LIBRARY EXPANSION PLANS ANNOUNCED

Addition Scheduled for January

By CAROL MANGERIS

The library may look a bit topsy-turvy or even a little like a merry-go-round for a while but it's a sign of better things to come. Bids for the new addition will be opened on April 12th and progress will begin.

Since its inception in 1957, N.S.U. has seen an almost continual building campaign. Now, two additional floors for the library have been approved and construction is expected to be completed by the Spring of 1967.

During construction, the library will be functioning but things may seem somewhat inconvenient. The present acquisitions and cataloging departments will be moved into the smoking room to provide for an enlargement of the current area. A wall will be built through the present circulation desk to block off the construction area. Many of the tables will be moved from the reading room because books will occupy about one-half that space until extra space is completed.

These two floors will add an extra 54,000 square feet. After re-organization the downstairs will house the card catalog, reference and periodical collection as well as a current periodical room. This floor will also house the processing department.

There will be a special collections room on the second floor to house the Nevada material which will include a considerable amount of new volumes on gambling. Other book collections and documents will be found on different floors. This addition will also include a lounge and a browsing room.

Reserve books will be found on the third floor. Both the second and third floors will be lined with large windows that will overlook the campus.

When completed, there will not be a large reading room to resemble the one we know now but instead individual carrels will be interspersed with the book stacks. There will also be four small rooms which could be used by about four students at a time to enable them to study together. They could also be used as listening rooms.

At the end of the fiscal year 1964-65, the library's collection consisted of 80,041 volumes. Besides this, the library's collection includes 3,125 reels of microfilm, 97,139 units of microtext and 29,379 unbound government documents. The library also subscribes to 744 journals.

Talent Show Set April 6

The third annual Freshman-Sophomore talent show-dance will take place Wednesday, April 6, in the Social Science building room 103 beginning at 8 P.M.

Fryouts were held on Thursday, March 24 to determine the participants in the talent show which will be accompanied by a dance featuring the "Scatter Blues" as entertainment.

Hank Saleebey and Randy Frew, masters of ceremony for the talent show, have announced the first rehearsal as being held on March 27 in Social Science 103. On Tuesday, April 5 the final dress rehearsal will be held.

Viet Seminar

Held Tomorrow

A Vietnam Seminar sponsored by "Students for Political Action" will be held at Nevada Southern University Social Science Lecture Hall, 7:30 P.M. Saturday, March 26th. The public and student body are invited.

The noted news analyst, William Winter, will speak on "Current Crisis". In 1941, he broadcast the first "Voice of America" by short-wave radio to Asia, became a War Correspondent during World War II, covered the U.N. Charter Conference in San Francisco in 1945, was U.N. War Correspondent in Korea and has been awarded the coveted "Legion of Honor" award. Other speakers include: Professors Jorgensen and Broslosky of U.C.L.A., Al Meinhold, John Bailiff, Gerald Pfaffl and Skorpion of Nevada.

The film "Why Vietnam" will be shown and critiqued.

The Seminar is held in conjunction with the "International Days of Protest".

CONCERTS SCHEDULED

Coming events in the field of music include a concert by the University String Chamber Orchestra conducted by William Gromko on Sunday, April 3 at 3:00 p.m. in the Social Science Lecture Hall.

Two other concerts planned are operas by Menotti, "The Telephone" and "The Old Maid And The Thief" on May 1, and the presentation of Brahms "Requiem" on May 15. The latter will be sung by the University Singers with the orchestra under the direction of Keith Moon, NSU music instructor. All of these concerts are open to the public without charge.

Shaw's "You Never Can Tell" Continues Performances Tonight

by Chuck Crawford

The drama department will continue performances of its fifteenth production, YOU NEVER CAN TELL, tonight, tomorrow night, and Thursday, March 31, Friday, April 1, and Saturday in the Grant Hall little theatre.

The production, which was written by George Bernard Shaw, (the author of MAN AND SUPERMAN) is a light comedy focusing on the theme of young love and family turmoil.

Major characters Valentine, played by Bob Paruli, and Gloria, played by Joan Snyder, form the plot as Valentine falls in love with the highly independent Gloria; Valentine proceeds to prove that love can conquer cold reason.

