JOHN CEVETTE

-Mr. PRESIDENT

Dear Editor,

I want to extend my thanks to all those students who put so much time and effort into my campaign for C.S.U.N. President.

As I think back upon this campaign, I am convinced that each candidate had a sincere commitment for what he believed. My hope is that this commitment to action will not pass away with the election, and that their enthusiasm will not be lost.

The political awareness and abilities of Bruce Adams and Jerry Gordon have humbled me more than once, and their absence on the realm of student government would leave a void. I hope they will take leadership positions next year.

Sincerely,
JOHN CEVETTE

My objective, if elected to the position of C.S.U.N. 1st Vice-President, is to make the Senate more responsive, and representative of the students of U.N.L.V. I want to get more people interested and involved in student government. The methods through which I plan to accomplish this are as follows:

1. Polls should be taken to determine how the students feel about major issues. The advantages of knowing what the students desire of their government would far outweigh the expense and trouble of the polling process.

2. An agenda of all senate, joint session, and committee meetings should be posted so that all students can know what their government is doing and can attend the meetings they feel are important.

3. Vacated senate positions should be filled by special elections, not appointment by the 1st Vice-President. This would allow a dialogue between the senators of each school or class, instead of having one opinion for an entire school or class, as is now the case in several instances.

4. Senators should be required to hold office hours in a readily accessible area. Senator's hours should also be posted, so that a senator's constituency would know when and where to speak and express their ideas to their senators.

5. All committee chairmen should be chosen by the members of their committees, instead of being appointed by the 1st Vice-President. This would allow a more neutral or better-informed senator to speak for the committee.

6. The minutes of all senate, joint session, and committee meetings should be posted in several conspicuous places, with a roll call vote on all important issues. This would allow all students to see what their student government has done and to see whether or not their senators are representing their views.

This is basically my platform. If you would like to see Student Government made more responsive and representative, please vote for Don Lytle, C.S.U.N. 1st Vice-President, this Thursday and Friday. DON LYTLE

For the second consecutive year, the President of C.S.U.N. has been selected by the Primary Election alone.

John Cevette is definitely our new President. According to the Constitution of the Confederated Students of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Article III, Section I, Clause B, "in a primary election, if one candidate receives 50% plus one vote he shall be declared the winner, and the office for which he was elected shall not be on the ballot for the General Election".

Cevette received approximately 65% of the total vote, and, in doing so, became C.S.U.N. President for the 1969-'70 school year.

Another race that was decided in the Primary Election was that of Treasurer. John Clark was re-elected Treasurer, as he secured some 62% of the total vote.

In summary, the offices of President and Treasurer will not appear on the General Election ballot. However, all of the other C.S.U.N. elective offices will be on the ballot.

As your second Vice president I shall endeavor to initiate the following programs:

1) Establishment of a radio station, operated by the students to further communication on and off campus.

2) Advance information in the form of posted agendas to keep students abreast of what is happening in the various agencies of their student government.

3) Improvement of better relations between student government and the student union board.

4) Establishment of a closer harmony between student government and campus fraternities, sororities, and school organizations.

5) A concerted effort to bring before appropriate authorities, the needs, wishes and suggestions of the students at large.

6) Continuance of Maximum student participation in all phases of campus life.

Channels of Communication between Elected Representatives and their constituents must remain open at all times. Placing your trust in me to represent you assures you that there will always be one door open to you. My door shall remain open regardless of pressure from outside factions who would seek to discriminate against certain groups on campus. If elected, my pledge to you is that each and every individual who seeks communication with a representative of his student government shall be given the opportunity to express his thoughts with respect, integrity, and impartiality.

RENE ARCENEAUX

Bob Jasper

The duties of the Second Vice-President have recently been changed in the C.S.U.N. bylaws. The Second Vice-President is no longer the Special Events Co-ordinator, his main duty is that of assistant to the President. He is to act as an advisor or trouble shooter for student government. He is also connected with publicity and has been designated to help in the realm of communications. Here is where I intend to concentrate my efforts. I feel that student government is now failing to bring the issues to the students and failing to ask the students what issues they deem important. I favor such things as open forums, polling students, and a greater utilization of the student newspaper, by the student government officials. I intend to write a weekly column in the newspaper explaining the issues that student government is concerned with. I would like to see the agenda for the senate available at the Student Union Information Desk, so that any interested student may know when issues that directly concern him will be reaching the senate floor.

I feel that student government should be the forefront of problems in an effort to solve them before they arise. I intend to investigate potential problems to find out what is going on, so that student government will be aware of them.

