STUDENT ELECTIONS SCHEDULED MAY 6-7

The 1966 campaign for executive offices officially opened last Monday, April 25. The campaigning will last until the evening of May 4.

C.S.N.S. offices on the election block will include Student Body President, First Vice-President, Second Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Senators.

The possibility of debates among prospective candidates looms on the scene. Campaign issues will be aired this Saturday night at the Campaign Dance to be held in the foyer of the gym, at 8 p.m. Cliff Fields and his Raves will be the featured band at the dance.

Posters and banners have been banned 1) on the inside of or on exterior of the library, 2) inside the Campus Center in Frazier Hall, 3) on any glass or metal surfaces, such as windows or doors.

NSU Faculty, Students Give

Welcome to Visiting High School Seniors

High school seniors of Clark County and surrounding areas are welcome guests of the N.S.U. faculty and student body this afternoon for a first-hand glimpse of univer-

While on campus for the annual N.S.U. Preview, visitors will have an opportunity to view the growth and development of Nevada Southern University, to hear projected plans for continued progress and expansion, and to receive informa-tion regarding N.S.U.'s broad educational program.

Chancellor Donald C. Moyer and Student Body President Tom Hribar will welcome guests at a general assembly in the gymnasium at 1:30 p.m. Students will then attend an Academic Division meeting of their choice to meet members of the faculty and to learn of the courses, requirements, and opportunities available in a Administration, Edu-cation and Physical Education, Humanities and iFne Arts, Science and Mathematics, Social Sciences, and Associate (2-year) programs. Students undecided regarding an academic major are invited to meet with members of the Counseling staff for assistance and general academic information.

Campus tours following the Divisional meetings will enable visitors to view classrooms and laboratories, expanding library facilities, and the radiological laboratory. Included in the tours will be the construction of two additional campus buildings to be opened this coming fall: an ultra-modern six floor dormitory and a dining commons with facilities for social activities as well as a large dining hall.

Question and answer sessions during the campus tours will give seniors an opportunity to gain specific information regarding admission, counseling, financial aids, scholarships, and cultural events.

N.S.U. student leaders will be available to discuss student activities and opportunities for participa-tion in student government and campus organizations. Seniors will then be guests of N.S.U. students for refreshments and a social hour which will climax the 1966 N.S.U.

Seniors interested in basketball, baseball, track, cross-country, or other varsity sports may visit with the athletic coaches in Social Science 112 after 3:45 p.m.

Campaign Dance To Be Saturday

The Raves will be featured entertainment at the annual Campaign Dance which will be held in the foyer of the gymnasium on April 30.

Candidates for student body of-fices will be giving their official campaign addresses at the dance, however the speeches will begin at 7:30 in Social Science 103.

The dance will begin in the foyer at approximately 8:00 P.M.

C.S.N.S. Law Suit Pending

By TERRY LINDBERG

The dual cancellation of the WE FIVE singing group, who were scheduled to appear on the Nevada Southern campus last January 10 and March 11, may result in a double lawsuit between Perenchio Artists Representatives Limited and the Confederated Students of Nevada

Tom Hribar, CSNS president, reported that the student body has withheld a $1,000 payment to Perenchio, the promoters of the concert, on the grounds that the contract was breeched. According to Hribar, the WE FIVE group failed to afford CSNS a sufficient time notice of their cancellation, thus contributing directly to the monetary loss which was incurred by the con-

Last week, Mr. Hribar received a telegram from the concert promotors which stated that unless the $1,000 payment was received immediately, a legal suit for that amount would be filed against CSNS.

After consulting with Ralph Denton, prominent Las Vegas attorney, Hribar was advised that CSNS should initiate its own law suit against the WE FIVE for $1500. A telegram containing that statement was sent to Perenchio.

Student government leaders are presently awaiting the Perenchio firm's reply to the telegram before deciding upon a final course of action concerning the suit.

