

Zorn Resigns, Search underway

UNLV is searching for a new president.

Dr. Roman J. Zorn, UNLV President for four and one half years, announced his resignation on May 19.

Dr. Donald Baepfer, UNLV Vice-President, is currently heading the university as acting president.

Zorn will stay on at UNLV as a fully-tenured professor in the History Department, of which he is already a member.

An 11-man 'faculty-student' committee has been chosen by the Faculty Senate to find potential new leaders for the school from applicants from across the country with the final decision to be made by the Board of Regents.

The faculty to student ratio on the search committee is 10 to 1. The lone student representative is junior political science major Terry Marren.

Zorn's resignation was sudden although there had been discreet rumors circulating about it for weeks.

It came as one of several surprise events on campus this Spring that came in succession to stun both UNLV and the community.

The first happenings were the by-now nationally famous 'UNLV drug busts' and the subsequent suspension of a number of students including then CSUN Vice-President George Braddock.

Braddock was replaced in office by John Moylan, President Pro-tem of the CSUN Senate and third-place candidate for the V.P. seat in the Spring elections (See story below).

At the time of the announcement no reason was given for the resignation, but later reports mentioned supposed conflict between Zorn and the Regents over various matters, including the mass arrests on campus.

Asked by the Yell about his leaving the post, Zorn said, 'It was about time for a new man' in the job, it being 'healthy for an institution' to have this type of turnover.

He had no direct comment on his relations with the Regents other than 'We recieved good support on some projects that have been successful.'

Zorn described his career as a sort of '19 year detour,' turning from strictly academic pursuits to administration.

'I like to teach,' Zorn said about his assuming a full-time faculty position.

Concerning whether he has recieved any offers to head other universities either before or after his announcement Zorn would only say 'I'm keeping a very low profile,' and that he was 'not interested' in any other positions.

Zorn went on to state, 'At this point in time, I just want to stay and teach.'

'We like the community,' he added, referring to his family. Former UNLV President Zorn concluded, saying, 'I'm content with the record during my tenure. We made progress both physically and acedemically on campus.'

Dorm arrests cause CSUN V.P. shakeup

Newly elected CSUN Vice-President George Braddock automatically lost his job when he and several other students were suspended from school following their arrests May 1 at the UNLV dormitory.

John Moylan, a 22-year-old senior, moved from President Pro-tem of the CSUN Senate to take over the office.

Moylan, a senator from the College of Science and Math and a chemistry major, did so under the procedure for filling such a vacancy outlined in the CSUN Constitution.

Elected to the Senate last Fall, Moylan was chosen President Pro-tem by fellow senators in January when his predecessor Patt Medchill became vice-president, succeeding Shane Skipworth who graduated in December and thus could not finish his term.

'Students don't realize the money involved in CSUN, even while they're voting for officers,' said Moylan.

Moylan stated he wants to show students what they are getting for their mandatory student government fees totaling to a $100,000-plus budget and help them get their money's worth.

Moylan and CSUN President Dan Wade have taken a firm line in dealing with elected and appointed representatives of CSUN who do not come to meetings.

'If committee members don't show up, its goodbye,' said Moylan.

Under Moylan's chairmanship of the Senate, a number of absentee CSUN senators have been removed from office this summer and replacements named.

Senators argue over sign, prepare to review budgets

A heated debate concerning a sign located in the UNLV's student government office highlighted the activity in a series of summer CSUN senate meetings.

The sign requesting students to announce themselves before entering the executive offices of CSUN officials during certain hours outraged certain senator who feel the sign isolated the officers by 'placing them in an ivory tower.'

Senator Kevin Beaton led the fight against the disputed poster. He charged that the printed announcement would 'make students who wished to participate in student government paranoid.'

The senate settled the burning issue by sending the question to the judicial board.

For the remainder of these summer meetings, the senate concentrated on completing the rather unspectacular but necessary business of organizing committees and revising budgets.

The publications budget which includes funds for a new weekly literary newspaper was considered and sent to the appropriations committee for approval.

Also presented for senate consideration was the 1973-74 activities budget, which allots money for all activities presented on campus such as concerts and movies. This itemized budget was also passed along to the appropriations committee for revision.

Rick Cuellar and Hank Eiler were chosen at the June 26 meeting to fill vacated Math and Science Senate seats. In the next meeting, Suzzie Hollingsworth, Helen Rondthaler, Eugene Belin, and Marc Hector were appointed to the senate from various colleges.

CSUN Plans Blood Drive

A blood donation drive on campus is being planned by CSUN with the idea in mind of improving student-community relations.

CSUN officers hope the drive, scheduled for this Fall, will demonstrate a desire on the part of students to work with the community.

Collecting of blood from volunteer students, faculty, and staff will be handled by Blood Services, a national 'medically sponsored, not-for-profit' corporation which supplies the blood used at hospitals in the Las Vegas area.

Blood Services will be sending out a mobile unit to be set up in the nurses office on the first floor of the Student Union on a regular once-a-week or month basis, depending on the number of planned volunteers.

The unit will be able to handle a maximum of six persons every 15 minutes.

Volunteers may facilitate the planning by signing up in advance on posted lists available at the start of the Fall semester.

Blood supply agencies throughout the country are phasing out the one-common practise of paying for blood donations as the federal government has declared that practise shall end by January 1, 1975.

