NOTES FROM NATIONAL STUDENT LOBBY

On February 29, 1972 the U.S. Senate passed by a vote of 66-28 an Amendment to the Higher Education Act, which expressed the sense of Congress that "Students be represented on Boards of Trustees" as full-voting members on every campus in the country. This Amendment was authored by Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma (and co-sponsored by Senators Hartke, McGovern, Randolph and Mondale.)

After the victory, Senator Harris said "this Amendment passed the Senate with the lobbying done by the National Student Lobby and the co-ordination they provided for my office staff. I would personally like to thank the NSL for their successful lobbying efforts on my Amendment,"

"The surprisingly large margin of victory came from a wide spectrum of D.

trum of Democrats and Republicans" said Layton Olson, Executive Director of the National Student Lobby, "and provided a good test of the power of the new 18 year old voter. Moderate and conservative Senators who are coming up for re-election in 1972 voted for the Harris Amadment in overwhelming numbers, even in the

KORK-TV Broadcasts From UNLV

KORK TV, whose facilities were destroyed in a recent fire, has been granted permission to use the facilities of the new UNLV Humanities Building by the Board of Regents, The terms of their use of these facilities include the installation of a 25,000 lighting system to be left in the TV studio when KORK departs, and the payment of any additional insurance necessary to allow them the use of the studio.

The permission was given with the stipulation that KORK use this area only until August 15.

KORK was expected to move into the Humanities Building almost immediately. The station should be on the air with network coverage by the time this article is read, and shortly thereafter, they can be expected to resume local programming.

Women's Club Scholarship

Last week the YELL failed to mention the deadline for application for the UNLV Women's Club scholarships, That deadline is MARCH 20, The time is rapidly approaching, so we urge all qualified girls to apply as soon as possible.

We regret this oversight on our part.

Ecologist, Author To Lecture Here March 21

Mr. Richard L. Harriman will present a lecture Tuesday, March 21 at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom. Harriman is presently Assistant to Dr. Paul R. Ehrlich, Professor of Biology at Stanford University. In the fall of 1970 and the winter of 1971, Mr. Harriman was the Teaching Assistant for Ehrlich's freshman seminar, "The Biological Revolution,"

Harriman received his first B. A. in English, with a minor in Psychology, from Stanford University in 1967. Upon completion of a special interdisciplinary program including independent research for cluding independent research uncluding independent research under the direction of Dr. Ehrlich, Harriman completed the requirements for a second B. A. in Political Science, with emphasis on Environmental Studies, from Stanford in 1971.

After graduating from Stanford, Harriman was employed by Stanford Research Institute, During his two years with SRi, Harriman was an Editor, Administrative Assistant, and a Project Administrator in Menlo Park, California and Bangkok, Thailand, His year and a half in Thailand was spent working on a Department of Defense counterinsurgency contract with the Thai government, While in Southeast Asia, Harriman traveled to Laos, Cambodia, Hong Kong, Japan, Pakistan, and Nepal, After leaving SRI in December, 1968, Harriman traveled through Western Europe and North Africa,

Upon his return to the United States, Harriman worked on a mayoral campaign in Buffalo, New York during the spring and summer of 1969. His family has been

He said: But I earned it.

And so the conversation continued. Ego tradition versus realism, As a member of the class of '72, I would hope that all subsequent graduating classes do away with the cap and gown nonsense. We are unfortunately stuck with this leftover from another age and are compelled to contribute $7.50 to it's upkeep. I remember my graduation from Junior College. Everyone had his parents, relatives, and friends as witnesses to this most hallowed ceremony. At the signal from a

Off came the hot robes and the caps disappeared. What did it all mean....Could we have been declared graduates without this symbolism??? I believe we could have...At all three service Academies (West Point, etc.) seniors upon being declared graduates throw their hats into the air. They have gone through four years of rigorous study to achieve their Bachelor degress. Is their degree any less than those who wear black robes and silly tassels???