Cotillion Set For May 6

Sigma Gamma, in coordination with CSNS, will persent the 11th annual Cotillion on Friday night, May 6, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Elk's Lodge which is located at 900 Las Vegas Blvd. North.

The theme for this, the formal dance of the Nevada Southern social calendar, is 'Evening in Paris." The evening will be highlighted by two important announcements which will tell who has been elected as the 1966 Cotillion Queen and the results of the CSNS officer elections.

Dormitory Space Available

The Office of Student Personnel Services has announced that applications are now available for living space in the dormitories which are scheduled for completion by September 1, 1966.

The residence hall will house on campus 240 students and there will be facilities for boarding also. The cost of living in the residence hall will be $410 a semester with an additional $4 health fee also required. This cost includes both room and board.

Rooms will be available for, but will not be restricted to, freshmen. Clark County residents, as well as students from the balance of Nevada and outside of Nevada will qualify. No preference or quota system has been established.

The following form may be filled out and returned to the Office of Student Personnel Services promptly by these students (unmarried) who will wish to reserve space in the residence hall. In case more than 240 students apply, preference will be established on the basis of the date shown on the notice of admission.

Applications Due for Internship of Political Science would like to remind students that the deadline for Senate intern applications will be Friday, May 6 for the intern period beginning September 1.

The intern program was inaugurated with the appointment of George Clark, who is now serving as a Senate intern under Nevada's junior senator Howard W. Cannon.

The internship lasts for a period of six months and may be awarded on a competition basis to any junior or senior student, without regard to college major or sex, who is now attending either the University of Nevada or Nevada Southern University.

The intern's pay will be sufficient for him to be self-supporting while in Washington. The internship is open to all qualified applicants without respect to political affilia-

The academic requirements include junior or senior standing in the University of Nevada and appropriate background courses in government as determined by the Chairman of the Political Science Department. During the intern period, the student must submit several reports on his work in Senator Cannon's office and read four books from a list supplied by the Political Science Department. The grade in Political Science 306 will be given by the Department.

Students interested in applying for the internship, or in learning more of the details, should contact any members of Mr. Tsuranti's Department of Political Science.

All applications must be in by May 6, 1966 (Friday).

Two Operas Scheduled Here

The NSU campus will experience "first" next Sunday, May 1, with the presentation of two short operas by the contemporary composer Gian-Carlo Menatti, "The Tele-phone" with Phyllis Deyo and Franklin Siu, and "The Old Maid and the Thief" with Marjorie Dickinson, Ruth Tener, Ruth Julian, and Edward Brahams.

These two comic operas will be staged in the Social Science lecture hall at 3:00 p.m. and will be open to students, faculty, and the community without charge.

Members of the two casts are all professional singers and have been acclaimed locally for their vivid portrayals of their roles in these and other works. Accompanist for this concert will be Mr. Roger Bushell.

It has been suggested by Dr. Howard Chase, chairman of the Nevada Southern Music Committee which sponsors the event, that those planning to attend come early so that they may be assured of seating, since the production will begin promptly at 3:00 p.m.

Daedalus Holds First Exhibition

Daedalus, Nevada Southern's student art organization, will present a student art exhibition starting May

The exhibition will feature a selected student art contest in which members of Daedalus will compete for ribbons. The contest will be judged by Geoffrey Bowman from San Jose State University.

Deadline for entry application will be May 1, and applications may be made to any member of Daeda lus. It is reminded that chances to participate in the exhibition increase with the number of works

IN A REBEL'S EYE

Have you ever anticipated buying some gift cosmetics and then discovered that the sweet-voiced Avon lady had leprosy?

Have you ever bought a $200 suit and just when you were leaving the tailors' shop, noticed that he forgot to put on one of his socks?

Have you ever received a wedding invitation from your favorite sweetheart?

Have you ever been anxious to get home from a long trip and just when you're 15 miles from the nearest water, had a water hose on your car burst, leaving you stranded?

