CONSOLIDATED STUDENTS UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA - LAS VEGAS - 4505 MARYLAND PK TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1973 VOL. XX #1

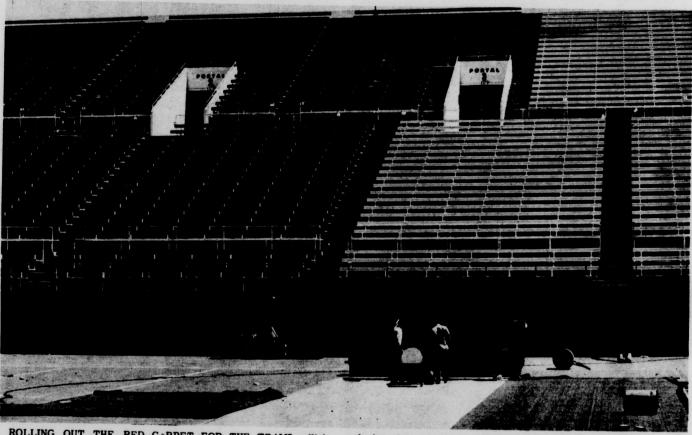

News Notes

Chairman of the Student Union Board, Patt Medchill, has decided not to attend school this semester, making him ineligible to fill the position he was appointed to this summer by CSUN President Dan Wade. Wade is looking for a successor to Medchill in the Union Board position.

CSUN Vice President John Moylan has scheduled a meeting of the CSUN Senate for Tuesday of this week, the 11th, at 7:30 p.m. on the second floor of the Student Union. Several attempts have been made in recent weeks to hold a Senate Meeting without success, due to the conflicting events and an apparent lack of interest.

Activities Board Chairman Dick Torres has hired the public relations firm operated by Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder to handle the publicity for the series of nationally known speakers being brought in to lecture students and the public by CSUN Activities. Snyder's firm will recieve 25% of the gate for its services.

John Moylan flew to Elko, Nevada this past weekend on the chartered plane that carried UNLV administrators to the University Regents' meeting being held there. Moylan represented students in Dan Wade's place and was asked by Regents the students' views on arming campus security. He stated, "definitely no sticks or guns," but said students could agree arming the officers with mace, a liquid eye irritant.

University Senate Hears Move To Eliminate P.E. Requirements

Two controversial proposals, one to eliminate mandatory phyical education at UNLV, the other to reduce the number of credits for graduation from 128 to 120, were introduced at the Tuesday, September 4th meeting of the University Senate. Both items were referred to committees and are due to be reported back for Senate action December 1st.

Annette Bremner, Secretary for the University Senate, said, "We would like to hear from students on these issues, either from them personally at our meeting, or through elected student representatives."

Students were urged to contact Dr. Patricia Geuder, of the English Department, University Senate Chairman, or CSUN offices with opinions on the proposed changes.

Dr. Joseph McCullough of the English Department made a successful motion which sent the matter of whether four semesters of P.E. should continue to be required to the undergraduate Curriculum Committee for consideration.

There was discussion of the P.E. matter with both pro and con views on removing the present requirement, but no conclusion will be reached until the proposal comes out of committee.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, Dr. Richard Strahlem, of the Accounting Department, made a motion that the total credits needed for graduation from UNLV be reduced to 120 from 128.

The matter was sent to the Academic Standards Committee.

At the next meeting of the University Senate, members will decide on the make-up of all standing committees for the up-coming academic year.

Future meetings of the Senate wil be held in the Education Building

For those unfamiliar with the group, the University Senate is composed of elected faculty members from each academic department at UNLV, plus some student members appointed by the CSUN President and approved by the CSUN Senate.

The body has authority to set academic guidelines and procedures for the university.

Security Officers Get Mace

Security officers at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas will be armed with chemical mace, university regents have decided according to Associated Press at Elko, Nevada.

The regents Saturday authorized Donald Baepler, acting president of the campus, to implement a recommendation from Brock Dixon, dean of administration of the school.

Dixon had surveyed other colleges and universities at the request of the Board of Regents. He said Saturday that of those responding to his questionaire, 26 favored armed officers with pistols, 22 with mace, 18 with night sticks and one with shotguns. (Continued on page 3)

NOW On Campus To Assist Women

The campus has a new civil rights organization, evidence of a national movement to gain equality for a group many of us may not have realized needed it -- women.

The University Chapter of National Organization for Women (NOW) was convened in early August with a purpose shared by hundreds of other nationwide chapters: "... to take action to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society now, exercising all the privileges and responsibilities thereof in truly equal partnership with men..."

