NEVADA SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY

September 4, 1968

WELCOME FRESHMEN

Enrollment Figures Soar to Record High

At least 4500 students will converge upon Nevada Southern University for September registration, Dallas Norton, NSU Director of Admissions, has announced.

"We have 58 per cent more students enrolled at this time than we did last year at this time," Norton said. "Last year, after this date, we doubled our enrollment. If we did that again this year, we could have some 2400 new students. Yet a more realistic estimate would be 1800-1900 new students for Fall, 1968."

Taken with the enrollments of continuing NSU students, the new student count for the Fall will bring the School's total enrollment to at least 4500, 800 more than this year's 3700 enrollment.

"This tremendous surge in admissions," Norton said, "is due to several factors. The dormitory and the football and hotel administration programs have attracted a large number of out-of-state students." Norton said that these programs were contributing to an increased awareness of NSU in the East.

"Before these programs were initiated, about 96 per cent of NSU admits have been local," Norton added. "That figure has been reduced to 82 per cent since the dorms opened."

Bill Terry, CSNS president, was asked to comment on the increase.

New Vice-President Appointed

"Nevada Southern University is potentially one of the major educational complexes of the West," says Dr. Donald H. Baepier, newly appointed NSU Vice President for Academic Affairs who assumed his duties on campus August 1.

Dr. Baepier, whose duties as NSU's first Vice President will be similar to those of the now-defunct office of Dean of Faculty, will also serve as Chief Executive Officer for Nevada Southern until a new President can be chosen.

Former NSU President Dr. Donald C. Moyer resigned last May and left campus July 31, resulting in the formation of a Presidential Selection Committee to choose a replacement.

"My role as Vice President will have a slightly different shift of functions from the duties of the Dean of Faculty," Dr. Baepier said. "My main purpose will be to coordinate the roles and duties of the Deans of NSU's colleges."

NSU now has Deans for seven Colleges on campus -- Fine Arts, General and Technical Studies, Humanities, Science and Mathematics, Social Sciences, Education, and Business and Economics.

"As Chief Executive Officer, I will merely do the things that have to be done," Dr. Baepier explained. "My job here will be to keep the business of the University going -- to represent it at Board of Regents meetings and handle other such functions."

"I like it here very much," he said. "Things are happening, and that's very exciting."

"I'd like to see the University

Chancellor Cuts Budget, Ups Fees

Chancellor Neil Humphrey Thursday asked the Board of Regents to approve a $44.3 million budget for 1969-71. The budget recommendation for the university system provides $12 million for Nevada Southern University, $3.7 million less than the amount requested by former NSU President Donald C. Moyer.

Humphrey said that the request would for the first time, provide equality for the Reno and Las Vegas campuses. He bases this statement on the cost per credit hour of instruction on each campus. "The method used to achieve parity for the two campuses," Humphrey said, "is the 'adjusted student credit hour,' a formula which takes into account the cost per credit of instructing students at the various academic levels.

"For instance, it costs six times more to instruct a graduate student working toward a master's or doctor's degree than it does to instruct a freshman," he said. "The Reno campus has about twice as many graduate students as does the Las Vegas campus, although enrollment projections indicate this gap is gradually closing."

Dr. Donald Baepier, vice-president of the Las Vegas campus and Chief Executive Officer until the appointment of a new president, said that, even with the cuts in the budget, "we are immensely better off than we were."

The $12 million request for NSU is 74 per cent increase over the $7 million available in the current biennium.

"At the present time," said Baepier, "I will ask the Regents for enough of an increase over Chancellor Humphrey's request to provide some additional faculty and building and grounds salaries. But the greatest emphasis should be placed on the capital budget which will be considered in October."

Buildings, equipment and improvements are funded through the capital budget.

Honor Roll Swells

A record number of honor students attended Nevada Southern University last semester, with some 150 straight-A and B students listed on the school's spring semester Dean's Honors List, Muriel M. Parks, NSU Registrar, has announced.

The figure, including students from the Colleges of Business, Education, Humanities, Science and Mathematics, Social Science, Fine Arts, and General and Technical Studies, reveals more students on the Dean's Honors List this past spring semester than ever before in the University's history.

"This is very encouraging," Miss Parks said. "Our 150 honor students is an excellent record, and it shows we have some top-notch people here."

In order to qualify for the Dean's Honors List, students must enroll for 15 credit hours at the University, obtaining at least a 3.5

Freshman Orientation Scheduled

For the first time in NSU's history, CSNS will take a dominant role in the Freshman Orientation Program to take place Wednesday. The active officers of the student government have organized and implemented a comprehensive program designed to start the new freshman off on sure footing this year.

The program will begin with General Orientation between 11:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon on Wednesday. This segment will feature addresses by CSNS President Bill Terry; Dr. Donald Baepier, Vice-President of the University; and Dean McCauslin of the Office of Student Affairs.

Between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m., representatives from individual schools, as well as organized clubs and special interest groups within each school, will be located in rooms on the second and third floor of the Social Sciences Building. The location of each group is listed below. See also the diagram on page 5 of the REBEL YELL, Business - SS 211

Archeologists Budget Adequate

The Southern branch of the Nevada Archeological Survey presently has "adequate funds" to continue its work, Dr. Richard H. Brooks, Assistant Research Professor of Anthropology at Nevada Southern University and Director of the Southern Branch of the Survey, has announced.

The announcement comes in direct connection to a recent local news story suggesting the Nevada Archeological Survey "apparently was on the rocks for lack of funds."