Have you ever stopped at a crowded small-town drive-in restaurant and enjoyed having the people there gawk at your $6000 car and found that when you tried to leave, your car would not start?

Have you ever gone to a night club wearing the one pair of pants you own that might split in the seat and had the singer implore you to get on the stage and dance the watusi with one of the go-go girls, and had your pants split?

Have you ever been watching a good-looking girl at an informal dance and just after she indignantly refuses to dance with you, she gets up and goes into the men's restroom?

Have you ever managed to get some really fresh eggs from a farm and, after you have eaten some of them for breakfast, heard the radio announcer say the farmers' chickens had all died from some disease that may be contagious to humans?

Have you ever had a fight with your girl and thrown a party to forget her and just when you're getting very drunk and the party is very loud, she decides to forgive you and calls up to tell you?

Have you ever managed to live comfortably on $400 a month and then taken a job where you earn $1000 per month and had to struggle to get by?

Have you ever been a guest at a Catholic Mass looking for a smoking stand where you can dump your pipe ashes and as you approach one with pipe and tool in hand, you discover that it is full of Holy Water and then notice that your companion is suddenly very pale?

Have you ever written a wholesale, unjustified condemnation of an organization and then found that half of your friends were hurt by it, but they're too nice to hate you for it?

Have you ever done any or all of these things?

I have, and to the Students for Political Action, I apologize.

McGurn Finishes Lecture Series

On April 19, former Vatican correspondent, Barrett McGurn, terminated this year's faculty lecture series with an address to approximately 150 students and members of the community.

McGurn, present Religion Editor for the New York Herald Tribune, lectured on the topic of "Pius XLI. and John XXIII, A Study of Two Popes" from his experience as a former papal journalist and the author of two books on the papacy.

His topic was actually expanded to include a brief discussion of Pope Paul VI. Spending most of his lecture time on a discussion of Pope John, he gave a biographical sketch of the late Pontif describing his boyhood, and his assent to the papacy.

Describing Pope John as a "simple, humble and friendly man, who was more interested in the nature of man than the formality of governing the church." McGurn claimed that the most striking achievements of Pope John were initiation of the Eccumenical Council, and his obsessive drive for world peace.

He mentioned that Paul VI was the first Pope to travel outside of Rome in 150 years, the first Pope to return to the holy lands, and the first to cross an ocean for a visit.

Ending his lecture with a brief sketch of Piux XII, he stimulated discussion from the audience over the current play "The Deputy" which criticized Pius's silence over the persecution of the Jews in the Hitler era.

LETTERS

Sir:

During the past year, many students at this University have watched with horror and disgust the constant stream of high school students who have made the N.S.U. Library their home-away-from-home, especially in the evenings.

Many of these "students" come to the campus during the daytime, specifically for "class ditching purposes". At night, N.S.U. students are made to wait in line to get into the catalogues, and to check out books, because the already overtaxed and limited library staff has to serve our "visitors" by the droves.

I am not protesting the access of high school students to the library, but I, along with several other upper division students, wish to vehemently protest the library being open to them during the entire week. Could it not be limited, at least for the sake of those University students genuinely interested in getting studies and papers completed.

This problem will become more acute next year when there are over 200 dormitory students on this campus who obviously won't stand such nonsense.

Seniors Hold Class Meeting

Chip Mills, Senior Class President, has announced that a Senior Class meeting will be held tonight, April 26 in Social Science 103.

All seniors are urged to attend this meeting which will serve to prepare graduating seniors with their responsibilities in the graduation exercises, June 15.

Also, the counseling office has warned that the deadline for being measured for graduation caps and gowns will be May 1. After that date, no caps and gowns may be ordered.

Looking Down the Barrel

With Chuck Crawford

Let's do a little arithmetic. Tom, Mary, and Joe decide to join a club and they all have four apples. The club needs apples to operate so it assesses one apple per person from each of its members. Now Tom, Mary and Joe have the idea that their apples will be put into a fruit salad, so they all agree to give one of their apples to the club. That means that the club has three apples, right?

