

Social Services Department aids Clark County Juvenile Court

One of the first signs that a young person is headed for trouble can often be found in his attendance record at school.

That's why the Clark County Juvenile Court has called upon the University to give special counseling services to its habitual truants before they wind up in correctional institutions.

During the past two semesters, students in the Social Services Department at UNLV have worked intensively with high school and junior high school truants and, so far, the results have been extraordinary.

Nine members of the department's SPICE program (Students Participating in Community Endeavors) last spring volunteered their spare time to work with 15 youngsters whose repeated skipping of classes had led to their being referred to Juvenile Court Services.

"At the end of the school year," said Myrna Williams, assistant director of SPICE, "thirteen of the truants had shown a marked improvement in attendance, academic achievement and general behavior."

She said the juvenile court was so impressed with the program, it applied for and received funding from the Las Enforcement Assis-

Senate attacks

athletic department, ROTC

Last Wednesday night the CSUN Senate approved a statement concerning the seating policy at home basketball games. That resolution and its accompanying amendments is as follows:

Whereas, Students pay $9.00 (per student) athletic fee every semester,

Whereas, The athletic teams report to represent the student body in NCAA athletic competition,

Whereas, The current method of obtaining tickets is discriminatory, due to athletic department policy of preventing married couples, relations, and friends from picking up PRE-PAID tickets for each other:

Be it resolved that:

The athletic department restore the old method of allowing students to enter basketball games with their ID cards.

This resolution is made with the understanding that if some action is not taken within two weeks CSUN will write a letter to the NCAA withdrawing student recognition of the team.

Letters are also to be sent to the WCAC, the Board of Regents, all newspapers, President Zorn, Vice President Baepfer, Coach Drakulich, and the Purchasing Department, c/o Gene Perry.

Another resolution approved at that meeting puts the Senate on record against ROTC. The statement, submitted jointly by Mike Malone, Junior Class Senator, and Bill LaPorte, Sophomore Class Senator, as approved:

We the CSUN Senate as representatives of the student body at UNLV, do condemn the recent actions of the Board of Regents in regard to ROTC, and do hereby declare our opposition to any form of ROTC instituted at UNLV or at any other Nevada university or community college.

We urge the Board of Regents to reconsider their actions.

In other action the Senate:
Nominated to the activities Board Margie Skurski, Chairwoman; Lynn Morris, student; Ron Hiltbrand and patty Zane, Senators.
Nominated as Chairman of the Elections Committee, subject to approval at the next meeting, Leonard Polk.

Sent to the Appropriations Committee, a motion to allow the Day Care Center to receive $200, per month to retain this service. The Center is currently operating at a loss.

Approved as members of the Appropriations Committee Doug Watkins and Jeanne Hall, students and senators John Tofano, Mike Mason, Richard Statham, and Bill LaPorte.

stance Act to provide ten academic stipends this year for UNLV students who are continuing the assistance program.

Basically, the University students serve as big brothers and sisters to the high schoolers, helping them with probelms within the home and at school.

New dean of graduate studies

An educator who has administrative experience at three major universities has been named the new dean of the College of Graduate Studies at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Dr. Lawrence W. Kuhl, 50, will begin his assignment this summer, succeeding Dr. George Samson, who has served as acting dean of graduate studies since last July. and theatre arts, Dr. Kuhl has maintained close ties with the drama world, directing numerous campus and community plays. Accordingly, he will also be appointed a professor of speech and theatre arts at UNLV.

Currently, Dr. Kuhl is affiliated with the University of Rochester where he has served since 1965 as associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and as an associate professor of English.

While at Rochester, he directed the college's academic advisement and the instructional media programs in addition to his teaching and administrative duties.

Previously, Dr. Kuhl was appointed a seasoned administrator who brings a versatile background to a most important post," stated President Zorn, who announced the appointment.

Dr. Kuhl was the top choice of a faculty screening committee which conducted a nationwide search for suitable candidates. The committee's recommendation was reviewed and endorsed by Vice President Donald Baepfer.

