REGENTS MOVE ON CSUN MONEY

REFERENCE COPY
Do Not Remove

by Bob Stoldal

This morning a special closed door meeting of top level university administrators and the student body presidents from to discuss the move made by Chancellor Neil Humphrey that resulted in the administration having the final say on how student funds will be spent.

While the results of today's meeting are not known at this time the indication from both administrators and regents is that from this point on complete control of student funds will be taken out of the hands of the students.

But, Humphrey says, "I don't feel the administration will misuse their responsibility in a way that will limit academic freedom."

However, Dan Wade, student body president, says he wants a guarantee, "something in writing, so that control of the lecture and concert series is in the hands of the students and not the administration."

The controversy started brewing six months ago when Humphrey sent a memorandum to Dr. Donald Baepier, acting president of the Las Vegas campus. The letter requested that Baepier take the student funds from the "separate bank account" and deposit them in the university's "agency account."

The agency account, according to the UNLV administrator's manual, "consists of funds in the custody of the institution but not belonging to it."

In requesting the change, Humphrey used as his reason, "expenditures by CSUN of monies for loans to students to use to pay bail bond premiums."

Humphrey's "request" came three weeks after the student senate voted to loan money to those students who were busted during a controversial campus dope raid and could not raise their own bail.

The student senate's action, according to one source close to the scene, "sent the Board of Regents into a rage."

The source said that many of the regents demanded immediate action after finding out student funds had been used for "pot smokers."

But Humphrey says the use of the student funds for bail simply alerted him to the fact that UNLV was not following the rules. In his capacity as ex officio treasurer of the university he had the authority to change the financial structure of the student funds.

Humphrey was asked if he would change it back, and he said not without an order from the Board of Regents.

In addition to today's meeting Humphrey says the Board of Regents will discuss the matter, and he assumes a vote will be taken when the board meets in Reno on the 19th of this month.

While an informal poll indicates that some of the regents would be willing to compromise in some way, it is expected that Humphrey's action will be supported by the regents and the university administration will from this point on have the final say on how student funds are spent.

Regent James "Bucky" Buchanan said he is "not definitely opposed to the old way," but, Buchanan added, "there has to be some sort of check on the students action to protect the university from possible irresponsible acts."

Another regent, Helen Thompson, feels that Humphrey's action "will be upheld by the board."

The only regent that was totally opposed to the chancellor's action was Nedra Joyce, who said "it should have been left the way it was. . .the way CSUN money is spent should be up to the students."

REBEL RALLY

Last Friday, shades of the "old college try" were expressed by members of THE YELL newspaper, members of the UNLV Pep Band and a couple other students, in a pre-football game spirit rally.

The "Snake Parade started" over on Harmon Ave. across from the tennis courts and wound over, under, around and through the campus until finally resting in front of the student union.

UNLV's fine pep band played fight songs and rousing Dixie Land Jazz on the base of a flat bed trailer pulled by a tractor while members of THE YELL carried banners and signs attempting to awaken a spark of college tradition on the half-asleep Friday noon campus.

All of this patchwork ensemble was led by "Drum Major" & Sports Editor, Joe Hovsepian who sported a toilet plunger and lunch pail to represent something or other.

At the front of the union a change was made from the big rig on to a small electric grounds-cart. The dozen brave souls then entered the bowels of the student union where their efforts were greeted by a thousand cheering voices.

Another rally is being planned for this Friday at noon. For further information about being a part of this madness contact this office or Joe Hovsepian in the student government office on the first floor of the union.

Student Body Thy Name is Apathy

On Thursday noon the snake did dance,
But there weren't any sugarbabses to strut and prance.

They had the basket and they had the ball,
But the boys from varsity weren't there at all.

Yell was there but only half,
And Joe was there to make us laugh.

Kappa Sig Frat, shame on you,
You guys didn't do what you promised to.

The big base drum needs a carriage to ride,
And don't you dudes stand on the side.

There were signs galore for you to carry,
Take one up and we'll all make Mary, er, Merry.

Joyce and "Toy" and Tina did their thing, and all those fine musicians, ring a ding.

According to Joe, who says he knows whereof,
It was like the first time he ever made love,
It wasn't too bad; but man, lets hope it gets better!

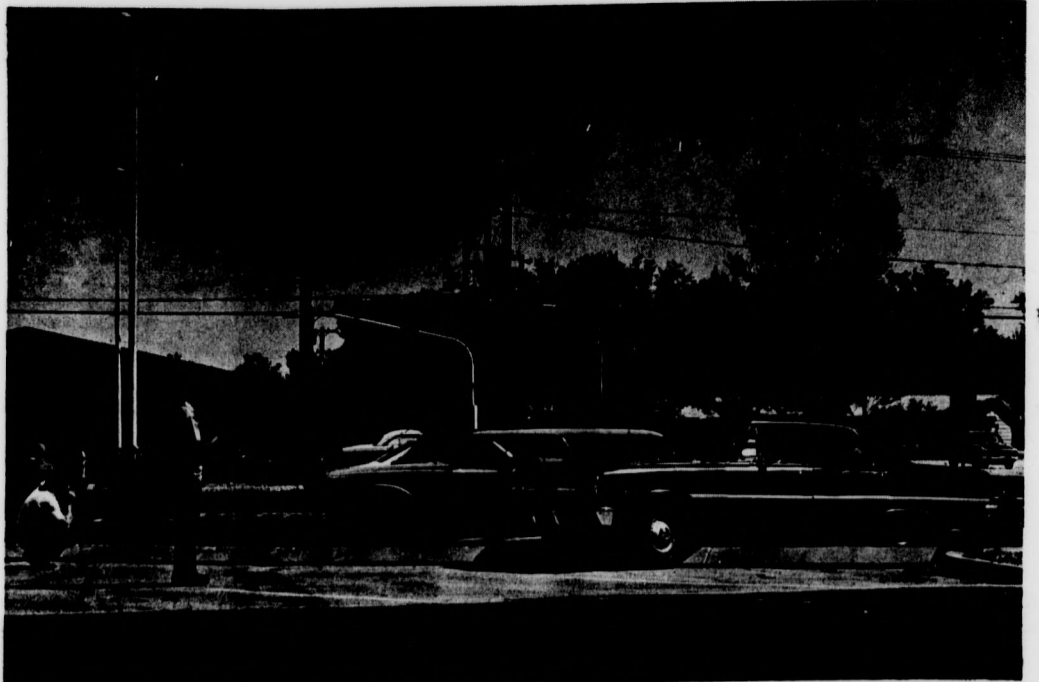

And, fellow students, since this will be a TRADITIONAL WEEKLY, Thing, for for heaven's sake, don't just stand and look!