But the president of the club, Harry, says that his Mommy and Daddy always save their money for a rainy day and maybe the club should save one apple a year so that there will be an apple when and if it is needed. So that means that there are two apples left for the fruit salad and one left for future club members to get started with, right?

"Wait a minute", said Mary, "I gave an apple and so did Tom and Joe. How come we don't get them back in the fruit salad? Since when does 1+1+1=2?"

What am I driving at? Maybe I would like to ask some members of student government since when 1+1+1=2? The situation has been this year that: "we're going to be in the red," ... "I'd like to see $5,000 left for next year's student government if it were possible" ... and "we've got to cut your budget."

Now, I'll admit that I don't know that much about the financial situation of the student body. I'm not the student body president or treasurer. But I have heard that the opinions of some officers is that the biggest achievement this year's student government can have is to giving next year's government a lot of money to start out with. Nice gesture, isn't it?

But then there was a great deal of jabber earlier this year about having a special student union fee beginning next year. This would be a great gesture by students next year . . . to start paying for something they will never have a chance of using.

Even now, as I have been told, a certain amount of the student fee each semester is set aside to be used for football which is scheduled to start in four or five years. Nice gesture, isn't it?

I guess I'm just one of these misers who can't really afford the $35 a year activity fee, and if it is going to be mandatory, would like to see it spent on projects that I at least have an opportunity of benefiting from.

Not that I am against saving a little for the next student government, but I don't consider the success of a student government proportionate to the amount of money it leaves for the next government.

Money shouldn't be wasted, of course, but there have been too many cases that the immediate answer to a request for funds has been "we're going to run into the red". This is over-conservatism if there is no real attempt to prove that "we're going to run into the red". Too often this statement has been an excuse to protect these "reserves" or perhaps protect student government from a label of "spend-happy". Maybe it is even that some student leaders are not really sure where C.S.N.S. stands financially. Tell me, should 1+1+1=2?

Boob on the Brink

Bow down, fellow students — not to Mecca, but to the Buildings and Grounds Department. They are the kings of the crab grass, lords of the lawns, protectors of the pavement.

It is not as much of a department as it is a home for the aged. Some of their members look like rejects from Desert Retreat Nursing Home. They have about as much spirit as the Japanese army in 1945.

The only reason they don't miss much work is because they can't afford to lose the sleep. The B&G boys get more blisters on their bottoms than on their hands. The coffee breaks resemble a paid vacation.

Some of their members are not too swift. The only reason they don't get a longer lunch period is because the school can't afford to retrain them. Their I.Q.'s are measured in the fractions. One member had to take a correspondence course to learn to tie his shoes. To these individuals, a home for the mentally retarded is an institution of higher learning.

One illustrious custodian drives his cart like Parnelli Jones. This isn't a campus, but a Grand Prix. Walking on the sidewalks is as safe as walking on the Los Angeles Freeway.

Some people have accused these men of drinking on the job by such dubious methods as hollow shovel handles, false sprinkler heads, speakeasy trash cans. (I'm looking for a janitor who is hiding in a trash can guzzling vintage shovel handles. He wouldn't know whether to join Alcoholics Anonymous or the Garden Club.)

But, alas! Without these noble taskmasters, these knights of the waxed floors and washed blackboards, where would we be? We would be straight out of Tobacco Road.

So .

There lies an old codger, his time is due,
His heartbeat fading, his minutes few;
The priest said, "Is Heaven the place you want to be?"
"No, because I want to spend eternity as a custodian at NSU."

The Nevada Southern Model United Nations Committee will climax this year's activities with their participation in the Far Western Conference of the Model United Nations held at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel and sponsored by Stan-ford University April 27, 28, 29,

The committee will simulate the participation of the countries of Senegal and Costa Rica in the real United Nations. Preparation for this activity has been taking place throughout the year in a special one credit class for the committee called Simulation in International Relations Theory.