All blood collected at UNLV will be donated free of charge by the giver, who will then automatically be entitled to as much blood as he may need for himself or his family for six months.

Consumer Column Planned

As a student and community service, the Yell next semester be featuring a weekly consumer column.

The purpose of the new feature will be to bring information to the reader about his rights as a consumer and to supply a means of voicing facts and opinion about goods and services.

Veterans Opinion

BY RICHARD MYERS UNLV VETERANS ASSOCIATION

The board of governors of the University Veterans Association wishes to extend their appreciation and support to those men who help bring about some dynamic changes, which will result in the growth of this academic institution.

Regent William Morris, University President Donald Baeppler, Student Body Vice President John Moylan, Veteran's Counselor Nick Paul and controller Wayne Williams deserve recognition and our thanks for their contributions which will result in not only favorable results for the veterans, but the campus as a whole.

These changes that will result in favorable conditions include the mini-semester and the G.I. advanced payment plan. Under the advanced payment plan the eligible applicants will be able to receive an advanced check payment for the period of 8-27-73 to 9-30-74. This check will be mailed to the University and may be picked up by the applicant on the day of registration, at the veterans booth where Mr. Paul, will be in attendance to assist you.

At that time, the applicant can pick up his or her check and apply it to their tuition, if necessary. Arrangements have been made, through the efforts of President Baeppler, Mr. Paul and Mr. Williams to compensate for any administrative delay in the checks.

Even more beneficial to the academic year, is the new mini-semester. It will be offered from January 2, 1974 to January 22, 1974, free, to all full time students who are registered in the fall. Over 200 courses are being planned for the mini-semester.

This program is particularly beneficial to the veterans because it enables him to receive full benefits for the entire academic year, providing he takes at least a 2 credit course during the mini-semester. It will also enable him to lighten his credit load during the regular semester or it enables him to gain extra credits for an earlier graduation.

You must be enrolled in the mini-semester by August 27 in order to receive GI funding.

For further details in these matters please contact Mr. Paul at 739-3446.

Day Care Center's future in the hands of Regents

BY MAUREEN HEHER
YELL STAFF WRITER

The future of the Day Care Center at UNLV will be decided upon this Friday at the Regents meeting in Reno.

Sunny Allen, director of the Center, has asked for the new facilities because of lack of space and playing area in the old location at the University Methodist Church.

If the Center is approved it will take up three large rooms on the east end of Tonapah Hall. The walls dividing the rooms will be knocked out on the first floor and a fire door will separate it from the rest of the floor.

The room will then be able to hold as many as sixty children an hour. Hot meals will be served for the first time, a nurse will be on duty full time in case of emergencies, and a playground will be located on the east side of the Dorm.

Sunny Allen, Mrs. Granger and two graduate assistants in education will be the supervisors as well as volunteer help.

The Day Care Center will cost approximately $10,000. About $3,000 will be donated from CSUN (the same amount as last year) and over $6,000 is to be funded from the Student Union Budget.

CSUN President Dan Wade, organizer of the project, said the dorm has never been filled so it will not be putting out any students of their rooms. The Center will be paying for itself and will break even with only a 50% enrollment.

Cost for student's children is 50¢ an hour and faculty is 60¢ an hour. It will be open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

UNLV states registration guidelines for fall semester

Any freshman who will attain 29 hours or more of credit by the conclusion of Second Summer Session should now declare a major.

Students who have decided what their major is going to be should report to the University College office in Frazier Hall, Room 110, before August 17 to fill out the form designating an Academic Major.

See advisor now

It is extremely important that freshman who know what their major is going to be to comply with this request because the records have to be forwarded to their college and department in order for them to be assigned an advisor and be assisted in their registration for next fall.

Any freshman who is still undecided about his major should discuss it with his University College counselor.

High school graduates and other local residents have less than two more weeks to file an admissions applications for the fall term at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Transcript deadline

Deadline for receipt of transcripts is July 16, according to UNLV Director of Admissions Dallas Norton. However, extensions may be requested by persons unable to meet the cut-off date, especially those who have just moved into the community, he said.

Formal admission is required only for students wishing to take nine credit hours or more at the university. Community residents may still take classes part-time next fall without going through the admission procedure.

Application forms may be obtained weekdays at the Admission Office in Frazier Hall.

All students registering for classes this fall at the University must either present or know their social security card number at the time of enrollment, according to an announcement by the registrar.

Jeff Halverson, assistant to the registrar, said UNLV is switching to the use of the social security number in anticipation of a computerized and much simpler registration procedure which begins next year.

University Switches to Social Security

The university will need social security numbers for all registering students this fall, he said, and exceptions cannot be made.

Class for budgeting offered to students

Ever run into a financial snag trying to balance the family budget?

A new class designed to assist local residents with the management of personal finances gets under way July 16 as part of the second session of summer school at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

The three-credit course--Finance 100X-- will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in Room 245 of the Humanities Building on the campus for five weeks during July and August.

"Anyone who's ever questioned his family's financial planning will surely benefit from a course such as this one," said Lorne Seidman, chairman of UNLV's department of finance. "It's the first time we've offered the class and we expect a large response from people who want to learn more about buying, budgeting and saving."

The course will actually touch upon a variety of aspects of income and expenditures, Seidman said, including methods of using a bank, utilizing checks, notes and endorsements, charge accounts, credit cards and installment purchasing.