In other words, a womer who wants to go beyond the the traditional role of wife or mother or volunteer worker should do so. She should go far beyond -- beyond store clerk or secretary or beautician, to executive or stock broker or statesperson. In (Continued on page 2) fact, says NOW, a woman should find it possible to do anything a man may do, and for the same compensation, privilege, and Children, they point out, are mutual and should bind neither partner to a limited world or limited activities.

NOW is not interested in pushing contented women out of comfortable homes to become truck drivers and telephone linemen. It is interested in sharing with a discontented woman the knowledge that the working world can be a source of stimulation and satisfaction.

It is interested in raising her consciousness to the way that conditioning has limited her concept of herself and her capabilities and her human worth,

And NOW is most interested in assisting the woman of intelligence and industry find the avenue to a success of her own definition.

Men also stand to gain from NOW's goals. The super-man image is dying out, and it should be a relief.

The definition of an acceptable man is expanding to permit a man to do things that formerly would have been considered "beneath him."

He should find it possible, says NOW, to do anything a woman may do, and reap the same benefits and satisfaction: Cooking, child rearing, needlework -- even crying.

Psychologists consider the trend healthy and, importantly, humanizing.

But, civil rights are the target. A prime purpose in Las Vegas is to educate, regarding the Equal Rights Amendment (to the U.S. Constitution), which awaits passage by Nevada and other states.

This will not greatly alter actual situations, but it will write into the country's law recognition of sex as a basis for discrimination, and outlaw it.

It will be a continuing job to gain compliance with the law, just as blacks continue to struggle for opportunity and dignity and real equality, long after they gained it technically.

Significant help comes from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which investigates complaints of discrimination and from the Office of Federal Contract Compliance, which requires "affirmative action" of any company with eight employees and having federal contracts.

An Affirmative Action Plan is a design for bringing the work population of that company into a specified degree of balance with the general population. Women comprise 51% nationally.

Chapter Both the University NOW and Las Vegas NOW (founded June 1972) will methodically bring pressure to bear upon those groups required to file and ac-complish Affirmative Action plans,

One important consequence of NOW (founded June, 1966, Washington, D.C.) is the reassurance and actual assistance that women who do not want to fit the tradition that tells them that personal goals, other than or beyond marriage and children, are acceptable, worthwhile and attainable.

Officers in the new group are Dr. Felicia Campbell, Asst. Prof. of English, Pres.; Ann Rice, special student in Bus. Adm., V-Pres.; Dr. Herman Van Betten, Asst. Prof. of English, Secretary; and Della Yaeger, senior in Phil. and English, Treasurer.

Meetings are held monthly on campus. MS Magazine, voice for the Women' Liberation Movement, and informative coverage of many subjects, is sold as a fund raiser.

On Sept. 28, 29, and 30, the local chapters will host a conference of 13 states at the Showboat Hotel. Workshops covering many subjects and conducted by well qualified and well-known movement leaders will be held all day Saturday, the 29th.

New UNLV Degree Program Gives Students Perspective

A new degree program in "American Studies" starts this fall at the University of Nevada, Las

The four year curriculum leading to a bachelor of arts degree is designed to provide students with a knowledge of American life, history, thought, institutions and characteristic expressions.

The major will give students the opportunity to explore all sides of the American civilization, its social and cultural development, its intellectual history and the flowering of its arts.

It will be offered without the addition of faculty members or a seperate budget, since most of the classes in the curriculum have been taught at UNLV for several years, McCullough said, However, it will be the first time they have been integrated into such a program.

One attractive aspect of the program is that each student will work out his individual program in conjunction with his advisor. Consequently the courses the student will take will fit his individual needs and interests.

"An essential feature of the american Studies program," he stated, "is that it enables the students to view larger problems of society in perspective. By focusing on a range of topics, they will be able to view this country as a cultural whole."

To become more aware of the 'American experience' students will select coursework from several relevant fields--literature, history, philosophy, political science--to name a few.

"People majoring in American Studies would have a variety of paths open to them," McCullough said. "the program can serve as a broad background preparation for such fields as law, teaching, communications, urban planning or careers related to several areas of government service."

Law School Board Plans New Program

The Law School Advisory Board met Thursday in the Gold Room, Social Sciences Building, to discuss raising the money needed to get the law school program for the University of Nevada underway.

The committee was formed last Spring when the Nevada Legislature passed a resolution which allowed the Board of Regents to employ a Dean (using private funds) who would be charged with the development of the law school program.

The Chairman of the committee is Dr. Ralph Roske, of the History Department of UNLV. The committee includes many prominent Nevada politicians and business-

The discussion focused upon initial funds needed to employ a Dean and the need for immediate action.

