Peace On Earth , Good Will To Men-NOW!

Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men-Now is the theme of the December demonstration against the Vietnam War.

Las Vegas' demonstration on Saturday, Dec. 13 will be highlighted by a silent walk and a rally at City Hall. The demonstration is co-sponsored by the Nevada Coalition for Peace and the Student Mobilization Committee.

The silent walk will begin at 4:30 pm at the Federal Building and will go to the City Hall. People who want to participate in the walk should be at the Federal Building between 4 and 4:15 for walk instruction.

At the City Hall or the park next to it, there will be a rally. Many national figures have been invited to participate in the rally. The Coalition and SMC expects strong endorsements from these figures even if they are unable to attend.

Among these national figures are Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Senator Tydings, Maryland; Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Minnesota; Sen. Muskie, Maine; Sen. Church, Idaho; Sen. Mansfield, Montana and Sen. McGovern.

There will be a Young Democratic Convention in town at this time, and the Coalition expects them to turn out en masse.

Many major entertainers are expected to attend the rally also. These include the cast of HAIR1, who will perform several numbers, including 'Let the Sunshine In'.

Nationally, the demonstrations will all be community projects.

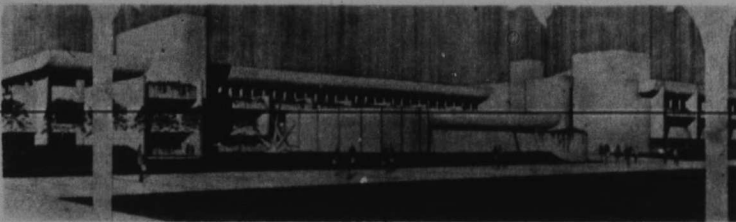

For any additional information contact Bob Jasper, CSUN first vice-president; Sid Goldstein, SMC; John Cevette, CSUN President; Dan Larson, English professor; Judy Fleming, Myrna Williams and Father Vittali.

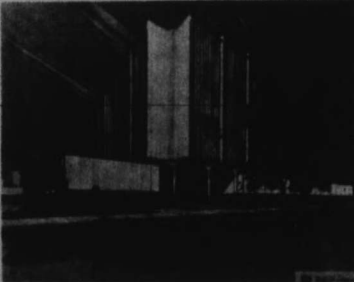

Above, the students' 'home away from home,' Tonopah Hall, a six-floor coeducational dormitory, with men centered on the first through fourth floors and the women on the upper two. Below, the Social Science Building, both an architectural achievement and a practical center for conducting a majority of UNLV's class offerings. Above at the top right, UNLV's Moyer Student Union unifies the school and its students in a healthy atmosphere of relaxation, housing game rooms, lounges, and discussion areas as well as student government offices.

FOR BENEFIT of visiting seniors, new students, and those who've forgotten or never knew . . .

Above is pictured the proposed $3.2 million Education Building for the UNLV campus. Ground breaking will be this spring and completion is scheduled for the summer of 1971. The three-story building will be constructed north of the library. At left is the $3.6 million seven-story Humanities Building. This building, scheduled for completion in the spring of 1971, will be directly north of the Student Union. Below is the proposed $2.6 million Center for the Performing Arts to be completed in 1971.

Fac. Senate Puts Request in Comm.

CSUN President John Cevette's request of the Faculty Senate that the Discipline Committee and the CSUN Judicial Board establish one procedure for the adjudication of all disciplinary cases has been put into committee for more study before the Senate takes decisive action on it.

The Judicial Board now handles all matters of non-academic discipline and the Discipline Committee deals solely with academic discipline.

The Judicial Board would adjudicate all disciplinary matters, both academic and non-academic. Their decision would go to the Dean of Students in the form of a recommendation.

If there is a disagreement between the Judicial Board and the Dean of Students, the case would go on to the Disciplinary Evaluation Committee if either the Prosecution or the defendant felt that there was a need to do so.

The Judicial Board consists of five members appointed by the President of CSUN and ratified by the Executive Committee and Senate. Their terms are of tenure and exist as long as they are in school, providing that they don't extend for more than eight academic semesters.

The Disciplinary Evaluation Committee would be comprised of four faculty members and four students and chaired by the Dean of Students. The four faculty members would be appointed by the Faculty Senate and the four students would be the choice of the Student Senate and would serve for a term of one year.

Some of the rationalization for this move was:

1. This will establish a uniform procedure for the adjudication of disciplinary cases and eliminate some of the confusion for both faculty and students. With this one procedure it will be possible to educate the academic community.

2. With this one procedure it will be much easier to develop due

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS INVADE CAMPUS

High school seniors from four states will converge on the campus of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas on Thursday (Dec. 11) for the annual Senior Day activities.

Director of Admissions Dallas W. Norton said an estimated 800 students are expected to participate in the various functions designed to introduce them to the University, its students and faculty.

'Many of the seniors will be getting their first glimpse of a university campus,' Norton commented. 'For this reason, a program such as Senior Day helps tremendously to acquaint the graduating high school students with the academic and extra-curricular aspects of university life.'