In the area of investments, the class will explain loans, stock exchanges and averages, bonds and mutual funds.

The purchasing of several types of insurance will be discussed, including life, health, automobile and property. Also under review will be the preparation of federal income tax forms, what people should know about home ownership and estate planning for the future.

The course will be instructed by W.F. Vendley, a professor of industrial administration at Purdue University. One of several visiting summer faculty on the UNLV campus, Prof. Vendley, has taught as a Fulbright scholar at the University of Ceylon and as visiting professor at the College of the Virgin Islands. He has been affiliated with Purdue University for 32 years.

Persons may enroll from now through July 13 with the Summer Session Office in Frazier Hall (739-3396).

Nurses Choose Leader

A sophomore nursing student has been installed as president of the Student Nurses Association at UNLV.

Fay Evans, a nursing aide at Valley Hospital in addition to her full-time studies at UNLV, will direct the programs of the 25-member chapter throughout the next academic year.

The two-year-old organization brings professional speakers to the campus each month and sponsors a scholarship program through various fund-raising activities.

FAY EVANS

CSUN Publications Editor appointed

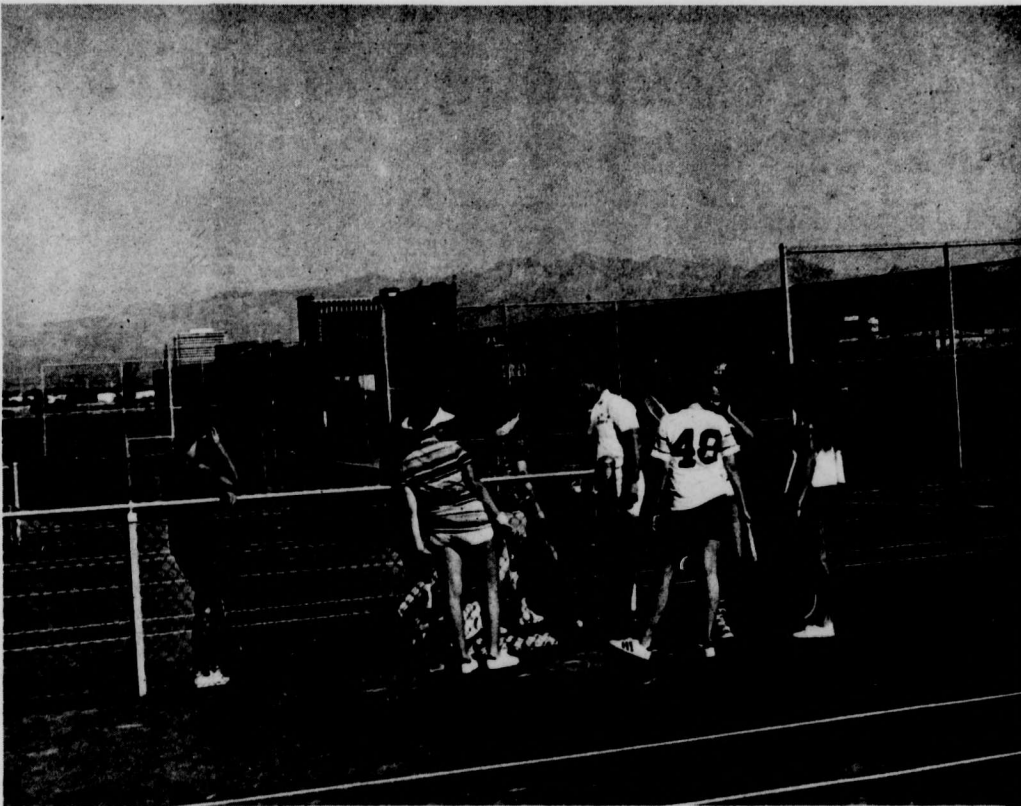

Kenneth J. Baxter, 24 year-old senior at UNLV, has been appointed editor of all student publications of the Consolidated Students (CSUN) for the coming school year.

a variety of reviews and articles. 'I would like both publications to earn the respect of the students and faculty of UNLV and also the Las Vegas public,' he said. 'I feel that the literary weekly paper will be unique in that it will give honest appraisals of movies, shows, books, restaurants, and all of the things that go on throughout the year in Las Vegas.'

A hotel administration major who will be graduating in December, Baxter will continue his duties as editor of 'The Yell' the weekly student campus newspaper. He held that position previously for one semester.

A member of the Las Vegas Press Club, Baxter has been a student at UNLV for three years. He is originally from Huntington Beach, California.

Speed reading class offered

A speed reading class which will teach students and residents how to accelerate their rate of reading while they improve their comprehension will be offered during the second term of summer school at UNLV. The class, instructed by Father James E. Story, will meet from 8:30 until 10:00 a.m. daily July 6 through August 6 in Room 42 of Humanities. Those interested should enroll through the Summer Sessions Office in Frazier Hall, 739-3394. Entitled 'Reading Skills Development,' the course will feature the use of closed-circuit television and other forms of media exposure to improve a person's present reading level capability. Father Story has taught reading classes at three universities and holds a master's degree from the University of Idaho.

Teacher Corps to begin operations

The Teacher Corps--a federally financed program designed to improve the educations of disadvantaged school children--begins its second biennium of operation this summer under the joint authority of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and the Clark County School District.