Pick up a sign or a balloon or a babe and get it there. Or bring a sign of your own. Or Yell, or jump up and down.

DO SOMETHING!!!!!!!!!!!!

We've got the chance of making it big this year, those guys work hard out on that field. And they belong to us. Now, Damn It, let's get out there and support them. (Also, It's a good excuse to be late to class).

Pre-Law Association Meeting

On Tuesday, October 2, there was a meeting of the Pre-Law Association. The group was organized last year in an effort to consolidate those students desiring to obtain a legal education, and directing their energy toward common goals.

Among the things announced was a special LSAT review session next Saturday, October 13, from 10 am until 2 pm. It will be held in the West Lounge of the Student Union Building.

Mike Taylor, president of the association explained the progress made in the organizations' main objective, a law school in Nevada. The core of the work now is aimed at convincing the 1975 Legislature that Nevada should have a law school, and raising the financial backing so important in initiating this project. Discussing the visiting law school representatives this year, Dr. Ralph Roske, one of the two faculty advisors for the association, said prospects were bleak. The only scheduled visit so far is McGeorge Law School from Seattle. Sometimes these visits are the only way for law school hopefuls to come in personal contact with a law school. Thus, the push for our own.

Dr. Lorne Seidman, the association's other advisor, emphasized that the only kind of law school discussed for Nevada is a good, accredited one. It is not a matter of Nevada residents "getting a break." Rather we just won't be penalized for living in Nevada.

The Board of Regents has appointed a committee to study the proposed law school.

If you are interested in obtaining a legal education, it would aid them if you would fill out the brief questionnaire below.

Few Candidates File

32 UNLV students filed last week to run for 22 open positions in the student senate in this Thursday's and Friday's CSUN elections.

According to the number of students who had filed to run by last Friday's deadline, there will be little or no competition between candidates in most of the categories with considerable interest shown in a few others.

Representation on the CSUN Senate is broken down into a total of 20 senators; two from each of the four different class standings and the remaining 12 from the various colleges on campus.

This week's elections will be for the college representatives and the two Freshman Senators.

In the college of business only one candidate filed for the three seats open.

With four seats open in the College of Education, three students filed to run.

The three students running from the College of Math and Science will not have to worry about campaigning since there are three seats open.

In the College of Hotel Administration, the two open Senate spots are being contested by three candidates.

Besides the Freshman class race, the only other close contest will be for the two College of Allied Health Professions seats. Six students have filed to run from that college.

OPINION

Regents: First Your Money Then . . . ?

by Greg Waddilove

The dust has yet to settle after last semester's campus drug bust. The Board of Regents will meet soon to decide whether they, or CSUN will control student monies.

The May Day drug raid and the Regent's intent are connected because CSUN provided loans, so the arrested students could be bailed out of jail.

That action provoked outrage from students and the community. What is alarming, is that the Regents may be forced into a decision that is politically motivated; therefore detrimental to the future of the University of Nevada.

No mistake, the mixture of heroin, prominent students, and scholarship money is a very serious thing. The punishment should fit the crime. The economic repression of 15,000 college students, in the state of Nevada, is over-doing it.

The Board of Regents wants to look good; so does the Governor and the UNLV Administration. If they take a "get-tough" stance, budding political careers will not only be salvaged, but given a boost.

That, is what this editorial is all about. While the placing of CSUN funds in a Regent controlled agency account is prima facie absurd, its consequences are dire for the future for the future of the Nevada universities.

Politics is the crux of the matter. Anyone who has followed local politics knows that the Board of Regents is being used as a political stepping stone.

A lot of money has gone into recent Board campaigns, and the electioneering rhetoric used evoked images that had nothing to do with such a conservative campus as UNLV.

Not just the CSUN money decision, but all future Regent actions will have to be examined closely due to the recent politicalization of that body.

If CSUN funds are to be controlled by the Board of Regents; and if the Board continues to be a political creature, the Nevada universities will become political footballs, subject to the caprice and ambitions of its governors.

The solution is threefold: 1) Each campus must see to it that gross illegalities do not occur. 2) Those Regents who do not respect the non-partisanship of the Board should resign. 3) The Board of Regents should become an appointive body.

Present members who indeed respect the non-political intent of the Board of Regents should remain. Criteria for new appointees should include a demonstrated lack of interest in political glory.

Participation will clean up government

by Elizabeth Sinatra

This Constitutional system of government of ours has been for almost two centuries, pushed and pulled and shoved and bent, by an awful lot of people who would mold it to their liking.

It has had its leaders shot—it's heroes maligned. There have been riots in the streets, and some measure of anarchy attempted by the extremes of both the left and the right.

There have been McCarthy hearings and Bilbo tirades; Teapot Dome and Watergate. There were wars, recessions, depressions and attempted repressions.

But it is still with us. Growing, as we do, stronger with each adversity conquered. Yet, as we know, the whole is only as strong as its parts. And the government of any group is only as strong as the will of the people thereof.

Whether you like it or not, YOU ARE THE GOVERNMENT. Political and social power are either:

1. Given with the consent of the governed; or,
2. Taken without consent of the governed.

Either:

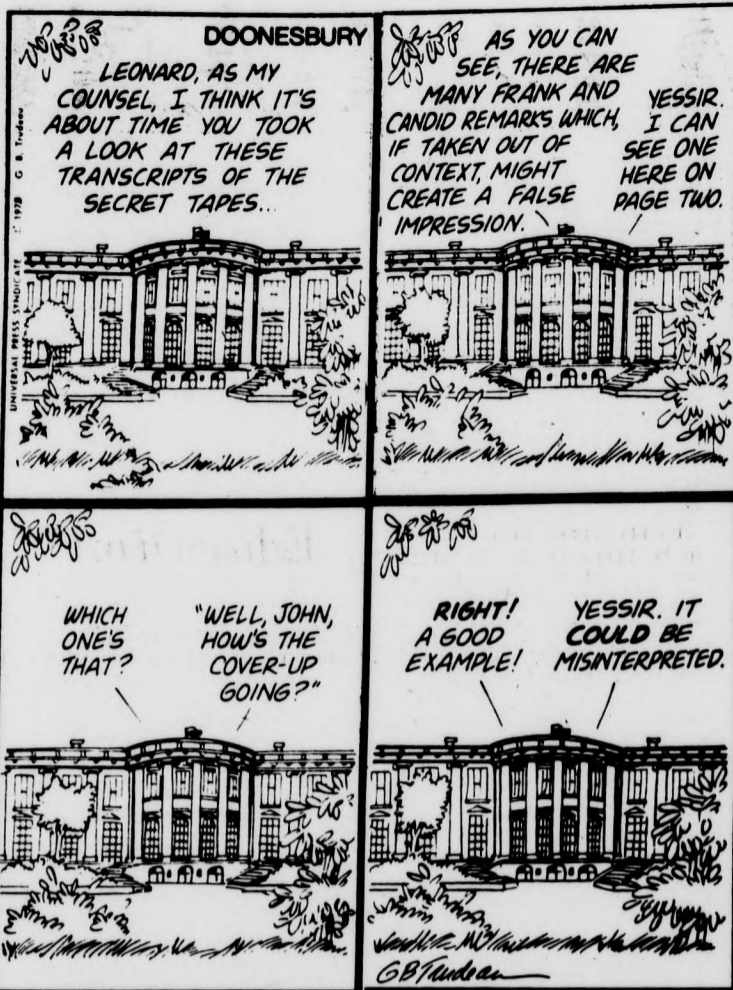

1. You exercise YOUR power or,
2. Someone else will exercise theirs.

Each and every one of you has a right and a responsibility, and they are not divisible, to exercise your power. The channels have been provided for you in the Constitution of the United States.

There will be a number of elections coming up between now and 1976 that are crucial to the future of this country. And, therefore, to you.

Which party you choose is not the overriding concern—but that you care—THAT matters. Get involved. Find out. Do your own pushing and pulling. Instead of griping—start governing.

Because you can be damned sure of one thing—if you don't—someone else will. And you will get exactly what you deserve. Something a lot worse than Watergate. You'll lose your country and your freedom.

LETTERS

THE YELL welcomes your comments and participation. Letters must be relevant, timely, brief, and signed. Name may be withheld for good reason; fear of social censure will not do. Include, with name, class standing and college.

Crude I'm Not . . .

To the Editor:
This letter is to "A Rebel Fan," and to anyone else who shares the same opinion about the yell leaders.

My only reply to you is a little verse written by Herbert Bayard Swope:

I cannot give you the formula for success, but I can give you the formula for failure, which is: Try to please everybody.

This is also my opinion of life, and I have the courage to sign my name to it.

Toni Tuttle

Sports vs Academics

To the Editor:
In several of the past issues of the YELL, I have seen references to UNLV's "reaching for the big time, both athletically and academically".

The YELL has devoted an enormous amount of space to the university's athletic build-up. I have been waiting to hear just what UNLV is doing to upgrade the academic atmosphere. So far, I have waited in vain.

I think many people assume that big time athletics will automatically improve the rest of the university. I doubt this; Notre Dame and Oklahoma have been football powers for years yet would you call them first class academic schools? In fact, I find it likely that a preoccupation with athletics prevents the growth of a well-rounded university.

Am I wrong? Has the university been luring high-powered mathematicians and philosophers away from the big name schools? Have we been recruiting brilliant students through special scholarships for physics and psychology? Is this university going to be talked about by anyone other than Howard Cosell?

In peace,
Bob Sherrill

Cross at Own Risk . . .

Editor:
If you are looking for fun and excitement, and have a few minutes between classes, a trip to the back of the practice field to watch the daily drags should really enliven your day.

While trying to cross this new addition to the freeway the other day, I was fortunate enough to make it to the other side where my car was parked only after dodging two cars coming from opposite directions.

Even though I enjoy fried chicken, I do not want to be a cooked goose, or a dead duck, just because some inconsiderate moron cannot read the speed limit sign posted prominently at the side of the road which reads 15 MPH.

There are enough traffic statistics throughout the state without adding any more from our campus. If you are in a hurry to get to or from class; leave a little earlier, but slow down on campus so that the rest of us can get where we are going without having to worry about being run over.

Frank Bakken

Concerned Student Runs for Office

To the People:

Does it sadden you to see our university crumbling and deteriorating because of an inept student government? Do you feel that your views and best interests are not being represented?

If the answer to these questions is yes, then you agree with me that it's time for a change. Now you can do something about it by voting for "Concerned Student" in the upcoming CSUN elections.

Just look at the record and you'll see that I'm the only candidate that's really qualified. Offices I've held include: 2nd Vice-President of my 7th grade class; Treasurer of the Mesquite Table Tennis Club.

I am a member of the following: Boy Scouts; YMCA; and Daughter's of the American Revolution.

My platform is as follows:

1. Elimination of all tuition and fees.
2. Reduction of the graduation credit requirement from 128 to 16.
3. A guaranteed annual income of $10,000 for each and every student.
4. No grading system. In fact you do not have to attend class.
5. Retirement benefits and workers compensation.
6. Free housing and transportation.
7. Immunity from all local, state, and federal laws.
8. An escort service and massage parlors.

1. Concerned Student, seek your support in the CSUN elections, October 11&12. Even if you are not going to vote for me, please don't vote at all.

Now more than ever,
Concerned Student

SENATE CANDIDATES

The YELL has made available free space for the candidates to submit statements of their platform, goals, and qualifications for office. Here are the statements which were submitted:

College of Allied Health

Now is the time to do something for your school. NOW is the time to get involved, to show that you are interested in more than just "attending" school.

My name is FRANK BAKKEN — I am getting involved! On Tuesday, October 2, 1973, I filed a declaration of candidacy for the office of Senator for Allied Health Professions College.

Why bother?!! Because I am "bothered" by the haphazard way that things are being run now, and perhaps if I can be elected to a Senatorial seat, I can do something to improve the inadequacies.

What can YOU do? IF you don't RUN for office, get out and campaign for someone else — look up the various candidates and get to know them — and last but certainly not least, VOTE: for the one you think will do the best job.

Arts, Letters

What do you think about the University of Nevada, Las Vegas? I personally view the overall situation as being an ever-spreading malignancy which affects every portion of the University structure.

This malignancy is characterized by a general faculty/student apathy, commonly known as the "I don't give a damn," attitude.

I for one have decided to cure my cancerous malignancy by speaking out and taking a stand against this traditional attitude.

When elected I will use every means within my capacity to effect a cure for this detrimental condition that seems so prevalent; by activity supporting an increase of campus activities. WILLIAM J. CALLAHAN, Candidate for Arts and Letters Senator.

My name is TERRY P. MARRIN, and I am running for Arts and Letters Senator of CSUN.

Our university is composed of a student body on wheels. Many of us are veterans and most of us work at least part-time. I believe that these interests must be represented in order to make our student body truly more democratic.

The tragic events of last year left us with a real problem. How do we recover when our resident student body is so severely disrupted? When our fellow students were arrested we were suddenly faced with serious questions such as: Why did this happen? How did it get started? Why weren't we prepared to handle it?