The cast is under the direction of Dr. Jerry Crawford and is aided by special rehearsal assistant Mary Barbone. The cast includes Julie Walling, Brodie Graves, Bob Burgan, Mark Griswold, Richard Coleman, Harry Hambley, Paavo Hall, Cindye DiFiori and Garry Palermo. Technical staff include Pat Crawford, Sandy Rydzewski, Barry Fehler, Ernestine Elms, and Terry Knighton.

Performances begin at 8:15 each evening. Tickets may be obtained by students at a cost of $1.00. Non-students will be charged $1.50. They may be purchased at a ticket booth which will be open at the door from 11 A.M. to 1 P.M. in front of the Little Theatre or at the door on the nights of performance. Advance reservations can be made by calling the University Switchboard at 736-6111. It is requested that tickets on reserve be picked up by 1 P.M. the day of the performance.

"She loves me; she loves me not." Bob Paruli and Joan Snyder decide that question in Shaw's "You Never Can Tell."

New Literary Magazine Planned

The first issue of Nevada Southern's Campus literary magazine is reported to be in preparation. This notice is a call to students and faculty for contributions in poetry, short story, essay or pictorial art. Students who are interested in joining the editorial staff or in assisting at the birth of the magazine are invited.

This semester's issue is scheduled to appear in mid-May. All persons interested in the venture are asked to get in touch with Herbert Diamante in S.S. 224—ext. 334 or with Janice Counts, 734-6245.

Manuscripts may be submitted to Mr. Diamante or left in the mail box for that purpose located in the Humanities Mail Room-2nd floor of the Social Science building. Art work may be submitted to Mr. Pfaffl of the Art Department in Room 242, Grant Hall. Deadline for this semester's contributions will be April 20.

WORKSHOP OFFERED

Students interested in a creative writing workshop which will meet informally at some suitable and hour are requested to get in touch with Herbert Diamante—s.s. 224, Ext. 334, or leave their names and telephone numbers in his mail-box in the Humanities Mail Room second floor in the Social Science Building.

Looking Down the Barrel

With Chuck Crawford

"I believe that the REBEL YELL is not growing with the university, but regressing to a journalistic thumbsucking stage."

"I would suggest that the prime duty of student government, and one which would reap the greatest benefits for the least effort would be to encourage scholastic endeavors for their own sake. The utilization of the REBEL YELL, as an open forum, rather than social calendar, and gossip column, would more than justify its existence."

"Although the R-Y is supposed to be our newspaper, it seemingly is someone else's newspaper, for it does not reflect, or attempt to reflect, a cross section of the student body." "I, like every other full time student, have given my seventeen dollars to C.S.N.S., a portion of which is used to support the REBEL YELL."

"Your REBEL YELL feels compelled to publish staff articles that contribute nothing to the past or up-coming functions of the university. . . . None of your "Rebel" staff articles are cut by your impulsive editorializing, nor are any of the C.S.N.S. news items. . . . Finally, your crushing editorial blows against the clubs and groups on this campus are harmful to the effective functioning of those organizations."

These are, of course, out of context excerpts from official protests made against the REBEL YELL from students and student organizations. It would add nothing to list the names of the authors for these are but a small number of the similar complaints that I have received throughout the year. This, then, is my first use of the REBEL YELL in my own interest. This, plainly, is a defense of my position.

Let me start by attempting to explain the root of the protests. It begins with the revolutionary nature of the students on his campus. This, however, is not intended to mean the Students For Political Action or any other group in particular; it means, simply, that the attitudes of many Nevada Southern Students has been quickly changing, perhaps hastily.

This change has been a rapid growth of unity among segments of the student body which has resulted into more, and closer knit groups on campus. This has brought stiffer competition among organizations and therefore greater interest in the organization's members. These groups, and their individual members are finally caring about their student government.

Students, recently, have been quick to find faults with student government and the student newspaper. There are, admittedly, many faults. But in their search for perfection, the students and organizations, have seemed to act hastily and without proper qualification.