"This information applied strictly to the Northern branch of the Survey, and had nothing at all to do with us," Dr. Brooks emphasized. "The funding in the North does not affect the Survey on the NSU campus in any way."

The Southern Branch of the Archeological Survey is currently contracted to do work with the Bureau of Land Management and the National Park Service Bureau of Reclamation.

The Inevitable Challenge

The previous editorial concerned the apathy prevalent on this campus. This article will address the obvious and most promising remedy for that apathy - the new Freshman Class.

Despite reports by the various media concerning disruptive activities at the University, the student body has indeed been largely inactive. All constructive forces for improvement have been met with scorn and threats, and only the most inevitably successful of movements has been allowed to proceed unhindered.

Such movements were last year's autonomy drive and certain faculty efforts related to the resignation of Herbert Diamante.

With the exception of these brief flurries, however, no one has dared, or cared, to initiate and carry through the storm of activity required for successful student participation in the university system. The results:

An administration which, at least up to this point, stagnates in bureaucracy, without competition by which to gauge its own mediocrity.

A student government dominated by a self-perpetuating clique of self-interested and incompetent officers (the exceptions to which are few but important, and will be dealt with sufficiently later).

A Board of Regents run by uncomprehending high-school graduates, merchants who have no grasp of that which makes a University.

A competent but frustrated faculty, slowly tortured by a Board of Regents upon which they have no representation.

And worst of all, the establishment of apathy as an institution accepted as a sort of divine order, a noblesse oblige which carefully instructs each new class in its crude art and thus perpetuates itself AD INFINITUM.

You, the Class of 1972, are the intended next victims of this slaving disease.

Some predators, however, discover that their intended victims have claws and fangs. So it must be with you.

Your claws and fangs need not draw real blood. They should not be accompanied by screams of terror and mindless rejection. Above all, they must not destroy. They should consist of a question, one which applies to everything equally, one which will not be answered from one source, but must hear all before allowing a judgment to be made.

That is the first thing you must do: demand that all arguments be submitted, that all sides of an issue be recounted. Listen Carefully. Think carefully. Decide. If nothing is completely right, then choose what is most nearly right, or develop a new concept which is better. But accept nothing on faith.

Then, when you have established some basis in certainty, act. Move to show others the validity of your ideas. Lead others, if you can, into an effort to institute the improvements you envision. When you have won, see that your programs are implemented effectively. Most of all, never make the mistake of allowing your system to stagnate. When another man steps forward, listen to him, for he may be able to improve upon you.

Others, of course, have tried this before you. Many little efforts have been made. Many little failures have occurred. Thus you have martyrs, if you care to use them as such. But it would be a borrowed kind of glory. Your achievements should be your own. And you can achieve, but only if you act.

But you can act effectively only if you act in numbers. As a class, you have the required numbers, and maybe you have the initiative and the courage. If you are anything like those who have come before you, you don't. If Nevada Southern University is to survive, you must. Not just a few of you, but all of you.

These are a few of the many, many things you must learn. You can learn them least of all by listening to people talk about them, better by observing them, and most by doing them. And if you don't do them no one else will, because all the others have already been caught in the snare of apathy.

If you watch closely, you, unlike your predecessors, will foresee that snare and the hunter who sets it. The hunter, of course, is the man firmly in power, who is seemingly believable because of his position, who can keep his power only if he is unchallenged.

Because of his power, you should question him more. If he is secure, you should challenge his right to be. Else your mind, too, will fall victim to the hunter.

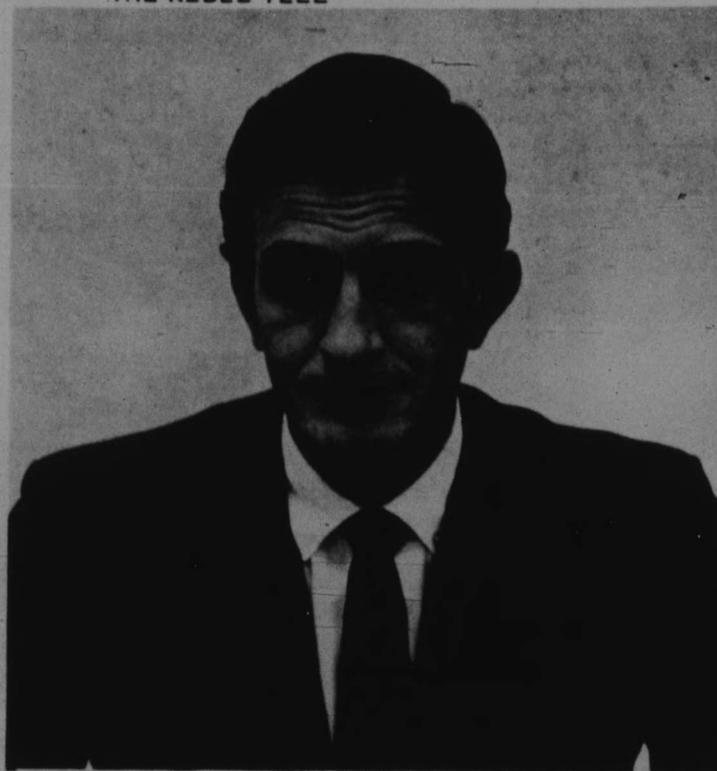

Faculty Editorials Invited

Faculty members are invited by the editor to write editorial columns for the REBEL YELL. This will be a regular feature in every issue this year. In these times of growth, controversy, and change in academia and in the world at large, the faculty may find little opportunity to express opinions. It is hoped that an editorial column will change this. It will give a campus-wide voice to faculty organizations wishing to reach students on a direct contact basis. I personally hope the faculty will avail themselves of this service.