Instead of trying to understand the problems our fellow students were thrown into, we quibbled about the legality of posting their bail. These questions unanswered were: Was everyone guilty? Was the method of gathering evidence on the raid really nothing more than legal entrapment? Was there a collusive agreement between a bond agency and the Justice Court of Clark County, Nevada resulting in the strange bail situation?

I don't know if I have the answers to these questions, but they have prepared me for the future. They have convinced me that we are living in the 20th century. The ostrich philosophy demonstrated last fall left us with nothing body.

If I am elected I will endeavor to be prepared for the future. As I see it, the Student Senate should not decide the guilt or innocence of a fellow student; that is the decision the jury not one's peers. Our duty is to try and prevent these problems through preventative actions.

We need to establish relations with and work through the Legal Aid Department of Clark County, Nevada, in order to have legal aid available for our student body if the need arises. This will assure due process under the law and save the throwing away of precious student funds down the rathole of a bail firm.

Marc Hechter

I am a candidate for Senator, from the College of Arts and Letters. Before the election, I would like to enumerate some of my goals as well as a past record of action I have taken within the Senate.

1) I am in favor of a fair distribution of funds to the performing arts, such as the Chamber Singers Jazz Ensemble, and Symphony; who, in the past, have been slighted.

2) I support the concept of developing a legal aid office on campus.

3) I would also like to see an increased activities schedule for the benefit of campus residents.

During past meetings, I have voted in favor of the expanded lecture and film series, including such speakers as S.I. Hayakawa, and Angela Davis; and such films as 2001: A Space Odyssey and Slaughterhouse Five.

I am also chairman at the President's Constitutional Committee, which is seeking to re-vamp the present student constitution to enhance equitable representation.

The major issue in all of this is to increase student participation in its government and to develop better functioning government. So, I ask for the support of the students in the coming election on October 11th and 12th.

Thank you,

Marc Hechter

Business, Economics

My name is Eugene Belin. I am a junior marketing major. I am running for the office of CSUN Senator. I was born and raised in Henderson, Nevada.

I made my decision to run for a CSUN Senate seat when I learned that no one had signed up to represent the Business College as of 1:00 p.m. Friday.

I have held that position since July, when I filled the seat vacated by Steve Reynolds. During my brief tenure as Business Senator, I missed only one meeting; which I did not know had been called.

My goal, is to involve as many students as possible in CSUN politics. Currently there are only a handful of people controlling the policies of CSUN. If elected I promise to represent the students of the College of Business to the best of my ability.

Politically, I am a moderate, however my desire is to use my voting power in CSUN to reflect the desires of the students I represent.

Education

My name is Jim Bekaert. I am running as a candidate for the office of Senator for Education I am majoring in Secondary education with emphasis in Physical Education and Special Education I served as a Freshman Senator in 1970-71. During that time I supported the veto power of the Student Body President and was against the change of the name of the university from Nevada Southern University to the present name University of Nevada at Las Vegas.

I was also against the changing of the school mascot, Rebels, and I am in favor of retaining the name still.

By writing a couple of letters during that time, I tried to urge the student body to take an interest in their university and make it the type of place they could be proud of, as well as the kind of place they wanted at that time.

I did not receive any response so I again ask you to help me to do the above. I do not like to think that we as future educators do not care enough about the education we are receiving to prepare us for our chosen profession.

How many classes have you taken to prepare yourself, that are nothing more than Mickey-Mouse? I would like to see some better classes to prepare us.

I feel that the students do not use a loud enough voice in this school. I feel that everyone should have a voice in the affairs that will affect the future of their profession.

I feel that the way to make this institution the type of place you can be proud of is by voting for someone that cares about YOUR CONCERNS-not his ego.

When was the last time you talked to the senator you voted for last year? I promise that if you give me your vote, I will make your opinions known throughout the senate.

The single most important thing you can do is get out and vote in the campus election on October 11th and 12th.

Val S. Buhecker

Having served as a senator for over a year I have both a record to review and experience to speak of.

May I first point out that I don't plan on smearing this campus with ugly "say nothing" posters. This campaign is too short to create issues on cardboard.

This past year I have had a perfect attendance record— something other senators can't brag about. The Senate's biggest problem is maintaining quorum.

I have served on the election and By-law committees and currently am serving on the powerful appropriations committee which reviewed this year's $95,000 budget.

Most senators will admit that I am a controversial senator, that has the backbone to vote my conviction, and the way I feel students in the College of Education want me to vote.

I voted against the illegal appropriation of student money for purchasing bail bonds.

I am at odds with the Activities Board over their "Liberal Political" lectures series. This campus is entitled to variety and culture.

As a traditionalist, I am in favor of keeping the name "Rebels," but willing to change the image.

Most recently I have opposed the move for "Quickie Elections" resulting from a sloppy, lax student government. Their lack of leadership is again breeding apathy.

I work as a night manager at the Student Union and hold active membership in several campus organizations.

I'm a Junior majoring in Elementary Education with dual minors in Physical Education and Special Education.

It's your vote—use it!

Hotel Administration

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to all hotel students. My name is Carl Collins. I have been attending UNLV for the past two years. I am seeking one of the senate seats for the College of Hotel Administration, a working relationship with the faculty is important. During these two years, I have had such a relationship. I have maintained membership in the following professional associations:

1. Food Service Educational Assoc.
2. Hotel Sales Management Assoc. 4 years.
3. American Hotel & Motel Assoc. 2 years.
4. UNLV Hotel Assoc. 2 years.

A goal that I feel extremely close to is the presentation of ideas that hotel students would like to have heard before the senate. I feel that such ideas can be quite beneficial to the entire university community.

Another goal of importance is the unification of all students at UNLV. Hotel students are a vital part of the university. I will work toward the unification of students.

Endorsements:

1. UNLV Hotel Association Executive Committee.
2. UNLV Hotel Association membership.
3. John Moylan, CSUN Vice-President.

On October 11 or 12, I ask that you cast your vote for me as senator for the College of Hotel Administration and its students.

Roderick Daye:

I am in my first semester at UNLV. I think it is the best and fastest growing college in the United States.

I am very unfamiliar with the operational format of the UNLV, CSUN, but I will try to the best of my ability to fill all the gaps that are unfilled. I will try diligently to be in the interest of the students with the competence which I have shown in my past student government offices.

In Palm Beach Junior College senate I was called "the silent bomb" and a "crazy Jamaican." I was also called the Hotel Management Senator of a princely generosity and unbounded benevolence.

