Yell editorial

The last week of school is finally upon us, and none to soon for most. This semester has seen many changes inside our University's community. The students (at least temporarily) objected in masse, and with a high degree of organization to a departments decision in regards to a couple of faculty members that were respected by them. The result was a clear-cut moral victory for the hard working and sincere student group. One teacher of the two dismissed was retained. This action was certainly the first of its kind on this campus since I arrived 3 years ago.

Then there were the many new buildings and teachers to go with the increased enrollment, as it passed the 6,000 mark. One of the fastest growing in the west.

The dismal year in our young sports program came, and has thankfully left. However, this year saw the completion of the track facilities near the chemistry building. The beautiful facilities should rank among the best in the country. Of course the 12 tennis courts that have been needed so long and so very badly were well recieved by students as well as athletes. Next semester will mark a new era in Rebel baseball, as the Rebels take the field on their new pro-sized park. The P.E. Complex of the not-to distant future also was approved and will house a swimming team, gymnastics, wrestling, and handball facility. What more can I say?

The Judy Bailey became more of a success than ever, and looks to be the showcase here at the University in the coming years. The education building won a second award for its architect, who also designed the award winning chemistry building. The architect also teaches in the Hotel college here. Congratulations Mr. Robert Fielden.

The University also played an active part in the local, state and national elections held in November. Several of the candidates recieved much student aid in their campaigns. With the emergence of the Political Science Department into the limelight, we can look forward to more of the same in the future elections.

The CSUN Senate also took action on several matters of importance and look to do more of the same next semester as well. Student writing in this newspaper also marked a change in the management and format of the UNLV Yell. Bill Schafer resigned his post as Editor and I (former sports editor) took the post over on a temporary basis. The last two issues of the "Yell" should give you, the reader, some indication of the format of the "Yell" next semester if I am appointed (or retained) to head next years staff. Writing by students and faculty, for the students, faculty, and surrounding community. Any ideas along these lines of students communication through our weekly paper will be greatly appreciated.

DR. MILLER RETAINED

By Beverly Barlow

Students of the Political Science Department have gained a fruitful organization, the retention of one worthy professor and the good possibility of attaining representation in the department. But they have lost another fine professor.

A little over two months ago the Political Science Department decided that two of its professional staff members were not to be given contracts next year. The reasons given for their non-retention have never been fully understood by students in the department.

On October 11, well over 100 concerned students met, organized, and formed committees to go through the formal channels in an attempt to find an explanation for this action.

After the meeting with the department chairman, it was apparent to students that the department did not or perhaps could not explain. Since this meeting accomplished nothing, another group met with Dr. Davenport. The dean could not offer any assistance either.

Working within the framework, students then met with Dr. Baepfer. Listening thoughtfully, the Academic Vice-President gave careful consideration and sent the decisions back to the department for reconsideration.

The department did reconsider, gave special attention to the case of Dr. Richard Miller and this time voted to retain him. However, they remained firm on Frank Wright's dismissal.

Students last appeal to the Board of Regents brought about an informal meeting, the outcome of which invoked the regents to direct President Zorn to re-evaluate the entire Political Science Department.

Dr. Baepfer, Dr. Davenport, the Political Science faculty and three students listened to Dr. Zorn as he expressed his concern toward the history of turmoil in that department for the past four years. He viewed the current issue of Professors Wright and Miller's termination as a symptom of the students concern rather than a cause.

At that time Dr. Zorn placed the department in Academic receivership. He suggested they look for new personnel with depth and experience. Zorn further suggested that students and department members resolve their differences and begin rebuilding the department.

As a result of this series of events, the Political Science Student Association is functioning, two senate ad hoc committees are set up to study and evaluate student representation, and hopefully some dialogue between faculty and student members of the department is underway.

Something has been gained. However, Frank Wright will not be retained and the university is losing one excellent professor.

CSUN Senate Meeting

Minutes - Senate Meeting #17
December 5, 1972

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 p.m. by Vice President Shayne Skipworth.

Those members absent and excused were: Sandy Cooper, Gary Wogenrich, Janet Greene, Mike Whaley, and Lynn Martin. Absent and unexcused was Bruce Asher.

(M) Beggs (S) Schioldager to dispense with the reading of the minutes.

Passed by voice vote.

(M) Fabbi (S) Beggs to move the election of the President Pro Tempore up on the agenda.

Passed by voice vote.

