The Money Game

How Nevada Fares

Percent increase in appropriations from 1973-74 to 1975-76

Appropriations per capita

Appropriations per $1,000 of personal income

Many persons connected with the University of Nevada System have criticized Governor Mike O'Callaghan and the state legislature for failing to fund new programs at the state's two university facilities.

At the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, plans for building a law school were smashed for the immediate future when this year's state legislature did not come up with funding (estimated cost: $500,000.00 to $5,000,000.00) to inaugurate a law program.

Nevada is one of only two states without a law school. Alaska, the other state, is well along designing a law school.

Looking at how Nevada's higher education funding fares in comparison with the rest of the country is likely to only add fuel to the controversy by giving ammunition to both opponents and proponents of a law school being founded in Nevada.

As the accompanying chart shows, Nevada is above the national average in three areas of expenditure for education, although not unreasonably so.

In the amount of funding for higher education, Nevada ranks 46th in the United States in the 1975-76 fiscal year with appropriations totalling 37 million 719 thousand dollars. Only four other states spend less on colleges and universities: South Dakota-$35,667,000; Wyoming-$33,821,000; New Hampshire-$22,453,000; and Vermont-$20,138,000.

According to the 1970 census, Nevada ranks 48th in the United States in population, so it seems that the state is adequately serious in its funding of higher education.

What is interesting to note, however, is that Alaska, dead last in U.S. population, ranks 40th in higher education funding with $52,884,000.

On a per capita basis, Nevada ranks 21st in the U.S. with $66.88 going to the University of Nevada. Alaska is number one in this category also. Every man, woman, and child in the northernmost state contributes $170.05 on the average to its university system. Hawaii, number two, pays $105.12 toward higher education.

On the basis of economic ability to pay, Nevada ranks 31st in the nation. Nevadans pay $10.94 to higher education per each $1,000 of personal income, compared with Alaskans (No. 1) at $22.22 or New Hampshire (No. 50) at $5.62.

In the last two years, Nevada has increased its appropriations to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas; the University of Nevada, Reno; the Desert Research Institute; and the Community College Division by 42% (22% minus inflation) and 430% over the last decade. Nevada has the 9th highest percentage increase in university funding in the entire country.

What is somewhat disconcerting is the allocation of funds within the state.

According to figures from the Chronicle of Higher Education (which supplied much of the raw data for this report) the amount of state money appropriated for the University of Nevada, Reno, for 1975-76 totalled $18,273,000.

For U.N.L.V. the money for the two-year period amounted to $10,997,000.

Even though the southern campus is growing by leaps and bound, Reno's funding increased by 38 per cent over two years ago. U.N.L.V.'s money increased by 34 per cent.

The University System's Master Plan estimates that the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, will pass Reno in total enrollment by 1978.

The money game, however, shows U.N.R. getting an even larger piece of the pie.

Can Nevada afford a law school, a school of architecture, or a school of journalism at U.N.L.V.?

It appears that more money could be generated if the state legislature and the Board of Regents believe in the necessity for additional programs.

Such programs for U.N.L.V. would seem impossible, however, if U.N.R. continues to receive 80 per cent more state funds than the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Preregistration Schedule

Preregistration for spring semester will be December 3-January 23, Mondays-Fridays inclusive, except December 25 and January 1. All regular and special students who plan to continue at UNLV in the spring semester are expected to complete preregistration. Registration packets and class cards will be distributed and fee payments accepted throughout this period. Additionally, fee payments will be accepted on January 26-27 from students who have already obtained packets and class cards. Students who complete preregistration, including fee payment, will not have to participate in the January 28-29 regular registration.

Day Care Center

Special to the YELL
by Maxine Peterson

"The most important thing to us at the Day Care Center, here at UNLV, is the safety and happiness of our children."

This is the philosophy that Evelyn Ludeman, director and all the staff members share at UNLV's Day Care Center.

"We want the parents to be able to leave their children with a clear mind, knowing they will be well taken care of," added Ms. Ludeman.

The Day Care Center, located on the first floor of Tonopah Hall adjacent to the Moyer Student Union, is open to children 2-5 years of age, all who must be potty trained.

Hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The hourly rates for each child are: sixty cents to full-time students, seventy-five cents to faculty, staff and part-time students and ninety cents to Las Vegas residents.

Two or more children from the same family are ten cents less.

The children are taught some language skills such as communication, vocabulary and self-expression. Other curricular activities are general reasoning, number concepts and the development of an awareness of muscles through running and throwing, etc.

As Marie Bain, assistant director and 3rd year elementary education major at UNLV, pointed out, "We do not put any pressures on the children to learn at their young age, we mainly want to help them get a positive attitude towards school."

The parents who were questioned about the center all felt that it is convenient, the rates reasonable and the children learned to share and play well with others.

Vic Stella, whose son Michael, age 4, attends the Day Care Center said, "I bring him because he loves to be with other children."

Connie Jo Mullen, age 3½ said, "I like snack time and singing songs best."

Each child is served lunch each day for seventy cents and snacks for fifteen cents.