A specialist in the field of speech tant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Ohio State University in Columbus, where he also directed the college honors program and was active in the summer theatre program.

From 1952 to 1964, he was on the faculty of Western Reserve University in Cleveland, serving as assistant dean of Adelbert College and associate professor of speech. At the same time, he was director of graduate students for the University's Department of Speech and Drama and gave leadership to the forensics program.

Dr. Kuhl earned his bachelor's degree in speech from Bowling Green State University, and received Master of Arts, Master of Fine Arts and Ph.D. degrees in dramatic arts from Western Reserve.

He was an administrative interne under a program sponsored by the Phillips Foundation in 1963-64, and participated last year in a workshop on campus governance conducted by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.

Governor

Last Thursday, January 20, Nevada Governor Mike O'Callaghan came to the UNLV campus. Speaking in the West Lounge, the governor seemed to be giving a State of Nevada address.

Upon listening to the governor's speech, one would think that Nevada government is in excellent shape. It was another of those typical political speeches. One in which nothing is said by the speaker.

The subject matter of his speech was wide and varied. He spoke on such matters as the role of young people in the state, the environment, drug abuse and welfare.

One the role of young people in the state the governor said, "Young thinking is needed to keep Nevada growing." He pointed out that many of the top administrators in the administration are under 30.

The governor, when asked about the welfare situation in this state, ventured nothing. He gave us some babble about a change in budget prodedures by the state and never did answer the question.

In a fitting finale to the afternoon speech, some representatives from the welfare rights office conferred an "honorary degree" upon the governor. It was supposed to be a protest action by the welfare people. But like the governor's speech it also fizzled and the afternoon was over.

Speaking Out

EDDIE NEIDICH

Occasionally we have to admit that the university administration is on the ball. Ending the Fall semester prior to Christmas was one of the best moves ever made by Administration. Couple this with pre-registration and you have a daily double hit.

I hope that all of you out there in college land had a real fine vacation during semester break. I traveled down to Miami Beach to visit and relax in the sun. I'm sorry that I was out of town during the cold spell that froze your little fannies. Please accept my sympathy.

Many of you have anxiously awaited my return to find out the answer to the brainteaser I submitted to you before departing...

Well, here is the answer.....

The Norwegian drinks water....The Japanese owns the Zebra. As I ride about this great town I notice a type of sign that really bugs me..."Gas WAR"...Every other type of retail establishment that lowers their prices has a sale of one sort or another. However whenever one station sells gasoline cheaper than its competitor a WAR is declared...Perhaps they are trying to change the meaning of the word WAR. United Nations delegates should be invited to Las Vegas to see if they can once again establish a peaceful climate in this desert community. I must admit that I haven't much faith in the United Nations, as long as a tiny island community somewhere in some big ocean has equal voting power as the United States.

Pam wants to thank all of the girls from UNLV who helped her out during the Holiday season. Pams Place has slowly become the In-Spot for all tourists and home towners that are looking for that something extra.

As a vegetarian I was never able to say I had an expensive food bill. Thanks to Phase Two and the entire price control program I am now able to boast of an expensive food bill...Lettuce 50 cents a head, Celery 50 cents a stalk, Peppers 50 cents a point....etc....

I may have to start eating meat.....

Were you on campus during the blackout?????Tonopah Hall was the place to be....candles.....candles.....candles....

New Humanities building half opened for session...Parking lots...Where were they when we needed them...Oh, well I walk to school anyway.....

Basketball team is starting to show its pre-season expectations. Seats have been plentiful at Center so far...Predict you will be sitting way back as team improves with each game...Dallas won ten in a row, why can't we?????

UNLV book budget goes down while swimming complex gets ahead. Where oh Where are the value standards set. Universities embark on never ending athletic programs, all geared to enhance the prestige and academic programs of the school. However when awards for academic excellence are given, little light is made of them. Perhaps the University should publicize its academic achievements as well as its victories by subsidized gladiators...

Congratulations to Michou on her engagement....

Courtesy is contagious....Spread it.....

Rich sardines are packed one to the can....

Eat fish a few times a week...It keeps the fishermen happy...