As the CSUN Constitution is not specific on the term of the President Pro Tempore, this election was decided upon as new Senators have just been elected. It was suggested by the Chair that a stipulation as to the term of this office be made for the future. As the Vice President will be graduating in December, the President Pro Tempore now elected will assume the office of CSUN Vice President at the end of this semester.

Lloyd Gangwer was nominated by Mike Malone

Patt Medchill was nominated by John Moylan

(M) Buhecker to close the nominations.

Passed by voice vote.

Patt Medchill was voted the new President Pro Tempore by a vote of:

(M) Torres (S) Moylan to table the issue and form an Ad Hoc committee to report back to the Senate next week on these documents.

The motion passed by a vote of 11 - 8.

The committee members are as follows: Richard Torres, Steve Reynolds, Karen Hipwell, Joe Spears, Lloyd Gangwer and Val Buhecker.

Election Board

Mike Mason nominated Max Stuhff to the Election Board, Chess Set

It was suggested that CSUN buy an inexpensive Chess set for student use. The set would be kept in the Library.

It was asked whether the Union Board would be able to purchase this set.

Jude Gary gave a verbal agreement that the Union would do this and that it would be placed in the Library, as the Games Room atmosphere is not always conducive to playing chess.

THE NEVADA SCENE

By Terry Marren

Probably none of you were aware of it, but Clark County has just gone through a rather heated controversy over court ordered school desegregation. Much was said on both sides and it is time to strip away the emotion and confusion and analyze the real motives behind objection to the Sixth Grade Plan to achieve racial balance in Clark County.

This movement embraced many strange bedfellows. Let's face it, anyone who came out in favor of the plan during the election would have committed political suicide. One particularly energetic Assemblyman, Ty Hillbrecht, was wiped out in the primary for the sole reason that his law partner represented a pro-busing interest group.

On the other hand, the busing issue saved some old guard do-nothings who have only served their own limited special interests for years. These men and women jumped on the anti-busing wagon and rode it for all it was worth. One of these men even participated in an anti-busing parade that brought him up from one of the potential low vote getters to one of the easy winners in the last election.

I don't know how many of you are as tired as me of hearing

LIBRARY NOT DESIGNED FOR HANDICAPPED STUDENTS

By Richard Juillerat

The facilities on the UNLV campus were constructed for the use of all students, at least one is to think so. The architects who designed the James R. Dickenson Library left out one minority group, however, that of the Physically Handicapped. For this particular group it is more of an "obstacle course" than an educational and research center.

The first obstacle that a wheelchair student encounters is that of even getting into the three story structure with its two-ton double doors. The student finally gets inside with the help of one who is more capable. He doesn't get very far inside before he comes upon obstacle number two. An automatic entrance which is fine if he can hold it open and get the chair through at the same time before it swings back and gets him in the gut.

The student finally gets inside the reference area and has a pretty good set up with wide aisles, tables spread apart, mostly low shelves and he thinks everything is fine. Little does he know he is approaching obstacle number three. After checking the card catalog for the right book he makes an about face to the elevator. A three by five cell which creeps along slower than molasses on wheat germ. (continued on page 6)

UNIVERSITY of NEVADA at LAS VEGAS

ED BUILDING RECEIVES AWARD

The new Teacher Education Building at UNLV has been selected for a national architectural award by the American Association of School Administrators.

The building, designed by Robert Fielden of the local firm Jack Miller and Associates, was selected for the honor by a jury of four members of the American Institute of Architects.

It is the second national award in two years for Fielden, who became the first Nevada architect to win an A.I.A. blue-ribbon prize in 1971 for his work on UNLV's $1.5 million Chemistry Building.

An exhibit of the Teacher Education Building will be presented at the AASA conventions early next spring in Atlantic City, N.J., and at San Francisco, Calif. From there it will be shipped to Washington, D.C. for display at the national headquarters of the American Institute of Architects.

Projects for the 1973 exhibition were selected from entries all over the country limited to instructional and administrative facilities for public, private, parochial schools and colleges.

In light of the award, the College of Education at UNLV will conduct a private reception and tour of the 100,000-square-foot facility from 8 until 10:30 p.m. Friday (Dec. 1).

Architect Fielden will be present along with Dr. Anthony Saville, dean of the college who worked closely with him throughout the design phase to assure that the structure would meet all educational requirements.

After receiving word of the honor, Fielden stated that the merits of the award should be shared with Dr. Saville and his building committee for their excellent work in preparing the specifications and building program.

"Without their work and understanding, it is doubtful that this recognition would be possible," the architect commented.