Dr. Aldo Cardarelli, assistant professor of education at UNLV and director of the project, said word has been received from Washington D.C. of a $193,395 grant to UNLV to fund a pre-service summer program and the first scholastic year of operation.

New Union Board Members joins University College

The coordinator of the qualifying program a UNLV has been named assistant to the dean of the University College, and also was recently approved by the CSUN Senate as faculty representative on the Student Union Board. Annette Bremner, a staff member of UNLV since 1970, will administer the 'selected senior' program which allows local outstanding high school students the opportunity to take two classes per semester at the university to get a head start on a college career. In her position on the seven member Student Union Board, Ms. Bremner will help oversee handling of the approximately $80,000 allotted for maintenance of the Union building, salaries of employees, and for activities and programs held in the Union in cooperation with CSUN. She will continue to direct the qualifying program which offers one year of probationary study to entering students whose high school records are below the minimum standards for regular admission. The wife of State Assemblyman Roger Bremner, the new assistant to the dean and Union Board member started three years ago at UNLV as a counselor for the Office of Special Services. In 1971, she took over the qualifying program, then a program. She was elected to the University Senate last year and was recently voted its secretary for the 1973-74 academic year. A member of the League of Women Voters, Ms. Bremner serves on the State Democratic Central Committee and is on the board of directors of Planned Parenthood, Inc.

Governor Mike O'Callahan was also in attendance at the 4th Annual Athletic Scholarship Banquet at the Dunes, and in a short speech about the progress of the University said, 'I am looking forward to a great year starting in September.' The Governor's son, is a freshman trying out for the varsity football team.

What's big and purple and lives in the sea?
Right! Moby Grape, except Moby doesn't live in the sea anymore Moby moved to Las Vegas. asthma or something, in any event it's here and from the looks of things Moby Grape is here to stay.

It all started when someone asked me if I had ever been to Moby Grape. I said Moby who? She replied Moby Grape dummy! Well that wasn't the last time I heard about the Great Grape in the desert. It happened the next night at work. A somewhat older woman interjected into my conversation, Moby Grape! Fantastic! you've got to go there! Being easily influenced by women, I went and My God! She was right, Fantastic!

I met two of the three owners, Steve Tecenor and Lloyd 'Grape' Charles. The third being Ralph Bullinger.

It seems the Grape has only been open for a year. And in that year they've sponsored an all girl softball team and most important of all, gave a benefit and collected over 1200 dollars for John Tywonivk, player for the Las Vegas Outlaws, who was seriously injured while diving into a pool. But to know and talk to these guys, it's easy to understand why they get involved in the community.

The Moby Grape is a local place without the glitter and glamor of some of the other places in town. It's truly a down to home place, where you can enjoy an evening of dancing, to the sounds of 'Fly United', who just happen to be very good, while sipping on your glass of draft wine or various other drinks.

Bar drinks run 85¢ and up, and the draft wine 60¢ and up, not bad considering it doesn't cost you anything to get in.

It's really a come as you are kind of a place. My only advise is to come early in order to get in. The band play Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Sunday thru Wednesday music is provided by records. but still the Grape has a distinctive air of enjoyment and light heartiness about it. The moment you walk in you're relaxed.

What can I say but it's Grape, I mean it's Great. So the next time you're sitting around trying to think of a place to have some fun and not worry about having to put on a plastic mask, in order to fit in, look out the University's backdoor to the University Plaza Shopping Center (Maryland Pkwy and Tropicana) and you'll see Moby Grape ready to swallow you into a night of total enjoyment and a lot of good people.

$100,000 sculpture financed for Bayley Theatre Plaza

A panel of six judges has been chosen to advise and help select an artist for a major work of sculpture for the campus of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

The project, financed by a $45,000 grant from the National Endowment on the Arts and a matching gift from Nevada bank executive Robert Z. Hawkins, will provide a monumental centerpiece for UNLV's expanding complex for the performing arts.

It will be the first sculpture project of such magnitude in the state and one of only about a dozen created through National Endowment grants over the past decade.

University Dean of Administration Brock Dixon said three of the judges were chosen by the national organization in Washington, D.C., while another three panelists were named by UNLV. All have earned highly-respected reputations in the field of art, he said.

They are Dr. Henry Hopkins, director of the Fort Worth Art seitz, professor of art history at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville; Dr. Henry Bruinsma, dean of the College of Fine Arts at Arizona State University; Dr. Jan Van der Marck, director of the Henry Gallery at the University of Washington; Dr. Gerald Nordland, director of the Frederick A. Wight Art Galleries at the University of California, Los Angeles; and Peter Voulkos, professor of art and design at the University of California, Berkeley. They will be joined here by Brian O'Doherty the National Endowment's director for visual arts.

The commissioning of a sculptor should take place later this month following a meeting in Las Vegas of the six panelists. The artist will need about a year to sculpt and install the work, according to Dr. Dixon.