There was only one qualm Ms. Ludeman expressed concerning the Day Care Center.

She said, she felt that they could do a better job there if they were a separate division of the university and not a division of CSUN.

"I feel it is important for the Day Care Center to have a consistent overseer and not different student body officers who sometimes change at election time."

She also said, "I know the student government means well in their influence and authority over the center, but they are mostly students with their own schedules and I feel that we (the staff) are more qualified."

The Day Care Center at UNLV is a helpful service to students and faculty parents and should receive the credit it deserves.

THE HISSING OF SUMMER LAWN (Asylum), Joni Mitchell

Could a new Joni Mitchell album really be anything less than extraordinaire!

Of course not.

This is Joni's first studio record in two years and, as if it needed to be confirmed, the new collection shows once again that her depths--both poetic and musical--are unfathomable.

Much of it is a gentle anti-suburbia protest. The title cut captures that personal emptiness which is always associated with suburban affluence: He gave her a room full of Chippendale. That nobody sits in. Still she stays with a love of some kind. It's the lady's choice. The hissing of summer lawns.

"Harry's House--Centerpiece", a Johnny Mandel/Jon Hendricks composition, again brings out the despair of people "molded to middle-class circumstance": She is lost in House and Gardens. He's caught up in Chief of Staff.

Joni's love of France is shown again, too, with "In France They Kiss on Main Street", a spirited tribute in Free-Man-in-Paris style. Graham Nash, David Crosby and James Taylor do background vocals on this cut, and Jeff Baxter helps out on electric guitar.

Three songs stand out as typical Joni Mitchell melancholy sweet-rockers--"Edith and the Kingpin", "Don't Interrupt the Sorrow" and "Shades of Scarlet Conquering" (yes--O'Hara, with Magnolias and Southern charm); and two as unique in the rock spectrum--"The Jungle Line", featuring the warrior drums of someone named Burundi, and "Shadows and Light", choir-like, with all voices by Joni.

Drummer and (very) close friend John Guerin is back again, and co-wrote the title song. Larry Carlton does most of the lead guitar work and Joni plays acoustic guitar and piano.

And the cover itself is almost worth the price of the the record. Hailed as the album cover of the year, it was conceived and drawn by Joni herself. Together with the treasures inside--C'est magnifique!

LISTEN TO THE CITY (A&M), Tim Weisberg

Tim Weisberg is a flutist (bass, alto, E-flat, piccolo), plus. His music is said to be jazz/rock; actually it's more rock than hard jazz. But, really, does any of that matter much.

Tim's music is his own, and, although it takes on obvious jazz movements, the total sound just shouldn't be place in category.

"Listen to the City, Tim's first concept album", begins the liner (betcha didn't know he had five albums; neither did I), "deals with the moods and textures that shape and color city life."

Yes.

Like most previous works, there is no singing. "According to Tim, 'The concept was the result of on-tour experiences in many cities, and they manifested themselves not in poetry or lyrics--but in a flow of music.'": Rainbow City-Discover-Listen to the City-High Rise-The Chase-Love Maker-The Good Life-Street Party-The Passing-The Dealer-Conception-Lunchbreak-Nikki's Waltz-Rush Hour (Friday PM)-Weekend.

Lynn Blessing does keyboards again, and much of the writing; and other friends, including Doug Anderson, help out to create a mood which nearly places a recording akin to a painting.

Listen--and feel, but never mind the labels. This album is: Tim Weisberg.

Star Talk

On Friday, December 5th, the Physics Department continues its popular series on Astronomy with a talk entitled "Quasars and Quakes."

Dr. George Resch of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory will discuss a far out idea to put Astronomy to practical use.

Dr. Resch is involved in an Astro-Geologic project, code named ARIES. The project uses observation of quasars to measure slight movements in the earth's crust. The goal of this series of experiments is to predict earthquakes in areas of active faults.

Everyone is invited to attend this free lecture which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Teacher Education Auditorium.

After the lecture a viewing session will be held using the Department's telescopes.

Genetics

by Darla Anderson
YELL Staff Writer

Down's Syndrome, Huntington's Chorea, Mental Retardation. These are all hereditary diseases that strike our population. For the most part there is no cure for them. They usually take their victims to an early grave.

But what can be done to stop these genetic diseases from being passed on from generation to generation? Ms. Margaret Simon, assistant professor of nursing, is now teaching a continuing education course which does offer help through genetic counseling.

The class meets on Mondays for the next four weeks and deals with the role of genetics. The genetic counselor advises people with a high possibility of carrying a genetic disease to help determine the possible percentage people run in having a genetically defective child. They can also help determine if the mother is already pregnant, if the child may have a genetic defect. If that is the case, then the parents are given the option of carrying the pregnancy to full term or aborting the fetus.

"The main goal of genetic counseling," said Ms. Simon, "is to prevent these genetic diseases from occurring rather than dealing with them after they occur."

Ms. Simon became interested in genetic counseling after attending a few seminars on the subject.

Looking into the limited programs Clark County has for the high risk parents, she decided to start this class. Ms. Simon hopes that not only nursing students will be interested, but everyone, especially the high risk parents. She also hopes the class might stimulate some interest among people for genetic counseling in Clark County.