To help support the budget needs, Chancellor Humphrey proposed increases in registration and tuition fees. The registration fee for Nevada residents would go up $30 per semester under the proposal, while the tuition fee for non-residents would be increased $100 per semester. The credit hour fee for part-time students would go up by $1.

put on a much firmer financial foot," he continued. "Our budget is weak. It needs strengthening throughout, not just for increased salaries, but for other things as well, such as travel. The budget for the coming year is exceedingly light."

"Nevada Southern University's budget needs to show and reflect what we're doing here," Dr. Baepler emphasized. "Yet the only thing we can do is to provide sufficient data so that our need can be recognized and our legislature can be made aware of this."

"By far NSU's most important asset is its faculty," Dr. Baepler said. "I sensed this as soon as I came on campus. They are very capable, cooperative people, willing to share work to make this institution go. They're willing to take a challenge."

Before arriving at NSU, Dr. Baepler served as Dean of Administration at Central Washington State College, Ellensburg, Washington.

He has served as Chairman of the Biology Department and Assistant to the President at CWSC, while acting as consultant to NSU on its 10-year master plan and conducting research and writings, including two books on North American bird life.

Dr. Baepler obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota, in 1954, his Master of Science from the University of Oklahoma in 1956, and a Doctorate from the same school in 1960.

Presidential Insight

Student government this year has had an extremely busy summer. Thanks to the dedication and hard work of certain individuals, I feel that an excellent foundation has been laid for the 1968-69 academic year.

During the summer the CSNS constitution has been revitalized the greatly updated. The Senate has been reapportioned so that Students will have representation, not only from their classes but also from their schools. Instead the new Sentate will have nearly twenty members. The CSNS Judicial Board has also been greatly expanded. Now, as never in the past, the Judicial Board will be hearing disciplinary cases, as well as cases involving constitutional issues. The Election rules, which came under much criticism last year, have been completely redone and more specifically established. At the present time the constitutional convention is continuing work on the Student Bill of Rights and reorganization of the By-laws presently used for recognizing clubs on campus.

One of the most difficult tasks completed this summer has been the approval of budgets. For the first time all major budgets have been submitted and approved before school has started. The expected revenue from students this year is nearly eighty thousand dollars, the largest amount in the short history of Nevada Southern University.

There are many other new programs that have been established this summer. Freshman Orientation has been expanded and will provide the students with a greater insight into the workings of the University. The President's Council, composed of presidents of all campus organizations, has met twice this summer and will continue to be an advisory board throughout the school year.

In total, these and many other programs have been created to evoke greater student participation. I hope that all students will take a greater interest in their campus this year and will participate in all that Nevada Southern has to offer.

A Ring-Dang-Do

The perennial plague approaches, elections are upon us again. The polite politician decoaches, the vote of his constituents to win. Recognizing his demagogic desire for deference, the people sit a-wonder. Searching for an idiotic index of reference, they hope to judge his blunder. But laconic and verbose, poltroon and intrepid, the politician is easily assessed. Yet to know his real nature and deny the tepid, but what essence is he possessed?

Well perhaps...a politician, now what is that? Is it round or is it flat? Well, it's round, and it's flat, and it's split in two, and that's what you call a ring-dang do.

A ring-dang-do comes in all shapes, sizes and shades, but is not difficult to discern. He caters to you, cajoles you, and claims your cloven concern. He changes faces with a dramatist's flair and often promises to remove your ropes. He harrasses you, harangues you, and harbingers your holy hopes. Is he different from us; you and me? Or does he only appear apart, a matter of degree?

Interacting in a manner both vain and banal, the hip headhunter would have us all alike, a tension-reducing animal, compensating the traumas taken as tremulous tykes. And as we search the social caldron for sinecure, who's to say he's remiss. We sophisticatedly seize the simple solution, or ego-states amiss. We assuage our insecurities, employing a certain pundit's "strokes." We devise childish ploys, seldom understanding the nature of jokes.

And into this social matrix, please enter the ring-dang-do, a politician and his repertoire of tricks, an extension of me and you.

He comes beset with as many fears as we, and indeed maybe more; but if we measure dissatisfaction by the nature of transaction, then who's the bigger whore? He may strike us as an anxious lover, and about our petty ills solicitously hover; but as you react with surly suspicion, you promote asinine attrition, to say nothing of a covert cover. So, if one is not to wither and bless blatant blather, seek less divisive faction, it requires two for interaction, the better to remove from all their dither. And when, if in the pursuit of his needs, the ring-dang-do defends his deeds, give him freely his due, never causing him to rue his disposition to assume an egggregate's creed.

Then will we deny him his plurality, an object of less respect than derision? Or will we admit our commonality, an elixer of less discord than cohesion? For the ring-dang-do descends, his thirsty self split asunder. He seeks our precious vote and thought, somewhat deviously, do we not often wonder? Yet he hungers mainly after our acceptance and tries to avoid our scorn. His is the course of Sisyphus, he and we of the same mother born. As we sycophancy and sophistry he plots his different tacks, let's recognize his greater need and dependency, and learn less to the attack. Let's refrain from curious self-epithets, and admit the world of many and two. Let's appreciate what society begets, and think the politician a ring-dang-do.