Of course not...Yet we here in the last bastion of freedom continue this ancient tradition..I say that UNLV graduates should whow their individualism..and throw off the wraps of establishment..Levis, six shooters and ten gallon Stetsons are all that is needed... Up the west.. Down Medieval Europe.

At last week's Board of Regents meeting, I chanced to run into President Zorn. This was our first meeting, and I was very pleased to find Zorn quite a friendly chap.

I explained to him that Tuesday is a very hectic day for me, and I could not accept his invitation to discuss whatever is on my mind. Zorn said that Tuesday is the best day for him, but if a student (any student) cannot make that time, or day, given enough time, othere arrangements could

I fully intend to visit with the gentleman soon, as he was a very interesting man. More on this in a couple of weeks.

Be sure to vote in next week's primary election. It should be interesting. Rumor has it that included in the primary will be a referendum from the National student Lobby. This will indicate to the people who lobby for students in D.C. just what the students want. There are a number of important issues to be decided, so do your thing. Watch the YELL next week for a copy of this re-ferendum. Read it. Vote on it.

Give Yourself Some Credit -Study Abroad

Wouldn't it be more fun to learn German in cheery, beery Munich? French in gay Paris? Russian in Moscow?

By enrolling in a summer study abroad program, you can practice your foreign language in the country where the barmaid, baker and policeman speak it. If languages aren't your bag, try music in London, art in Italy or African studies in Nairobi, Kenya.

Besides seeing the world and bringing back loads of memories, you can also tote back up to eight college credits.

Students, however, need to know about the different kinds of programs - their objectives, advantages and disadvantages, and certainly their costs. Here's a rundown on the three main categories of summer abroad programs:

1. Summer Programs Sponsored by Foreign Universities. These are the least expensive. For example, tuition, room and board for French or German programs at the University of Strasbourg in France comes to only about $40 a week. Compare these rates to summer school costs in America - and to prices of Americansponsored programs abroad.

Another advantage of attending a foreign-operated program is the lower percentage of English-speaking students.

Choosing a foreign-sponsored program allows more flexibility on how long you want to travel independently before and after the session, though you need to shop around for an inexpensive roundtrip charter flight. Needless to say, this category of summer programs is for the more ambitious, independent student who wants to search out and make his own arrangements.

To obtain a listing of summer courses operated by foreign schools, a booklet, published by the Institute of International Education, is available for $2.

2. Summer Programs Sponsored by U.S. Colleges. These are package deals where an American school provides transportation, living arrangements, tuition and supervision.

The cost, ranging from $800 to $1,500, will exceed foreignrun programs. In these American sessions academic credit is easier to obtain. But check with your own school about credit before you go abroad.

3. Summer College Programs Sponsored by Private U.S. Companies. Some of these are run by reputable organizations; others need looking into.

To make big profits, some companies try to ship as many students overseas as possible. But for the type of student who doesn't want to bother to investigate programs arranged by U.S. and foreign universities, this category is worth considering. These programs start at about $850 for 6-week stints abroad.

A great book to help you evaluate the wide array of summer abroad program is the 1971-72 edition of The New Guide to Study the 33 Senators up for re-election in November, only 5 voted against the bill."

The National Student lobby worked on the Harris Amendment for the past several weeks. Besides contacting each Senate office 3 times, the Lobby gathered 5 student body presidents from the Washington, D.C. area (from Catholic Univ., Georgetown Univ., Federal City College, George Ma-son College of Univ. Of Virginia, and Mary Washington College) for a press conference with Sen. Harris 5 days before the vote.

Just minutes before the vote came (at 11:45 on Tuesday morning) several Senators spoke in behalf of the Amendment, Sen. Ja-vits of N.Y. said, "I think it is important that students should have a place on the governing boards of colleges...I shall vote for and sup-port this amendment.' Sen. Randolph of W. Va. added (as a Board member of Salem College since he was a junior in college in 1923) 'student representation on governing boards of institutions of higher learning is a sound policy.'

After the victory on the senate floor, NSL lobbyists celebrated with Senator Harris in his office and he expressed his hope that students would follow through with continued lobbying on the Harris Amendment, and other aspects of Higher Education Act, now in Senate-House conference.