"In fact," the dean said, "a visiting consultant from the University of Wisconsin recently told us he felt this structure was one of the three finest teacher education complexes in the nation."

With its carpeted classrooms, bold colors and creative exterior design, the Teacher Education Building had previously attracted attention in national architectural journals.

The $3.2 million facility houses programs and faculty from several colleges at UNLV.

Of course a Christmas party just wouldn't be right without Santa himself showing up. This picture managed to capture the look that only a young child can have when she lays her eyes on Jolly 'Ole Saint Nick himself. The children all expressed their hopes for certain toys on Christmas morning, and Santa obliged them with promises of a speedier delivery than even the Post Office.

SANTA VISITS UNLV BALLROOM

100 kids and a squadron of paper airplanes descended on the SUB Ballroom Saturday afternoon for a gala Christmas party. Co-sponsored by the UNLV Women's Club and CSUN Activities Board, the party featured appearances by 2 lively clowns and the grand ol' man himself-- St. NICK, John Glass of Saga Foods and he UNLV

Dining Commons provided the cookies and punch for refreshments. Donald Duck and some friends also helped entertain-- via the magic of film.

Although the clowns arrived a bit late, they managed to put on quite a show for the 100 youngsters. All of the children appeared to have a grand time, and are now looking forward to the arrival of Santa on Christmas day more than ever. Let's face it, skipping rope had never been so much fun before.

'CORONATION MASS'

Two famous Christmas works will be presented by more than 150 voices and musicians of the University Chorus and Orchestra assisted by a special children's choir in concert Dec. 17 at UNLV.

Mozart's best-known mass, "Coronation Mass," will be performed with French composer Arthur Honneger's "Christmas Cantata" at 2 p.m. in the Judy Bayley Theatre.

A 50-voice elementary honor chorus drawn from the Clark County public schools will assist in the "Cantata."

The annual concert is free to the public.

"The 'Coronation Mass' is the best-known of the 17 masses Mozart wrote in Salzburg, and the "Cantata" is a 40 minute work which recounts mankind's suffering and tells of the birth of Christ through popular French and German carols woven into fascinating contrapuntal texture."

The 1953 "Cantata" was Honneger's last work written after he had been stricken with heart disease. One of his earlier works, the oratorio "King David," was performed two years ago by the combined UNLV Chorus and Las Vegas Musical Arts Workshop.

Solo quartet for Mozart's composition will be Reggi Doty, soprano; Pat Black, contralto; Don Eaholtz, tenor; and Stephen Hayes, baritone.

The concert is sponsored in part by the University Musical Society.

VETS FINALLY GETTING SOME CONSIDERATION

Gordon R. Elliott, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, Los Angeles, has announced the opening of a home counseling service in San Diego for veterans eligible for home loan guaranty benefits, and others interested in purchasing VA-owned homes. The service is designed to assist veterans in taking advantage of their home loan benefits. The program is available during evening hours from 6 to 9 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday at the San Diego Service Center, 4235 National Avenue, San Diego, California.

The home counseling program was started in Los Angeles over a year ago. Because of its success, it has been extended to ten other cities including San Diego.

Elliott sees this home counseling service in San Diego as another step in keeping with the President's mandate to increase opportunities for minorities in all government programs.

"The Veterans Administration is vitally interested in helping veterans obtain, keep and maintain their homes once they have made use of the loan guaranty benefits," Elliott commented. "It is our belief that if a family formulates a realistic budget, and lives within it, the possibility of losing their home diminishes."

Any veteran thinking of buying a home, or persons interested in purchasing VA-owned homes can call (714) 293-5323 and make an appointment to come in for counseling.

Counseling will include budgeting, property location, loan repayment, property maintenance, access to jobs, schools, shopping centers, and transportation.

The service is offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays between the hours of 6 to 9 p.m. at the main section of the San Diego Service Center, 4235 National Avenue, San Diego.

Just Wait Until 1974!!

By Larry Sabbath

If you thought that 1972 was an interesting year for Nevada politics just wait until 1974. With contests for Senate, Congress, and Gubernatorial seats on tap we should see a real dog-fight within both parties for these political plums.

Within Republican circles there must be many who with that they had the foresight to run for Congress against the previously unbeatable Walther Baring. Evidently they did not realize that he would be as vulnerable as he turned out to be to a strong primary challenge. The big question for reluctant Republicans now is whether or not to challenge young David Towell for the state's lone Congressional seat.