It is easy to find a situation to be unhappy with, and much easier to offer criticism without digging further to find the circumstances which brought about those situations. This, it seems to me, is why most open criticism, such as in S.P.A.'s Polis, has contained generalized examples of the faults of the REBEL YELL, out of context facts surrounding instances of fault, and illogical conclusions based upon these "facts".

As an example, Betty Tierny, who criticized the REBEL YELL in the first issue of Polis did a good job of gathering "facts" according to the editor of Polis. But in the process of gathering "facts" Miss Tierny never bothered to even walk into the REBEL YELL office to verify what evidently was hearsay. She certainly had the right to offer her opinion, no matter how she reached it, but I then, feel obligated to point out that her criticisms have little actual substantiation.

This type of criticism, it seems, has come often. If someone were to say "Russia dropped a bomb" but failed to add . . . "on Greenland," isn't it possible to get the wrong impression of the actual situation? This, I feel, is what has been the root of the criticism.

Again, I will add that the REBEL YELL is not as good as it should be. It does not yet equal the quality of most college newspapers, but, under the circumstances, it is as good as it can be now.

This statement encompasses many circumstances, such as financial budgeting that restricts the paper's size, improper facilities with which to work, a small staff, and an in-experienced editor. The greatest of these problems has been the fact that I, as editor, assumed the position with little experience in student newspapers.

I will admit the many "faux pas" I have made in the issues I have been responsible for so far this year. However, I must add in all honesty that the mistakes were never intended to degrade any individual or group. I have used my personal column in all cases that I was speaking in my own interest and have not used an EDITORIAL in which student's views should be reflected. Nor have I intentionally omitted or altered an organizations article without proper justification, and never has it been done for my own interests.

Charges that I have been treating the REBEL YELL as my newspaper are, I feel, unfounded. What interests can I serve for myself? I am definitely not seeking a student government position in the next election. I do not belong to a controversial organization. Furthermore, if those charges were true, I could certainly be more efficient about the use of the REBEL YELL to further those interests.

Then, perhaps, the intent of the publication is what has really been in question, along with editorial freedom.

Boob on the Brink

By LARRY CLARK

Now boys and girls sit back and listen to an old tale told anew from a progressive point of view . . . Goldylocks and her Three Vietniks.

Once upon a time a lovely bright headed girl named Goldylocks romped through the forest to kill all of the animals. She was known as the butcher of the black forest.

She ranked just below wolves and rabies as the terror of the terrain. Her favorite games were paddy-cake, with the birds and bees, pin the tail on the donkey (or anything else that got in her way) with a 15 inch blade, or even tag-your-squashed with the insects.

One day, after a morning of death and destruction, she was skipping along making sure to hit every crack (in hopes that she would break her mother's back). She came upon a shack in the woods. Nobody was home, so she picked the lock and went inside.

She was dying for a cigarette and fortunately, three Marajuanas were on the table. The first didn't get her off the ground, the second ate a hole in her nasal cavity, but the third was just right and she smoked it all up with pictures of smashed snails in her head.

She spotted three bongo drums. The biggest played too soft but the last had a cool sound and she got so excited that she put her fist through the skins.

Goldylocks dragged her weary body upstairs, looking for a place to sack out. The first army cot was too hard, the sleeping bag was too soft, but the war surplus inflatable rubber raft was just right and she passed out in a drugged stupor.

Along came a family of Vietniks, who looked not unlike bears. They were the occupants of the dwelling.

"Who's been smoking my pot?" yelled Papa Vietnik.

"Who's been smoking my pot?" cried Mama Vietnik.

"Who's been smoking my pot," cried Baby Vietnik, "and didn't leave so much as a butt?"

"Who's been playing on my skins?" blared Papa Vietnik.

"Who's been playing on my skins?" whined Mama Vietnik.

"Who's been practicing Karati on my skins and put his fist through them?" cried Baby Vietnik.

"Who's been sleeping on my army cot?" grumbled Papa Vietnik.

"Who's been sleeping on my sleeping bag" mumbled Mama Vietnik.

"Who's going to get this b—— out of my war surplus inflatable rubber life raft?" cried Baby Vietnik.