To facilitate continued pressure. the National Student Lobby is holding a "Lobby on Congress" in Washington on March 22, 23, 24 (cherry blossom time), Sen, Hartis Cold (Cherry blossom time), Sen, Hartis Cherry (Cherry blossom time), Sen, Cherry (Cherr ris said, "Students should come from every Congressional Dis-trict to lobby their Representatives and Senators in support of the Harris Amendment, placing students on boards of trustees. In addition, students must lobby Congress to fully-fund student assistance for higher education (Scholarships, work-study, NDE A, and insured loans, G.I. Bill), which otherwise will be cut back severeagain this year."

In addition to the Higher Education Act, students will be lobbying very important legislation, like: Sen, Gravel's bill for a total bombing halt in Indochina, and with-drawal of U.S. military and para-military forces by June 30, 1972; Hatfield Amendment to end the draft this summer; Equal Rights Amendment (women's rights); and new Voter Registration Bill (allowing voter registration by mail for everyone, including students). CSUN Sponsors French Scholar Eminent French scholar Jean-Paul Weber will visit the Universily of Nevada, Las Vegas, this month to deliver a lecture entitled "The Existential Criticism." Professor Weber will deliver his lecture on Thursday, March 23, at 12 noon in the Moyer Student Union West Lounge and Lounge 202. All students, faculty and interested persons are cordially invited to attend. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Professor Weber was born in Paris in 1912, received the agrege de Philosophie and Docteur des lettres degrees from the Sorbonne. In this country he has taught at Bryn Mawr College and has been a professor at the City University of New York since 1962. He is the authori of several books and many articles, including two novels. His scholarly works cut across the fields of art criticism, philosophy, aesthetics, and psychology. Particularly relevant to the topic of his UNLV lecture are several works concerning the exis tential analysis of the artist and his creative process,

SPOCK VISITS UNLY

Wednesday night, March 8, Dr. Benjamin Spock lectured to a sizable crowd in the UNLV Stu-dent Union Ballroom. Jointly sponsored by CSUN and the Nevada New Party, Spock said he had come to radicalize the audience.

He went on to say that he is actually "something of a liberal" compared to REAL radicals.

Spock is a candidate for the Presidency this election year, running on the People's Party(in Nevada it is the New Party.) He outlined the most important planks in his platform as:

1) Immediate withdrawal of all armed forces from all parts of the

2) Free medical care for all (This is to include free doctors as well as prescriptions.)

3) An end to racism in all forms with appropriate legislation to aid this goal.

4) An end to sexism in all forms with appropriate legislation to aid this goal.

5) He cannot tolerate a system whereby industry works for maximal profits. Goods and services should be evenly distributed in order to improve the quality of life. Boards of directors should be manned by representatives of consumer, workers, and the government.

6) The people must regain control of all institutions which effect their life. Included in this catagory are the police, health clinics, schools and universities. The students at universities should have the right to hire and fire those people who control their education.

One question which he is frequently asked is "Which demo-crat would you support?" He answered that by saying there is no difference in the long run. The candidates are always evil, and

Their goals, in order of priority are: the recruitment and hiring of Cnicano instructors, counselors and administrators; recruitment and providing incentive for Chincano high school students; to obtain needed scholarships and/or financial aid for Chicano students; and the purchase of necessary Chincano library and audio-visual materials.

In the presentation, it was stressed that there are approximately 27,000 Latin Americans in Clark County and only two per cent or about 112 of the students at UNLV are Latin American. They further stated that there are no full time instructors administrators, or counselors here presently.

While most of the Regents seemed appreciative of the difficulties faced by the Latin American community, Board member Mel Steninger voiced the opinion that faculty members should be hired only on the basis of their educational qualifications.

Who is responsible for our involvement in Viet Nam? Spock says neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are responsible, but they are equally responsible. Truman, a Democrat, got us into committments, Eisenhower, a Republican, got us more involved.

Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon are getting us in deeper.