I try to live up to some of those standards, but I promise that with your vote, we will make a long pull together to make UNLV the zenith of our aspiration. VOTE, GET INVOLVED.

These are some of my activities before coming to UNLV:

1. Cadet Captain, Prospect Cadet Training School.
2. Lay Lecturer, St. John's Ambulance Brigade.
3. Member of Committee for Community Development.
4. Member of Student Government - Palm Beach Junior College
  - a. Student Senator
  - b. Secretary of Elections
  - c. Secretary of Publications
  - d. Secretary of Organizations
5. President of Students for International Understanding (SIU Club at PBJC)- Members are predominantly Foreign students.

6. Outstanding Student Award, Florida Dairy Assoc.

7. Participated on SIUS) - cheer Team.

8. Staff Writer - Beachcomber (school newspaper).

I, Steve Hammel, am a candidate for one of the CSUN Senate seats for the College of Hotel Administration. I have attended the university for the past three years.

As a student at UNLV I have developed a rapport with the faculty and a knowledge of CSUN affairs.

One of my main goals as a Senator for the College of Hotel Administration is to provide a presentation of ideas from the hotel students to the Senate. I feel that a working relationship between the hotel students and the CSUN Senate is a mandate that should be met.

Another important goal is to assure the members of the Hotel Association that they will be represented in all senate meetings and to make monthly reports to the Hotel Association about matters taking place within the Senate.

I have been actively involved in the following professional organizations for the past three years:

1. Hotel Sales Management Ass.
2. American Hotel and Motel Association.
3. Food Service Education Ass.
4. UNLV Hotel Association

One of my duties with the Hotel Association is to be the Director of Publications. This job involves writing the news releases for THE YELL, Las Vegas Sun and Review Journal.

I have received the endorsement of the Executive Committee of the UNLV Hotel Association membership and John Moylan, CSUN Vice-President.

I ask all hotel students to consider my qualifications and cast their vote for me on October 11th and 12th for CSUN Senator representing the Hotel Administration and its students.

Freshman Candidates

1. Ronald Dale Nold, would like to herewith state my reasons and qualifications for running for Freshman Senator.

I believe that it is time to change the direction of the Student Senate.

The Senators need to align themselves with the views of their constituents rather than their own petty whims.

I hope to represent the Freshmen view's on matters of activities and organizations.

The Freshman has too long been neglected and it is time someone arises to the call of running for office as a responsible and dedicated student who really wants to see changes.

My qualifications for this position are numerous. I was Student Council President of my high school, National Debater for two years, National Prose Speaker for two years, and Texas American Legion Speaker for three years.

I can only hope that the freshman class will forget their factions for a moment and join together to get a strong voice in the Senate.

At any time, I would be more than happy to speak with anyone concerning ideas or changes that Freshman would like to suggest.

So, on October 11 or 12, go vote for a strong voice in the Senate. Vote Ronald Dale Nold- For Freshman Senator.

GORP

Have you ever layed out your back, and watched the stars appear at night?

* This page is dedicated to the outdoors, and a new program
sponsored by CSUN *

Brought to you by ---

* John & Joe *

(An explanation needed)

GORP is a trail snack, it is a mixture of high energy snack, (nuts, raisins, M and M's) to help you get through that extra mile. This page, like "Gorp" is a mixture of many things dealing with the outdoors, to help you get to that first mile.

We feel that because of the great number of outdoor enthusiasts on campus it was time for some form of communication of ideas and equipment to the people. Through the weeks there will be different things on this page dealing with the outdoors on the level of backpacking, canoeing, cross country skiing, mountaineering, etc.

It is our hope that the outdoors can be a learning experience, and not a threatening experience. . . J.C.

The broadening of our activities program, along with the success of other colleges' outdoor activities CSUN wishes to pursue an active involvement in outdoor education.

The initiation of any new program must stem from interest. The activities board feels that more UNLV students are turning their interests towards back-packing, canoeing and cross country skiing than ever before. A need for an organized program is becoming apparent, so they are trying to get one off the ground.

Although there seems to be enough interest in the outdoors, we will not know until we get some people together if the program will work. We can only justify involved outdoor activities when the students show their interest.

The beginnings of the program will be on a low level, then will grow and expand. Needs must be met before we start to pursue different programs. This means the program is flexible and left up to the people's main interest.

The first activities will start later in October. We will gather on a Tuesday evening and discuss such topics as backpacking, survival, cross - country skiing, first-aid, canoeing, edible plants etc. Each week will be structured on a different subject; the program running thru November. Also there will be a couple weekend field trips and a possible 2 day backpack.

The main emphasis of this program is to promote activities in the outdoors. We wish to help people become aware of the outdoors through participation.

Through the effort of some, UNLV can have a vital and active outdoor program. Las Vegas is surrounded by beautiful and primitive areas, with the possibility of experiencing it year round because of our unique weather. We hope you will consider attending one of the weekly sessions, if not all of them and in making an outdoor activities program a reality at UNLV.

#1 Ad Note

— Cold, Cold, Cold —

Cold is the word in first aid, these days. Burns can be painful and damaging to the human body, and cold water treatment can aid in relief and cure. The American Red Cross states that after receiving a burn, one should either immerse in cold water or pack in ice until the services of a physician can be obtained. This treatment can prevent tissue damage and give relief to the victim.

If in the wilderness a person can use the water from lake streams or canteens until the services of a physician can be obtained.

Footnote: Remember first aid is immediate care of a person who has been injured, or one who has been taken suddenly ill.

Equipment

The packframe and sack: Two important items while trying to conquer the trails of the woods.

Convenience and comfort are the things to look for. If the frame doesn't fit or falls apart and the sack doesn't hold enough or comes apart at the seams, your trip will be ruined.

When looking for these things consider your pocketbook and how much you're going to be backpacking.

Names can be thrown around like "Kelty" camp trails, etc., but if you know what it is you need don't buy by the name alone. The best way to find out what type of frame and sack you need is to either borrow one from a friend or rent from a local outdoor shop and then decide what is right for your own purposes.

Cook's Corner

It is time again for the freshman to suffer through reading some of my literary exposes, while gaining a little knowledge.

The COOK'S CORNER, covering very little food and much more about living, will begin to spout forth with a more "natural" foods approach. (The word "natural" is for the benefit of Judy Roman, a fellow teaching assistant and drinking partner of mine)

This week for those of you thinking of taking the survival class next spring, I will give you a preview. A recipe as old as the aboriginals comes to mind, so within the next couple weeks try:

PRICKLY PEAR CACTUS JELLY

Wash and scald fruits (As they are now in season). Remove spots and prickles. Cut in halves and cook 15 minutes barely covered with water. Pour into cheesecloth and squeeze out juice and save.