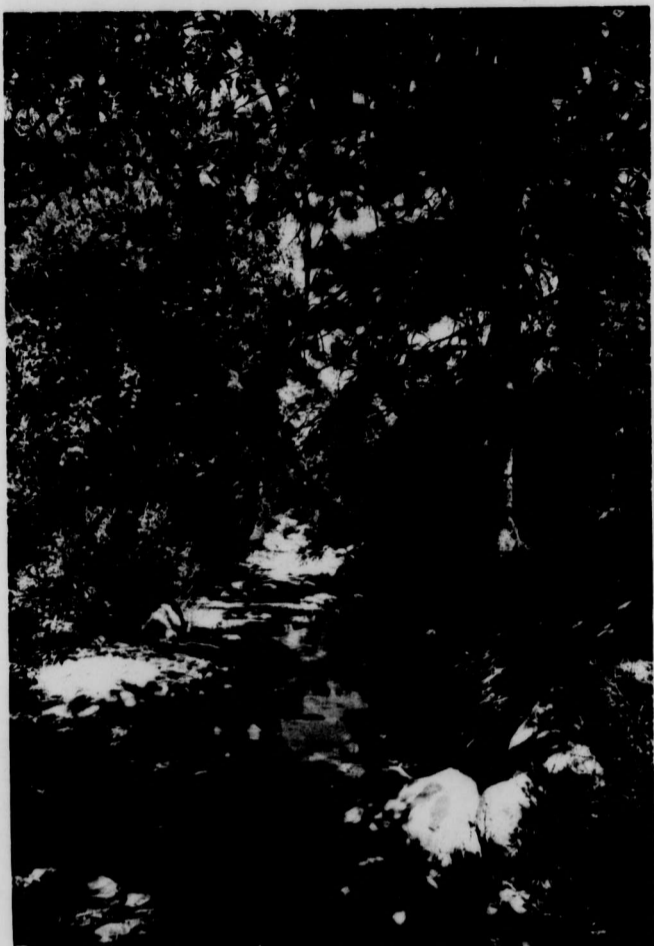

The sculpture will stand in the center of a plaza that will join the existing Bauley Theatre with the proposed Artemus Ham Music Hall, funding for which was completed at the last session of the legislature. The combined value of the commissioned artwork and the expanded plaza with its widened stairways will exceed $120,000.

The plaza will be named in honor of Hawkins, an officer of the Security National Bank in Reno for his generosity to the cultural development of the campus and community. His gift amounted to $55,000.

TERRA

Terra? What for God's sake is a Terra?, you say looking at this strange name surrounded by nice mountain pictures.

Well, Terra means earth but it is also the name of a new student newspaper devoted to the arts, fiction, and feature stories.

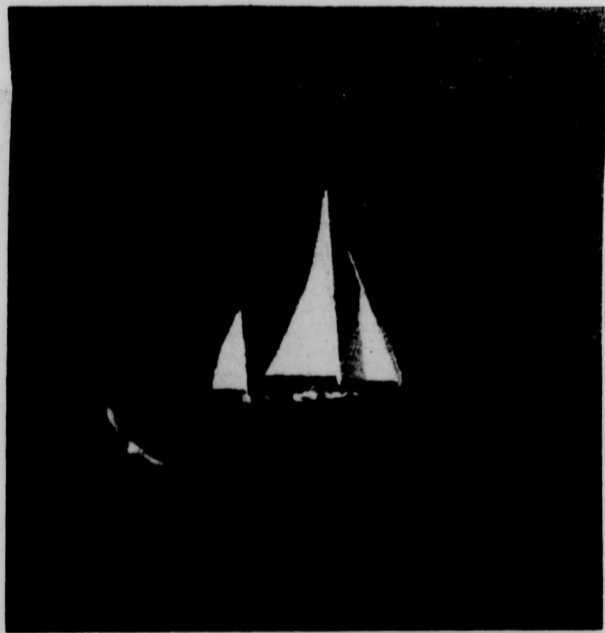

Terra will feature critiques, interviews, fiction, and stories in an eight page, unstructured format.

Why did the staff decide to name the paper Terra? The reason is because through Terra we hope to look at a wide variety of subjects from many different angles. (Actually names are hard to come by and terra seemed arty enough.)