Justice David Zenoff, of the Nevada Supreme Court stated, "We have to start immediately because we have to find a qualified man to serve as Dean." He also emphasized the need for expediency in raising the funds needed to hire the Dean. He suggested, "We need $200.000 just to get it off the ground" Pointing out the lack of time, Justice Zenoff stated,"We need the money in 60-90 days or we can forget about it." A target date of 1975 has been set up for the first freshman class.

Baepler said officers would be trained in the use of mace as a defensive weapon.

"More In A Name"

by KENNETH BAXTER

Last week THE YELL took the stand on a front page editorial that it is time for a nick name change here at UNLV.

The editorial plainly stated the resons for the proposed change.

Much of the feed back from the proposal was that a change may be in order, but what could it be?

Here we are in the most unique city in this country, and perhaps the world, what can we call ourselves that wil convy this uniqueness to the rest of the country?

The name for our unique situation that is supported by both the managing editor and myself, is the SUPERSTARS.

SUPERSTARS you say. What the hell is a SUPERSTAR?

The popular opinion from the doubters of this name say that how can a team (football) coming off a 1-10 season possibly have the gall to play under the guise of such a pretentious team and university nickname?

My answer is by no means a simple one. The name SUPERSTARS conveys to the masses someone who excells in his or her sport. A winner on and off the field, certainly never a loser. How about the Jerry West's, Len Dawson's or Hank Aarons to name a few. These men are unquestionalby SUPERSTARS in their own games and yet have rarely been on teams that have own the national championship or the big games.

Yet, they are still considered to be SUPERSTARS because they gave a 100% to the team and themselves.

The point I am making is that winning is not always the no.1 criteria in deciding what or who a SUPERSTAR(S) is. But aren't there other means to identify these exceptional athletes, both on and off the field?

Playing under pain from an injury, giving a 100% even when victory seems assured, continually giving guidance and advice to the younger or newer team members, being actively involved in the community and many other things that cannot be listed are in my opinion, what makes a player or person a SUPERSTAR.

Every player on a 40 man football squad is there to do a specific job. If that person does not perform to a 100% of his capabilities, the rest of the team could suffer. Mnay teams play with one great player, a SUPERSTAR, while the rest of the team gets little or no attention. When the team wins, it is because of this fine athlete, when the team loses, it is because the team did not create the holes for him or block or defense properly.

No one player should ever be that important in a team game. All of the players should think of themselves as SUPERSTARS in their own right.

The criteria for a team member or student at UNLV to be a SUPERSTAR(S) should be the original reason for playing sports at the organized inter-collegiate level.

To develope the mind, body and spirit.....

These three important things have certainly been overlooked at most universities and certainly at the pro level these days.

It is my hope and belief that something different from this trend in inter-collegieate sports can be attained here at UNLV.

With proper coaching, player and spectator philosophy, our team can be a winner on and off the field of athletics even after losing a game on the scoreboard.

It is this old fashioned philosophy that must be applied to the name SUPERSTARS, that I support.

Even students not interested in the course of athletics should be able to carry the name proudly. It is only necessary to be a part of the feeling that the name stands for.

A player or student that feels he or she is doing the best he possibly can for himself, his team, the university and fellow man wil a complete person and in his own right a member of the SUPERSTARS.

Senate Must Act

If the CSUN Senate holds a meeting this week, student Vice-President John Moylan says no more than two additional meetings can be held before the second week of October.

This leaves a very short time for the Senate to get on the ball with some important issues, because student elections must, according to the CSUN Constitution, be held during the second week of next month.

Time is short because there may be more Senate seats up on the October ballot. That is if the Student government will act.

by PAT DENLEY

The Senate has not yet discussed what representation to give students who are members of the University College, on the CSUN Senate.

At present, the 2,000 University College members are without a voice in the body.

The Senate must solve the problem by putting an appropiate amendment on the upcoming bal-

Otherwise, nothing can be done this semester.

Senators have also not had a chance to look over what feed-back has been received about the name change proposal for the UNLV team nickname.

Originally proposed YELL, some students feel now is the time to choose a replacement for Rebels. Some do not agree. The CSUN Senate should evaluate all sides and take a stand.

Above all, the student Senate must rise from its slumber of the last several weeks and get to work to maintain student confidence in its operation.

Participation from the average student in CSUN affairs, such as voting in the October elections, will not be encouraged by a leth-argic attitude in some sections of student government.

by MARC HECHTER

As usual, there have been a great many complaints concerning the fees charged to attend CSUN activities. Did you ever consider the expence that the Activities Board assumes when presenting these various activities?

I have it from the highest authority that they do not make money. For that matter, they rarely break even on costs. Of course, you say, it shouldn't make any difference, since it's student money to begin with. However, ou want to continue to have activites, a little something is going to have to come back into the coffers. Example, GONE WITH THE WIND cost $500.00. Do you seriously believe that twenty-five or fifty cents was overpriced? Not to mention the rest of orientation week.