Nevada Democrats are now wondering what will happen to the Senate seat now held by Alan Bible. There is some speculation that he may not seek a new term, although his recent activities indicate to this observer that he is still far from retirement. The larger question here is whether former Governor Sawyer can remain inactive for very long.

Governor O'Callaghan appears to be in a strong position for reelection. Even the Republicans are calling him one of the most popular governors in the state's history and Robert List, his most logical opponent, may be forced to look toward Washington rather than Carson City, at least until 1978.

The elevator finally reaches the first floor and another ten minutes of the students time is wasted getting situated to push the floor designator and be ready to roll out on the two second opening that is allowed him.

As the student gets off on the third floor he is lost in the maze. He starts checking around if it is even possible to move on the carpeting. Finally the correct aisle is found and the wheels start rolling. "Clink", obstacle number four, the chair is two and one-half feet wide, and the opening of the aisle is only two feet wide. A complete circle is then made to come in from the opposite direction. The searching begins, comparing numbers, looking back and forth, reading titles, authors, and publishers.

His keen eye sight finally spots it, obstacle number five, it's on the top shelf of a ten-foot high book case. The student travels back around to the circulation desk and acquires the aide of an attendant who takes the book and checks it out for him. He then sits down and starts his research. After completion of his study, obstacle number six is met. The reverse process of getting out of the place.

That evening in the comforts of his own home he writes his term paper entitled "The Barriers of the Physically Handicapped at College". The next morning he turns it into his Special Education Prof who grades it. The paper is returned a week later with an A- grade and the student asks himself: "Was it worth it?"

"the shrine of the Immaculate Deception."

By Vic L. Byers III

"You buncha fuckers can't even shoot three little boats outa the fuckin' water," President Johnson reportedly told the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the White House's famed War Room following the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962.

Malcolm Kilduff, a former Kennedy aide, told reporters of LBJ's "ghastly behavior a mere 20 hours after President Kennedy's assassination."

Kilduff said "The hog (LBJ) had scheduled an early morning meeting for the Joint Chiefs and other Presidential advisors and aides - I was there."

"Johnson came into the room in an open-necked sport shirt and started yelling profanities at us about the Kennedy administration's handling of the Missile Crisis."

Kilduff referred to Johnson disaffectionately as an "inept leader" and a "winner by default on the grand scale."

According to Kilduff, President Kennedy had scheduled a complete withdrawal of the 16,500 American troops in Vietnam by January, 1964.

"But after the President's death, and with LBJ at the controls, the American troop level in Vietnam soon reached its peak of 550,000 men."

Kilduff admitted that he did not personally like LBJ, and said of the new Johnson Library on the University of Texas' Austin campus, "Ah yes, the shrine of the Immaculate Deception."

The Office of Campus Security advises vehicle users on the campus of new parking regulation enforcement measures being initiated. Numerous and repeated parking violations by some individuals on campus have created the atmosphere for the change.

The new measures include use of a vehicle immobilizer installed on the front wheel of an illegally parked vehicle so that it cannot be moved. The immobilizer, known as the "Boot," can only be removed by use of a special tool and will be removed only after the driver has identified himself so that personal responsibility can be established as a basis for appropriate action.

The boot will be placed only on those vehicles which have become a parking nuisance and have been observed as repeated offenders. Before the boot is actually used, however, a warning citation will be placed on the vehicle stating that the license number has been recorded with Campus Security and that continued violations of Campus Parking and Traffic Regulations will result in use of the boot, which will be used only as a last resort.

The Office of Campus Security wishes to advise all University connected persons of a major change in the Frazier Hall parking area effective immediately following the Christmas holidays.

The major change involves the reversing of the entrance and exit of the parking lot. Entry will be made from the entrance that leads to the Humanities Bldg. and the new exit will then be at the north end of Frazier Hall parking lot providing access to both north and southbound traffic on Maryland Parkway.

A security officer will be on duty at the new Frazier parking to wave persons south to the new entrance. This procedure will help persons using this parking lot become accustomed to the change.

All parking slots will be changed making parking easier and more convenient. Appropriate directional signs will be installed to facilitate parking and to ease traffic congestion. The change is being made to help alleviate traffic hazards and parking problems now associated with the Frazier Hall parking area. General cooperation in complying with the new plans will be appreciated.

After ample time is given for persons to get used to the new area, citations will be issued for both parking and moving traffic violations.

the tired cliché, "let's put the money we would use for buses into upgrading the schools on the West Side." These people either refuse to recognize or don't know that until two years ago there were six all-black schools on the West side of town. The proponents of this tired cliché state that these schools are the result of natural geographical districts of Clark County. I wouldn't accuse the politicians of gerrymandering the district on the West side (I really would), but that particular district looks like a prison yard. So when the politicians say segregation developed by accident and not by intention I tend to be a little skeptical.