He said invitations have been extended to high school students in Nevada, California, Arizona, and Utah to be special guests of UNLV throughout the afternoon.

Through the courtesy of the various high school administrators, the students will be released from their classes to attend the annual function.

The students will begin their visit to the University with a general assembly at 1 p.m. in the ballroom of the Campus Student Union.

University President Roman J. Zorn will extend his greetings to the visitors, and Student Body President John Cevette will give some helpful hints and descriptions of campus life from a student's viewpoint.

A welcoming talk with some suggestions on achieving success in higher education will be delivered by Dr. Jerry L. Crawford, professor of theatre arts.

Next, the seniors will attend informal meetings conducted by each of the eight colleges at UNLV where they will have an opportunity to learn more about the specific curriculums they intend to study during their college years.

Details of degree requirements and course work will be explained by the deans and faculty members of each college along with any questions pertaining to the programs of the University.

A number of UNLV undergraduates also will be on hand to meet with the seniors and discuss the University on a student-to-student basis.

To make Senior Day more complete, several displays assembled by the campus student organizations and university departments will be exhibited in a central location in the Union.

Included in the displays will be catalogs, informational pamphlets, scholarship and admission applications. Representatives of several campus clubs will be there also to share conversation with the seniors.

'The important function of Senior Day is to familiarize these students with the campus and its people,' Norton said. 'Naturally, this will ease the transition from high school to college next fall.'

By Harold Coskey

Mr. John Cevette, CSUN President, is digging his own grave by telling everyone that before any CSUN money is released the bill must go to a finance committee then on to more people for a total '...scrutinzation of 33 people.' I state this because when large sums of our student fees disappear in large unreported expenses or are misbudgeted then someone on our 'student' government is to blame and the president of the club is the first to get hit.

The financial report shows how irresponsibly our finances are being handled. Take the Special Events Committee for an example. There is about $32,000 gone from a $36,000 budget and $25,000 was spent in October alone. Why have not we been notified as to where about 12.5% of our payment to CSUN has disappeared to? What kind of special events are we going to have for the remainder of the year on $4,000, toot horns and wear funny hats?

A peek at the last months salaries reveals that $735 was spent. If that is the total monthly salary and if that was paid for twelve months, then the total for the year would be under $9,000 so why is a $12,000 budget needed? Where does the remaining $3000 go?

Admission to the films is $1.00 per person.

All interested persons may attend the Judicial Board meeting on Thursday, Dec. 11 at 4:30 pm in the SUB 2nd floor lounge. The case to be adjudicated will be concerning the Student Union Board.

process. This means to notify a student ten days in advance of charges, the rights to counsel, cross examine witnesses, etc.

3. Many times there is a fine line between Academic and non-Academic discipline, and there would be obvious problems if a disagreement arose.

One big expense is entitled 'athletics'. In the four months that the new budget has been in existence, this department has spent absolutely nothing of its $50,600 allotment. What startling events can 'athletics' give us in the next eight months that will cost more than our special events? Will they really manage to spend over $6,300 a month?

Our funds are being wasted by people that can get away with it because they do not have to make concise and reasonable reports to the people who pay the $22.50 a semester. If our president says he is not responsible, but that there are 33 people mismanaging our funds, then I agree with Cevette, he alone should not be blamed and therefore not asked to resign. I think all 33 people should be asked to leave.

In the words of one 'Crabby' McC--', 'It's nickle-dime to me.' All I know is that it's $22.50 a semester to me.

NOBODY ASKED ME BUT...

by Mac MacDonald

During the last meeting of the joint session a motion to discontinue the Epilogue was defeated. What a flaming shame!

It was pointed out that: 1-the yearbook has been continually poor; 2-it will probably continue to be so; 3-the $12,000 spent for its funding could not be afforded because of the well known budget problem and; 4- this money could definitely be used for better purposes such as the UNLV radio station, etc. Like I said, what a flaming shame!

'Today is the first day of the rest of your life,' La Rita Wills.