Someone in charge of ridiculous decisions has made another one. This time concerning the arrangements for the student seatng at the football games.

It now appears that the student the desire to have the students sit behind THEM. They prefer to be pushed onto the feild, not pulled. During the game, several students had very definite opinions concerning the situation. Tim Winger, an undergraduate in the College of Business remarked as opposed to a fan of the team," Also, consider the absurdity of having the cheerleading squad standing beside the the visiting school while conducting cheers.

The significant point is the over all inability to relate as a group of supporters vs. the visitors. Perhaps this is not important when playing a team that has traveled across several states to play, but what happens when we play Utah, or Cal State, and the fans for both are mixed together on one side?

This condition needs to be remedied. Students who attend in support of our team should be sitting where they can present a united side and not be split across the stadium.

As we all know THE YELL ran two editorials on the subject of a name change last week. So far I have heard nothing but com-plaints about our choice "Superstars." If you don't like it fine, but instead of just griping-how about some suggestions? There is somebody in the atheletic groupies who came up with "Bighorns," any other ideas people? By the way, a Bighorn is the State animal (sheep), terrific! If you have an opinion, express it. Send us a letter.

You'll never believe where the Board of Regents held their meeting this month. In the thickly populated university city of Elko?

Letters Attack The Name: "SUPERSTARS"

To the Editor:

Superstars, Superstars, Superwhat??? Let's get serious! First, let me make it "perfectly clear" that I am a sports "nut" to the true sense of the word. I love sports. I will admit the prospects of having outstanding sports teams this year is very high, however, what happens the time we have a year where we have no winner or as you say, "Superstars" and are just average or maybe even below average- in other words lousy!! Then what do we do, change the name from Super stars to SuperLOUSY or something along that line?

I feel that changing our name to Superstars, or for that matter any other nick name would not only be a waste of money, but not only a team that rises in arms against other opponents in conquest of victory.

Whether we are on the winning or losing side it is important that our teams strive for the best. The way you want it, the teams have no choice, they have to be Superstars!

I hope you weren't Superserious about the idea of changing our name to Superstars, for practically 20 years we've been sat-isfied with the Rebels, so let's leave it at that, O.K.?

Scott Bellamy

To the Editor:

Come off it! Superstars? Maybe if we were still in Jr. High, and talking about bad press! Considering UNLV's win/loss record Superstars is just a little too

I'l grant you that the connotation attached to our school name is rather insulting- but the word rebel does mean just a little more today that confederate soldiers. How about the rebels of the American Revolution, or those in the Nat Turner Rebel-

The confederate uniform and other hangovers from the Civil War could easily be deleted. Rebels - Sons of Liberty - opposers of authority, averse to control, advocates of change.

Let's be proud and arrogant and not so insecure that not a semester goes by when we don't worry about the public image our nickname propagates.

Partisan Politics Is Not A Place For Chief Justice

by PATTY ZANE

Last week THE YELL published an article written by Ms. Peggy Mullen, the Chief Justice of the CSUN Judicial Board. Ms. Mullen's article was entitled, "Chief Justice Speaks Out,"

It was a well written, but somewhat slanted article on the ills that have befallen Student Government over the past months, due to the "special interests within the Senate." Ms. Mullen calls these "special interest" groups "perspective power entrepreneurs" and feels that students "have been victimized by these tactics long enough,"

These opinions are all well and good, and problems in the Senate should be brought out into the open, but is it really the place of the Chief Justice of the Judicial Board to do it?

The CSUN Judicial Board is supposed to be the impartial judge of all those ills that have befallen Student Government, not pointing the finger.

The Judicial Board, according to the CSUN Constituion, has "or-iginal jurisdiction of cases arising under CSUN Constitution," It is the only place a student can go if he wants to fight city hall.

Ms. Mullen has, in her article, made it clear that the administration has her backing. She is calling for unity to fight the placement of CSUN's funds into an agency account, but has compromised herself while doing

What would happen if one of those "prospective power entrepreshould take a case to the Judicial Board?? Can she really be impartial?

Article VIII, Section 10, of the CSUN Constitution states that, "a Student Justice shall be required to excuse himself from participation in any case that he has been a party to or has de-monstrated some other overt conflict of interest."

The question is, how many of our court cases this year will Ms. Mullen be able to preside

Article VIII, Section 11 states that "any Court Justice who does not act in accordance with the provisions of Article VIII, Section 10, shal be subject to impeach-

Now it is certainly true that Ms. Mullen has only written a small article and there is alot more she could have said. Everyone has biases, but I feel that an article, such as the one in the last YELL, is a bad precedent to

I guess we could just chalk it up to inexperience for MS. Mullen, since she became a member of the Judicial Board and the Chief Justice by consecutive motions of the Student Senate.