The "true believers" in the anti-busing movement have said that the Sixth Grade Plan will do "irreparable" harm to the children involved. I would suggest that if you talk to one of these people for at least five minutes you will find a racist either conscious or subconscious in 90% of the cases.

We might ask how the children are bearing up under this "irreparable" damage they have encountered. I conducted rather extensive interviews in two of the Sixth Grade Centers and I found that the kids are enjoying the experience. Based on questionnaires filled out by the students I found that they favored the bus rides most of all for obvious reasons. They also enjoyed the experience of making new friends and having new teachers and a new environment. The only negative attitude was that their parents weren't in favor of the plan.

We need not worry about this negative factor since the reason for the Sixth Grade Centers is to save the children from some of the problems that a segregated society has created for their parents. We must write off the over 21 crowd as being already politically socialized and static. The entire effort of the court is to try to erase racism before stereotypes due to fear and ignorance develop.

If the anti-busing forces in Clark County feel that the desegregation now taking place in Clark County is the result nine old men acting in haste and liberalism need only look at a few details to change their minds. First, the Brown v. Board of Education decision that signaled the end of segregation in public schools was made on May 17, 1954. It took only 18 years to reach Clark County. Second, the "ultra-liberal" Chief Justice Warren, who drafted the decision accompanying the Brown decision and was labeled a Communist for his efforts by the politically neutral John Birch Society, was also the conservative Governor of California who seized the property of Japanese Americans living in that state and then placed them in concentration camps for the duration of WWII "for their own protection and for the good of America."

In his opinion Chief Justice Warren stated that the doctrine of "separate but equal" had no place in the public schools. Money is not the solution to this situation. We can pour millions into our schools and if they are racially segregated they are still inferior. It is time for Clark County to realize that we have extended out "grace period" for 18 years and now it is time to remove segregation from the Clark County School District.

Intro to Economics

An introductory course in basic economic concepts for students not majoring in business will be offered in the spring semester by UNLV.

Entitled "Survey of Economics--EC-204," the three credit course will meet from 2 until 3:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The material to be presented in the course is designed to enable students to analyze economic problems and policies. Discussions of pollution, poverty, unemployment and its relation to inflation will be included.

Filmstrips and other special material will be used to familiarize students with economic principles.

The course is not open to freshmen or to students who have received credit for Ec. 101 and 102.

Since I've indulged in the writer's vice for the last few hours, it's time to get creative and write some more culinary comments. But first I have to convey some socio-educational thoughts which you may or may not agree. (I'm always open to gentle rebuttal).

I never really believed in all those stories about frivolous freshmen females until tonight. Now that I'm back in the gutter, I will only be susceptible to saucy seniors offering languid limbs, instead of bubble-gumming chickies bursting bubbles of two peopled worlds. Before I get carried away and launch into sirenic sophomores, I better give you a recipe.

This is for my roommate Scott Johnston (alias Grumpy) because he eats the most steak and potatoe meals, yet last night got carried away with: Braised Pork Chops Italian Style from Alice's Restaurant Cookbook.

You need:
4 or 5 pork chops
1 can whole tomatoes
1/2 cup chooped green peppers
1/2 teaspoon each of oregano, thyme and/or basil
2 cloves garlic
Red wine (like Red Mountain)

Do: Sear chops, then simmer for 45 minutes in the tomatoes, onions, and green peppers. The last 20 minutes add oregano, basil, thyme and garlic. The last 5 minutes add 1/2 cup of red wine.

Appropriately, for the Cook's Corner Cultural Cubical Alice's Restaurant Cookbook by Alice May Brock is a very easy-to-understand, but with tasty recipes cookbook.

"I announced the death of President Kennedy"

By Ailene Voisin

"I am the man who announced John F. Kennedy's death," Mac Kilduff, program coordinator for Channel 13 told UNLV Journalism students Monday night.

Kilduff, former assistant press secretary of John Kennedy, recalled that dramatic scene in Dallas, Tex. on Nov. 22, 1963.

"I was in the third car behind the President. After the shots rang out, the President's head laid on Jackie's lap."

Kilduff completely rejects speculation that claims Jackie tried to flee from the scene after the shooting. "Jackie was reaching for Clint Hill, her secret service agent," Kilduff said. "She was only trying to get help."