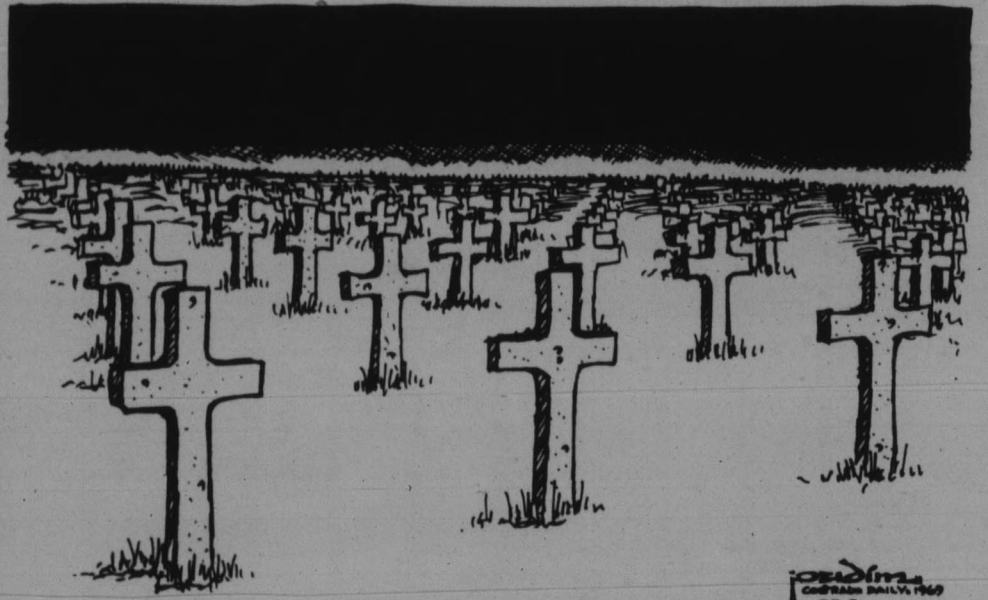

A lot of good times were had by the people who went to see the Reno game despite the loss. There was a good turnout, especially by the Greeks.

Chris Pugh, better known as Bouregard Wolf, UNLV's Mascot, does a fantastic job of entertaining the fans. The Reno people didn't like it too much when she ran out to the middle of the field and planted the confederate flag-but we did.

Our cheerleaders were finally able to 'do their thing' directly in front of the UNLV fans and re-

'When everyone views the world through a grey tinted prism, little wonder all appears so dull and distorted.' Ron Kent.

Now that our illustrious traffic squad has prohibited parking around the long island in front of the Student Union, they may as well paint the desert red and have us park in Henderson.

Due to the new lottery system the new greeting is, 'Hi, man, what's your number? Pretty soon we'll just call each other by number instead of name.

'You can meet more people on the outside, than you can on the inside.' Colletta Crain Cram as much into life as you can, while you can.

During the last week in the R-Y office a motion to discontinue Mac MacDonald's column was defeated. What a shame. It was pointed out that Mac's column has been continually poor and it will probably continue to be so. The space allotted Mac's column could definitely be used for better purposes, such as running old Gordo comics. But like I said what a shame.

'Today could be the last day of YOUR life.' FRED ROSENFELD.

The cheerleaders will get little support from their fans because: a) this isn't high school, b) they always want people to yell when there is no action, c) they always stand up and block crucial plays from being seen for people in the first row or two. d) they have lousy cheers.

Mac's statement about the parking situation is true, but very poorly written.

Big Mac's got his II-S what's he sweating about?

The BMOC not only doesn't know anything about grass he's trying to tell everyone else he doesn't. People have been using marijuana for 2500 years and they aren't the ones who've screwed the world up. Better stick to your keggers, Mac.

Now a straight word about the Epilogue. A yearbook should reflect more than ball games, frat parties, frat pictures, prof pictures and student pictures. A year book at best can be a work of art. Yearbooks try to pictorialize not only student life but the picture life shows to students. Julie Jones made a couragous effort toward this, with pictures and words that tried to sensitize the student on this campus. Believe me this campus is uptight and needs to be sensitized. The yearbook tried, in my estimation, to show young people awakening and being more human orientated in a world that makes or destroys man on his credit rating. Only a handful of students on this campus, less than half a dozen worked on that yearbook. People complained about areas that they thought were not sufficiently covered. No one, however, held forth a helping hand. Ron Hiltbrand, this year's editor, will continue this trend away from a high school mug book. I can't wish him enough success. Some people, mainly the frat rats, of course will still only be interested in seeing how many times they can get their picture taken.

The ancient Scots protected themselves by building stone walls about their houses, Mac MacDonald unfortunately has built a stone wall about his mind.

the job well done. Even if this type of activity is not your bag we at least suggest that you go and see how the other half is living.

Back to Mr. Cevette! He stated in his article, and I quote, 'To make one person responsible for the actions of 33 people is not only unfair but very incorrect.' When that one person is the president of the student body and the constitution of that student body stated that the president of the student body is RESPONSIBLE for the ADMINISTRATION and EXECUTED

PULLING THE TRIGGER

by Earl & Ed

Last week the Rebel Yell published an article 'Looking Down the Barrel!' Mr. John Cevette, the Student Body President, accused us of profound ignorance. Now we don't deny being ignorant because if we weren't we would not find it necessary to attend this university at all but being firm believers in doing well in any field we undertake, we would like to thank Mr. Cevette for promoting us to a high level of ignorance. Then again, in looking in our copy of Roget's Thesaurus for synonyms for both profound and ignorance we discovered that perhaps it was no honor at all. Listed under the heading of profound were the following synonyms; deep, deepseated, buried, wise, shrewd, difficult and wisdom. Now we don't mind having ignorance that is deep, deep-seated ignorance nor difficult ignorance but it seems to us that it is a contradiction in terms to have wise ignorance or shrewd ignorance.