Hope to be back next week...In the meantime try to enjoy life....

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHAT'S THIS I HEAR ABOUT ME BEIN' ON PROBATION?"

Devil or angel?

Nevada Sen. Howard Cannon said the goals of world peace and prosperity outlined to the Congress by President Nixon "are great objectives, but are hopes rather than achievements" which would require cooperation by lawmakers and the White House.

Cannon said the President's emphasis on a stronger defense posture would have his support. "I agree with the President that his trips to Peking and Moscow should not give rise to complacency on the issues of world peace."

Rep. Walter S. Baring, D-Nev., called the State of the Union address recently "a great hearts and flowers talk that we have all heard before, but I liked the defense budget increase plan the President announced."

"It sounded like the President was trying to smooth the feathers of all factions in Congress and the country and that he wanted to be known as a good guy," commented Baring.

Editor of the Yell:

The most important necessity in our political life is a President with "backbone", and that is President Nixon, and amongst the prospective candidates for the office, there is not one with the determination and "backbone" to keep us in the role of world leader of democracy except President Nixon.

Issues and prospective bills are not important for presidential judgement, as the Congress has to pass the bills and the bill brought in by a Committee. We need and must retain the present "backbone."

WHERE I SIT

As editor of this newspaper, I have been wanting to take some time out to express my views on a number of subjects. Today I'm doing it. This campus hasn't had a good controversy in a few weeks, but the ROTC at UNLV question should make good copy for a while.

I was at the December meeting of the Board of Regents when the suggestion was made by Dr. Anderson to investigate the possibility of having ROTC here, and I sincerely believe that he was simply getting carried away by the speeches of the military personnel who came to the meeting to voice their opposition to making the mandatory ROTC at Reno voluntary. As one person told me in disgust, "You can hear the band playing while they (the military men) are talking, and I feel like marching along with them."

But, I wonder, could a group of seven men and women, supposedly well educated, mature representatives of the citizenry of Nevada, be duped into voting for a policy which has proved in the past in Nevada, and repeatedly throughout the nation, to be the cause of destruction, crime, and the disruption of our centers of learning? Apparently so.

I have recently sent letters to each member of the Board of Regents telling them of the controversy on our campus over this issue, and inviting them to reply in the YELL. We shall see what they have to say... perhaps...

While I'm on the subject of ROTC, Helen Thompson and Jim Bilbray deserve the thanks and support of those who oppose ROTC, in any form. These two Regents were the only ones who voted to make it voluntary at Reno, and to keep it off of our campus.

In looking at controversial issues, the Senate's action last Wednesday night (see article, Page 1) concerning the current ticket arrangements at basketball games should prove interesting. Whenever my mind turns to that subject, it seems to me that the Board of Regents is acting like the owner of a professional team. I have suspected this for quite sometime now. Have you noticed the large (in fact, disproportionate) number of tuition waivers given to athletes? This is not the doing of our university's scholarship committee, but is a ruling handed down by the owners - er - Board of Regents. If the Board allows the Senate's resolution to go ignored, their ownership of a professional team will be a fact in my mind. Always out for the buck.

Do not get me wrong, I'm not opposed to the State of Nevada owning professional teams, but must they do so with funds earmarked for education and under the guise of improving the image of the University system? Why don't they just come out in the open and purchase a franchise? Well, I guess we'll never be able to stop certain members of the Board from reliving their days in uniform (be that ARMY DRAB or RENO BLUE AND WHITE)

PARTING SHOT - When was the last time you saw President Zorn on campus? Is it true that his new office in the Humanities Building has a private elevator? Is Roman Zorn following a pattern started by Las Vegas's own mystery man - Howard Hughes? What is Zorn trying to accomplish by not being seen? Remember the old adage (I hate old adages, but this one seems to fit perfectly) - Out of sight, out of mind? Think about it - do YOU know what Roman Zorn looks like?