You will need:

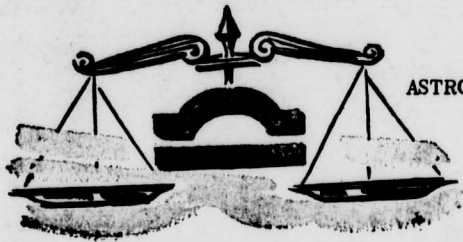

- 3 cups cactus juice
- 1 package powdered pectin (such as Sure-Jell)
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 4 1/2 cups sugar

Mix juices and pectin. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to full boil. Add sugar. Boil hard 1-1/2 minutes stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, pour into scalded glasses and seal immediately with paraffin.

P.S. If you don't know what a prickly pear cactus fruit is or looks like call me at the Dept. of Biol. or take my edible plants of the Southwest course next spring.

Survival Note:

According to Dr. M.K. Yousef in the Biology Dept, one of the best things to do when in the desert trying to maintain your body fluids is to drink alcohol. Alcohol somehow causes the veins to constrict so that less blood moves to the surface of the skin, reducing the amount of evaporation. I think that's how it goes. You can always call him and ask him to go into more detail.

ASTROLOGY — Libras' Year Ahead

by Lee Rising

Life for Libras should be pretty exciting this solar year. This is especially true if you know what you want and have some idea of how to get it.

Things should be a lot easier this year. And you can especially gain through your relationship with other people. Particularly if you are helpful to them.

Any form of creativity is highly favored—even the "think" kind; and getting these ideas across to others, and convincing them of your abilities, are all in the stars this year.

Your educational background is of great significance, so make the most of your past learning and take advantage of any future opportunities that come your way.

And it will be a lot easier for those Librans who are aimed at a career; you see much progress this year, providing you are willing to put out some effort. But since Uranus is still in our solar sun sign, CHANGE will be keyword for another year or so.

There is a lot of emphasis on planning, preparation, objectivity and the ability to see and grasp the many opportunities that will be sure to come.

But, Librans of the world, beware! That lazy, head-in-the-sand trip we like to take is out, out, out, this year. Got to face it, get our heads together and do it and then go on to some new problem. No more of the Scarlett O'Hara jazz about tomorrow. Up and at it!

Community service will be good for you, and if you're into politics, this is the time to get with it. If not, there are all kinds of things that need to be done.

Venus ruled Librans, with our love of beauty and balance can be especially effective in helping to put this old earth back together as the Lord meant it to be, with clean air, and clean water and nice, clean people.

Some Librans of note:

- Jack Anderson 10-19-22
- Catherin Deneuve 10-22-43
(On the cusp to Scorpio)
- Rex Reed 10-2-40

There are other worlds to conquer,
And such a lot of space to see!
But only dreams--
Great, glorious dreams,
Are all that's left to WE.

We are the old ones,, eyes grown dim ,
Yet with soul-sight in it's prime!
Only our sons,
Brave, Valiant sons,
Trode the galaxies of Time.

We, flesh-weary ones; blood slow passing,
We made the maps- charted the road!
Unknown Future!
Their privileged destiny the load.

Heavy burden theirs to bear,
To Mankind-Duty's mighty yoke!
But, Oh the beauty!
Soul-hungering beauty,
Their eyes shall see, their hearts bespoke.

And We, the old ones, earth-fettered,
Dim eyed, flesh weary, yet ere soul free!

Have you heard this remark lately? There just isn't anything to do. . . If you have, then refer them to this article.

A very scenic trip can be made for a minimum investment to Boulder Dam. Just a thirty minute drive will take you to some of the most breathtaking country in the state of Nevada.

Make a day of it, turn left at the Henderson turnoff and take the Lake Mead route, if you enjoy the great out-of-doors, you will be thrilled by the scenic wonders encountered all along the route to the Dam.

Tours of the Dam start at 8:30 a.m. and the last tour is at 4:15 sharp. This incomparable tour is a must if you enjoy the engineering genius that is encountered in many aspects of modern life.

Don't just sit there! Get a group together and visit our own little piece of what makes America great.

Layaway for Christmas now!

BILLY JACK

Remember the days not too far away when some of us were giving peace signs? We all had a cause, a purpose, to retaliate discrimination and injustice. Well about that time BILLY JACK came back from the Green Berets, ready and very able to defend a lush Indian reservation, with a rifle and karate, ( the "smash the face-in" with the foot kind ).

The reservation isn't like any reservation we know; there are actually waterfalls, rivers, lakes, wild mustangs and a very progressive school.

The school isn't like any school we know either. Younger generation Indians, half-breeds, Anglo-Saxons and just plain misfits have a great time riding horses, studying Indian culture, giving impromptu plays, singing and there's no homework.

Things start moving when the Sheriff goes to pick up his deputy. The deputy's daughter has been found in San Francisco, (Haight-Ashbury-REMEMBER THAT) and she is being returned via Arizona.

But the deputy can't pick her up at the airport cause he's got to round up the boys, to catch and kill wild mustangs, for horse meat (6¢ a lb.), which is illegal.

But enough story line for now. Would you like to see a half-breed Indian force a snotty rich kid to drive his gold corvette into a lake? (floor it!)

Would you like to see a girl bigger than any showgirl on the strip, be forced to take her bra off?!!

Would you like to see Cheech and Chong's rivals ?? (two guys from the progressive school put on a comedy skit of passing a joint in the car, when they come to a stop sign they react, "QUICK ACT NORMAL!!")

It's all in BILLY JACK and it's all used to bring the Indian situation to the front.

The leads in the film aren't anybody we know, but don't let that scare you away! Everyone does a really good job. The towns people are at their best acting strange.

Especially apparent when CITY HALL VS. PROGRESSIVE "HIPPIE" SCHOOL. See the establishment humiliated to nothing!

Such immortal words like, "YOU HIPPIE CREEPS", blaze on the screen with: rape, blood, rifles, police cars and kicks in the face.

It all happens in about two hours at the huge and spacious FOX.(C/P/M) Incidentally, if there's too much of a message in BILLY JACK, the FOX features really neat Kiddie Matinees on Saturday.

Real classics like: GODZILLA VS. THE THING!!! Can man's inventions STOP them?!!! and THE GREEN SLIME! Trapped in outer space, can only survivors lick the Green Slime.

(I'm not kidding)
JOHN DIAZ

HIT!

After his daughter dies from shooting up some funky dope, BILLY DEE WILLIAMS, (DIANA ROSS'S lover from LADY SINGS THE BLUES) wants to get even.