Keeping these synonyms in mind we then looked up ignorance and found the following synonyms; nesience, unacquaintance, dark, insensibility, incognizance, unfamiliarity, sealed book, virgin soil, unexplored ground, terra incognita and to be half educated. Now taking one of the words from the first list and adding it to the words from the second list would give us, for example, the fact that we suffer from having some shrewd virgin soil.

For those of you who have never been to the Kitchen we would like to highly recommend it to you. We have been there several times and enjoyed it. Mr. Bob Jasper and all the people connected with the kitchen are to be congratulated for

UNIVERSITY CHORUS PRESENTS MESSIAH

The University Chorus, with Chamber Orchestra and soloists under the direction of Douglas R. Peterson will present the Christmas portion of the MESSIAH by George Frederic Handel, in the Moyer Student Union Ballroom on Sunday afternoon, December 14, starting at 2 p.m.

The free concert is sponsored by the UNLV Department of Music and the University Musical Society. Solo roles will be taken by Sharon Vanderbloom, soprano; Helen Roach, contralto; Bernard Houdey, tenor and Anthony Thomas, bass.

Rehearsals of the Christmas choruses of the monumental oratorio by the 70-voice University Chorus have been underway for the past two and one half months. The Christmas section of the work deals with the prophecy of the coming of Christ and His birth. This will be the first performance of the MESSIAH in Las Vegas which attempts to conform to the original scoring of the work. Written in the short space of twenty-four days, the MESSIAH was first performed in Dublin on April 13, 1742. Although the Oratorio is popularly associated with a religious setting, it was not written for a church service and was first performed in the 'New Musick Hall in Fishamble-street.' The choral forces available to Handel for this performance totalled six boys and 14 men.

The libretto for the MESSIAH was a compilation of verses from the Bible that appeared under the name of Charles Jennens. The verses were drawn from the Old and New Testaments. In 1788, Mozart was commissioned by Baron van Swieten to write additional wind parts for the MESSIAH. Sunday's performance, however, will utilize a chamber orchestra of strings, trumpets, timpani, and continuo.

ON WHICH SIDE WILL YOU STAND?

By Bob Stanovik

The banners have been raised; the slogans repeated; and the silent majority has been asked to respond. In varying degrees, we are all part of the silent majority; we have remained silent amid outbursts for help; we have closed our eyes to the tragic; we have voided personal involvement. But as there are forerunners in a race, so in the race against inhumanity are there leaders of vision, and one of these is Cesar Chavez.

Himself a migrant, as was his father, he has tried to increase the dignity of Mexican Americans by forming the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee. There is a dignity which has been hampered both by society's standards and by adverse working conditions. The migratory farm worker was excluded from coverage under the National Labor Relations Act (1935) which guaranteed the right to bargain collectively; they are discriminated against in minimum wage coverage ($1.15 v. $1.60 for all others); and in social security laws (they must earn $150 or work twenty days for one employer in order to be covered).

The average annual earnings for migrant workers in 1967 was $1,307, and their life expectancy is forty-nine years. The infant mortality rate is 125% higher than the national rate; the maternal mortality rate is 125% higher than the national rate. Concerning working conditions themselves, there is a lack of health facilities, outdoor toilets, cold drinking water, and the careless use of harmful pesticides. But then, grape growing is no small business in California; 6% of the growers control 75% of the land, and one corporation alone—Giumarra—has gross sales in excess of 12 million dollars per year.

With his first-hand knowledge, in 1962 Cesar Chavez began a long fight to put the agricultural laborer in the main stream of American life by forming an operative union. Their primary demand is a right enjoyed by almost all other American workers—the right to bargain collectively. But to date, the growers of table grapes have refused even to discuss these issues with union representatives or with neutral intermediaries. Mexican laborers with green card passes have been brought into the U.S. at peak periods with the result that the strike has only been partially effective.

With the strike entering its third year, a national boycott was the only effective alternative available to put pressure on the growers. But even the boycott—an appeal to the consumer not to purchase table grapes—has been counterbalanced by the Defense Department and its increased shipment of grapes to Vietnam (in 1967: 468,000 lbs. of grapes; 1968: 555,000 lbs.; first six months of 1969 alone: 2,047,696 lbs.; that equals a 400% increase over 1967 or 8 lbs. of grapes per American soldier).

The ramifications of the success of this strike will effect all farm laborers and will be a first big step for their self-advancement.

PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED CLUB TO BE STARTED

Any male UNLV student who is Physically Handicapped and would be interested in becoming a member of a social activities club is asked to contact Dick Juillerat, 737-2051 as soon as possible. This organization has not yet been worked out completely, as for the moment we are only interested in finding out if we can get enough participation.

Juillerat, a Cerebral Palsy patient, will act as the organizer until the club gets started, then elections will be held for club officers.

Programs for this group will include a monthly social activity such as a dinner, party, etc. Meetings will be discussed after an organizational meeting with good attendance. The date for this event will be announced later. Also, there will be monthly fund raising drives to supplement the treasury.

WHICH SIDE

Its failure would only be another in a long list of their tragedies and setbacks, and grapes would remain for them grapes of wrath. The lines have been drawn; the stakes have been wagered—on which side will you stand?