"Wake up," yelled Papa Vietnik, "this isn't the salvation army!"

Who are you, said Goldylocks?

"We're a family of shaggy Vietniks. We're protestors. We protest anything from religion to labor.

"We're also mostly organized against Viet Nam. How would you like to fight in those rice paddies with these fur coats on?"

"You still look like bears to me," said Goldylocks, "Would you like to play paddy cake or pin the tail on the bear . . . I mean donkey?"

BOB JENSEN

IN A REBEL'S EYE

There has been a great volume of material both written and spoken on the topic of academic freedom during the past two years. However, I feel there is very little understanding of what the term actually means.

In the first place, academic freedom is a privilege and not an "inalienable right." You have a right to breathe and the privilege to speak as you feel in this country. You see, it would be easy for a bureaucracy to deprive you of your privileges, but nearly impossible to deprive you of your rights without murdering you.

It seems that some students want to translate academic privilege to a right. Let's consider the same situation with the "freedom of speech." It too, is a privilege. If we had freedom of speech as a right, it would mean we could say ANYTHING ANY-TIME and ANYWHERE. Assume you have this right. Now, try slandering a cop, or an old lady playing slot machines, or a drunk in the Lariat Club. If you do, I think you will find at least three people who don't feel you have the right and may even take exception to your feelings.

The point is that a privilege is not to be abused. When the pursuit of an academic ideal infringes upon the rights or privileges of others, there can be no worthwhile outcome of the pursuit.

Understand that when a student or professor demonstrates or what have you, he is not violating anyone's privileges. He is only exercising his privilege of expression. However, when he imposes his ideas upon some one else or takes advantage of his position to force the acceptance of his ideas, he is violating the ethical boundaries of academic freedom.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

This is an answer to a series of charges made against my organization, the Intercollegiate Knights, claiming that it dominates student government and is therefore bad for student government. Recently one of our previous pledges, Tom Martin, published such a charge in the S.P.A. publication Polis; and although the most proper place for a reply to his article would be in Polis, I feel that the REBEL YELL would reach more interested students more quickly.

The facts are clear and have long been clear. The Intercollegiate Knights have dominated the male positions in student government, and those who are Intercollegiate Knights are influenced by their organization, but I fail to see logic in the statements that this is the reason for student government being a "clique".

Let me relate the reasons why some of our members are in student government and try to clarify the unique position that the fraternity occupies on campus.

If students would once and a while look at the wording on an IK's sweatshirt or blazer or ask an IK what the motto of his organization is the answer would come out like a well used phrase: Service, Sacrifice and Loyalty. Despite what some anti-IK students feel, the IK's, all of them, think first of their organization as a SERVICE fraternity. Obviously, to be an IK and uphold the goals of the organization takes more than attending the few IK social functions and attending meetings. Perhaps it is this point that is most unique about a service fraternity. To be a good IK requires effort in service projects.

Certainly then, service to the school can be done in many ways. We often usher for lectures and CSNS functions, carry on various community projects, and other miscellaneous activities, but the epitome of a good fraternity brother is someone who gives his services in a consistent way such as being student body president, editor of the REBEL YELL, class senators and officers and committee chairmen and members. Indeed, aren't these services?

Yes, student government is composed of many IK's, but I feel that it is largely because we are the most interested in serving the student body. That is what we have as a common interest as a fraternity. We are not a social fraternity trying to do some good will service projects. We are a service fraternity with only a few social functions.

We are not adverse to other students from other organizations also holding positions if they too have a genuine interest. The last three major appointments in student government have been non-IK's. In addition many persons now IK's joined our organization after they started serving in student government, because they found a common interest with the other members.

In conclusion I will add that we will continue to see work to do in student government, we will continue to have a common goal of service, and even though this may make us close knit, that close knit-ness has only one influence on student government affairs: sincerity of service. What does our organization have to gain by other influences if our purpose parallels that of student government?

Alpha Commerce Holds Installation

The first national Greek fraternity will be formally installed in early May according to Jerry Schurr, president of what is now the Alpha Commerce Club but will at that time transit into the ETA Lambda national business fraternity.