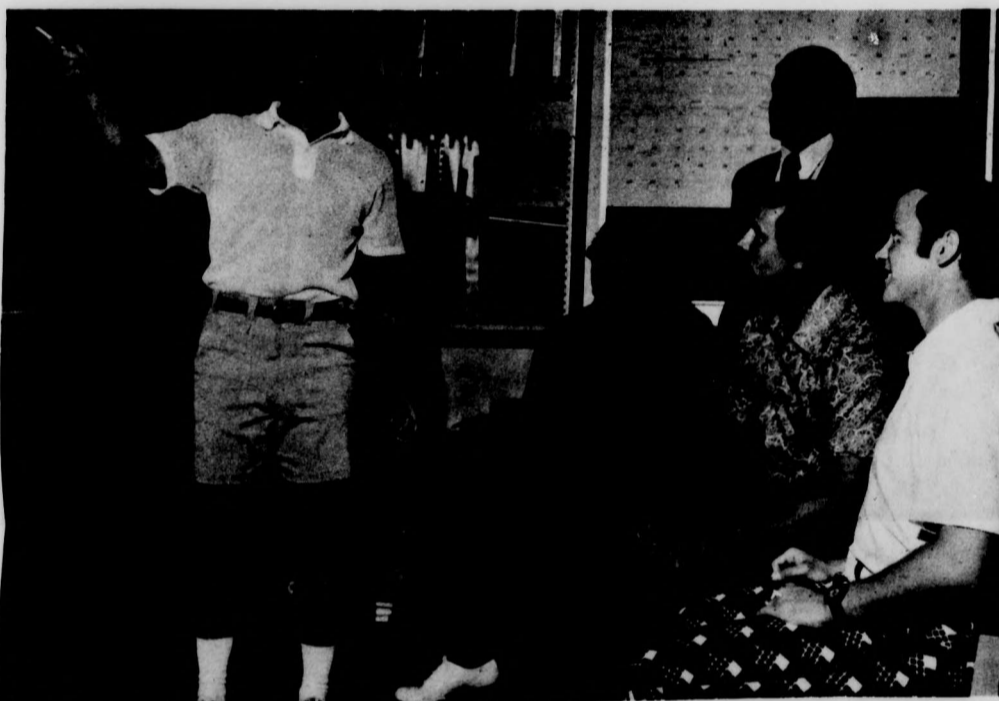

Our first edition will appear on September 6.

Anyone wishing to be a part of the Terra should journey up to the publications office on the third floor in the Student Union and offer your ideas.

"I" NEW AD

BILL IRELAND

Bill Ireland, the first football coach at UNLV was tabbed to replace Michael Drakulich as the Director of Athletics in late May.

As UNLV's new athletic director Ireland will be responsible for administering all of the university's seven intercollegiate sports programs--football, basketball, baseball, golf, cross country, tennis, and track and field.

'I was at first a little reluctant to consider returning to a pressure type position so soon, but the urging of my family and friends was most rewarding and I now look to the future with excitement and anticipation,' 'I' commented. 'It will be a tremendous privilege to continue to serve my state and university in this position. The Rebels are on the threshold of national prominence and I look forward to working with all our coaches as we continue to build a great athletic program at UNLV.'

The 46-year-old Ireland has been on the Nevada sports scene for more than 30 years as both a player and coach.

Before moving on to the college ranks, he was recognized as one of the most successful prep coaches in the state's history winning four state titles and nine conference championships in six years.

He is the only coach in the state to have been honored as 'coach of the year' in both parts of the state. He was chosen by the

DALLIMORE NEW REB BASEBALL

MENTOR:

Fred Dallimore, following four seasons as an assistant, has been tabbed as the new head baseball coach for the University of Nevada Las Vegas.

Dallimore, 28, has replaced Dr. Robert Doering who will devote his energies to fulltime teaching in the physical education dept. After a seven year stint as head coach during which he compiled an overall 158-127-4 won-lost record.

The new head coach commented "This is a great opportunity for me and it has come at a good time in my life. We have great weather and a new facility to produce one of the finest baseball programs in the Southwest and that is exactly what my goal will be."

Dallimore went on to say, "UNLV has already established a solid foundation in baseball, which will aid me tremendously as I start recruiting for next season."

A native Nevadan, Dallimore has been associated 11 years with collegiate baseball--four years as a player, and seven as an assistant coach.

His baseball playing days earned him many honors including being the first and only athlete to gain All-America honors for the Univ. of Nevada, Reno, where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1969.

At UNR, where he pitched, he compiled an overall 21-5 record and in 1966 he was 11-1 with a 1.52 ERA and he hurled a no-hitter against UNLV. He was honored as the 1966 "Athlete of the Year" by the Sierra Nevada Sports Writers and Broadcasters Assoc. Following his tenure at UNR, he joined UNLV's staff in the fall of 1969 and received his Masters of Education from UNLV in 1971.

In addition to being a physical education instructor at UNLV, Dallimore has also assisted the football program as head scout, and handled the duties of an equipment supervisor.

Looking optimistically towards next season, the personable new coach comments, "We will only lose five players and we will have a basically sound club returning and by signing up as much of the good local talent as possible, I'm sure we will be in the WCAC title race again in 1974."

Reb Football Recruiting; Speed:

Emphasizing on speed and recognized ability, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas has signed 54 new players to join the Rebel football program this fall, it was announced by the Athletic Dept.

Head coach Ron Meyer enthusiastically commented, 'Our new program is well on the way now and with the total commitment for excellence that our staff has, we are extremely pleased of our recruiting efforts, thus far.'

The new recruits, plus a few more that will be signed in the near future, will join 35 returning players when fall practice begins on August 17.

Several 9.6 to 9.9 sprinters dot the list of newcomers as well as four junior college All-America selections and one high school All-America. Mike O'Callaghan, Jr., son of Nevada's Governor, is also one of 13 in-state high school recruits on the roster.

There are also two transfers who will be eligible and two redshirts returning from last year to complete the list of hopefuls.

Sixteen JC transfers will bring in the most experience and 34 freshman will include the 13 from Nevada and 21 from nine states.

Northern Nevada Sportswriters for his NCAA College Division baseball championship team while head coach of that sport at the University of Nevada, Reno.

In 1968, he won the same award from the Southern Press for his 8-1 record with the Rebel's inaugural football team.

It was that year that the Rebel football squad missed by just four points in the final game of the season of being the only undefeated first year team in the history of the NCAA.

The Rebels' first year team shared its playing field with rodeos and destruction derbies. This past season all home games were played on the Astro carpet of the plush new Las Vegas Stadium. The first road game for the Rebs was played on a hillside field at Azusa-Pacific--the final road

The four JC All-America prospects are Perry Dorsney, a tall-back from Monterey Peninsula College; Jimmie Andrews, a defensive back from Pasadena City College; Jesse Roberts, a wide receiver who is also from Pasadena; and Craig Bray, wide receiver from the College of the Siskiyous, who redshirted last yr.