STUDENT UNION BUILDING

U.N. LAS VEGAS

NOTES AND QUOTES

by John Van Houten

Greetings UNLV! Your sexy RY editor has just impressed (interpret that either way) another writer and I am the fortunate victim. My main subject matter will be music and concerts, but (how could I resist?) I will write about everything from politics to infinity. My column will be devoted to provoking fun and controversy (and perhaps revolution) among students and insult among those I insult (the slander suits won't do much good-I'm broke), despite the gutlessness of my writing.

To begin with, on December 14th (that's the Sunday after the bombing) Handel's 'Messiah' will be performed by an orchestra, soloists, and our own University Chorus. If some of you cats aren't hip to choral, solo, and orchestra music, then you might as well turn in your 'Hair' tickets to George Franklin and receive his congratulations for being a decent and moral citizen. Many of those baroque musicians would make Jeroeni Ragni look like Shirley Temple. (Black that is, and I am not curious). All kidding aside, takeoff time will be 2:00 p.m. so if you aren't watching NFL football or chasing teenie boppers in the park come on over to the ballroom that lies hauntingly beside the Kitchen and see if you like Sunday afternoon's performance better (or worse) than the previous night's next door.

The Las Vegas Symphony won't get together until the twenty first of December. More about that later.

If you want to hear live dixieland, go to Pogo's bar on Decatur Blvd. (about a mile north of Wonderland.) on Friday nights. (This is a plug for free beer). A group of professional and semi-pros blow together for the enjoyment of it, so there's no union or pay hassle. These guys would give some strip bands good competition. Even if you don't like their music, the atmosphere is one of fun and friendliness. The cocktail waitress is good-looking too.

For your own version of 'Hair' invite a few friends over for a nude dance. You might help start a new trend.

Here's a quote for the week from the psychedelic King, Timothy

CUTION of the affairs of the confederation, then we fail to see how we are being either unfair or incorrect. If Mr. Ceyette feels that the constitution is unfair then we once again recommend that he resign from his office and permit someone else to administer our affairs. Since Mr. Ceyette has apparently(sic) never read the constitution of CSUN we would like to direct his attention to Article III, Section I of the constitution.

We would like to point out one item of good news that Mr. Ceyette's administration is doing. There is a proposal coming before the student body to amend the constitution so that in the future the constitution could be amended by a 'yes' vote by two-thirds of those participating in the actual voting, provided at least 30% of the entire student body casts a ballot. We would ask that everyone support this amendment and vote yes. With the apathy that exists on campus it becomes almost impossible to pass necessary legislation.

Leary: 'There's no reason why every Californian shouldn't be smiling and happy.' Does this sound revolutionary or radical? Believe it or not, Mr. Leary (who has travelled a great deal in his lifetime) is quite a conservative politician, and only joined the democratic party for his political campaign (instead of the republican) because his friends advised him that there are more 'progressives' in the d.p.

To give equal time to the opposition, here's a quote from Chairman, er., Mayor Daley of Chicago, taken from his statements at a democratic rally on October 2nd., 1968: 'Forget the polls and the press...' My guess would be that he or whoever he was supporting got few votes from newspapermen and citizens of Polish descent.

Our bleeding heart liberals are telling us that Angela Davis, the communist instructor at U.C.L.A. (and the 'avowed communist' Mr. McDonald was referring to several weeks ago) was fired because she is black. Few talk about the real issue, which is whether or not she has the right to be a communist. In any case, she was reinstated. Something to think about is that Miss Davis doesn't fall into the old 'liberal' escape shaft by saying that she will not let her communist ideas enter her classroom. Instead, she says that some communist ideas (whatever that means) would be beneficial to our society, and that she will present them in her classroom. I have to admire her for being so honest.

One point of advice (from the proceeding) to make here: If someone is pushing his ideas on you, whether he be a communist, Bircher, religious fan, or whatever, read his literature more than once, listen to him, and gather as much information as possible about the subject. You can't combat something out of ignorance, just as you can't fight cancer by ignoring it. Brutally suppressing what you consider odd will often increase its strength.

Career Placement

Students interested in an interview should contact the Office of Student Personnel Services. DECEMBER 12: Xerox Corporation will be on campus interviewing for Business Majors. Field Sales positions available.

DECEMBER 12: Laventhol Kreskstein Horwath & Horwath will be on campus interviewing for accounting majors.

DECEMBER 17: The Internal Revenue Service will be on campus to interview all majors. Agent and Auditor positions available.

JANUARY 20: PLACEMENT PICTURES WILL BE TAKEN from 2:30 til 5 p.m.

ATTENTION CLUBS

All UNLV clubs and organizations should submit before second semester to Pam Andefson in SUB 302 three copies of their constitution, three lists of officers and faculty a advisor, list of current members and a brief outline of proposed activities.

If you wish to be recognized as a CSUN organization, you must submit this information as soon as possible before second semester.