She'll learn.

Smile Will Build Student Atmosphere

The first week has passed with 10¢ hot dogs, 25¢ movie, the concert with Valdy for $1.00 and a dance for 50¢, but there is still something missing -- "Student Atmosphere."

Don't get me wrong, it is there, but no one will show it, so for the next few weeks, months, or years, let's start a new student atmosphere and we'll call it a smile.

A smile costs nothing, but gives much. It enriches those who receive, without making poor those who give. It take nothing but a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. None is so rich or mighty that he can get along without it, and none is so poor but that he can be made rich by it.

A smile creates happiness in the home, at work, and in our case the University, and fosters good will in business and is the countersign of friendship. It brings to rest the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and it is nature's best antidote for trouble; yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away.

Some people are too tired to give you a smile. Give them one of yours, as no one needs a smile so much as he who has no more to

by VAL S. BUHECKER

(Note: Mr. Buhecker's article was written prior to the decision of the University Board of Regents.)

Peace Officers are defined in the Nevada Revised Statutes section 169.125. Under the heading "police officers" there are 21 separate definitions. Definition #11 states "University of Nevada System Police Department." Our campus security are full-fledged police officers by definition.

Recently there has been a movement to upgrade our campus security to meet the needs of this growing campus. This has included an investigation into arming security.

In a Speech 250 course, taught by Dr.Stephen Nielsen during the summer, a committee did in-depth research on "Should Campus Security Be Armed?" Most of my information comes from this source. Two surveys were sent out- one to 49 universities, and one to the professors on our campus.

The survey from the universities revealed two important factors, (1) Compared to other campuses our size and smaller, we are greatly understaffed. (2) Over 50% of the campuses have armed security, the major factor being the size of the university.

Being "armed" ranged from use of batons, mace, or guns to any combination of the three.

Seventy-two professors responded to the survey, which asked them if they were aware campus security was unarmed (most were) and did they feel security should be armed. Forty were against arming security and thirty-two were in favor. Comments revealed this to be a very emotional subject.

One professor stated, "No guns - no shooting - no death," Another remarked, "I believe that anyone lacking hands and feet should be furnished with prosthetics."

Some professors made very meaningful statements such as one professor in favor of arming security, "...provided they are properly trained in police work and do not merely wear the uniform

I interviewed Dale Florian, Security Supervisor. Florian said, "I have not and will not hire anyone without prior law enforcement experience or training." A look at the current staff proves this Florian served 5 years as a policeman in California, taught at a police academy, and spent over 2 years in private business as an inspector and investigator.

Eddie Rivas spent 20 months working in the Nevada Prison System and will start a 14 week course in the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Academy (Five days a week, 8 hours a day). He will work on weekends.

Billy Anthony served on the North Las Vegas Police Department

prior to coming here. Ed Gestwicki has served UNLV for 10 years and had police training in the service.

Bill Kolher served 11 years in the Air Force as a military policeman and instructor.

One must now ask, "is there a need to arm security?" I believe As this campus grows, so must the ability of our security to cope with the problems growth brings.

I don't mean to infer that there is a huge crime wave on this campus - there probably isn't, but crime has increased. Last semester there were attempted rapes on campus

There was an incident involving a weapon where the Sheriff's Department had to be called, it could have been handled by our own security, had they been properly armed.

Guns were found in Tonapah Hall during the dope raid.

There has been and will continue to be crime on this campus that may threaten the lives of not only the security officers, but also the students. I don't believe in sending anyone into the lion's den without a chance of self-defence.

If campus security is to be armed, what should they be armed

The decision of the committee was unanimously "mace."

When asked why mace and not the baton, Florian responded, 'I am very much against the use of the baton. I've seen the damage it does to individuals and it can be taken away and used against the officers.

Mace is basically a liquid tear gas. It has a very direct individual-type spray. It is non-lethal, meaning it is strictly a defensive weapon.

An extremely small percentage of people are allergic to mace which may cause a reddening of the face. Its effects last about 15 - 20 minutes. There are no permanent damages. Mace would only be used in self-defence, or in the defence of the students.

If mace is permitted, then the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police will come in and train our officers to handle it, which includes spraying them with mace so they know what they are using.

When one realizes that the Reno campus security is fully armed, and an alternative would be building a Metro Sub-Station on campus, then one should be willing to make an effort to educate himself to the facts before forming a opinion,

When asked why he felt security should be armed, one professor adequately answered; "...to standardize as regular police and for their self-protection in a violent, fire-arm oriented society.

"In theory I'd go for 'no weapons' - set an example, etc.; in practice I sadly capitulate."