MORE ROTC OPPOSITION

To the Editor:

It is a typical action of the Regents to force students again at UNR to participate in the infamous and ignoble ROTC program. Why would the Regents act any different now anyway? After all, they already have set up a university system that is grimly repressive, one that ignores human rights (students are human), one that is a parody on learning. And I am quite sure that as UNLV continues to expand, the Regents will try to put the abomination of ROTC on this campus. There was a time when a non-mandatory ROTC program on this campus wouldn't have bothered me (Live and let live, you know). But time is running out for America, ROTC just helps turn the dials of an even larger monstrous system. The ROTC is a mass conditioning process that f---s up people's minds and bodies, a system in violation of all aspects of human dignity. It splits peoples apart (militarism is wont to do such), it breeds all those 18th Century thoughts that have kept man in a hell on earth, it makes socio-pathic, conscienceless murderers out of people. It makes people the fuel of an enormous death machine called Armed Forces.

If the ROTC comes, what are you going to do? When the creature stalks onto this campus will you allow him to nest, to breed? Or will you (you're voters now) stop him before your soul starts to rot?

I can see it all now. The former apathy on this campus, as the student body is split down the middle. Someone bombs the ROTC building and is labelled an insane freak. When it happens, I will know how truly sane he is, and well wish I'd had the balls to do the same.

Also, where is Levine or Zorn? They seem to have no comment. Where is CSUN? Where do they stand? It would be nice if Zorn or CSUN reflected some of the students desires. Ireamon. There simply will have to be student vote on this matter.

At this time, a message of solidarity with the UNR opposition to ROTC would be in order. After all, who wants to hear "Four Dean in Nevada?" It will happen here, if something isn't done. The scourge of the earth must be evicted from Nevada.

If the "free" people of UNLV can keep the disease and symptoms of American imperialism and militarism off this campus, then we might even get the scum off the Reno campus, and free our brothers and sisters there! And if we try real hard, we can get rid of the Regents, too! The time's a wastin', the centuries old fungus of death and destruction is a comin'. If you can't help now God help you. Now, let's see what happens. Stephen Brittle

Ecology Briefs

Two undisclosed American companies are reportedly importing thousands of slaughtered Mexican turtles in order to make shoes from the hide of their front flippers.

Dr. Warren Thomas, director of the Gladys Porter Zoo, newly-opened in Brownsville, Texas, to protect endangered species, said that he and his associates have found that the two companies, one in New York and one in Texas, have imported 19,000 turtle skins from Mexico in the last few months. The companies also have permits to import 100,000 more from Mexico.

The zoo director said that he learned of the slaughter when the Interior Department asked him to identify some skins being imported into Brownsville. Species identification is difficult because only the front flipper is imported, while the rest is used for meat or thrown away. He said that he found skins of the endangered Leatherback, Hawkbill, and Atlantic Ridley turtles mixed in with the legally-exportable Pacific Ridley, Loggerhead, and Green Sea turtles.

The Mexican government does not prohibit shipment of turtles or turtle by-products within the country or across its borders. Thomas has formally requested that burden of proof for species identification be placed on the exporter. He conferred with Department of the Interior officials in Washington, D.C. on November 20 on the matter.

Turtle skins have replaced the popular use of alligator and crocodile skin products, which have been banned from the U.S. market.

The Ford Foundation "Has a Better Idea"! The Foundation has earmarked $385,000 to assist municipal conservation commissions in up to 150 communities in New York, New Jersey, and the New England states. Each commission can receive up to $5,000 to lay the groundwork for solution to a broad range of environmental problems, primarily, waste management, land use, and pollution control. Municipalities will have to match amounts over $750.

File for summer jobs

The U.S. Civil Service Commission announced recently that the deadline for filing for the 1972 Summer Examination is drawing to a close.

The examination will be given at more than 1,000 locations nationwide. Candidates must apply by Feb. 2 to meet the last test scheduled for March 11. Applications postmarked after Feb. 2 will not be accepted.

The Commission reminded applicants that the number of jobs available will be relatively small in proportion to the number of competitors.