The high school All-America is Nevadan Glenn Carano, from Reno (Wooster High). He was the States leading passer in 1972 with 1,746 yards and 12 tds.

Ten states are represented in the list of candidates for the Rebel starting lineup, led by Calif. with 23. Nevada follows with 14, Fla. 6, Colorado 3, Texas and West Va. 2 each, and New York, Utah, Mass. and Tenn have offered 1 each.

Size was also a prime consideration in recruiting this year by the new Rebel staff and the results in that department seem to be profitable also. Twenty of the new players are 6-3 or taller and 20 prospects weigh 220 lbs or more.

UNLV opens the 1973 season on September 8 by hosting Arkansas State College from Conway to kickoff an 11-game schedule which features 8 home games in the sixth season of Las Vegas football.

game under Ireland was against the Miami Hurricanes in the historic Orange Bowl.

Ireland was one of the principal organizers of the 'Grand 100' Club that helped finance early Rebel football teams. He also served on the planning committee for the Las Vegas Stadium and was instrumental in helping to secure legislation that provided funds for the new $6 million physical education complex on the UNLV campus.

He recently was named by Gov. Mike O'Callaghan to serve on the Southern Nevada Sports Facility Commission.

Ireland holds both a BA and an MA in education from UNR, and has the rank of associate professor in the department of physical education at UNLV.

"...SUPPLY OF TALENT WAS TREMENDOUS..."

UNLV basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian plays the game for keeps and his record bears him out. With an 11-year lifetime coaching record of 320-33, the first-year UNLV coach has signed success with tremendous recruiting capabilities and he has completed his recruiting for the Rebels with nine prospects, including four high school All-Americans and two JC All-Americans. Tarkanian, and his outstanding assistants Tony Morocco, Dan Ayala and Lynn Archibald, have brought in a superlative aggregation that is comprised of six high school players and three junior college transfers. Four of the high school players are listed in the top 25 in the country by the accurate Ken Mink survey.

Last week's signing of JC All-America guard Ricky Sobers put the lid on the most profitable recruiting campaign in the United States this year, and comments Tarkanian, "This year's supply of talent was tremendous and for the first time in my entire college coaching career, I have recruited more than four ball players for an approaching season."

Sobers, who did not compete for his Dewitt Clinton High School (New York) team, comes to UNLV from the College of Southern Utah where he was second team All-America, averaging 19.7 pts a game, seven rebounds, and nine assists.

Lawrence Williams, a 6-5 JC All-America guard from Scottsdale, Arizona, JC, is the 1972 Los Angeles City Player-of-the-year following his career at Fremont High School.

Williams played only one season at Scottsdale and transfers in as a sophomore after scoring 23 pts a game with a variety of skills for Scottsdale.

Howard Wizenberg, a 6-4 guard, is the third JC transfer for the Rebels and although his career is not quite as noteworthy as either Sobers or Williams, he does bring in some credible talents from Stattan Island Community College. "The six freshman prospects also bring in a great amount of talent and," comments Tarkanian, "if a freshman is one of the top seven players on the varsity he will play there, while the other first-year ball players will spend the season on the junior varsity."

Heading the list of frosh is 6-10 center Lewis Brown from Los Angeles, who was twice CIF 4-A Player of the Year for Verbum Dei High School, averaging 24.1 pts per game his senior year and was the first player to receive the double honor since the awards began in 1938.

As a starter for three seasons, Brown led the Eagles to three 4-A championships and an overall record of 88-4, and Prep All-America honors.

While Brown was 15th on the Mink list, 6-6 forward Jackie Robinson, from Morningside High School in Inglewood, Calif. was 16th as he earned honors on the

Dan Ayala, Jerry Tarkanian, Tony Morocco, Lynn Archibald

CIF 4-A first team along with Brown while hitting for 17.8 pts per game and led his team on a 28-game winning streak to start his senior year.

Twenty-first on the Top 25 list is Schenley High's (Pittsburgh, Pa) Robert "Jeep" Kelley, a 6-3 high school All-America guard. Kelley was the MVP of the 1973 Dapper Dan Basketball Classic, a three year starter and hit for 17 pts a game last season.

The supposed 25th best player in the nation last season (some think him better) is the Texas Player of the Year, 6-7 swing man Eddie Owens, out of Houston. Owens, who led his team to three state playoffs finally winning his senior year, averaged 28 pts and 15 rebounds per game. He was a two-time All-America choice and three times on the all state squad.

The two other high school prospects are Glenn Gondrezick, a 6-6 forward from Boulder, Colo. and George Schrader, a 6-7 forward from Covina, Calif. Both were all-State and Gondrezick will play in the July 18 Colorado all-star game. He averaged 23 points and Schrader clipped in nearly 20 per game.

Athletic Drive & Banquet Both Huge Success for Rebels

The greatest athletic scholarship drive in the history of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas came to its official close last Monday night at the 4th Annual Athletic Scholarship Drive Banquet.

The intended goal of $300,000 was passed the week before and the final count was in excess of $347,000.