RULES SET FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Anheuser-Busch, the Budweiser people, have announced the rules and regulations for the 1970 Inter-collegiate Music Festival. These rules are as follows:

1. The Festival is open to any college student(s) taking a minimum of 6 semester hours.
2. All members of any competing group must be students.
3. There are two categories of competition: pop music and folk music.
4. Each category is open to individual vocalists and vocal and/or instrumental groups of not more than ten students.
5. Judging is based on musical excellence, showmanship, and entertainment value.
6. Entrants must submit a ten minute, 7 and 1/2 IPS monaural tape containing at least two selections to the Festival by Jan. 15, 1970. This tape should be recorded at a sufficient volume to be heard on standard tape machines. The first track should be used when recording with a multiple track recorder.

Anyone with a grievance should come to the meeting of the Student Right and Grievance Committee on Dec. 10, today, at noon in the Student Union.

7. The Festival judging panel will select finalists for each regional competition based on tapes submitted. All entrants will be informed of the judges' decision no later than Feb. 1, 1970.

8. There are six different locations for Regional competitions. Each entrant may select the location they wish.

9. The entrant is responsible for all expenses involved in competition at the Regional contests.

10. There is no entry fee of any kind.

11. Participants will receive copies of the judging sheets that will be used to select regional and national champions no later than ten days prior to the regional competition.

12. A panel of at least 3 judges will select regional champions.

13. One winner will be selected from each of the two categories at regional competition. These winners will then compete in the national championship.

14. The national competition will

OKLAHOMA RIPS UNLV

Snakebit. That one word aptly describes the Rebel's performance against the University of Oklahoma last Saturday night.

The Rebels were out-run, out-gunned, and out-rebounded in the 101-96 loss at the hands of a vastly improved Oklahoma club at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The Nevada club nearly pulled it out in the second half.

Booker Washington, a six-foot reserve guard, hit on 13 of 19 long jumpers from the floor, bringing the capacity crowd to its feet with visions of a come-from-behind victory.

With the UNLV club trailing 73-53 and twelve minutes left to play, Washington pumped in five straight field goals, then Al Clise hit for one and Washington added two more, bringing the Rebels to within 7 points, 79-72.

The towering Sooners, however, were too much for the Rebs, and held on for the win. The Oklahoma club took constant advantage of UNLV miscues and mistakes, while hitting a sparkling 57 per cent of their field goal attempts compared to 43 per cent for Nevada.

The locals led only in the opening minute, when Lou Small hit a field goal that gave the Rebels a 2-0 edge. The Sooners then pulled out to a 15-10 advantage and were never headed, despite Washington's gutty effort.

Oklahoma hit 62 per cent of their field goal shots in the first half, resembling now and then the run-and-gun Rebels of last year. Pulling down nine more rebounds than Nevada, the Sooners at one point built up a 21-point lead. They were helped in the victory when UNLV missed several easy lay-ups, never seeming to find the right combination.

Washington led all scorers with his 26 points, while Odie Allison and Lou Small had 22 and 19 respectively for the Rebs. Cliff Findlay, the Rebel's improving center, had 13 points for the night.

Scott Martin had 23 points for Oklahoma and Bobby Jack hit on 10 of 16 for 20 points. The Sooners also had three players with 16 points each.

Martin probably won the game for the Mormon club when he was fouled on a lay-up. With just three minutes left, his three-point play gave the visitors a 93-82 margin. Just before that, the Rebels had moved to within seven points, 87-80.

The Rebels met Evansville, a perennial small-college power, on Monday; the game had not been played at press time. Tonight, the Nevada club faces Cal State Long Beach at the Convention Center at 8:15 pm. It would be advisable to get there early; at the Oklahoma game, the doors were closed at 8:25 with a capacity crowd in attendance.

Rebs Win Opener, Nip Stetson 95-92

The UNLV basketball Rebels, alias the Runnin' Rebels, The Wild Bunch, and the Cardiac Kids, won their season opener Wednesday, Dec. 3, nipping Stetson University of Florida 95-92 at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The victory came in the final minute and a half.

Two baskets by UNLV guard Booker Washington pulled the Las Vegas club to within one point, 90-89. Then, with 1:08 left to play, Lou Small, a transfer from Kansas, plopped in a lay-up to give the Vegans a 91-90 advantage. Fouled on the play, he added a free-throw to give the Rebels a twopoint lead.

Bruce Chapman then made three free throws to ice the game for the Rebs.

The Rebels, ranked 15th in the UPI small college ratings, trailed the Stetson club 42-46 at the half. Shooting an icy 34 per cent from the field, the Rebs seemed to have trouble getting together in the first half, making a number of bad plays and causing near heart-failure to the home-town fans.

Eight Scarlet and Grey players made the scoring column, as coach Rolland Todd dabbled with line-ups, trying to find the magic combination that led to victory.

For the Rebs, Small had 23 pts., Chapman 18, Washington 14, Cliff Findlay 13, Tommy Watkins 12, Al Clise nine, Odie Allison four and Robert Riley two.