DI Trains Future Hotel Executives

The Desert Inn Hotel, in cooperation with Nevada Southern University School of Hotel Administration, employed hotel administration students in departments throughout the hotel this summer. The students in the school must have 800 hours of actual hotel experience in order to graduate. The hotel employed the students as extra summer help to fulfill student requirements. The program was assisted by Al Bramlet, Secretary-Treasurer of the Culinary Union, and Dick Thomas, Secretary-Treasurer of the Teamsters Union.

The Desert Inn, along with other members of the Nevada Resort Association, has contributed financially to the establishment of the Hotel Administration School and have pledged for the next two years to help sustain it. The hotel also participates in the student internship program, whereby students work in every department of the hotel during the course of the school year.

The students worked full time this summer as security guards, mail room helpers, accounting clerks, front desk clerks, pool attendants, bellmen, bus boys and in the maintenance department.

In addition to the students Professor Boyce Phillips of the School of Hotel Administration is also working on the staff at the Desert Inn in order to gain first hand knowledge about resort hotels in Las Vegas.

Radiologic Tech School Established

Nevada Southern University again takes national prominence with the establishment of a unique 4-year School of Radiologic Technology, Charles A. Jacobi, School Head, has announced.

The School, a division of the College of General and Technical Studies, will offer a four-year curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Technology degree in Radiologic Technology.

Recently recommended for approval to the Council of Medical Education of the American Medical Association by the AMA's Committee on Technologist Training, the School becomes one of only six schools throughout the nation to have such AMA accreditation.

"In the past, most X-ray training has been conducted in hospitals," Jacobi said. "We're extremely enthused that we will bring this training within our collegiate atmosphere. Our Baccalaureate program will be the first in the country that will teach technology all the way through--the others are still involved with liberal arts."

NSU established a two-year Associate Degree program in Radiologic Technology last Fall.

The new School will train its students in prescribed X-ray diagnostic work through the cooperation of three local hospitals -- Southern Nevada Memorial, Sunrise, and Rose De Lima.

Jacobi came to the NSU campus in August, 1967. Prior to that he established a Radiologic Technology program at Oregon Technical Institute.

US Opens New Horizons

By Andrew Hanlen

Recently formed and growing fast is the new teenage organization US. US was created by a group of concerned young people who felt that the youth of Las Vegas could benefit greatly from a service center, run by youth, which would coordinate information on youth-related services and activities, and pass on this information to young people as they called in their questions, ideas and problems.

The group took on the name US and adopted the slogan, "If you are a teenager, then you're one of US." Membership was opened to all the youth of Clark County regardless of race, creed or national origin.

It was felt that every young person has something to offer to US, as well as something to gain from it. It is a means to get people with similar interests together and to help them project their interests through a mutual association with others who hold the same interests.

A few examples are: a dramatics group is now meeting which got together through US. Other interest groups are forming through US, in music, writing, recreation, etc. One group is now looking into the possibilities of putting out a Robert Kennedy Memorial publication. Others of US are working in community relations, trying to improve the image of youth in Las Vegas by showing that they have something valuable to offer to their community.

The young people involved may be inexperienced, but they are enthusiastic and able. They appreciate the fact that they now have the opportunity to launch out on their own, while they can rely on the adult community for its advice and support when necessary.

US now operates out of 1926 East Charleston Boulevard, twenty-four hours, every day of the week.

US has invited the members of the adult community who understand and agree to support the idea of US, to do so as sponsors. Some of the prominent Nevadans who are already supporting US are Senator Al Alleman; Assemblywoman Flora Dungan; Dr. Irving Katz, head of the Psychology Department at Nevada Southern; Judge Alvin Wartman, Juvenile Court Judge and President of the Clark County Mental Health Association; and Rosemary Connors, Clark County Mental Health Association.

Anyone who wishes to contact US for whatever reason can call 384-9125 during the week. Because the group has no budget yet, it is relying upon donations for supplies and facilities. Eventually US would like to open a sufficiently large, central facility in the city where all its activities can be located together and where it will be as accessible as possible to young people from all over the county.

Grad School Hopefuls Urged To Take Test

Anyone preparing himself for admission to graduate school should be sure he has fulfilled all the requirements in advance. Among other things, many graduate schools now require scores from the Graduate Record Examinations.

The test is offered on October 26 and December 14 in the 1968 and on January 18, February 22, April 26 and July 12 in 1969.

Individual applicants should be sure that they take the test in time to meet the deadlines of their intended graduate school or graduate department or fellowship-granting agency. Early registration also insures that the individual can be tested at the location of his choice and without having to pay the three-dollar fee for late registration.

Full details and forms needed to apply for the GRE are contained in the Bulletin of Information for Candidates. This booklet is available in the Office of Student Affairs, or you may request one from Educational Testing Service, Box 955, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540; or 1947 Center Street, Berkeley, California 94704.

Boord To Judge Program

Dr. Robert O. Boord, Professor of Education at Nevada Southern University, has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards Program for 1968. The appointment was announced by Dr. Anthony Saville, Dean of College of Education.

As a judge for the Awards Program, Dr. Boord will evaluate the writing skills and literary awareness of over 8,600 selected high school seniors.

The Achievement Awards Program attempts to grant recognition to high school seniors for excellence in English. Finalists are announced in late November and are recommended for scholarship aid to all colleges and universities in the United States.