Spock urged the lecture-goers to write to their representatives and let them know hhow they feel. He explained that if Nixon, upon escalating bombing in Viet Nam, were to receive 40,000 letters telling him voters were not supporting his policy, he would change that policy.

As a Senator of the Student Senate (representative from the Arts and Letters College), member of the Appropriation Committee, Political Science major, and ex-resident of Tonopah Hall I have observed numerous problems related to the present and future of the UNLV campus.

I feel I offer the best alternatives and solutions to our perplexities.

This is precisely why I am a candidate for the CSUN Presidency.

The academic social atmosphere of a college community is dictated by the students. But student apathy causes a lull in the college community at UNLV. It is the role of the CSUN student government to create programs, activities, and services ment needs a concerned responsible President who will put these pro-grams-in their proper perspective. HAVE A DICTUM IN THE JUSTI-FICATION OF STUDENT FEES? Students at UNLV do not have a say in justification of their fees and once elected I would establish an Ad Hoc committee to study the vindication of these fees.

WERE YOU PERTURBED AT THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT THIS YEAR? The situation this year was pathetic, Students who payed their activities fees were turned away from an event to make room for a few extra Las Vegas residents, Once I'm elected I would open up a better line of communication between students and the Athletic Department to guarantee tickets for all attenting students, to avoid confusion in acquiring tickets, and I would persuade the Athletic Department to review the current ticket procedure and refrain from em-ploying it at the football games. In reference to activities I would

Cuts Budget

NIXON - Foe of Environment?

In his State of the Union Message Jan, 20, President Nixon promised "new initiatives to fight pollution" and to develop "clean environmental resources" in 1973. However, what emerged a few days later in the Administration's 1973 budget request was anything but a "new initiative."

Compared to the fiscal 1972 version, there is not much change and, in fact, the total proportionate share allotted to the Environmental Protection Agency actually dropped. The new budget request, released on Jan. 24, lists 14 functional categories for funding purposes. "Natural Resources and the Environment" shows up 14th and dead last. Although ample room was found for various new and exotic items, such as the $5.5 billion intended for a space shuttle program, the EPA budget stayed essentially the same, dropping to only one percent of the total.

In his Feb. 3 testimony before the Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife, Senate Committee on Appropriations, National Wildlife Federation Executive Director Thomas Kimball said that the new budget looks like a "patchwork" of programs put togehter in response to pressures." He added that despite obvious national environlmental needs, it seems that the groups with the greatest political clout get the most attention when funding time rolls around, especially in an election year."

The disappointingly low figures intended for the environment thus sets the stage for much political wrangling, with conservationists questioning the sincerity of the President's commitment to environmental quality. Congress has already authorized much higher levels for EPA for fiscal 1973 and is about to increase the total. For example, air pollution legislation passed in 1 70 sets a 1973 ceiling of $465 mill in onspending greater than the total operating budget of $439.3 million sought by the Administration for all EPA activities (The rest of the EPA budget request is directed toward Construction Grants and Scientific Activities Overseas.) And new water pollution legislation which has already passed the Senate and awaits House action is certain to authorize another big increase for EPA.

Sharp increases were seen in the Administration's request for spending for public works by the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation. For its construction budget, the Corps is asking new spending authority of $164 million, nearly five times the comparable EPA figure. In addition, the largest item in the Department of the Interior budget request is for the Bureau of Reclamation. It is seeking $516 million which exceeds the 1972 level by more than $100 million.

Besides the limited budget and lack of priority given to the environment by the President, Kimball was also concerned about another factor - the freezing of funds. Several times in the past, what few funds for the environment have been pushed through Congress and eventually signed by the President have been held up by the Office by Management and Budget (OMB). "The present practice of impounding funds by the Executive Branch actually dupes the American public and thwarts the will of Congress," Kimball said. "The President should inform the Congress when he impounds funds and why." Kimball cited instances where money had been allotted to various conservation efforts, but was never released by OME.