JFK's former press agent also questions certain findings of the Warren Commission report on the investigation. Kilduff claims that, although the investigation concluded that one bullet went through the President's head and then into John Connally, that this would be impossible.

Deeply disturbed by the assassinations of the 1960's, Kilduff feels, however, that only Martin Luther King's death was engineered by a conspiracy.

"John and Bobby Kennedy were shot in an individual action, but King's death was too well organized," Kilduff said. "Probably the death of Civil Rights leader was cultivated by the anti-black movement," he added.

Channel 13's new employee also fears for the life of Sen. Edward Kennedy if he chooses to run for the presidency in the 1976 campaign.

Kilduff came to Las Vegas over a year ago to file for a divorce. Deciding to stay, he accepted the job as program coordinator for Channel 13.

Although Nevada is a far cry from the political scene in Washington D.C., Kilduff was instrumental in press work for Congressional candidate James Bilbray's campaign.

Gifts and Grants to UNLV

Nearly $1.7 million in outside gifts and grants flowed into UNLV during the 1971-72 fiscal year, during the 1971-72 fiscal year, according to a report issued today by the Office of the President.

The total is nearly a quarter of a million dollars more than the amount received during the preceding year.

"It is this type of funding--beyond that allotted by our legislature--that leads us toward excellence," President Roman Zorn stated. "I'm pleased to notice that the funds are divided over several academic disciplines and are heavy in the important area of student loans and scholarships."

A rough breakdown reveals that approximately $600,000 in gifts and grants bolstered the academic programs. Almost $650,000 was channeled into student loans, scholarships, work-study and counseling services, while another $450,000 went into athletics, performing arts and miscellaneous projects. Private and public grants accounted for $1,277,514, a 25 percent jump over a year ago.

Some of the most notable grants included a $125,820 award from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for student loans; $115,291 from the Nevada State Welfare and Rehabilitation Division for social services department; and $94,155 from H.E.W. to help finance the college work-study program.

Other sizeable grants were an $83,298 outlay from H.E.W. for Education Opportunity Grants; $83,050 from the Nevada State Department of Education for special education traineeships; $72,000 from the Atomic Energy Commission to the Dickinson Library; and $94,352 from H.E.W. for the Teacher Corp Program.

Contributions from local Southern Nevada community totaled $417,059.

"There was a noticeable increase in individual and corporate gifts," Dr. Zorn noted, "due chiefly to the favorable tax advantages currently allowable for contributions to higher education."

He said the new Bayley Theatre and the Dickinson Library were prime recipients of donations.

Gifts and grants for general scholarships amounted to $331,694 while athletic grants-in-aid totaled $171,500.

Outside funds supporting scientific research stood at $135,789, grants to the social sciences reached a sum of $248,677, and awards to teacher education projects amounted to $150,005.

Specially scheduled examinations will also be on Saturday, December 16 and on Saturday, December 23: 8 a.m. - noon.

ATTENTION: Pre-Law students
All pre-law students should be aware that an LSAT score is required for admission to about all accredited law schools. The next administration of the test time will be February 10, 1973 on this campus. The next time will be April 14, also on this campus. For sign up material, please see Dr. Ralph Roske, in room SS-135.

Museum Experts to Speak

A professor of history at UNLV will speak on the history of the Las Vegas area at 10 a.m. Tuesday (Dec 12) for the UNLV Museum Docent Program.

Dr. Ralph Roske will present the final lecture in the program, which is a six-week project for instructing local residents on the contents and special features of the Museum of National History at UNLV.

Open to the public, the meeting will be conducted at the museum building, across the street from the main UNLV campus at 4624 Maryland Parkway South.

Also planned by the group is a field trip to local areas of interest in archaeology and history from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Saturday, Dec 16. Those interested in attending the field trip are advised to bring a lunch and wear walking shoes and comfortable clothing.

Funding the Docent Program is provided through a national endowment for the humanities grant. It was initiated by museum acting director Dr. Richard H. Brooks at the request of the Las Vegas Junior League.

YEARBOOKS

UNLV 1972 yearbooks are now available to all seniors who graduated in June.

According to Jude P. Gary, assistant director of the Moyer Student Union, the yearbooks may be obtained at the student union information desk daily, and some form of identification is required.