Clise was one of the top players for UNLV, grabbing a vital rebound with 26 seconds remaining to help retain the Rebel momentum.

Findlay, a 6-8 center, startled some fans by grabbing off 15 rebounds during the contest. The big man constantly hit the boards, collecting most of his points close under the basket.

With 11 minutes to go, the Vegans trailed, 65-57, but gradually inched closer. A number of times they drew to within one point, only to foul and allow the Stetson club to take full advantage of the free throws. The Floridians garnered 22 points, in 32 attempts, from the line.

for the visitors, Darryl Boone had 31 points and Earnest Killum collected 24.

SCCA NEWS

Announcing UNLV's first rally, December Deception, to be held December 20, 1969, starting from Frazier Hall parking lot at 6:30 pm. We invite all members of the university community to attend and request their support. UNLV students may join the university branch of the SCCA, and will receive discounts at all Las Vegas region SCCA events.

If successful, this could become a new activity on campus, an expansion of the present scope of academic experience.

INTRAMURAL -ATO ROMP

The UNLV intramural basketball season opened last Sunday, with some surprises and a lot of sore feet.

In the Fraternity League, ATO obliterated Alpha Epsilon Pi, 75-13. Kappa Sigma downed Lambda Chi Alpha 56-20, and Sigma Chi defeated Delta Sigma, 49-27.

In the Independent League, Quantas Five smothered Lambda Chi Alpha B 80-12, the Intercollegiate Knights nipped the Fraternity Chompers 36-35, and Kappa Sigma B swept over Scum, 57-31.

Next Sunday, Delta Sigma Phi meets Kappa Sigma, Sigma Chi meets ATO, and Alpha Epsilon Pi clashes with Lambda Chi Alpha in the Fraternity League, while Independent action sees Kappa Sigma B vs Lambda Chi Alpha B, Scum against the Fraternity Chompers, and the Intercollegiate Knights vs Quantas Five.

JV'S Romp

Just before the UNLV-Stetson basketball game last Wednesday, the Rebel freshmen obliterated Nellis Air Force Base, 127-60.

Frosh Andy Riley and Mike Whaley combined for 60 points in the rout, with Riley dumping in Whaley notching 25.

The junior Rebels controlled the game from the opening tip, hitting at a 55 per cent shooting clip and controlling both backboards.

Riley caused pandemonium in the Nellis backcourt, harrassing the Thunderbirds into continual errors and turnovers.

Whaley hit on 70 per cent of his shots, while Riley, brother of varsity forward Robert Riley, hit for 77 per cent.

High point men for Nellis were Milton Lawrence with 14 and Charles Tootle with 12.

CAL STATE LONG BEACH AT ROTUNDA TONIGHT

The UNLV Rebels face Cal State Long Beach (Long Beach State) tonight at the Las Vegas Convention Center at 8:15 pm.

Cal State Long Beach, which has already played three games, figures to be one of the most powerful teams in the nation, is loaded with talent, following a 23-3 season last year.

Coach Jerry Tarkanian has four starters back from last year's team, two players up from the freshman squad, and two outstanding junior college transfers.

Heading the returnees is All-America candidate Sam Robinson, a 6-7 forward. Robinson, who made UPI's All-Coast team last year, averaged 19.7 points and 10.3 rebounds per game.

In the last four games of the season, Robinson scored at a 26.5 clip, hitting 60 per cent from the floor and hauling in 13.0 rebounds.

Also returning are guards Ray Gritton, 6-0, and Shawn Johnson, 6-4, who were honorable mention All-Coast last season and averaged 12.9 and 16.3, respectively, and forward Arthur Montgomery, 6-5, who averaged 11.0 ppg.

Moving up from the frosh are guard Dwight Taylor, 6-1, who averaged 13.5 points per game, and forward Billy Jankins, 6-6, who averaged 22.3 points and 22.7 rebounds on a 15-3 team.

Tarkanian has an unpleasant surprise in store for opponents this year; 6-9, 220-pound center George Trapp, a transfer from Pasadena City College and last year's California Junior College Player of the Year. Last season Trapp averaged 23 points and 14 rebounds per game, and as a freshman was named to the Junior College All-Star team that participated in the Olympic Trials.

Trapp, incidentally, is the brother of John Trapp, former forward for the UNLV Rebels, and now playing with the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

The Cal State Long Beach 49'ers have hopes of receiving a bid in the NCAA Western Regionals, and play in the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association this winter. Others in the PCAA are San Jose State, UC Santa Barbara, San Diego State, Fresno State, and Cal State Los Angeles.

In a home and home series with the 49'ers, the Rebels will face CS Long Beach once more this season, March 3 in the Long Beach Arena.

DEADLINE

Due to printing deadlines, the Rebel Yell is forced to adopt a staggered method for reporting the results of UNLV varsity basketball games. The R-Y will cover the Evansville and Long Beach State games in the next issue. The results of the North Western Missouri State game at Convention Center will be carried (hopefully) in the December 22 issue. Further arrangements have not at press time been ascertained.

Sparks And Sports

Somebody at United Press International is very confused.