Representing by nearly $150,000 over the highest previous amount raised by a UNLV athletic scholarship drive, the drive will account for about 80 full rides, 66 half scholarships, and about 450 quarter scholarships pledged to the grant-in-aid program for Rebel sports during the 1973-74 athletic and school year.

The banquet was held in the convention facilities at the Dunes hotel, and over 1400 Rebel boosters were in attendance.

The entire new Rebel coaching staff was in attendance and Nebraska's Bob Devaney was the guest speaker. Devaney broke up the audience continually with his football anecdotes of his many years in coaching.

Nevada Governor, Mike O'Callahan was also in attendance as his son is a freshman on the football squad.

Newly elected president of the Boosters Club, Bill "Wildcat" Morris hosted the affair and introduced the impressive array of southern Nevada's elite citizens.

The annual "Nice Gal" award went to Regent and UNLV supporter, Helen Thompson, while the "Nice Guy" award went to Syd Wyman of the Dunes Hotel for his work over the years with the boosters of Rebel sports.

The scholarship drive helps to support a growing UNLV athletic program of seven intercollegiate sports, with many more on the way. At present the Rebels compete in football, cross-country, basketball, track baseball, golf and tennis as a of the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Bob Devaney, Athletic Director for the Cornhuskers of the U of Nebraska was the Banquet's guest speaker.

Entertainment at the Banquet was supplied by long time Las Vegas funny-man and resident, Shecky Greene. Shecky wrapped up the dinner affair in fine style, as 1500 Rebel Boosters applauded his *#&@ humor. The 4th Annual Athletic Scholarship Banquet capped off the most successful fund raising drive in the history of UNLV. Nearly $350,000 was raised.

Fund Drive In Full Swing Soon

(REBEL YELL exclusive)
Hopes ran high at Nevada Southern last night when it was revealed by a reliable source that May 23 is the date set by the Nevada Citizens Committee for a house to house canvas aimed at securing $35,000 for the 20 acre option offered by Stella Welbourn. The committee also intends to raise an additional $100,000 for the erection of a student union building and to further develop the campus.

Due largely to Nevada Southern telegrams, the 1955 legislature passed a bill which permits the sale of state bonds amounting to $200,000. The funds will be used to erect the first permanent class building. However, a rider was attached to the bill which provided that the southern Nevada students must raise the $35,000 needed for the additional 20 acres.

Rebel Rantings

"Save your Confederate money boys, the South's gonna' rise again!" And so it has in the form of the Confederated Classes of the Southern Branch of the University of Nevada. (That's Nevada Southern to you CENSORED yankees.)

YOU ALL COME

It's May 7, and the southern belles and their chivalrous escorts are all invited. What is it? It's the Confederate Cotillion. members of the senior classes of southern Nevada high schools and their dates are invited to attend. Ushering in the Nevada Southern social season successfully is a must for all of us. Get out and support it.

Rebel Yell Makes Debut On Campus

This weeks marks another "first" for Nevada Southern. It comes in the form of the recently organized school newspaper, The Rebel Yell.

We feel that The Rebel Yell is an appropriate name for the paper because Nevada Southern students are often called Rebels. Following this beginning issue, two other issues will be published before the end of the semester.

The newspaper staff is headed by Jerrie Germain as Editor, with Barton Jacka, Managing editor; Ann Larson, News Editor; Sunny Boone, Feature Editor; Ben Knowles, Business Manager; Kristin Hollingshead, Ass't. Business Manager; Bob Bunker, Marge McDonald, Hank Smith, Advertising Assistants.

The paper stands to serve the students and will try to fulfill every need. Its pages will contain news of all types - varying from feature articles to campus happenings.

The Rebel Yell depends upon you, the students, for its news, so cooperate and support your newspaper. With the work of the staff and the cooperation of the students, The Rebel Yell should prove to be a very successful student organization.

Well, guess that's -30- for this issue. See y'all around.

The night of May 7 is the date set to formally open the Nevada Southern social season. The event will take the form of a dance at the Country Club Golf Course, and a large attendance is anticipated.

"The Confederate Cotillion of 1955" is the theme for this year's event, the first of many annual affairs. Highlight of the night's activities will be the crowning of Miss Southern Belle. The winner will be selected from a slate of six candidates by Nevada Southern students in a special election.

Rosalie Berger, 18, has brown hair and brown eyes. She is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall and weighs 122 pounds. Rosalie, an education major, belongs to the Dr. Mack, Joke of the Month Club.

This blonde, blue eyed, Texas beauty is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 114 pounds. Frances Hines is a business administration major who likes witty people, school, (Hmmm), and of all things . . . Texas.

Kristin Hollingshead is a speech major who will be 19 in a few days. Born in Los Angeles, she is 5 feet tall and is active in many school activities.

Hailing from Cedar City, Utah, Ann Larson tips the scales at 118 and is 5 feet 6 1/2 inches tall. She is another education major and is also active in school work, holding the office of Freshman class treasurer.

Las Vegas lays claim to only one BELLE candidate in the person of Margie LeBourveau. Margie has light brown hair, blue eyes, is 5 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs 106 pounds. Likes to see what makes people tick. . . . she's a Psychology major, of course.

June Phelan may be seen hard at work at the university office. Weighing 118 and being 5 feet 4 inches tall, she has brown hair and brown eyes. June is another education major who hates to get up in time for first period. (But then, who doesn't?)

It was further announced that