Open Letter To Veterans

September 11, 1973

Fellow Veterans,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those who joined our organization during registration week, and further extend an invitation to those other veterans on campus, who have not yet

The association which we are attempting to establish can only be as great as those who are its members. The potential of what we might be able to accomplish is great, Many of you will ask, "what can it do for me?"

We hope also that with this group, we will be able to do more to further the educational prospects of those not able to do so on their own; to help each other achieve a greater understanding of ourselves, our aims, and our learning capabilities.

We hope to have a voice in campus affairs, so that those who donated a part of their lives to our country will be recognized and listed as an important force within the University.

All of this is possible, but only if we join together to make it all happen. So again, I urge all veterans on campus to join with us so that we may accomplish these tasks.

The Association does have an office in the Student Union Building, Room 126, phone 739-3624. There wil be someone in this office daily from noon until 1:00 p.m.

Stop in, fill out the membership application and, although I hate to say it, pay your dues of $12,00 for the coming year.

In closing, my fellow officers and I would like to extend our humble appreciation and thanks to Nick Paul for his great and invaluable assistance and encouragement given to us,

UNLV Rolls Over Bears 38 - 6

You thought I was kidding, didn't ya? Well we did it, and we did it BIG! Coach Meyer and his staff are to be congratulated on their 38-6 victory over the State College of Arkansas.

Before the game even began, it was clearly evident that UNLV was definitely polished and ready. In warm up, the moves were quick and crisp, and the quarterbacks looked more than ready. Jim Thayer, the place kicker was an impressive 5 for 5 in the extra points catagory, and added a 39 yard field goal. The scoring went as follows; UNLV, Mike Thomas caught an 18 yard pass from QB Mike Pry, (who incidently did a good job), with 6:28 seconds left in the first quarter.

Perry Dorsey, tail-back, went off tackle for 3 yards and a TD with 2:22 left in the first quarter. In the second quarter, Pry bombed one to Jesse Roberts, that went for 34 yards and another UNLV score with 12:55 left in the second quarter.

Oh yes, then Arkansas, I don't know how, managed to sneak one by us on a 52 yard drive capped by a Nat Daniel run in to give them their six. The extra point was blocked, fantastic!!

Then, tail-back Mike Thomas ran another one over to make it 27-6 with Thayer consistently popping those extras over to make 28-6, with 8:00 left in the third quarter.

Then it was big Steve Matousek's turn. Steve made a big 12 yard run in for the score to make it 35-6, with 13:33 left in the fourth quarter.

Finally, Thayer kicked a 39 yard field goal with 11:14 in the fourth quarter. That's how it stood at the end of the game, UNLV 38, Arkansas 6.

The first half, we had no trouble at all running our backs up the middle for good solid gains. Perry Dorsey, Mike Thomas, and Steve Matousek were very impressive runners.

Next week UNLV faces Cal State.

Kick-Off Barbecue Penalized for Mediocrity

I'm not inclined to be a toe breaker while criticizing, but the Kick-Off Barbecue dedicating the upcoming athletic season was ill-planned, poorly organized, and generally inauspicious. It definitely was not commensurate with the "Lets move into National prominence" psychology. I've been to Cub Scout spaghetti feeds in Cucamonga that had more motivating vibes, not to mention style and class, than last Thursday's shameful event.

There is no excuse for these dullards, the would-be Big Time athletic program supporters to send off the coaches and player students who are the nucleus of an athletic program made to lift UNLV into national prominence, with an out house level event like that ragpicker relative to a Kick-Off Barbecue last Thursday.

The only thing slick about the occasion was the $12,50 stab for admittance and the presence of, and the idea, that us regular people were rubbing elbows with some real hot dog coaches and athletes.

It seems to me Ron Meyer and Jerry Tarkanian were hired with the idea in mind that they would create the necessary athletic miracles which would punch UNLV up there with the Big Boys, where it deserves to be.

The thing is, how can a miracle maker make it happen, when the farmers who hired him revert to type and expose him in an atmosphere of feed sack level values, complemented by a five foot pile of dry chicken stuff, basking on a glorious field garlanded by drying milk weed.

(When you're a sows ear, and you ask to be turned into a silk purse, the least you can do is try to adopt the principles and the style of the wizard who agreed to attempt transforming. Don't drag him down to your level.)
I wouldn't have believed the most prominent lesson I would learn in my first week as a UNLV student, was that I had never been insulted before last Thursday night. Any life form, above an amoeba, recognizes academics and athletics as the catalyst to be judiciously exercized to promote and maintain a Big Boys level, fulfilling university life. I won't be deceived by those phony, hearty handshake, buddy-buddy, hand on the back and plastic factory retail smile techniques. That jazz went out with vaseline.