The proposed radio station will be one of student government's most important projects next year. The Second Vice-President will be directly involved with the establishment of this station. I

R—Y EDITORIAL:
'RECORDS'

Hats off to the 1,115 students who cared enough about U.N.L.V. to vote in the Primary Election! That number represents the largest voter turnout in the school's history, and it still seems meager.

Last year, out of a student body of some 3,000 people, only 800 voted. That number represented 26% of the total number of students.

This year, we have 315 more votes, and we still only have a minority of the students represented. In the Primary this year, only a little over 36.7% of the student body voted, and that set a record!

Take a good look at those figures people, because they're not going to change much unless you care enough about them to do something.

This Thursday and Friday you have the chance to set another "record". What do you intend to do about it? Are you content to let a third of the student body elect the people who decide the future of your school?

I sure as HELL hope not!!

If this was a high school, or a junior high school, I could understand those figures. But you're paying for your education now. Don't you think you ought to have a say in what's happening to that money?

At present, the only real say that you have in student government is the power to choose who you want to represent you. At present, the majority of the students on this campus are noticeably apathetic. At present, only a little over a third of the student body is participating in elections. At present, we are one of the fastest growing schools in the country. At present, we have one of the finest basketball teams in our division. At present, we have a football team that has only lost one game.

You add it up! That's what we have at present. But for those of you who are not leaving next year, you might want to ask yourself "What about the future?"

Think about it. Take pride in your school.

Vote on Thursday or Friday!!!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

In the aftermath of political defeat, I wish to take this opportunity to thank the large group of volunteers who worked so uncessingly hard during our campaign. Their efforts on behalf of the cause for change in student government will fondly be remembered by this writer alone if not by the whole university community itself.

I also feel it important to add that the Adams campaign was financed entirely by student contributions. Understanding that we raised about four hundred dollars, this is no small evidence of the strong commitment our volunteers had.

Finally, a special thanks to my campaign manager, former student body President, Jack Abell, who was more devoted than any single political aide I have ever seen.

We tried, by taking our campaign to the students themselves, to show that there is a need for significant change and fundamental restructuring in CSUN. It is even now my belief that, in this respect, we won.

Sincerely,

BRUCE ADAMS

Editor:

To censor the expression of your thinking because of whom it may please or displease is simply to let others do your thinking for you. So, if I may, I would like to express a thought (not new) about Viet Name.

As Americans we aren't in the habit of facing defeat; why should we be, we've never been defeated. Having served in Viet Nam myself and after a careful study of the situation I feel compelled to warn that this nation is in the midst of the most serious blunder in its history.

How many of us have ever imagined that our presidents and congressmen would involve our country in an ordeal on this scale? Can it now be said in our nation's defense, that we think this war is being fought in peacetime by our armies in order to preserve some rubber plantations, cotton fields, Christian communities or schools? Hundreds of thousands of young Americans wearing the uniform of our country are there now, contracting diseases, receiving wounds, and in some cases being killed, simply to serve, in the last resort, the most stupid imperialism in the world, which disguises its refusal to lose its dividends and its markets as a crusade against Communism.

We may, in the long run; with all our planes, tanks, and napalm, win a political victory in Viet Nam. If we do, it will only be after many more human beings have been killed. The Viet Cong are dedicated to this war; they believe they are fighting for their freedom and their liberty and they will die before they are defeated. Our ardent militarists ought to bring an end by serious negotiation to this war which is impossible to win.

The trouble is now that the ordeal is obvious, no one dares to condemn it. Our elected officials claim they are defending the West. What charge can be laid against them as men are being killed except that of having remained in office and having allowed the bill for their mistakes and their passing the buck to be paid with the blood of others?

Have our policies become so complex, so impersonal, so out of hand, that they can't be changed even to save our lives? The time to de-escalate and withdraw from Viet Nam is long past.

Thank You.
John Kelley

Setbacks and Hopes

It is very difficult to try to recap each and every accomplishment of Student Government this year. There have been both major and minor advances, but this article will deal mainly with two of the major advances that C.S.U.N. feels is of primary importance and have greatly benefitted the students.

Perhaps one of the most important accomplishments completed this year was reapportionment of the Student Government Senate. Last year, students were represented by two elected students per class with a senate of eight members to represent 4,300 students. After completing the constitutional requirement of obtaining 50% of the student body to vote for a constitutional amendment, the senate was successfully reapportioned to include one representative per school for every 300 students. The senate now totals 22 members and, as the number of students increase, so then does the amount of representation. There has been some criticism directed against the senate this year because many believe it is not a completely representative body. To this C.S.U.N. can only answer that every representative body is at one time or another accused of not representing the students. By increasing the number of representatives, students have benefitted greatly, and more legislation has been proposed than in any other year.