UNLV & Surrounding Community Today

"What has happened to me in the past is of relatively no importance to me. What does matter is that I am no longer because of someone's carelessness. If they just didn't push the button, everything would have turned out better. My trees are bare and charred. My animal friends have all died or have been driven off by the holocaust. Now, whenever it rains, my hillsides will be gutted and flowers won't grow anymore because the heat has turned it to ashes. Because of the foolishness of one person, my beauty has been destroyed. Now, little children can't play in my forests, because there are no more forests, or children. Oceanographers can't discover the secrets beneath the sea, because there are no more seas. There is nothing anymore but the memories. Memories of the past, when I was green and fertile, as I have been since the beginning. But no more. Now, only darkness prevails over what is left-nothing.

CONSIDERATION GIVEN TO ONLY STUDENTS WITH ID ON SIMILAR COMPONENTS

In assembling this 'best value' stereo system we left out something very important: $40.00.

Individually, each of the components pictured has created a new standard of sound-per-dollar stereo value. Together, these components produce an amount and quality of sound that would have cost at least five hundred dollars a year ago.

The new INTERAUDIO speakers from BOSE are one of the few speakers costing less than $100 that can reproduce the entire musical range. Most inexpensive speakers cannot produce the lowest octaves of music; the lowest strings of a double bass or electric bass guitar, the lowest pipes of a pipe organ. The INTERAUDIO can.

The JVC5501 AM/FM stereo receiver has enough power to satisfy both you and the speakers. It produces 10 watts (conservative) across the entire musical range, at less than 1/2% total distortion.

The tuner sections will separate weaker stations on a crowded dial from their brawnier neighbors and receive them with an amazing fullness and clarity.

To match the quality and reliability that the JVC and the INTERAUDIO represent, we recommend a BSR turntable with a SHURE M-75 cartridge. The BSR has a heavy platter, a synchronous motor, a convenient cueing control and comes with a dustcover and base.

Come to INTERIOR SYSTEMS this week. You'll be surprised how much quality sound your dollars can buy.

Systems Price: $347.95 If bought separately $387.95

5 MEMBER COMMITTEE

TO PICK NEW HEAD COACH

A campus screening committee has begun the search for a new head football coach at UNLV.

University President Roman J. Zorn said the five-member committee is composed of Michael "Chub" Drakulich, athletic director; Dr. John Starr, chairman of the physical education department; and one representative each from the faculty, the student body and the University Rebels Club.

"The University is moving promptly to fill a vacancy of head football coach," Zorn stated. "We should be able to make an appointment no later than mid-January."

The screening committee's first task will be to compile credentials and recommendations on the large number of candidates expected to apply for the post.

An evaluation of the 10 leading applicants will be developed by the committee from the entire pool of candidates. The field will be narrowed to the top three choices through consultation and review with the university's Intercollegiate Athletics Council.

The final slate will be evaluated by an administrative committee composed by Drakulich, Zorn and Vic President Donald Baepfer who will proceed with employment negotiations.

Until the position is filled, Zorn said, the present coaching staff is scouting new talent in high schools and junior colleges, thus facilitating player recruitment for the new head coach upon his arrival on campus.

WCAC PREVIEW

Since I've been in Las Vegas, all I've heard is how UNLV has never had a home court advantage because of its apathetic fans. Las Vegas is a town full of first class attractions. It's the entertainment capital of the world. In the last two years there have been three class sporting events brought here to Vegas. Basketball has produced all three with the annual holiday classic; last year's South Carolina battle, and this year's opener with Southwestern Louisiana. The result- three standing-room only crowds.

Sure, fans are apathetic toward our football program, but let's face it, we're building and the teams on our schedule are those which no one's heard of, or even cares about. When we reach the "National Level", and the "Big Boys" start coming in here, you'll see a change.

As a high school senior and while playing at Brigham Young University, I've traveled to most of the real hot-beds of College Basketball. When presented with a first class attraction, Rebel fans take a back seat to no one as far as crowd reaction and general basketball interest.

Unlike Albuquerque, New Mexico (university of New Mexico), Chapel Hill, North Carolina (University of North Carolina), or Provo, Utah (BYU), Las Vegas has the best of everything. Games with the St. Mary's and the Cal. Riverside's simply aren't going to turn anyone on.

By the time we get back from semester break, the conference season will be in full swing, so now I'll try to give you a capsule look at what to expect in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

As far as facilities and overall conference depth, the WCAC again deserves its ranking as one of the three worst conferences in the nation. There are three teams though, in UNLV, San Francisco, and Santa Clara.

The Rebels have two super players in Bob Florence and Jimmy Baker. If they get only token help from the rest of the squad, they should be enough to put UNLV at the top of the heap.