Nationwide, approximately 15,000 jobs are filled through the competitive examination each year some 2,000 positions at grades GS 3 and 4 in which a student's educational background is related directly to the jobs being filled, some 4,000 clerk and carrier jobs in the postal service and about 9,000 clerical jobs in such fields as typist, stenographer, clerk and office machine operator.

Again this year there is a provision for students with at least two years of college to qualify for summer employment on the basis of outstanding scholastic achievement without taking the examination.

More information may be obtained by contacting the Federal Job Information Center located in Room 1-614, Federal Building, 300 Las Vegas Boulevard S., Telephone 385-6345.

VA jobs for Spanish speaking

Gordon R. Elliott, Director of VA's Southern California Regional Office, advises that Spanish speaking Americans interested in careers with the Veterans Administration may find a new pamphlet printed in Spanish, helpful in their employment efforts. The pamphlet describes technical, clerical and trades positions available.

The pamphlet is entitled "Technicos, Oficinistas, y Ostrom Empleos." Elliott said free copies may be obtained by writing the Veterans Administration, Forms and Publications Depot, 2625 Shirlington Road, Arlington, Virginia 22206 and specifically requesting VA Pamphlet 05-49A.

Elliott pointed out that the Veterans Administration, with 180,000 employees, is one of the largest equal opportunity employers in the Federal Government.

Geology And Man Course Offered

A new course, Geology and Man, is to be offered by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas as a non-credit evening course. The classes sponsored by the University Continuing Education Division, will introduce participants to the many ways in which geology directly affects man, utilizing Las Vegas as the principal study area. The course will focus on land subsidence, flood problems, earthquakes, nuclear applications for mineral and energy resources, earthquakes, sanitary landfills, soils and geothermal energy.

The weekly classes will be held on Thursday evenings from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. beginning on January 27th and continuing through March 2nd, 1972. A Saturday field trip to observe local examples will be an integral part of the course and will be conducted on March 4, 1972.

SYLLABUS:

January 27: Introduction - An examination of the many ways in which geology directly affects us in Southern Nevada.

February 3: Flooding - Flash floods from heavy rains threaten many areas of Las Vegas. A study of factors causing floods, areas threatened, and flood control methods.

February 10: Land subsidence and soils - Pumping of ground water has caused some parts of Las Vegas to sink up to three feet. Some soils in the valley create a hazard for construction.

February 17: Earthquakes - The causes of earthquakes, frequency, and damage will be examined, with particular emphasis on Las Vegas.

February 24: Nuclear applications for mineral and energy resources: Geothermal Energy - underground nuclear explosions will be evaluated in regards to mineral extraction and as a future source of energy. Also, a study of Nevada's prospects for using geothermal energy to generate electricity.

March 2: Water supply and management - One of the most important resources for Las Vegas is its water supply distribution and disposal. The future of the area depends on wise management practices.

March 4: Field Trip - A one day field trip to observe examples of the relationship of geology and man.

EPA's Youth Advisory Board

The Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has created the Youth Advisory Board due to his desire to consider the input of young people in the environmental decision-making process.

The EPA has a National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. and ten Regional Offices throughout the country. Region IX is comprised of California, Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii, Guam, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific. The Regional Office is in San Francisco. There are nine members on the Regional Advisory Board who meet with the Regional Administrator, Paul De Falco, on a monthly basis. In addition, one member of the Youth Advisory Board attends quarterly National Meetings with the EPA Administrator, William D. Ruckelshaus. Members usually expect to commit several days a month to the functioning of the Youth Advisory Board.

The nine members of the Regional Youth Advisory Board live or go to school within the region. Presently there are vacancies on the board and representation from Nevada and California is being solicited.

Anyone interested in serving as a Youth Advisory Board member, please send in the information suggested below. "Youth" is defined as any student or someone roughly between the ages of 15 and 25. Applicants should be willing to devote several days (usually including a weekend) per month to Youth Advisory Board activities. Currently, there is a particular emphasis in land use problems. The six members now serving on the Youth Advisory Board will review all submitted applications.

The deadline for consideration is February 15, 1972.