The UNLV Rebels, entering their first year of competition in the NCAA University Division, ranked 15th in the UPI small college basketball ratings, tied with Illinois State with 28 votes.

For that matter, a lot of people are confused. The Sporting News, a weekly sports magazine, listed the schedules of most major colleges this week. On a number of schedules, the Rebels appeared as Nevada Southern, yet were listed properly, as Nevada Las Vegas, on others.

Ah well; at least UPI remembered us. That was rather nice of them.

***

Nevada Reno, incidentally, was also mentioned in the UPI poll. As yet, no word from the Associated Press.

***

The Registrars office has arranged for students to pay their fees at preregistration in January for the spring semester. Students may also charge their fees, on Mastercharge or BankAmericard. Oh, the glorious benefits of civilization.

***

George Franklin, our loveable DA, has screwed his political aspirations into the ground. He made a complete ass of himself trying to bust the cast of Hair! for the nude scene at the end of the first act.

***

Speaking of political losers, has anybody heard anything from our U.S. Congressman, Walter Waffle-foot?

Some time ago, one of our local sports editors devoted his column to bemoaning the apparent lack of spirit among students at UNLV. He was referring to the attendance at football games. He observed that no one seemed to be interested in cheering with the cheerleaders, and expressed hope that this would be rectified in the future.

Well, I believe he was at the Stetson game, which the Rebels won in the last ninety seconds, and I hope he observed the insanity of the fans across the court from the press table. Every student in attendance (and there were many) was going raving mad screaming exhortations and expressions of hope (and obscenity) until they were hoarse.

The students get behind the Rebels when they need it. Spontaneity and individual response are the accepted forms of expression at UNLV games; witness the crowds reaction last year when the Rebs upset Long Beach State.

***

The Confederate flag is a symbol of bigotry, of tyranny, of slavery. Therefore, in the interest of the six black athletes on the UNLV basketball team, and in the interest of every black student at UNLV, get rid of the goddamn thing at UNLV games.

***

Tamari will present a Christmas tree to the university Monday. They request that all UNLV students participate in the decorating of the tree by bringing one bulb or other suchlike ornament. The decoration of the tree will begin Monday, at two o'clock, in front of the Moyer Student Union. UNLV fraternities and sororities already donated the lights.

Sports

THE WHITE BAGEL

The White Bagel, after getting shot down last issue by the R-Y's justotype machine returns anew this issue, freshly rested and ready to pick em and pick 'em apart.

The Stetson game was a perfect example of how a great team can fall apart if their players are playing for themselves and not for the team. Lou Small, attempting to live up to the glorious aura built up by the press, completely destroyed any chance the Rebs had of taking Stetson by surprise.

His showboating, lazy all-star shooting and general air of being impressed with himself not only was irritating but it damn near cost us the game. Either the team will get it together or they're going to blow the WCAC. The Bagel, hat in hand, puts his perverbial hand out and congratulates Cliff Findlay on his great showing in the game. The Bagel, as those close to him know, is not a particularly avid Findlay Fan but on that night he earned his Olds. Keep it up Cliff and you will hear only praise, but let the Five Flying Fickle Fingers of Findlay go astray....

After Wednesday night's game I thought that the Rebs would put it together against Oklahoma, especially after the way the team stormed back in the final minutes. Well, lightning struck Saturday night, but it was the Sooners who blew UNLV off the court. The game story could be summed up in two words; no teamwork.

Last year, there were five smoothly functioning men on the court, but in contrast, this year there are five individuals out there.

Why is the passing sloppy, the ball handling bad, Allison and Chapman fighting over rebounds, lay-ups by Findlay missed, and dangerous showboat shooting? Booker Washington was the one outstanding player. His hot shooting kept the Rebels in the game.

Whatever trouble or dissention is on the team, it had best be cleaned up fast, or the Rebs will merely be putting up a token effort.

The Rebels have had bad officiating before and the breaks have gone against them many times. However, team effort pulled them through time and time again. The breaks will go against them a gain in the future and they will have to contend with more bad officiating; the question is, will the team spirit to pull them through be there?

Should a College Graduate Consider SALES?

We think so!

There are hundreds of exciting careers. Marketing is one, a dynamic one, and probably the major stepping stone to civic and business leadership.

At Xerox, our people are more than sellers of graphic communications equipment. They have knowledge of marketing strategy and insight as to how Xerox copiers, copier/duplicators and related equipment can meet the needs of modern business. They have a healthy regard for the importance of document flow and its implementation in every size and type company. They are able to advise businessmen at all levels on their present needs and to reasonably forecast future developments. Their thinking is business systems oriented, for this is the wave of the future. That's why we require a college degree.

We have openings at various locations throughout the Western United States. After comprehensive product and sales training, you'll become part of the dynamic picture at Xerox, where operating revenues have increased from $40 million in 1960 to over $895 million in 1968, and employment has grown from approximately 3,000 people in 1960 to over 30,000 currently.

Excellent salary and incentive compensation in addition to comprehensive benefits including profit sharing.