The cost of the installation has been approximated at $3,000 which may be raised by donation and various fund-raising projects.

The Commerce club recently completed a tour through the Blue Diamond gypsum plant where many of the plants procedures were observed.

The organization has announced that two speakers from Sears Roebuck and Co. will speak on March 31 at 1 P.M. in Social Science 116, and that all interested students may attend.

The Commerce club held its first pledge "smoker" and has started its first pledge class with thirteen members.

ATO Announces Spring Bowery

ATO fraternity has announced that their first Spring Bowery is being held this evening at the Henderson Elk Hall. The Bowery will be preceded by a cocktail party at the residence of Paul Weir. Formal invitations are being sent to the presidents of the fraternities and sororities on campus.

The fraternity also expressed its wish to cooperate in the formation of an International Council which has recently been proposed.

ATO has also stated that it will sponsor a softball team in the city of Las Vegas league this year and announced the addition of Ted Weins Jr. as a social affiliate to the fraternity.

ALPHA OMEGA ELECTS OFFICERS

New officers for Alpha Omega sorority have recently been announced. Dale Hop has been elected President; Judy Stanley, Vice-president; Connie Carr, Secretary; Gayle Hawkins, Treasurer; Sally Moore, Pledge Chairman; and Sylvia Schott, Parliamentarian.

New pledges for the sorority are: Penny Ward, Connie Bonifini, Judy Burke, Carolyn Williams and Nikki Luse. Vicki Gertsema, a Gamma Phi from Reno has been accepted as a social affiliate.

LIBRARY EXPANSION

Monthly the processing division of the library catalogs over 2,000 volumes, the monthly circulation is approximately 3,500 volumes. The new budget allotment for books and periodicals is $90,000.

Present enrollment at N.S.U. is nearly 3,000 students, with a steady increase each semester in full time and part time students. The new dormitory and food service building will be ready for use by the Fall of 1966. Ground-breaking ceremonies took place February 1.

Nevada Southern is situated on 190 acres and the current faculty includes more than 100 full time and part time instructors.

The first degrees from N.S.U. were granted at the close of the Spring semester in 1964. Presently plans are underway to offer master's programs in business administration, biology, and education.

I do not agree that the REBEL YELL's purpose is to be a forum sheet. Nor do I feel obligated to seek an answer to counter every opinion I offer in my columns. The purpose of a four page college newspaper which publishes every two weeks must be very unique from larger, more frequent newspapers.

Until the size of the paper can increase, until the staff can become more qualified and increase also, until organizations and departments can cooperate with the newspaper more readily, until the students can generate their own interest in student government sponsored events and inform themselves, the REBEL YELL must act largely as a liaison between the students and student government.

The REBEL YELL office is never buzzing with the sound of all of those dedicated students who theoretically would like to help publish the newspaper, despite the speculators who think that it is a small problem. The REBEL YELL cannot yet support itself financially, cannot get full cooperation from campus organizations and university departments, and students have proven that they will not generate their own interest in events like homecoming, basketball, dances, concerts, plays, etc., all of which are being supported partly or wholly with student money.

These are some of the problems that form the state of the present REBEL YELL. Perhaps the REBEL YELL is not perfect because the students who put it together are not.

I, also, sometimes wonder why I have never received an offer of help from those who so frequently criticize the REBEL YELL. But, then, they are busy.

Gov. Sawyer To Speak at I.K. National Convention

Governor Grant Sawyer, having recently accepted honorary membership to the Red Eagle Chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights, will appear as a featured speaker when Nevada Southern's Red Eagle chapter hosts the national fraternal convention at the Hacienda Hotel beginning April 11.

The convention will be the first national convention held by an N.S.U. fraternity and will host approximately 150 Intercollegiate Knights from nearly 45 chapters. Red Eagle chapter, which has the largest chapter membership, was formed at N.S.U. in 1957 and reactivated in 1962. It has been the only national fraternity on the Nevada Southern campus and the only honorary service fraternity. The chapter plans to have twenty members in attendance at the convention.