Now hear me; you can't try possessing the ajax with one hand while clipping your toenails with the other...Let us press on and accept the fact that we have, as a state, city and university, com-mitted ourselves to a level of excellence, the path to which is uncompromising, with no room for turning around. A tough way to go I hear, but the destination is as rewarding as our dreams.

Now if the sports fans and athletic supporters, team boosters and all think a Barbecue is an appropriate way to initiate an athletic season, not to mention ushering in the "First Era of Excellence" for a young university, then they better find a school offering beginning barbecue and find out how to put one on for real, like they see it in their minds. I've seen forest fires with more good going for it than the barbecue farce last week.

Receptivity is an important factor in upgrading and refining any given situation, so if the head mugga wuggas can't locate a school with a course in barbecue, but have the humility to ask, I'd be proud to give them lessons in barbecue throwing. I'm Armenian and whoop-de-doos just comes naturally to us.

Running back Mike Thomas listens to assistant coach Larry Kennan giving instructions. Head coach Ron Meyer also listens in. Later, Thomas gained 109 yard in his UNLV football debut, scoring two TDs.

What's going on here? Just ali kind of little numbers for the jock strap crowd.

First off, it looks we're in for another "Let's change the nick-name of the school" movement. After several previous attempt over the past few years to adopt another nickname, 1973 just might be the year it's going to happen. It seems this year is an appropriate enough time to seriously consider some chummy little title we can be proud of,

I don't mean to sound like a rahbut it would be cool if our debating team, if we ever have one, as well as our athletic teams, could carry a contemporary and individually unique nickname.

I made my own small survey, pooling indiscriminately and getting a representative cross section of opinion,

It was surprising that nearly 40% of the students I interviewed did not know the current nickname, Rebels. That alone might be reason enough to initiate a new name, not to mention that we hopefully anticipate national recognition for our football and basketball teams.

Anyway, the question I put to people was this: Would you be in favor of a nickname change from Rebels, to something, anything else?

With two exceptions, the response was YES. The only thing was that no one had any real thinking on a replacement.

Hey how about Abracadabra or something?
The point is, after initiating the proper steps, according to the CSUN constitution, THE YELL will coordinate a movement to chose a new name.

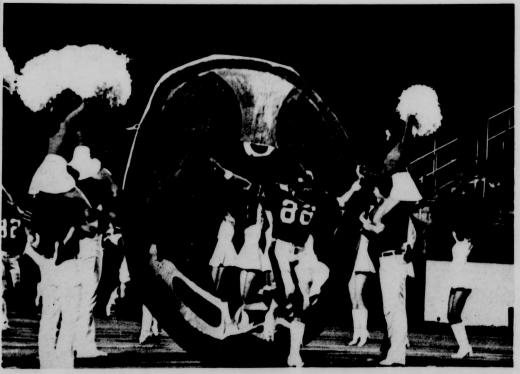

You'll get the specifics in the next issue

I visited Head Basketball Coach Jerry Tarkanian, recuperating from an operation he had on Friday.

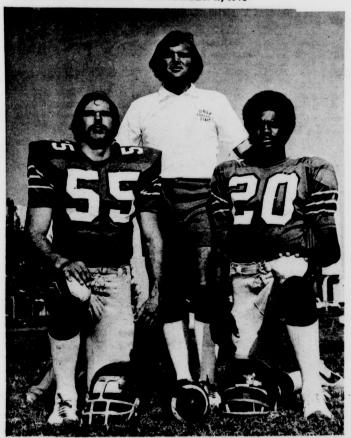

Even though the guy was just coming out of the first effects of the operation, he told me that he "kind of likes the Stars." That's some kind of Coach, talking about a nickname for his new school, just after rolling off the operating table.

This year 1973, will come to be known as; THE FIRST ERA of EXCELLENCE... The public birthin' is with football player Rick Whitfield (86) punching thru a giant helmet and leading the team out for their first game and first '73 win over State College of Arkansas, by a 38 to 6 score.

TEAM CO-CAPTAINS

Steve Henry and Lenny Lucas, a pair of dedicated University of Nevada, Las Vegas football seniors, have been selected as team capitains for the 1973 season by head coach Ron Meyer and his staff.

Henry, a 6-3, 206 center from Riverdale, Calif., will captain the offense, while Lucas, 6-1, 191 defensive back from Daytona Beach, Fla., will lead the defense during the demanding 11 game schedule. Meyer said a special team's captain will be selected on a weekly basis.

"It's a tremendous pleasure to honor these two young men as team captains for the 1973 Rebels," commented Meyer. "They have both worked externely hard during these first three weeks of practice and have shown their excellent leadership qualities at each practice, on and off the field."