The Achievement Awards competition is part of the comprehensive program of the National Council of Teachers of English to improve instruction in English language and literature at all levels throughout the nation's schools.

Smith Made Science-Tech Dean

Dr. Robert B. Smith, a seven-year member of Nevada Southern University's faculty, has been appointed Dean of the school's College of Science and Mathematics.

Presently Chairman of the Department of Chemistry, Dr. Smith will assume his new duties immediately.

Dr. Smith joined the faculty in September, 1961, after obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry at Wheaton College in Illinois in 1958 and a Doctorate in Chemistry from the University of California at Berkeley in 1961.

The Deanship culminates a steady line of advancement for Dr. Smith, having previously been promoted from an Assistant Professor to an Associate Professor, and later to a department chairman.

Author of numerous articles published in such professional journals as "Journal of the American Chemical Society," and "Journal of Chemical Education", Dr. Smith is a member of the American Chemical Society and Sigma XI. He was the recipient of a National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellowship in 1959.

At NSU Dr. Smith has served on the Executive Committee of the American Association of University Professors; the NSU Senate; the Chancellor's Advisory Committee for the Hotel Administration Program; the Student Activities Committee; the Faculty Lecture Series Committee; and the University Ad Hoc Committees on Faculty and Administrative Reorganization.

Yellers Sponsor Victory Kegger

The Varsity Yell-leaders and Cheerleaders are sponsoring a Kegger on September 15, following our first football victory. The Kegger will begin at 3:00 P.M. on Sunday afternoon.

Registering students should be sure to pick up their Faculty Evaluation Handbook. The book, published by Students After Faculty Excellence, provides synopses of the opinions of other students concerning NSU professors.

Triumphant father to mother watching his teen-age son mow the lawn: "It was easy. I just told him I lost the car keys in the grass."

Cheerleaders Win at Camp

"There is no comparison between this years' cheerleaders and the cheerleaders of past year." These words of Pep Commissioner Val Stewart express the general feeling of the student body towards the group that captured the Grand Championship at the annual Squaw Valley Cheerleaders Camp, June 29 to July 4.

In this, their first trip to the camp, the girls garnered a 2nd and two 1st place ribbons in the three-day competition.

The champions are Marsha Goodwyn, Head Cheerleader, Connie Bach, Helen Fiore, Marilyn Hall and Donna Moore.

Epilogue Published

The EPILOGUE, NSU's yearbook, was distributed at a July 27 yearbook party. Students who did not receive their yearbooks may obtain them at the office of the Second Vice-President in Tonopah Hall. Activity cards must be presented, or an $8 fee will be assessed.

The Checkmates, Ltd., appeared at the party.

Instant MBA Offered

The drive of business to get better trained personnel will be given a great impetus with a new program designed to give post-graduate training to those who hold non-business degrees. It will be a 60 unit course taught at night to allow for working schedules.

Chemistry Dept. Gets Federal $

A second consecutive grant of $13,000 from the national Science Foundation has been awarded Nevada Southern University's Department of Chemistry, Robert B. Smith, former Chairman of the Department announced this summer.

The grant is part of a $20,000 program to provide laboratory instrumentation for the department's undergraduate courses.

"The awarding of the grant in a year of tight Federal science budgets speaks well of the quality of program now offered by NSU's Chemistry Department," Smith said. "Close faculty contact and the most modern equipment afford its students unusual opportunities for undergraduate education."

"Most of the money will be used to purchase a nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer, a sophisticated device used to study the structure of molecules," Dr. Stabley C. Grenda, Assistant Professor of Chemistry and Director of the National Science Foundation, explained. "This will be the first of its kind within a 200-mile radius of Las Vegas."

"Together with equipment now owned by the department, the new instruments provided by this grant will enable chemistry students to gain first-hand experience with all the basic techniques used by practicing chemists," Smith continued. "To an extent unusual for schools the size of Nevada Southern, students in such fields as biology, medical technology and education will now also be able to use tools they will find valuable in their future work."

Summer Happenings

Management Institute Proposed

Dr. William White, Dean of the College of Business at NSU announced that a Management Research Institute has been proposed which would have the purposes of providing business and industry in Southern Nevada an immediately available business research service, preparing studies which are of value to the economic community locally, and studying the significance to Southern Nevada of the rapid improvement in transportation and communications systems.

Shaw and Mazzara Share Comedy Night

On September 6, at 8:00 p.m., Student Creative Theatre at NSU will open the doors of the Little Theatre to its Second Annual Summer Production.

This year, Student Creative Theatre will not only use its talents in The Man of Destiny, a one-act play by George Bernard Shaw, but also in The Fantasy, an original experimental film written and directed by George Mazzara, an NSU sophomore.

Student Creative Theatre was formed to encourage and develop the talents and abilities of the students at NSU and members of the community interested in theatre. Their first Summer Production, The Adams' Compact, was written by Bob Burgan and directed by Lee Strange, both of whom are charter members of SCT. It was an immense success.

The most important accomplishment of the Summer Production lies in the fact that NSU is giving the students an opportunity to experiment, create, and succeed through their own effort. They are proud to be given this chance.

The Man of Destiny and The Fantasy are proof of that pride.

In the play, there is only a cast of four. Three of the cast are NSU students and the fourth is currently appearing in one of the Strip shows. The director, Fredd Simpson, is creating a very successful evolution of Shaw's intent, and comedy.

The Fantasy includes students of NSU and also many members of the community. George Mazzara was given the chance to write and direct this film - a first for SCT and NSU.