But as we all know government bureaucracies meander through time and are indifferent to immediate justice.

This isn't going to stop DEE WILLIAMS. He still wants to play Betty Furness (consumer protection) and get to the source of all the "bad shit" that's being sold on the American drug scene.

He's a detective on the governments NARC SQUAD so he has all the connections he needs to round up a little underground gang.

A NARC detective who's tired of the system, a beautiful red-headed hooker, an older Jewish couple, who are ex-cons, a guy who owes the government money, so joins rather go to jail and of course RICHARD PRYOR.

The only star mentioned on the PARKWAY'S marquee is PRYOR. For he is the only hope of the movie. He gives it the comic relief it desperately needs.

With our major characters developed "Mission Impossible" starts. If you still are with me and you like the old series, you'll like the rest of the movie. HIT gains momentum, when our strange troop begins training at a deserted village in British Columbia. Their ultimate mission is to kill nine of the biggest dope dealers. All of which are located in the finer parts of Paris. From here on out, it's split second timing and perfect murders.

The impossible mission left me with many unanswered questions.

How did PRYOR pilot an old run-down fishing boat, from British Columbia to the French Riviera??

But then we all know that he can do anything.

My favorite part is when this big, huge, fat and rich Frenchmen, gorging on food begins to choke and turn blue.

His fat attack was so well executed that he resembled the "Looney Tunes" PORKY PIG.

ADP Has Open Rush

by Donna Mills

Alpha Delta Pi Sorority has really started out a great year. Formal rush for the fall is over and the girls of Epsilon Rho have added seven great new pledges to their ranks. We would like to welcome Chris Conger, Joan Gigante, Melanie Marr, Kim Mumpower, Trish Smith and Pat and Linda Kohlman to our society.

Although formal rush is over there is still time for any girls that missed rush to join a sorority by going through open rush. If you would like to become an active part of your college and community, why not join a sorority? Alpha Delta Pi not only is socially active on campus but also work in the community. For the past two years, we have distributed collection cannisters for the Easter Seals Treatment Center, raising over $500. This year we will be working with the deaf and aurally handicapped. Other activities that the sorority has planned for the upcoming year are such activities as an all Greek Halloween Party, a Tupperware party, a Winter formal, homecoming activities such as a float (with Sigma Nu), and a fireworks booth for the summer months.

Becoming a part of Greek society is a fun and enjoyable way to become an active part of campus and community life.

For information about how you can join, call Claudia Shapiro, President of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority at 736-7737.

NEED TUTORIAL ASSISTANCE?????

Public Law 91-219 contained significant liberalizations of the Veterans Administration educational programs. Increases in benefits were granted to all students enrolled in such educational programs. In addition, some provisions of the law introduced new programs related to special needs of certain veterans. One of these programs was tutorial assistance.

If you are a veteran attending school here on a half-time or more basis, and you are heading toward failure in one of your classes, then this program is just right for you.

The tutorial assistance payments are in addition to the regular monthly rate of educational assistance allowance and does not involve any charge against your entitlement.

You may receive up to $50 monthly until a maximum of $450 has been paid during your eligibility. These payments are in addition to your regular monthly payments.

The purpose of this allowance is to help the student avoid failure in a course which is necessary for the attainment of his objective. It may not be used to improve satisfactory grades in order to raise academic standing.

Why fail a course, or receive a grade of "D", because you could not afford a tutor when a program such as this is available? If you could use the assistance of a trained tutor and desire to receive VA benefits, here is all you need to do:

(1) Contact your professor if you are in danger of failing a course.

Your professor will recommend a qualified tutor and certify that you are deficient in the subject.

(2) Visit the Veterans Counselor, Mr. Nick Paul, and obtain the necessary form required to receive your benefits. Mr. Paul's office is located on the third floor of the Humanities Building, room 360. Mr. Paul may also be reached by phone on extension 446 (739-3446).

(3) Locate your tutor and arrange for individual instruction at a time and place convenient for you.

Mid-terms are coming and qualified tutors are available. So see your professor and prevent that disaster in December!!

The members of the Veterans Association urge you to stop in our new office in the Student Union Building, room 126. Our office hours are 12:00 pm to 1:00 pm Monday through Friday, or you may call us on extension 623.

Rebels Blanket Indians, 26-0

In what was perhaps the Rebs most balanced performance of season, Mike Pry and Co. pounded out a 26-0 pasting of the nationally ranked Indians of Northeast Louisiana University.

As a noisy crowd of 8,623 "Las Vegas Way" football fans watched on, Meyer's Fourth Miracle of the season took place in a very physical ground game.

"We played our best football game of the year... there is no question about it," stated an elated Coach Meyer after the Rebs first shutout of the season had been handed out to the touted Indians.

The Rebels first score came on a 25 yard pass play from Pry to flanker Jesse Roberts late in the first quarter.

It was the stubborn defense however that set up the next two Reb scores before the gun sounded ending the first half of action at Las Vegas Stadium. With but 2:12 to go in the 2nd quarter, Mike Whitemaine found himself on top of an Indian (fumble that is).

Three plays later Mike Thomas did his thing on a 19 yard dash for the score.

However, the extra point try was blocked and it looked like the Rebels would have to settle for a 13-0 led at the half.

The Indians in one of the poorest coaching decisions I have ever witnessed then elected to let the clock run down so that they could try one pass play to get them back into the game.

As soon as I saw that the Indians were not going to settle for a 13-0 deficit at the half my mind had visions of interception city.

It was and we did and it was 19-0 at the half.

The Rebel Defense was so dominant in the first half that it limited NLV's offense to 59 total he defense went right to work in the 3rd quarter as the Rebels recovered a NLV fumble on the first series in which NLV had the ball in the second half. Mike Brock recovered the NLV fumble on a handoff on the Rebel 38. On the very next play, Mike Thomas bolted around left end and did not stop until he raced 62 yards for the 4th Rebel touchdown. The extra point was good and the UNLV Rebels led by a convincingly 26-0 score over a nationally ranked college opponent.

NLV's frustration reached its climax in the fourth quarter. The Indians were driving for the first time in the game and reached the Rebel one. On third and goal from the one the Rebel defense stopped NLV quarterback Cole for no gain on a quarterback keeper. Trying the same play on 4th and 1, the visitors from the Bayou Country could not penetrate the tough Rebel defense and turned the ball over on downs to UNLV.

The lopsided score was indicated in the statistics as UNLV completely dominated all categories. Rushing, UNLV outgained NLV 350 to 235, with most of NLV's yardage gained when the game was lost. In total yards, the Rebels outgained their opponents 426 to 240 yards.