It is expected that over 100 schools will participate in this, the sixteenth session of the Model United Nations, and perhaps more than 1,200 students. The conference will last four days.

Co-chairman of the committee, Chuck Crawford, recently traveled to San Diego State College to act as an observer to a regional Model United Nations. It is hoped that next year Nevada Southern's delegation will be able to bid for a regional session which would be held here in the spring of 1967.

Members of this year's delegation which will be participating in the forthcoming conference are: Chuck Crawford and Joey Peer, co-chairmen of the delegation, Tracey Goetel, Jackie Womble, Jack Abell, Randy Frew, Hank Saleebey, Sandi Sharp, Vicki Silver, Ernestine Elms, Don Aimar, Lorenzo Macliff, Pat Daley, Bill Ressler, Elliot Bold, and Pete Howells,

I, Fred Williams, solicit your support for my candidacy for Student Body President. A Junior at NSU, having served as Junior class senator, Student Center committee member and reporter for the Rebel Yell, I have had an opportunity to gain a clear knowledge of those services that CSNS can provide. I hope to expand the services of the Presidency to reach those students who have, as yet, received little benefit from their membership in CSNS. I feel that I am qualified to bring the Presidency to areas which need to be served, and to implement policies that will bring recognition to the academic qualities of our campus. I wish to state clearly that I emphasize academic endeavors for their own sake. Furthermore, I will endeavor to gear social events to the serious student and to expand cultural activities on campus. I need your support and I will need your support next year.

CONSIDER academic growth. Consider Fred Williams, Student Body President.

REBEL CINDERMEN FALL; MEET ARIZONA SATURDAY

Nevada Southern's track team scored 26 points to place third behind Northern Arizona University and Cal Poly of Pomona at Butcher Field two weeks ago.

The Rebs, failing to place in any of the track events, scored 12 of their 26 points in the 440 and 880 relays

Best individual effort for N.S.U. came from 440 man Gary Halko, who grabbed second place. Harold Stafford managed a third in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes and Jim Whipple took fourth in the dual distance runs. The remainder of the scoring was done by Roger Wagner, who won a fourth in the 100, and Bill Staley, who finished third in the 880.

This Saturday the Rebs will travel to Flagstaff, Arizona for a triangular meet with Northern Arizona University and Adams State College.

TENNIS TEAM LOSES THREE

Nevada Southern's first intercollegiate tennis team has lost its only three matches this season. The netmen were beaten by LaVerne, Phoenix, and Glendale colleges.

Despite the three losses, coach Jack Starr has expressed a great deal of optimism in the team.

"We're really not doing that poorly," said Starr. "This season, being our first year as an intercollegiate team, has found us victimized by a lack of experience. The boys, however, are improving with each match and someday are going to blend into a real fine team."

DOCTORATE TO STARR

Mr. John T. Starr has become the first instructor from the Department of Physical Education to receive his doctorate degree. Starr, who coached this year's freshman basketball team, received the degree from the University of Southern California last Monday.

assistant football coach at Green River High School, Green River, Wyoming.

In 1963, he was a full-time graduate assistant at S.C., majoring in Physical Education and minoring in Higher Education.

Dr. Starr stated that his main objective for the future at Nevada Southern will be to "develop and enrich the Physical Education curriculum until it reaches the point of unparalleled excellence."

SPORTS TALK

By TERRY LINDBERG

For those interested, the Rebel pitchers didn't actually join the circus last week. That headline wasn't the work of this reporter, so you baseballers can quit swinging those bats in my direction. You probably couldn't hit me, anyhow. (Just joking, guys, just joking.)

As long as we're on the subject, however, and as long as I'm short on material for the column this time, let's take a short look at the baseball team.