The play and the film will run four nights, Sept. 6, 7, 13, and 14. On Sept. 7, Dr. Jerry L. Crawford, Chairman of the NSU Drama Department, and one of the SCT advisors, will conduct a critique of the productions in which the audience will be invited to participate. This critique has been successful in the past to encourage the achievements of the directors and casts and also to point out their mistakes, so that they may learn by them, and strive for improvement.

Tickets are now on sale. Reservations can be made by calling the university switchboard, or by the SCT representatives who will be selling tickets on campus.

Student Creative Theatre invites you to attend its "Evening of Comedy in Two Media", and the wealth of talent within our university and community.

"Good Woman Of Setzuan" Opens Soon

The first offering of the 1968-69 theatre season at NSU will be Brecht's The Good Woman of Setzuan. Tryouts will be held Tuesday September 10, and Wednesday September 11, from 7:30 to 10:30 P.M. in the Little Theatre, Grant 125.

According to Dr. Dan Harris, director for The Good Woman of Setzuan, "all students are welcome to try out for this play. It is a modern masterpiece which is theatrically exciting for actors to work in." There are many large roles for both men and women.

For those who would like to look over the play ahead of time, scripts are on "one day reserve" in the NSU library.

Any students who are specifically interested in technical work for this production may also sign up at tryouts.

needs, determination of priorities for educational programs, recommendations of long range strategy for advancing education in the state under Title II review and disposition of applications from local educational agencies, and the assessment of approved projects as to their impact in meeting the educational needs of rural children," Dr. Trione said.

Dr. Trione has previously served as a consultant to the Nevada State Department of Education. His background includes nine years experience in developing, supervising, and administering special programs in education for rural counties of California.

Dr. Trione shares representation for Nevada Higher Education with Dr. Ed Miller, University of Nevada President.

Moon to Conduct on International Tour

Nevada Southern University's Assistant Professor of Music, Maestro Keith Moon, will serve as musical conductor for Rouvaun's international concert tour. Moon made his first appearance with Rouvaun "in concert" on August 10 at the Valley Music Hall in Salt Lake City, Utah, when he conducted a special matinee performance of the 32-piece orchestra.

Maestro Moon left with the Rouvaun entourage for South Africa and theatre and concert performances in Johannesburg, Cape Town, Pietermaritzburg, St. Elizabeth, Durban and East London, beginning August 22.

Following the one-month African tour, Rouvaun will jet back to Los Angeles for Shrine auditorium performances September 20 and 21, after which the Rouvaun musical train will depart for Mexico City and a month's appearance (as star of the show) in the fabulous new $25 million Camino Real.

Maestro Moon, a longtime Las Vegas resident, said that he would like to have his wife, Joan, and three children (Stephanie, 14; Stevan, 12 and Christopher, 6), visit with him during the Mexico City engagement, coinciding with the peak period of the olympic games.

An Idaho Falls native, the 39-year old conductor received a special leave of absence during the fall term at Nevada Southern - courtesy of Dr. Howard Chase, Chairman of the Department of Music, and Dean of the College of Fine Arts Dr. Paul Harris.

Maestro Moon is well known in musical circles here. He founded and conducted the Las Vegas Wind Symphony in 1963 and conducted Carousal for the Music Arts Workshop in 1964.

Dean Harris said, "Dr. Chase and I are proud of Mr. Moon and are happy that his immense musical talents are recognized."

Pep Commission Expands Activities

The CSNS Pep Commission is expanding its scope along with the expanded athletics program of NSU. New programs being initiated this year will include a student card section at both football and basketball games and opportunities for NSU students to travel to out of state games.

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders are responsible for organizing the student card section, and will direct all card programs for the Varsity football and basketball games. All students are urged to participate in the card section. Those wishing to sign up now may do so. The Pep commission has representatives in SS 313 orientation day and after registration in dorm room 116.

One of the major projects Pep Commission plans this year will be trips to out of town games. The first game under this policy will be the Azusa-Pacific game in Azusa. Bus transportation will be provided to and from the game. If student interest warrants, arrangements will also be made for admission and tickets to Disneyland after the game.

The second game during the football season for which transportation and accommodations will be made is the game with the University of San Francisco, September 28, in San Francisco. This trip will take the entire weekend. The buses will leave Las Vegas Friday evening and will return Sunday night. Hotel accommodations are included in the trip fee. At this point the trips will cost approximately $15.00 and $25.00 respectively.

All students interested in learning more about the Pep Commission activities should come to the Pep Commission room the day of Orientation, or contact Val Stewart, Pep Commissioner, or Melissa Kramer, Pep Commission Secretary, in Room 116 of the Dorm.

PHI-MU

The sisters of Phi Mu ended their spring semester with a May fashion show at Paradise Spa. This was a benefit for HOPE.

A bar-b-que was given by the alumnae of the area in honor of the collegiate members and their dates early in June. This very enjoyable evening was held at the home of Caty Crockett.

Many enjoyable swimming parties and slumber parties were held in the homes of the various members throughout the summer months. Many other evenings were spent in planning fall rush and other programs for the fall semester.

In July Candy Schumacher attended the Phi Mu National Convention at the Denver Hilton as the delegate from the Eta Lambda Chapter. Candy feels she benefited greatly from the many sessions and workshops in which she participated.