Plans for the convention have been underway since late in the spring of 1965 when the chapter learned that its bid for the convention had been accepted. Some of the scheduled events include committees, a Royal Ball, the election of a Royal Queen, and the election of new national officers. Chuck Crawford of the Red Eagle chapter will be the only local member seeking office.

Bill Koot, Duke of the Red Eagle chapter stated "We are pleased that we have been allowed to host this year's convention and we have all concentrated our efforts in order to make the convention a success, which will give other Knights from other schools a good impression of Red Eagle chapter and Nevada Southern".

N.S.U. Library Scholarships Will Amount to $2,000

Two scholarships amounting to $2,000 dollars each are available to Nevada Southern University seniors interested in obtaining a master's degree in library science. Majors in any field of study may apply.

Candidates must acquire the advanced degree within one calendar year and agree to accept employment in a Nevada Public Library for a term of two years.

The scholarship is applicable to any library school accredited by the American Library Association. A letter of application should be addressed to Mrs. Mildred J. Heyer, Nevada State Library, Carson City, Nevada, 89701.

Further information in regard to this or other scholarships available in library science may be secured from Harold Erickson, Librarian of Nevada Southern University. No deadline for application has been announced.

Equestrian Club Claims Awards

On March 6 the newly formed N.S.U. Equestrian Club sent its first representatives, Carolyn Williams, Rod Johnson, and Ron Johnson, to a local horse show with six horses.

The N.S.U. students won three second places, one third, and two fourth places in the jumping classes, and a third place ribbon in English Pleasure.

The horses wore matching brow bands in the club colors (red and gray) which have been donated by Conrad's Western Store in North Las Vegas.

The present club members have been primarily interested in jumping, but basic dressage is being offered to anyone interested.

Mr. George Hegyeli, the club's advisor-instructor, is a former lieutenant of the Royal Hungarian Cavalry. It was with his efforts mainly that the club was organized.

The club meets each Saturday at 9 A.M. at the Chuck Farquhar residence on Gowan Road off the Tonahpah Highway. Interested students are invited to attend at those times.

NSU LOSES DOUBLEHEADER

Nevada Southern was handed their first doubleheader setback of the year, Wednesday. After blanking NSU 4-0 in the first game, Weber State College had to battle the Rebs two extra innings before winning 4-3 in the second.

Lefty Bruce Berman was charged with his first loss of the season after having won his first three starts. Weber pitcher Dick Wildon gave up just two Rebel hits, both singles, to catcher Gary Hackathorn and right fielder Tom Tiettmeyer.

The dual loss knots NSU's season record at 4-4.

Despite the onset of darkness, the two teams were forced into extra innings when the score became tied 3-3 at the end of the regulation seven innings.

In the bottom of the eighth, the Rebels had the chance to put the game on ice when Dee Jeffers and Heckathorn walked with one out. But then, first baseman Bruce Layne, who already had three hits including a double in his first three times at bat, flied out, and Weber pitcher Lynn Christensen struck out the final Rebel batter.

Tom Tiettmeyer was charged with the loss while Christensen received the victory. Bill Behrens started on the mound for NSU but was relieved for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning.

The Rebels will host Reno this Saturday at the campus diamond for a doubleheader. Game time is 12:00 noon.

Two weeks ago, the Rebels split a pair with C.S.U., winning the first 1-0 and dropping the second 3-1. Russ Sanserino pulled the first one out as he scored on a pass ball with two out in the final inning. Bruce Berman hurled the shutout victory.

In the second game of the twin bill, Bill Behrens had the Thunderbirds blanked 1-0 going into the final inning, however, C.S.U. rallied for 3 runs and the victory.

Against Arizona State last weekend, the Rebs came up with two fine games, winning both by scores of 3-1 and 8-4. Losing 1-0 in the last inning of the first game, N.S.U. rallied to tie the count at 1-1. Then with two outs and Bruce Layne on first base, Al Camponetto homered over the left field fence 380 ft. away. Berman was credited with the win.

During the second game with the Lumberjacks, the Rebel nine were winning 5-1 before the gap was closed 5-4 by 3 Arizona State runs in the fourth. An N.S.U. rally in the bottom of the 6th saw Sanserino getting a triple and the Rebs getting 3 more runs and the 8-4 victory. Bill Behrens was the winner.