The Youth Advisory Board would like to know:

Your name, address and phone number(s); where you go to school, if you do; where you work, if you do; your major interest or field of study; your aptitudes, abilities, and experience relevant to being an effective spokesman for youth in environmental matters; in short, a brief resume. Say anything that you think will help you be selected by the board.

TV 10 FEATURES GALILEO, HARRIET B STOWE

Distinguished British actor Cyril Cusack portrays "Galileo," one of the founders of modern science, who spent the last eight years of his life under house arrest because the Church could not accept the profound implications of his revolutionary discoveries. The play will be seen on TV-10 on NET Biography Playhouse Thursday, January 27, at 8:30 p.m.

Cusack is currently seen in the film "Sacco and Vanzetti" and previously appeared on NET Playhouse co-starring with Dame Sybil Thorndike in E. M. Forster's "A Passage to India."

"Galileo" was produced in Italy and Yugoslavia under the direction of Lilliana Cavani, who is noted for such works as "St. Francis of Assisi" and "I Canneballi." Miss Cavani co-authored the screenplay with Tullio Pinellik, in collaboration with Fabrizio Conofari. Although Galileo's achievements are of equal importance in the fields of astronomy, physics, and mathematics, Miss Cavani's film is devoted to Galileo's astronomical discoveries, which confirmed his belief in the Copernican Theory of the Solar System and led to his confrontation with the Church in Rome.

Galileo (1564-1642) was teaching mathematics at the University of Padua when he learned of the invention of the telescope. He began building his own telescopes and soon perfected them sufficiently to be able to observe other bodies in the Solar System. These observations proved to him that Copernicus was correct (and Ptolemy wrong), in that the Earth revolves around the Sun and is not the center of the Universe. The Church, however, considered this notion to be heretical.

For many years Galileo avoided a direct clash with the Church, obeying for the most part a Papal decree which said, in effect, that one may not advocate the Copernican Theory, but one may discuss it as an supposition. Ironically, after Galileo received direct permission from Pope Urban VIII to write about the Copernican system, he would up on trial by the Inquisition.

With Papal blessings, Galileo published his monumental "Dialogo Dei Massimi Sistemi" (Dialogue of the Two Chief World Systems) in 1632. The book was supposed to be, and ostensibly was a noncommittal discussion of both the Copernican and Ptolemaic systems. But the Jesuits convinced the Pope that it was, in fact, a strong plea in favor of Copernicanism. Galileo was arrested and charged with "vehement suspicion of heresy." To offset the fact that Pope Urban had approved publication of the "Dialogo," a document was produced indicating that, unknown to the Pope, Galileo had been forbidden years before by the Vatican to discuss Copernicanism in any manner.

The current historical consensus is that this document was invalid. Nevertheless, Galileo stood trial and, in a statement prepared for him, he disavowed the Copernican Theory, thus saving his life. He was sentenced to imprisonment, but Pope Urban commuted the sentence to house arrest. Galileo returned home to Arcetri and continued his work until his death at the age of 78.

"Galileo" is a presentation of NET Division, Educational Broadcasting Corporation. Producer: Leonardo Pescarolo, Director: Lilliana Cavani. English dialogue written and directed by George Higgins III, NET Playhouse executive producer: Jac Venza.

NET Playhouse Biography is made possible in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. Transmitted nationally by PBS, the Public Broadcasting Service.

Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of the anti-slavery classic "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be portrayed on the NET Playhouse Biography series Thursday, February 3, at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 10, PBS.

Cannes Film Festival award winner Kitty Winn will be featured in the title role of the production - a special television adaptation of the 1943 hit Broadway play "Harriet".

Cp-stars will be Barnard Hughes Madeleine Sherwood, Paul Hecht, Richard Dysart, Kendall March and Gretchen Corbett.

Miss Winn, 27, honored at Cannes this year as best actress for "Panic in Needle Park," faced a demanding role in "Harriet," which requires her to portray Mrs. Stowe through youth and middle age, and finally as an elderly woman. In the original Broadway production the same role afforded Helen Hayes one of her greatest stage triumphs.

The play centers on Mrs. Stow's inner conflict concerning the writing of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The book, written in 1851, is often referred to as an important step towards the Civil War.