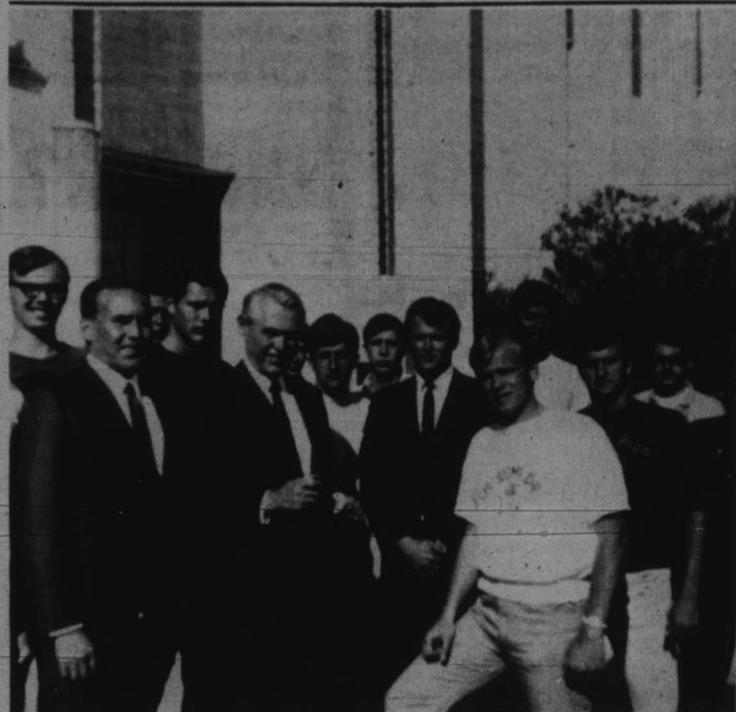

She brought much honor to the NSU chapter by being chosen the first runner-up to the Carnation Queen. Miss Schumacher was selected from the candidates of the 181 chapter attendance.

DELTA ZETA

Among their many activities this past summer the Delta Zeta Sorority enjoyed several parties, including a special party with their alumnae group. The weekend of August 17, they held a workshop retreat at a member's cabin at Mount Charleston. They are also completing plans for Rush Week along with the other members of the Pan-hellenic association.

Delta Zeta participated in the sorority convention which was held at Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis, Missouri, from June 16 through 22. Miss Sharon Cleveland, president of the Iota Phi chapter, was NSU's delegate to the convention at which the Iota Phi chapter of 42 received honorable mention.

Constitution Nears Completion

On June 6, 1968, CSNS President Bill Terry called a convention for the purpose of rewriting the outmoded and cumbersome Constitution under which CSNS has operated for the past two years.

Unlike former Constitutional Conventions on this campus, this one has worked throughout the summer and had nearly completed the document at press time. As a result, the revised version may be submitted to the students early in the year and, if approved, effected immediately thereafter.

Thus far, the Convention has completed sections dealing with the Senate, the Judicial Council, and the Election Committee. Sections creating a Publications Board and a Student Bill of Rights, and revising the Campus Organizational Commission, are presently under study and should be completed shortly.

So that the students may familiarize themselves with the segments as they are completed, the REBEL YELL will reprint them regularly. The first three are printed below.

Apathy, Revolution, And the Student

By John L. Hollobaugh

"Some men look at things that are and ask, 'why?' I dream of things that never were and ask, 'why not?'"

--George Bernard Shaw

Among the myriad social problems facing American youth today, the most pressing are perhaps those surrounding institutions of higher learning. The students of Nevada Southern University must face these problems no less than the students of Berkeley or Columbia. Some may choose to ignore the issues, which are rapidly growing into a revolution in higher education, but none can escape the consequences of such inattention.

I cannot support the method of students at Berkeley or Columbia, but I will not condemn their goals nor deny their need. I sympathize with their problem, for I see parallel problems in my own institution, but I prefer to build rather than to destroy. Violence is a last resort and, even when it becomes necessary, it often destroys its own goals. There are other alternatives.

One of the conditions conducive to the success of democracy is that people must not disagree too sharply. There must be a grappling of truth and error in open debate, but the conflict must be marked by cooperation and tolerance of dissenting opinions. Some conflicts are normal and necessary, but differences must not divide, debates must not disrupt, demonstrations must not destroy.

Individual thought and initiative always contain differences. We must recognize that these are more often differences as to means rather than as to ends. When these differences lead to dissension we must be quick and unfailing to distinguish error from malice, thoughtlessness from incompetence, and well-meant shortcoming from needless or stupid blunder.

With this attitude, then, I look at what is and I DISSENT!

I protest those policies which have caused N.S.U. to be administratively subordinate to, economically dependent upon, and politically deprived by the University of Nevada at Reno through and with the cooperation of certain members of the Board of Regents and the State Legislature.

I object to those self-interested persons who have wrongly instituted, blindly continued, and mistakenly supported such policies. The actions and motives of these political "conservatives", economic "self-determinists", and social "know-nothings" are steadily moving from error toward malice.

I object to those regressively-oriented persons who, walking backward through life, see only what "was" and, when they are forced occasionally to look forward, choose to squint their eyes against the glittering promise of some bright tomorrow. The frame of mind of these educational "institutionalists" is rapidly changing from thoughtlessness to incompetence.

But most of all I protest the student apathy which permits these policies to continue, which allows these attitudes to persist, and which encourages these offenders of academic freedom and educational progress to pursue their narrow, bigoted objectives unarrested by the democratic tradition of dissent.

I object to those students who practice apathy as a political way of life. I condemn them for making the job of progress so difficult for the active, concerned few that violence becomes the only solution.