SPORTS TALK... by Terry Lindberg

Look for the University of Houston, a late season Rebel cage opponent next year, to top the pre-season basketball polls as the number one team in the nation. Also, look for some new faces on next year's Rebel varsity team. Word has it that coach Rolland Todd is working on some of the finest prospective college recruits in the country. If he gets what he's after, N.S.U. could be one of the toughest teams in the entire West.

Speaking of basketball, if all goes well the Rebel basketballer's will be making a tour of South America sometime this summer. The trip would be in conjunction with the State department; arrangements are pending.

Coach Bob Comeau's track team began action last Saturday in Riverside, California. One of the best performances of the meet came from N.S.U.'s Gary Halko, who won both the 220 and 440 yard dashes.

Recognition is in order to Jan Van Tuyl who has been doing a great job in the field of gymnastics. Don't be surprised to see at least three of his students participating in the 1968 Olympics.

Praise to Chub Drakulich's assistant baseball coach, Jerry Goynche. Jerry, a dedicated baseball enthusiast, has done a tremendous job in helping shape this year's team into the sound ball club that it is. The way things appear at the moment, there is a good possibility that the club will receive an invitation to the regional baseball playoffs.

Students may be interested to learn that Senior Larry Clark will be fighting for the lightweight title at the Hacienda Hotel next Monday night. Clark, who has won 16 and lost 0, goes against Bobby Allen, one of the top lightweights in the West. Students may obtain tickets for half price by securing them at the Rebel Yell office.

Belated congratulations to the ten stalwarts who established what probably is the world's longest marathon basketball game in history. Tim Toth, Allan Wills, Pat Stafford, Don Malone, Bill Cunningham, Cliff Fields, Mike Green, Rick Stanfill, Bob Christensen, and Ron Wielochowski played one basketball game for 37 consecutive hours. The previous record was 36 hours set by a fraternity at the University of Pacific in Stockton, California. Nice going guys; it took guts.

GYMNASTICS MEET TO BE HELD HERE

The United States Gymnastics Federation Western Girl's Sectional will be held March 26th at the N.S.U. gymnasium from 9:00 A.M. until 4:00 P.M. Admission cost will be 75 cents to students with activity cards and $1.00 to adults. Three of the girls who will be performing at this meet are bound for the 1968 Olympics and at least 12 will be participating in the national finals this year.

During April 7, 8, and 9 the Exhibition Hall at the Convention Center will be the site for the Easter Gymnastics Clinic. The clinic will be based on participation and instruction. Art Shurlock, 1964 Olympic team member in Tokyo, will be one of the many featured instructors. Registration fees for the clinic will run $6.00 for individual and $10.00 family. There will be a special show on Friday night at the N.S.U. gymnasium.

The Nevada Southern Gymnastic Club is looking for anyone interested in promoting or participating gymnastics on campus. Those interested may contact Robert Cummins, Phyllis Smoot, or Mr. Van Tuyl in the physical education department on campus.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP TO "BIG SY"

Silas Stepp, NSU's all time great basketball scorer, was honored at the evening concert of the "New Society Seven".

At the intermission, Student Body President, Tom Hribar, introduced Silas and named a few of the records that he has achieved in the past four years. Terri Hayes, Homecoming Queen, presented a trophy to Silas and Hribar followed the presentation with a lifetime membership in CSNS.

Hribar said, "The records that Silas achieved are do to his personal effort and his mark will stand for many years in our athletic history."

In the past four years that Silas Stepp has been at NSU, the relationship with his fellow students was described by Silas as, "Members of my family."

Silas plans to go on with his education and possibly teach physical education.

Intramural Basketball

An intramural basketball program will be established for the first time on the Nevada Southern campus. Beginning shortly after Easter vacation, teams will be meeting in the gymnasium at 3:00 p.m. for daily competition. The program is open to all male University students. Any campus or independent organization desiring to be represented with a team is urged to contact coach Jack Starr at the gymnasium before April 1st.