Defending champion, San Francisco, returns four starters and adds an exciting freshman in Rich Johnson. Phil Smith and Mike Quick are the leagues best pair of guards, while 6'10" Kevin Restain and 6'9" Snake Jones are two top rebounders and defensive men.

Santa Clara coach, Carrol Williams, although never blessed with great talent, always seems to get the most out of his players. Williams has two talented stars in league M.V.P., Mike Stewart and 6'6" sophomore guard, Jerry Bellotti, along with his usual array of scrappers and hustlers.

The rest of the conference will be typically dull and uninteresting although Pepperline has a great player in Bird Averitt.

So let's pick the Rebels to win it with a 12-2 record, followed by USF and Santa Clara.

Despite nagging injuries, and a lack of facilities, Dr. Gordon Edwards UNLV Cross Country team ended the 1972 season as the most successful in the schools youthful history.

With a two and zero dual meet record, the Rebels forecast warnings of things to come, as only 1 senior is on the 6 man team. UNLV also placed better in invitational meets than ever before.

Doug Clarke, who helped initiate the UNLV Cross Country program, finished his 4th year as a Rebel Harrier. The Clark High grad, holds several UNLV track records.

The UNLV harriers were led by a pair of Northern California Junior College transfers, should rewrite all of the current long distance records during their 2 year stay. Rich Milan of Cabot JC, and Ed Cantu of Monterey Peninsula JC, finished 1-2 for the Rebs in nearly every meet this year, and their competition together should push them to run about a 4:10 mile, and a 1:53 half mile, both of which would be new school records.

Three freshmen also contributed greatly to the developing program as Mark Nelson, Brad Cruz and Jim Bowman give UNLV an optimistic look in the future.

Dual meet results included a 18-39 triumph over Cal State, Dominguez Hills and 24-131 over Chapman college. In invitational meets UNLV placed 3rd at Chapman, and 6th in the Biola invitational out of 14 teams

Budweiser Brewing Chart

Because malt is so important in brewing, we use the finest Western two-row barley available in addition to the Midwest six-row variety. The extra cost of this premium barley is worth it, since it makes for a milder, more pleasant beer. Here, our barley is first cleaned, graded, washed and steeped, then allowed to germinate for a minimum of five days under a gentle stream of humid air in slowly revolving drums.

The hopped wort is strained, pumped to cooling towers, and then to fermenting cellars. Yeast, made from our own special pure culture, is added and fermentation begins.

Penetrating heat halts the sprouting process and dries the grain. Rootlets are screened off.

The cleaned barley malt is stored until needed for grinding in the Brew House.

In these patented Anheuser Busch fermenters, the brewers' yeast changes sugars from malt and rice into alcohol and carbon dioxide.

Many beers would be ready for artificial carbonation, filtering and bottling at this point, but not Budweiser. Instead, it goes to huge tanks in the lager cellars. Here, beechwood strips are spread across the bottom of each lager tank, beer is pumped in, freshly yeasted wort is added, and the beer is allowed to carbonate itself naturally as it ferments and ages, slowly and quietly a second time.

(This is the exclusive Budweiser Beechwood Ageing process. It takes more time (actually as much as three times as long as the process some beers use!) and costs more money, but the strips of beechwood provide extra surface for the brewers' yeast to cling to—and help clarify the beer naturally.)

Meanwhile, specially selected rice is crushed in separate mills and weighed. Budweiser is brewed with rice (including actual table grade rice) even though many brewers use corn syrup instead because it is much cheaper. But cheaper is not for Budweiser.

The ground rice and barley malt are wetted with clear, filtered water (absolutely ideal for quality brewing) and cooked. This mash is then strained in huge tanks, producing a clear amber liquid called wort.

The final step: the beer is carefully filtered—creating the sparkling brilliance and clarity that have made Budweiser famous throughout the industry. And the world.

Hops are the "seasoning" of fine beer. Only the choicest imported hops from the honored fields of Central Europe and the very best of domestic blossoms from the western United States are used in brewing Budweiser. (Absolutely no extract is used!) The result is Bud's rich, mild aroma and snappy, refreshing taste. Here, these choice hops are added to the wort, which is boiled in giant brew kettles until the wort has assumed just the right delicate hop flavor.

THE WORLD RENOWNED
Budweiser
KING OF BEERS.

All that is left to do now... kegging, bottling and canning operations and adding the familiar label that identifies the most popular brand of beer the world has ever known: Budweiser, King of Beers.