The non-decisions of these non-participants, these non-citizens, these non-persons, in inexorably shifting from well-meant shortcoming the heedless or stupid blunder.

Today's problems are soluble. The democratic process is available. But where are the students, those emerging citizens whose participation is so vital to the solution? Where are those who have the potential to make history rather merely to witness it? I will tell you:

They are busy failing to recognize the difference between a grade and an education. They are occupied with the delusion that the interests of their fraternity or their sorority are separate from or more important than the interests of student government.

They are devotedly subscribing to the myth that what is occurring in the political arena is somehow divorced from their interests.

They are meticulously ignoring their own potential as a definite force in the community, the state, and the nation.

Eugene McCarthy called forth these students from their sanctuaries of apathy to help him in a "crusade to redirect the American Nation." Whether I agree or disagree with Senator McCarthy's political philosophies or methods, my heart swelled with pride when thousands of students responded to his call.

Nevada no less than the United States is in need of re-direction. Nowhere is this more apparent than in Clark County. I do not pretend to the leadership of progressive political and social action so long lacking and so direly needed in Nevada, but I am willing to join with the support those enlightened political leaders who have demonstrated that they have turned their eyes to the future and are not blinded by the brightness of its promise.

I call upon you, the students of today, the leaders to tomorrow, to respond to the call of what can be and assert yourselves in a collective effort to throw off the political dominance of those who comfortably, securely, oppose change in order to preserve their own selfish interests at your expense, at society's expense, and at tomorrow's expense!

be held within one week before the Judicial Council institutes revocation of the C.S.N.S. Activity Card, without refund.

D. Deliberation: (1) In disciplinary cases, a written ballot is taken to determine "guilty" or "not guilty" on each charge. Majority vote rules in all decisions rendered by the Judicial Council. (2) If the decision is "guilty", the Chief Justice reviews the alternatives on which disciplinary action must be based and at that time shall recommend such appropriate action. A written ballot shall then be taken to ratify the recommended action. Majority vote rules.

F. Announcement of Action: (1) The defendant in a disciplinary case will be summoned and told of the decision of the council as soon as a decision has been made.

a. The defendant will receive a written opinion which has been filled with the Office of Student Affairs, stating the Council's recommendations. If the Dean of Women/Associate Dean of Students deems it necessary to render a different decision, the defendant will receive a copy of the dean's opinion, stating the terms of the decision and reasons for not adopting the Council's recommendations.

b. The case will then be referred to the Discipline Evaluation Committee.

(2) Names of individuals connected with closed session cases will be divulged only to the Dean of Women/Associate Dean of Students and the Discipline Evaluation Committee. (3) The Judicial Council shall make a public report as to the disposition of cases handled during each month. This report shall be available for publication in the REBEL YELL.

G. Outside Pressures: (1) No justice shall discuss any case while out of session, except with other justices. (2) Any justice must disqualify himself from hearing or deciding a case if he feels he would not be able to make an impartial decision.

Skating Club Activities

Since its formation in September, 1967, the NSU Ice Skating Club has become one of the most active organizations on campus.

During the fall semester there will be an exhibition by a professional skater to which the general public will be invited. The club plans to sponsor a winter carnival during Homecoming Week, and a trip to Squaw Valley during the semester break.

PERFORMING ARTS CENTER - Breathtaking in grandeur, the NSU Center for the Performing Arts will form a harmonious blend of beauty and a high utilization of design. It will be the keystone building in a future cultural complex consisting of the arts and the humanities.

Drama Theatre

Sharing the magnificence of this structure will be an intimate Drama Theatre with seating for 350 persons. The latest in stage and lighting equipment will offer directors a wide variety of staging arrangements and effects.

Enrollment ...

"Ninety per cent of our facilities were being utilized last year," he said. "If NSU expects to survive with such an increase in enrollment, it must obtain more funds, a larger faculty, and more buildings."

Art Center Fully Funded $500,000 Grant Makes Dream a Reality

The dream of Nevada Southern University's former President continues toward the reality that will allow the School's proposed Performing Arts Center to begin its career of service to Las Vegas.

The guarantee for this cultural Center comes with a Max C. Fleischmann Foundation grant of $500,000, the largest private gift ever to be received by NSU.

"The grant is overwhelming, and undoubtedly the most significant single gift the Center has yet received," said Dr. Donald C. Moyer, NSU President who labored vigorously for the Center's growth and saw it transposed from a cardboard sketching to a $2.3 million reality.

The Fleischmann gift will be used for seating, drapes, and stage and lighting equipment for the concert hall, the drama theatre, office, and classrooms.

Approval has recently been given architect Jim McDaniel to complete preliminary plans for the Center. Construction on this 72,000 square foot facility is scheduled to begin June, 1969.

Southern Nevada citizens assisted in the decision of the Fleischmann Foundation by recently committing $760,000 toward construction of the project. The balance of the Center's cost will come from state bonds, federal grants, and NSU revenue bonds.

"With the Fleischmann gift added to our community support, the Center for the Performing Arts is advanced in reality to its full scope and will be ready for occupancy by Fall of 1970," Dr. Moyer explained. "We are confident that the Center will serve, not only as an educational center for the University, but as a great cultural center for the entire community."

Concert Hall

A commanding section of the facility will house a Concert Hall with seating for 2000 persons. Superb acoustics will complement the performances of orchestras, choirs, musicals, opera and ballet.