Perhaps one of the other important achievements of this year has been in the area of student participation. Although several very important steps were taken this year, much still remains to be done in the area of student participation. Before describing the increase in student participation, credit should be given to two individuals that welcomed student opinion and were always open to student requests. These men are Dr. Baepler and Dean McCauslin.

The amount of student participation has increased from the lowest administrative levels to the highest. The student body President is now a member of the Chancellor's Advisory Cabinet and thusly is able to voice opinions on the highest level, as well as being present at all meetings of the Board of Regents. Students with voting privileges have been placed on the Academic Council, composed of the Deans of the Colleges, on the Code Committee, on the Curriculum Committees of the Business Department, etc. Students this year have also been on committees to select a Counselor for Student Services, and recently three students were appointed by Dean McCauslin to select a new Dean of Men.

The number of students have also increased on many committees including the Athletic Committee and Traffic Committee. Also for the first time this year all students on all committees have voting privileges where in the past they did not. It would be next to impossible to describe each and every committee that was set up with students on them, like the Half-time committee and a student committee to rewrite a campus free-speech policy. What is most important, however, is the fact that student participation has grown in leaps and bounds this year. There is still much work to be done in this area, however.

In the next edition of the newspaper, C.S.U.N. will continue to describe some of its accomplishments during this 1968-69 school year.

WHY? ? ? ?

Why Attend Summer School?

This question is posed in the schedule of classes published by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The answer given is; smaller lecture classes, fewer extracurricular diversions, a serious and motivated student body, an academic climate geared to learning, selected instructors from U.N.L.V. plus outstanding visiting faculty member. A commuter school such as have already checked into the feasibility of having as much as 50% of the initial cost subsidized by Federal Grants. I have also discussed many ideas involving actual programming of the station's broadcasts with our speech department. I strongly believe that with the right kind of organization we will be able to start broadcasting in late September.

I believe that I am in a better position to represent all of the students and to understand their problems more than my opponent because I am not of one set interest group. I have proven this as a C.S.U.N. senator. I will, as I have in the past, hear both sides of the issue and take it upon myself to learn as much as possible about the facts that concern the issue. "CARMINA BURANA"--MAY 4th

The University Chorus of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and the choirs of Western and Rancho High Schools will combine forces to present "Carmina Burana", by Carl Orff, on Sunday afternoon, May 4th., in the Campus Student Union Ballroom at 3:00p.m. Pianist Marilyn Brown and Pat Boddy and a percussion ensemble will assist in the performance of the Orff masterpiece. Soloists will include Helen Roach, mezzo-soprano; Sharon Vanderbloem, soprano; and Ross Brown., baritone.

Two hymns of praise by Johann Michael Haydn, "Te Deum in C", and "Te Deum in D" for solo quartet, chorus, and orchestra, will receive their American premiere on Sunday's program.

The performing editions of both Te Deums have been prepared from microfilms of the original manuscripts, located in European libraries, by Douglas R. Peterson, Assistant Professor of Music, to complete partial requirements for his doctor of music arts degree in choral music and pedagogy from the University of Iowa.

The "Te Deum in D", to be performed by the University Chorus, was written by Michael Haydn, the younger brother of Joseph Haydn, at the request of the Empress Maria Theresia, second wife of Emperor Franz II for performance on the Emperor's name day.

The "Te Deum in C" was performed earlier this year by the U.N.L.V. Chamber Singers, who will present the work with orchestra on Sunday's program.

The text of "Carmina Burana" is based on the secular songs and poems of the Goliards, wandering students, minstrels, and clerics of the 13th. Century. The Rancho High School Choir is directed by Jan Morgan, and the Western High School Choir is under the direction of Kay Barney. The Music Department of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, would like to extend a cordial invitation to the public to attend this free concert.

THE 'PROBLEM: Student body participation in Student Government

THE ANSWER: Student assemblies on the department level.

Any administration elected under the present student body government structure can represent no one but themselves and a selected few. At no point in the present student government structure is there a place where the elected officers have to report on the progress of their administration except to themselves in the executive committee and the senate who answer to no one's dictates but their own and the selected few.

The democratic process is group process; that is, it works through the medium of organized groups, interest groups if you favor them or pressure groups if you disapprove of them.