Next week's opponent, Boise State occupies the number 6 slot in the college division polls this week and is currently undefeated.

Seven Days Till Saturday

"The game plan was good. The plays, with a few exceptions were executed," commented head Rebel Coach Ron Meyer following a disappointing defeat at the hands of Utah State. "There were 71 plays run from scrimmage and each was designed to go all the way. Therefore, our opportunities were numerous. We came within inches of being all smiles." Instead, the bitter taste of unrewarded effort.

The basic Rebel game plan, which relies offensively on the strong ground attack and defensively aggressive contact, is basically sound. Against the Aggies, however, there were some

Boise St. Rambles By Weber

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Backup quarterback Jim McMillan passed for three touchdowns and 231 yards to lead eighth-ranked small college power Boise State to a 34-7 Big Sky Conference win Saturday night over Weber State.

McMillan, filling in for the injured Ron Autele, was almost unstoppable as he hit 17 of 24 passing attempts and rushed for another 77 yards to give Boise State a commanding lead in the Big Sky standings with a 3-0 record. The Broncos are undefeated in four games.

Boise State took the opening kickoff and moved 66 yards in 14 plays with McMillan hitting wide receiver Dick Donohoe from 10 yards out for the first score.

fundamental errors of execution. So, in preparing for the Indians of Northeast Louisiana, Coach Meyer and his "slave-driven" staff set out to correct those errors. But more important, they were determined to reassure the players of their abilities and point out the dozens of things they did right against Utah State.

The weekly schedule is basically the same in any given week once the season begins. It is part of an overall plan diligently prepared for the Rebel football players. The plan includes the mailing of 8 letters between May and August to the players keeping them informed on the upcoming season. Once they begin practicing as a team, they get, among other things, guidelines and counseling on studying, nutrition and suggestions for conduct.

There are few "strict" rules, such as curfews or a ban on smoking or drinking. "We counsel the players that smoking and drinking are hazardous to their health," says Meyer, "and that their rest is vital for maximum performance. They are expected to follow these common-sense guidelines. If for some reason an individual is hurting himself and the team, then I will take administrative action." This could be putting a man from first team to second team, second to third team, not letting a player suit at all for a game, and so on.

It's all part of an effort to go first class. As an illustration, Coach Meyer used the upcoming Hawaii trip. "If somebody, for example, comes in with cut-offs and a body shirt and no shoes, I'm going to ask him if he thinks that's first class, if he'd dress like that, say, to meet a prospective employer. If he wouldn't, I'm going to expect a change. If he would, we're going to have to sit down and discuss it, with reference to the player representing not only himself, but his family, the University and his football team."

The Rebels haven't disappointed Meyer. "The men on this UNLV team know what first class is and have conducted themselves in a way in which this staff, team and University can be proud."

The beginning of the Rebel preparation against Northeast Louisiana for Oct. 6th came Saturday night, the 29th of September, in Las Vegas, the team tries to put the loss against Utah State behind them. In Louisiana, a UNLV scout watches Northeast Louisiana University.

On Sunday morning at 7:00 a.m., the game films are picked up. There are two sets of prints, each on four reels, and one is sent to Northeast Louisiana in exchange for a copy of their film. While the Rebel coaching staff spends the morning evaluating their game, the UNLV scout grades and charts the game he had seen the night before.

At 1:00 p.m. the injured players report to the trainer and at 3:00 p.m. the team meets for practice, something not commonly done in most football programs. The practice is short, designed basically to force the lactic acid out of the muscles and keep everyone stretched out. At 3:45 p.m. the players hit the showers and around 4:00 p.m. they watch the films from the night before, getting a general analysis of the game from the coaching staff.

Between 5:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. the team eats dinner. In Louisiana, our scout is on the way with an evaluation of our upcoming opponents. Starting around 8:00 p.m., and finishing in the early morning hours, Northeast Louisiana is analyzed and reanalyzed, each coach concentrating on his responsibility.

On Monday morning and early afternoon, the Rebel players filter into the football office to discuss the previous week as well as the upcoming week with the coach who has the responsibility for him.

Practice begins at 3:00 p.m. It is a light practice, a little bit longer than Sunday's, to prepare the players for the rigorous program on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Each day there is a particular thought which the team tries to focus on, and they change from week to week. Today it's positive thinking, concentration and the fundamentals.

After practice, the team eats dinner together, as they do every day of the season.

Tuesday and Wednesday are the most demanding practice days for the team. This is when the heavy contact is made and the players closely simulate game conditions. The practice runs well over two hours and includes individual improvement, team calisthenics and scrimmage contests where the defense and offense practice game situations.

Midway in the practice is a water break, in which the players wet their whistles and catch a breath. The thought for Tuesday is improvement and Wednesday is aspirations.

Following practice on Monday and Wednesday, the "heavies," the linemen, linebackers and so on, work out with weights. This is basically done to conserve the strength they are constantly tearing at during practice over the course of the long season.

On Tuesday and Thursday the safeties, receivers and the men who rely on their quickness, converge on the weight room.

Thursday's thought is knowledge of direction, creative thinking, dissolving emotional blockouts and generally understanding one's self. The workout runs approximately two hours, and the hitting is subdued. The all-out contact is over until the contest Saturday night.

Integrity, adherence to a code of values, and analyzing whether or not one is giving his utmost are the things the team considers on Friday.

The practice is short and by about 4:00 p.m. the team has showered and packed for the game the following day.

On Saturday, the team meets at 3:00 p.m. and is together for the rest of the day. The stress is on the growth of the total human being and the players drive toward competitive greatness.

At 4:30 the team have their pre-game meal and at 5:15 an outside speaker, such as Lt. Governor Harry Reid, makes a brief presentation.

At 5:30 the team is on the bus and on their way to Las Vegas Stadium. At 6:30 the players are taped up and begin dressing and at 7:30 the team stretches their muscles in the locker room.

At 7:40 Coach Meyer makes some comments and the team hits the field for calisthenics. Around 8:05, the UNLV captains meet with the captains from Northeast Louisiana for the toss of the coin.

Final thoughts are expressed by the captains and Meyer back in the locker room, and then the team heads back on field for the National Anthem and the final meeting of the captains at mid-field.

At 8:15 p.m. the battle is underway.

Tonight, as in four out of five tilts this year, the Rebels were lucky by their definition.

It's an old formula for success used in most success stories.

"LUCK equals PREPARATION MEETING OPPORTUNITY."

It's a first class formula for a first class team and a first class coaching staff and a first class organizer, Head Coach Ron Meyer.