More Destruction Of Four Corners Area

"A desecration on the order of Glen Canyon" is the label given to several large solar evaporation ponds constructed by the Texas Guif Sulphur Company beneath the eastern rim of Dead Horse Point State Park in Utah, in full view of Canyonlands National Park.

The ponds, constructed for the cheap recovery of potash from the company's nearby underground mine, are located on the State land in the canyon of the Colorado River, a few miles downstream from Moab, Utah, Until the mining ponds were constructed, according to the Enchanted Wilderness Association (EWA), "It was possible to overlook more than athousand square miles of red-rock wilderness, unmarked by man except fro a meandering dirt road." The site is within the Colorado Plateau (Four Corners), a unique geological area that also includes the Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon, Petrified Forest, and Zion National Parks.

Ward J. Roylance, Executive Director of EWA, Said that although Texas Gulf's plans and reasons to build were reported in local newspapers, there was no indication where they were to be located and the "general public had no knowledge in advance of construction that the ponds would affect views from the parks."

THEY'VE STARTED!

Ground was broken two weeks ago for the UNLVs new outdoor track and field facilities. The new facilities are located NW of the chemistry building and will be completed for the fall semester. They will include a baseball field, a ninelane track field, 12 concrete tennis courts, and a multipurpose field that will be used for intramural sports and PE classes. The estimated cost of the outdoor facilities is $770,000.

The final designs for the main indoor facility complex itself, have not been approved and that ground breaking is expected to take place sometime next fall. The cost of the entire Athletic Complex is around $6.3 million.

IND RAISING RULES

The following policy statement was developed by the Intercollegiate Athletics Council and approved by President Zorn.

Permission to conduct any fund raising activity in connection with any Intercollegiate Athletic event must be obtained from the Intercollegiate Athletics Council.

The jurpose of this policy is to assure that game spectators who have purchased tickets and/or who have contributed to the athletic grant-in-aid and scholarship funds will not be subject to nuisance harassment by fund raisers or solicitors.

The following points are pertinent to this policy:
(a) All forms of activity involving solicitation of contributions or donations or selling are included.

(b) The policy is applicable to the Las Vegas Stadium, to the Convention Center, and to any area or facility upon which or at which Intercollegiate Athletic confests are ehld. The policy is also applicable to the areas adjacent to such facilities provided regulation of such area is compatible with contracts written for rental of such facility and is compatible with the authority and responsibility of the landlord agency.

(c) A request for permission must be filed with the chairman of the Council 15 days prior to date being requested,
 (d) Priorities will be as follows:

- 1. To the extent possible permission will be restricted to a masimum of one fund raising activity per season per sport.
- Off-campus groups will normally be approved only if their efforts are directed in part or totally toward the athletic program.
- Campus student groups will be considered on a basis of parity.

 (e) Any group granted permission to solicit or to sell at an athletic event must present evidence to the Council chariman (or Afaletic Director) that high standards of organization, attractiveness, and cleanliness re garding tables, booths, or other facilities used will be achieved. Any facility used must be a credit both to the group and to the University.

(f) Enforcement of this policy could involve:

1. Off-campus groups in violation could be subject to arrest and trial for trespassing.

2. Campus students and student organizations in violation could be subject to jurisdictional agencies such as the Office of the Dean of Student Personnel, academic deans, or appropriate campus judiciary agencies,

3. Individuals could face suspension by the Council of ticket rights for attendance at intercollegiate events.

(g) Requests for use of P. A facilities to announce various current or future charities, crives, or other campaigns for contributions, donations, or sales during athletic events are to be cleared in advance with the Athletic Director in case you hadn't heard, the Rebel football team of UNLV has been having spring practice for the last two weeks. If you would like to go take a peek at what kind of a team we'll have next year go on out to the stadium off Boulder Highway and day after 3:30 pm. You'll see the players sweating, moaning and straining as the run the stairs and go into their workouts.