The individual is effectively excluded from the democratic process.

What does this mean on the UNLV campus? It means that only students who are organized into some form of group can bring pressure to influence the student government. It means that the fraternities, sororities and special interest clubs can bring pressure to influence the student government but that the individual student who has neither the time or the interest to belong to a special interest group cannot bring pressure to influence the student government. It means that the vast majority of students on the UNLV campus are without influence on the student government and thus without actual representation.

Therefore: I submit that the answer to student body participation in student government is to create groups to which every student is a member by right of his being a student and nothing more.

Therefore: I submit that the answer to student body participation in student government is the creation of student assemblies on the department level to which all students in the department belong as a matter of right.

The advantages of student assemblies on the department level are:

1. Students in each department generally know each other and would be familiar with the candidates that they would elect as officers of each assembly; thus, eliminating much of the so called apathy one constantly hears about but which is actually a well founded reluctance on the part of students to vote for candidates that they do not actually know.

2. Senators to a central governing body could be elected from department assemblies; thus, making the senators direct representative of the student body from whom they would get policy and program and to whom they would report on the progress of senate deliberations during the course of an administration.

3. Student representatives to curriculum and faculty committees could be elected from the department assemblies; thus, giving the students at the department level a voice in areas of vital concern.

THE PROBLEM: Student body participation in Student Government.

THE ANSWER: Student assemblies on the department level.

A vote for Dan Heinrich for secretary of C.S.U.N. is a vote for Student Assemblies on the department level.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE BEGINS

P.E. DEPARTMENT

Year two in University of Nevada, Las Vegas football history began Monday, April 7, when coach Bill Ireland greeted approximately 55 candidates for the 1969 Rebel grid team.

Ireland has 28 lettermen returning from the school's first team which finished 8-1, losing only the last game of the year.

Spring ball will run for 20 practice days, and Ireland will finish May 2 with an intra-squad game at Butcher Field at 8 p.m. Besides the 28 lettermen the Rebels staff greeted 14 members of the first team, nine transfers, and some walk-ons.

The team is working in earnest toward a much tougher 1969 schedule which now has six new opponents; with a seventh probably to be added when the tenth game is finally nailed down.

Four of the new opponents are without question, tougher than the teams on last year's slate, and the other two are no weaker. Experience is going to be a major factor in the Rebels favor in '69, but it may be of questionable value against Santa Clara, (Oct. 11), Hawaii, (Oct. 25), Idaho State, (Nov. 8), and University of Nevada, Reno, (Nov. 22).

The other two new teams presently scheduled are University of California, Riverside, (Nov. 1), and Hiram Scott, (Nov. 15).

Despite the presence of so many new teams on the schedule, an old opponent will offer a major highlight of the year. On September 20, the Rebels open their second year of football against Cal Lutheran, the school which dumped UNLV 17-13 in the last game of the '68 season, and spoiled a perfect record.

The College of Southern Utah, (Oct. 4), and Azusa Pacific, (Oct. 18), also return in 1969. The present schedule includes five home games and four away. When the Sept. 27 open date is filled a sixth home game will be on the card.

According to Dr. John Starr, Chairman of the Physical Education Department, the Department will receive quite a setback this year. It was hoped earlier that the Department would receive necessary monies for an expansion of facilities, but at this time, chances are nil.

In an effort to get Legislative support, the master plan for the P.E. Department was even split into two parts. Part one would consist of eight tennis courts, six handball courts, a baseball multi-purpose field, and an eight lane track, and was presented at the recent session of the Legislature.

Taken away from the original request was the rest of the plan, which includes a building for additional offices, class rooms, laboratories, a gymnasium, a swimming pool, a wrestling room, and a weight room.

However, even the playing fields were turned down and it (Con't. on page 8)

REBEL BASEBALL

After an unhappy weekend in San Diego, the Rebel Baseball team has its work cut out, as the University of California, Riverside, visits for a three-game S.C.A.C. series this weekend. U.N.L.V., who lost three league games to the University of San Diego, will play U.C.R. in a single game on Friday, and a double-header on Saturday.

The triple losses give the Rebels a record of 16-15-1 on the season, and a 1-5 mark in conference play.

You can bet Coach Robert Doering will run his players through plenty of fielding practice in preparation for the U.C.R. clashes. In last Saturday's double-header, the Rebels committed nine errors, which was the main cause for the Rebel's defeat.

Ralph Garcia, 6-5 on the season, pitched a dandy four-hitter in the first game, but it wasn't good enough, as he was backed up by five costly errors.