By nature a woman who dreaded controversy, she wrote the novel after her own terrifying encounter with "slavers" who wrenched a runaway black woman from her home.

Written by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements, the play was adapted for television by Peabody-award winning producer Jacqueline Babbitt. Originally directed by Elia Kazan, the television adaption will be directed by Tom Donovan.

Draft classification answers

A number of young men are contacting local draft board offices or State Headquarters in Carson City questioning their classification of I-H. Mr. Addison A. Millard, State Director, explained that I-H is a new classification and is a "holding" classification. Young men are placed in this class when they are a member of the 1970 or 1970 lottery group and their random selection number or lottery number is beyond that which was reached or called during the year for induction into the armed forces.

Those who receive the I-H classification, Mr. Millard, continued, are actually "home free" unless the Department of Defense requires at a future date vast numbers of men for service in the armed forces. However, young men must continue to provide changes in address or other documentation to their selective service file which would be helpful to their local board in the future. Mr. Millard stated, initially the 1972 lottery or men born in 1954, will be receiving I-H classifications. When a cutoff number is determined by the Director for those born in 1954, men beyond that cutoff number will not be ordered by selective service under current plans and will remain in I-H. Those below the cutoff number will be reclassified to whatever classification they are eligible to receive. Mr. Millard encourages any young man who has questions in this regard to immediately contact either the nearest local board for answers to these inquiries or drop a note to his office in Carson City.

CINDER TEAM HAS DEPTH

by Robert Gallegos

The UNLV track and field team began workouts last Monday for its upcoming 14-meet schedule with a record 33 candidates out for the opening practice session.

Coaches Gordon Edwards and Al McDaniel report that 11 lettermen including seven school record holders, are on hand to help build what should be the best cinder team ever at UNLV.

UNLV cinder team lost only two seniors, Bill Jones and Mel Creel due to graduation, but there seems to be plenty of talent to replace them. Eighteen old timers and newcomers have been working hard at a conditioning program since September and the results should show by the first meet this spring.

UNLV will open the season on Feb. 5 by visiting Northern Arizona University for an indoor invitational meet. The home season doesn't open until March 11 when Palomar College visits.

Daily work outs are being held on the UNLV campus, but meets will be held at Western High School. UNLV does not have a track facility of its own, but one is expected to be ready for the 1972-73 school year.

Coach Edwards is beginning his third season as the UNLV track coach. Heading the list of returnees is three-year senior letterman Doug Clarke. Clarke, a local product of Clark High School, is the school record holder in the six-mile (34:52.2) and this year will also run the 880.

Two-year letter winner Blaine Clarke (Albuquerque, N.M.) owns two records, the two-mile run (9:54.3) and the three-mile run at 15:13.9. The other veterans include Ed Brown (880), Jimmy Chapman (triple jump), Barry Hammond (javelin), Rocky Harshman (shot put, discus), Efren Rodriguez (880), George Sherman (sprints), Angelo Stefanelli (sprints) and Mike Whaley (high jump, high hurdles). Included this year are 19 local athletes. Also on the veteran squad will be John Morgan (shot put, discus).

Head coach Edwards' prospective newcomer is Ruben Perez running the sprints and 440 with his best times of 9.8, 22.0 and 51.0. Dan Copplin, an endurance runner should see Dan push his 49.8 quarter time down below the 48 sec. mark. Melvin Turner, was one of the top quarter milers in the state with a 50.1 clocking. Working hard in the conditioning class should see sub 50 performances this season. Marvin Turner the slower of the Turner twins if you could call 51.8 slow, will be challenging Dan and brother Mel for supremacy in the quarter mile. Geno Falcone in the hurdles should improve his times with hard work.

John Barnes will be challenging Mike Whaley's record of 6'8 1/4" in the high jump. John has a personal best of 6'6" while in high school. Bucky Walters did a 6'2" in the high jump. Bucky, only 5'10" in height, makes up for his height with tremendous spring in his legs. Craig Falk's best high jump is 6'0", but is looking forward to much greater heights this year.