You'll also see quite a few new faces, around 20, to make up for the 27 seniors that left the squad at the end of this season. Along with the new faces, you'll see what appears to be a new Rebel attack, I have seen them practice and attended Saturday's scrimmage, I was a mazed seen them practice and attended Saturday's scrimmage. I was amazed at the number of times the offense put the ball in the air; only six times and completed two. Early in the year there were rumors of a wishbone attack, but that has not come about. A veer option attack has been put in and looks impressive. The offense moved the ball well inside the tackles and broke a few long gainers on the outside. As the offense moved the ball, certain people began to stand out as

As the offense moved the ball, certain people began to stand out as being instrumental. A new recruit named OBIE AMACKER, 6'3", 220 lbs., playing left tackle and teaming up with HAROLD LEURS made big yardage possible for new backs ROY LEE, LEON RANSOM, and JOE GALLIA; converted to fullback from linebacker.

An interesting point is that the offense has taken on four people from last year's defense; JIM MASSEY has moved from safety to flanker, JOE GALLIA to fullback, KYLE NELSON to center, and probably the most pleasent surprise is PAT WELDING. Pat was a cormer back last year and is now making a serious bid for starting position as quarterback. He seems to possess that Roger Staback ability to see in back of him and scramble out of danger. Turning certain losses into exciting gains. Twice I saw him trapped and get away for big yards, and making some pretty good moves along the way. At this point, what he needs most is polish, It's a cheery thought that the offense may finally be an effective scoring machine.

On the defense side there are also a lot of new changes. They are running basically a pro defense, but with only two down line-are running basically a pro defense, but with only two down linemen, and the ends are up. Because of the great linebacking strength some of these upright ends are linebackers. This in theory will put greater force on the outside attack, forcing the runners inside to the downmen and the middle linebacker. Despite the fact that the offense did well, the defense is a good one. Though only out for two weeks, they're hitting in mid-season form, with pais and helmets cracking on the line. JIM BRANCH, all 5' 10" 185 lbs. of him, looked very much like the 5' 10" 190 pounder we had last year and that's not too bad. Jim was just too quick for some of the offensive linemen. SCOTT ORR, who's been burdened with injuries, looked impressive at his end spot, knocking down blockers and sending runners in the air. KENNY MITCHELL, PETE SANCHEZ and MARTY MACY all looked good in their respective positions. tions.

I was dissappointed that the defensive backs didn't get a chance to show their stuff. It was a boring day for them, only getting to turn in an occassional end run or assist on a tackle.

Above all else in this observers eyes was the presence of what considered to be the best football player on the field on Saturiay. In the first six plays he made three crushing tackles. All day long he forced the quarterbacks out of the pocket and made good hits. The player of whom I speak is GREG MITCHELL. Greg, at his linebacking position, gets my vote for player of the week. Remember his name. For two seasons he has been overlooked for a starting position. This is Greg's third year and he should not be overlooked again, if he is there's something wrong. He reads well, reacts quickly and with his new strength he hits awfully hard. hard.

So there you have it. If you want to see a new team and a new philosophy go on out and take a look, Saturday at 9:30 is scrimage time and that's when the fun is happening. You won't be disappointed. An intrasquad game will be played at the stadium Wed,

University to lease computer - $1

When they met at UNLV last Friday, one of the topics brought before the Board of Regents was the lease of a computer at a cost of $156,000 per year. The eight year lease is for a CDC Cyber-72 computer to replace the Sigma 7 now ino now in operation. The CDC Cyber-72 is to be installed in the UNR Water Resources Building in August of this year.

Mr. Neil Anderson, Computing

Center Director, was on hand to explain the basic terms of the contract. He said the contract in-cludes a purchase option, which would leave the University system owing approximately twenty percent of the purchase price after the expiration of the eight year contr-terms by which the contract could be cancelled during the fifth year, at an estimated cancellation cost to the University of $600,000. This figure is only $24,000 less than the cost of keeping the computer for the additional four years.

The need for a new computer was out lined in an explanation accompanying the meeting's agenda as follows: "ref. 10 first."

The explanation of the proposal went on to state "underlined section".

The Board voted to authorize Chancellor Humphrey to accept the proposal of Control Data Corporation to lease to the university, at $156,000 per year a CDC Cyber-72 computer.