Now, granted that last issue headline burn on the pitchers was completely unnecessary and uncalled for. Not even Koufax and Drysdale can work every game of the season, which is exactly what Bruce Berman and Bill Behrens are expected to do. How can you ask a pitcher to work three games in one week? Heck, do you know what kind of a fit the B & G men would throw if someone asked them to work three days in one week?

So anyhow, back to the ball game . . . Berman and Behrens get a little tired once in a while, with a schedule like that, and allow maybe 18 runs or so in one game. Immediately, Joe Spectator says, "Look at those clowns. They ought to join the circus."

But wait a sec, Joe. Nine of those runs are unearned—probably the first nine. And who in his right mind is going to really bear down and pitch ball when his teammates have just allowed nine unearned runs to cross the plate?

Whoops! Now I'm in trouble again because I've just mocked the Rebel fielders. Sorry about that, fielders, but let's face it — you have muffed quite a few here and there this season, haven't you? I know, I know . . . some of those balls were hit pretty damn hard and some took a few pretty tricky hops. But that idiot statistician (no offense, Mike) still gave you an error, didn't he?

So I've now analyzed the baseball team? No quite.

Certainly all of you Rebel sluggers didn't think that I'd forgotten to mention your names!

You're right, I didn't. The list isn't that long. Russ Sanserino, Al Caponetta, Don Knepp, Gary Heckathorn, Bruce Layne, Frendy DeJong, Gary Lair, Shelly Wright, Tom Teittmeyer . . . I've seen almost everyone of you guys give that ball a pretty darn good poke. But not often enough.

I mean, like you just cant' win many ball games while averaging two or three runs a game and at least one shutout a week. Sure, some of that pitching was tough to hit. But a lot of it wasn't . . . and you guys, I know, are the first to admit it.

So, what's wrong, fellas?

I know we've got the toughest schedule of any this year and I know that, as usual, we're short on manpower.

But I also know that we've got some pretty doggone good baseball players on this campus who aren't one-tenth as bad as that 7-14 record would like to have old Joe Spectator believe.

And as for Joe . . . well, that's another story.

Nevada Southern's baseball Rebels, now 7-14, continued to slump last week as they lost all but one of their four games played.

Phoenix College, Arizona, used a tight defense combined with some powerful hitting to sweep a doubleheader from N.S.U. last Saturday at Cashman Field.

The Arizona nine powered three runs in the fifth inning to clinch a 9-2 win in the first game. Bruce Layne singled in a run in the first inning and Bruce Berman rapped one in the second to put the Rebs in front 2-0.

Then an error allowed two Phoenix unearned runs in the third inning to tie the game, before NSU fell out of contention in the fifth.

Berman, now 2-6, and Bill Behrens, 2-7, took the loss for NSU. Phoenix pitcher Manny Salazar faced only five men to gain the win in the first game.

This Saturday the Rebs will go against Taft College at Cashman Field. Game time for the event is scheduled for 1:00 P.M.

Two weeks ago, against Cal Western University, the Rebel nine came up with what Coach Chub Drakulich considered to be "two of their best games" this season.

The Rebs dropped the first game, 3-2, after Cal Western pushed across a run in the bottom of the final inning, but came back to take the second game, 2-1.

Both games were well-played, with the Rebel pitchers, Bruce Berman and Bill Behrens, throwing fine ball. Behrens won the second game on a three-hitter and Berman only gave up seven hits in the first contest the big blow coming when the Californian's Henry Pietile socked a homer with one on.

Intramural Ball Begins Tomorrow

Coach Jack Starr notified the REBEL YELL yesterday to announce that there is still room for about five more basketball teams in the intramural program.

Play is scheduled to begin tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 p.m. in the gymnasium. Referees for the games will be the 260 and 370 Physical Education majors.

Groups or individuals wishing to form a team are urged to contact Coach Starr immediately so that proper registration may be accomplished.

All male campus students, with the exception of this year's varsity players, are eligible to compete in the intramural program.