Kevin Patterson, a transfer from College of the Desert, is an all-around track athlete who does well in five events. His specialties are the long and triple jump where he did 22'9" and 45'6" despite sprained ankles last year. Carson Madison has been running cross country to strengthen his legs. It should help him go over the 21' 10 1/2" mark in the long jump set while in high school.

Along with the veterans and newcomers, Coach Edwards has two very fine members that were red shirted last year.

Steve Klenke, who runs the high hurdles, will add extra punch to the team. His best time is 14.7 sec. Steve Ross will add extra competition with Harshman and Morgan at the shot put and the discus with his best throws of 52' 7" and 152'.

REBELS DOWN DIABLOS

95-89

by Robert Gallegos

The UNLV Rebels, behind a fine shooting performance by Booker Washington, shrugged off a fine Cal State - Los Angeles basketball team for a smashing 95-89 victory before an enthused convenciontery before an enthused convention Center crowd, Thursday evening.

Booker Washington, finding the basket from all over the court, poured in 35 points and shooting at a clip of 70 percent from the field, led an inspired Rebel team to its fourth consecutive victory in a row.

The Diablos, now 7-7 on the season, kept fighting back into contention and traded baskets several times with the Rebels, now

8-7, in one of the most exciting home games this year.

The Diablos, mostly behind the efforts of 6-7 sensation Mike Jackson, closed the gap to 30-28 with some nine minutes left in the first half, but sophomore forward Bob Florence poured in three straight baskets as the Rebels moved to a 38-28 lead.

Booker was all over the court, with both his passing and shooting, pumping in 25-footers. He made 19 points in the first half to give the Rebels a 45-41 half time lead.

Every time the Rebels pulled to a 10 point margin, the Diablos, behind sharp shooting by Lee Denmon and Mose Adolph, would bounce back by dropping long shots of their own.

Denmon, who had 19 points behind Jackson's team-leading 26, spurred a Diablo drive that cut the margin to 71-69 with some nine minutes left in the second half.

Washington weaved down court, faked a layup, and made a brilliant pass to Al Clise underneath the boards for an easy two points and a 73-69 lead. Clise and Washington each added a couple of free throws apiece for a 77-69 lead.

The Diablos once again bounced back to within four points at 85-81 with three minutes left in the game, but Booker canned two free throws and Clise pulled off a fine drive. Bob Florence made two crucial baskets underneath the boards for an unsurpassable 93-83 lead with one minute left.

Bob Florence, playing a fine game, pulled down eight rebounds and 20 points to aid the Rebel cause.

Jerry Baskerville, playing another fine game underneath the boards, was the leading rebounder with 15, and pumped in 11 points before fouling out of the game. Loverd Coleman, also playing a fine game, had nine points and 10 rebounds.

Warren Walk, once again coming into the game from the bench, pumped in six points, and pulled off nine rebounds in his brief playing stint.

UNLV won the battle of the boards, 57-48.

The Rebels now have a vacation from the playing court until a very crucial conference trip to Seattle and St. Mary's Feb. 3-5.

The Rebels don't return for a home game until Feb. 9 against the University of Nevada, Reno, at the Convention Center.

TAYLOR LEADS FROSH WIN 94-80

by Robert Gallegos

Eddie Taylor's 37 points and Jim Baker's 30 rebounds led the UNLV Freshmen to a stunning 94-80 victory over Cal State Los Angeles Freshmen at the Convention Center on Thursday.

Along with his efforts on the boards, Jim Baker tallied 22 points hitting on only 9 for 29 from the field.

CSLA Diablos Freshmen had previously defeated the Long Beach St. Freshmen, and had also handed the UCLA Freshmen their first defeat in quite some years. With the win, the Rebel Frosh now moved to 9-5 on the year while the Diablo Frosh move to a record of 10-3 on the season.

The Rebel Frosh were also paced by a fine performance by Dan Cunningham, who scored 19 points and picked off 19 rebounds. Along with Cunningham, Don Weimer played a very fine game scoring 12 points and grabbing 18 rebounds.
