'s top placers.

Nevada Southern also took a thorough beating at the hands of Long Beach State College the Saturday before. The Rebels, weakened by injuries, proved to be no match for the powerful Long Beach State team, who has been hailed as Southern California's finest.

Long Beach swept the first Six places with Kent Skortman leading the pack and his twin brother Craig capturing the second spot. The seventh, eighth, ninth, twelfth, and seventeenth places went to N.S.U.'s Tom Whipple, Mike Taylor, Gary Halko, Bob Staley, Bill Longwell and Yobak respectively.

By the way, in recent meets Long Beach has defeated both U.S.C. and U.C.L.A. cross country teams.