That first game was a tough one to lose for the Rebels, who almost pulled it out in the seventh inning, but Harry Karn was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score from second base on Travis Bonneville's single. Karn, the Rebs first baseman, had reached base on a fielders choice and had stolen second.

After one of two double plays turned in by the Toreros in the 3-2 game shut the door on the Rebels in the top of the extra inning, the hosts came back in the bottom of the eighth with a walk, a sacrifice, and a sinle to pick up the winning run.

The Rebels scored their pair in the second inning when Ralph Garcia singled home George Peraza, who had walked, and Karn walked with the bases loaded to force in Rich Gonzales.

San Diego came back the following inning to score two on the strength of a single, sacrifice, two errors, and a double.

The only other time when the Rebels threatened off winning pitcher Dave Carpentier was in the fourth inning, when they put runners on second and third, but the Las Vegas couldn't bring them home.

Garcia, who went all the way for the ninth time this season, scattered three singles and a double over the eight inning affair.

Errors helped bring about the Rebels' downfall in the second game, also. Two miscues came in the opening inning to help San Diego push across its five runs. A single, three walks, and a three-run homer by Mel Arnerich did the rest of the damage in the inning.

San Diego came up with two more runs in the fourth inning and both of them were unearned also.

U.N.L.V. scored both its runs in the fourth inning when Bonneville and Jerry Beavers walked, Russ Farrell doubled, and Fred Demick lashed a single.

Jeff Dick, who started but was relieved by Farrell, was charged with his third loss in nine decisions.

The Rebels, in the last leg of their 1969 season, play Riverside on Friday at 2:30 and Saturday's twinbill starts at 12 noon. After this series, Las Vegas has only five more home games, a three-game S.C.A.C. series with Westmont, and a double-header ending the season, with U.N.L.V.'s sister school to the north, University of Nevada, Reno, on May 14th.

POOR PEOPLE SEMINAR

A seminar dedicated to finding new methods of assisting the nation's poor people will be conducted Thursday and Friday, (May 1 and 2), at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

The meetings, sponsored with funds provided under Title I of the Higher Education Act, are aimed at local educators, social welfare workers, persons from the business community, and other public officials.

Five professionals who have extensive experience in assisting the culturally disadvantaged will explain some of the techniques involved in bridging the gap between the impoverished and the more affluent members of society.

Professor Arthur Pearl, co-author of the new book "New Careers for the Poor" and Professor of Education at the University of Oregon, will give the seminar's featured lecture at 8p.m. Thursday.

Pearl has served as consultant to the White House on numerous occasions and assisted in the development of the Upward Bound and Model Cities programs.

His new book, "The Atrocity of Education", focuses on what he believes should be the goal of education in modern industrial society - preparing people for a life of activities which cannot be done better by a machine.

In his "New Careers" book, Pearl writes of a new program of hiring and training the poor to help the poor and describes some remarkably successful experiments with this technique.

Pearl has also written that "the mess of education is attributable to a failure to identify goals that are relevant to the last third of the 20th. Century", and that education "must take on markedly more responsibility for work preparation now than was the case ever before in history"

Leaders of the various discussions, scheduled at 2p.m. Thursday and at 10a.m. Friday, are Mary Hamilton, a former Upward Bound employee who is currently working with the poor in Portland; Tim Harvey, a graduate of the Job Corps who plans to work with the culturally oppressed; Art Jenkins, former president of the Black Student Union at Oregon; and A. Bruce Burger, an urbanologist and instructor of sociology at U.N.L.V.

will probably be about two years before any action can be taken. When the 1971 Legislature convenes, the playing fields will still be given first priority, but by then, the "facility gap" will be even more serious, and the additional fields will do little to alleviate the numerous other problems facing the Department.

Dr. Starr summarized the feelings of both himself and the entire Department - "I wish we could be optimistic, but we can't".

U.N.L.V. has a great need for this type of program since many of the students work at full-time jobs and certainly desire a chance to make up required courses lost during the academic year due to conflicts in scheduling.

In looking at the schedule of summer classes, the serious, motivated student attempting to interject himself into a climate geared for learning will find to his consternation that the School of Business and Economics does not list a single course for undergraduate credit in the second session of summer school.

In light of the above defined goals of the administration, it would appear that the School of Business and Economics has decided that either they have no serious and motivated students or the, through an error in scheduling, are unintentionally frustrating the goals of the administration. If it is at all possible at this late date, the School of Business and Economics should review its course offerings and give the undergraduate business student a chance to register in courses in these departments.