Henry is a returning letterman who sat out most off last season and spring ball with knee injuries and operations and was even a doubtful returner for this fal. "Steve worked very hard this summer and has proven to us that he has a committment to excelence," Meyer related.

The Rebel center spent two

The Rebel center spent two years at Riverside City College, where he was also team captain his second year, prior to joining the Rebels. Offensive line coach Ron Smelt-

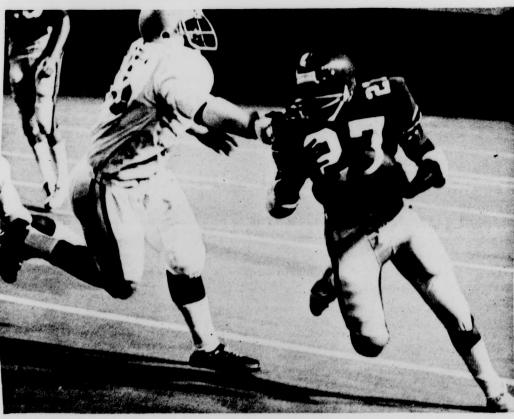

Offensive line coach Ron Smeltzer feels Henry "has shown the most desire and spark of anyone on offense and was the most instrumental in getting our offense going with his enthusiasm and the encouragement he gives to his teammates."

Smeltzer concluded, "Steve has very fine leadership ability, and like al great leaders, he leads by example." This will be the first and only season for Lucas, who moved to Las Vegas in March, earned his AA degree from Clark County Community College and decided to try out for UNLV this fall.

Lucas graduated from Father Lopez High in 1970 where he was coached by Rebel assistant John Chura and then went on to play freshman and one year of varsity for the University of Florida.

Ralph Readout, defensive backfield coach for UNLV, believes, "Lenny is one of the most mature men I have ever come in contact with in intercollegiate footbal. He has himself together, inspiring confidence and he is a leader without being boisterous or demonstrative."

Readout went on, "I can't imagine anyone ever meeting Lenny Lucas without liking and respecting him."

PLAYER PROFILE Perry Dorsey

This is Perry Dorsey, 5-8 165 pound tail-back for the Rebs. Perry comes from Mont erey Penninsula College in Pacific Grove, California, He holds the game of football in high esteem on his list of achievements. While at Monterey for two years (71-72), he lettered in football both years, and also in baseball and basketball.

In the two years before comming to the UNLV campus he established some impressive statistacal records. At Monterey he rushed for a total of 2,000 yards. In one game, he rushed for 238 yards on 31 carries. Perry was on the Ali Mission Trail Football Squad in 71. He was Al League and Al STATE in his position. And he received honorable mention as Al - American in baseball.

Perrys ambitions are to keep on excelling in football. He wants to know the game inside out Observation has shown he has a great amount of determination and drive, and he is not above throwing himself at three or four defenders at one time. Perry showed his great speed in the Arkansas game, so I call him "Mr. Superquick", and I'm sure it's going to stick!

As is shown in this picture of Perry he has great speed around the ends, in addition to quick crisp moves up the middle. He is fairly smal as a running back, but his previous records and goals that he has set for himself wil surely make him a bigger and better back in the coming seasons for UNLV. Tremendous job Perry, keep it up!

After college Perry wants to coach footbal, and should be a great asset to the game.

So, keep an eye on "Mr. Superquick" this year and watch him do his thing

LAS VEGAS TRACK CLUB;

The Las Vegas Track Club has released a list of 25 distance races headed by the annual Las Vegas Marathon for the 1973-74 running season.

The marathon, which will be raced for the seventh year over a certified course of 26 miles, 385 yards, is scheduled Fed. 2, 1974. President Don Murray of the LVTC called the 1973-74 schedule the 'best balanced' in the club's history. It embraces a large number of shorter distances including five miles,

The metric distances 10,000 meters and 5,000 meters will be contested for the first time on the UNLV

In line with the LVTC's youth program, special mile and two-mile races will be staged each week for younger runners in in addition to the main race. Even when the runners move into when the runners move into longer distances the club will continue to have a five-mile run each week concurrent with the longer event.

Murray invited all runners and joggers in the Las Vegas area to participate in the program. LVTC membership may be obtained at the start of each race.

'A great many joggers still believe they will be embarrased if they compete in our weekly races' said Murray. 'The fact is that our runners range from age 64 to five, come in all sizes and shapes, and are competing for the love of running. Nobody is embarassed because of the slow pace he runs,"

Murray said he was particularly delighted with the increasing number of women distance runners. "It used to be a rarity to see a woman running," said Murray, "but that's al changing."

A 10-year-old girl, Gwen Brauer of North Las Vegas, set a U. S. record for the marathon last February.