Ski Credit

An engineering professor will take students to the ski resorts of Snowbird, Park City and Alta in Utah to examine all of the technical problems associated with the operation of a ski facility in the mountains.

Herbert Wells, a lecturer in engineering at UNLV, said people may enroll for either one or two weeks in the special course to be taught January 4-18 during the university's Mini Term.

Classes will be instructed during the evening hours so that those who wish to ski may do so during the day, Wells said.

Some of the problems which Wells and his class will analyze will include the design of ski lifts and aerial tramways, erosion during the runoff season, avalanche control through the use of explosives, difficulties in the operation and maintenance of lodges, and the unique designs necessary for housing and to get transportation into the areas.

Persons may earn one college credit per week by successfully completing the classes. Or they may go along just for the skiing and receive no credit. Anyone interested should contact the engineering department on the campus.

The group will stay at the Goldminer's Daughter lodge in Alta, 100 feet from two chair lifts and a mile from the Snowbird Tram. Field trips to Park City will be conducted during each of the two weeks.

ComStudies Mag

by William R. Seago
Special to the YELL

The Department of Communications of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, is producing a personality profile magazine tentatively entitled "Faces." The magazine is being produced by the students of the Communications College class under the direction of Richard Kallen, Instructor in Communications.

The content of the magazine will pertain to citizens of the Las Vegas area who have in some way affected the community or provided interest to inhabitants of the community.

Personalities being considered are those involved in the local political scene, in the field of journalism, in business, education, the arts, and social movements.

The intent of the magazine is not to concentrate on people involved in the entertainment or gaming industry, as many local publications do.

Each student is directed to conduct interviews to profile the personalities of each individual and to find out the ambitions and interests of their particular field. There are students also functioning in the role of editor, art director, and business manager.

"Faces" will be approximately 30 pages in length. It is set for publication in mid-December and is expected to have 2,000 copies distributed in Las Vegas.

Profile: Dr. Marie-France Hilgar

by Alan W. Frazier

The UNLV Department of Foreign Languages' Chairmanship changed earlier this semester when Associate Professor Marie-France Hilgar assumed that office's responsibilities. Dr. Hilgar replaces Dr. John D. Lindberg, who resigned the chair in order to devote more time to scholarly activities.

Dr. Hilgar has been teaching French language and literature at UNLV since fall of 1971. Prior to UNLV, Prof. Hilgar taught at the University of California, Davis, for four years, from which institution she received her doctorate.

Professor Hilgar has had a quite varied teaching experience. After instructing Americans at El Nido private school in Villefranche sur mer, France, Dr. Hilgar taught at East Brady High School in Pennsylvania after earning her Bachelor's degree at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, from which she graduated with honors.

Moving to the west coast, Dr. Hilgar continued her education at San Francisco State College, from which she received her Master's degree in 1966. That summer Mme. Hilgar spent instructing Peace Corps volunteers for SF State College, and continued instruction for the Peace Corps that fall for the University of California, Davis. The following spring, she lectured at San Francisco State College.

Dr. Hilgar's special field of interest and scholarship is of French drama of the 17th century. As a result of her endeavors in this area, Prof. Hilgar has written La Mode des Stances dans le Theatre tragique francais: 1610 - 1687, which was published in 1974 by Nizet of Paris.

Mme. Hilgar has carried on a very active literary career in addition to her classes at UNLV. Some of Dr. Hilgar's published articles are: "Un nerveux par excellence: Theophile de Viau," published in the Revue de Characterologie, "Theatralite de la folie," in Romance Notes, "La Mort d'Agis," in Proceedings, (the Journal of the Pacific Northwest Conference on Foreign Languages), "La Mesnardiere: Poetique et Poesie," printed in Papers in 17th Century French Literature, "L'Evolution du seducteur de Seville," in Proceedings:

In addition to her articles, many of which were also presented as papers to such scholarly organizations as the Pacific Northwest Conference on Foreign Languages, the Modern Language Association, and others, Dr. Hilgar has presented papers on: "La Mode des Stances dans le Theatre en France au XVIIe siecle," presented in 1972 in Tucson to the Rocky Mountain Modern Lan-

Barbara in 1974; "La Mesnardiere: Poetique et Poesie," presented at the 1974 meeting of the Modern Language Association in New York City; and "Preciosite: a socio-linguistic phenomenon," at guage Association; "La Folie dans le Theatre en France au XVIIe siecle," presented to the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast in Reno in 1973; "La Tres Dramatique Vie du Fils d'Alcmene," at the Sixth Annual Conference on Seventeenth Century French Literature in Santa the Rocky Mountain Modern Language Association's 1975 convention in Denver.

Dr. Hilgar's expertise in her field has resulted in her being asked to lecture as a guest at other universities, among them the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, and the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, both during April of this year.

Although, after perusing the impressive list of Dr. Hilgar's literary achievements, one might find it difficult to believe otherwise, this charming lady has definitely not secluded herself in a library; indeed, she has been extremely active in many organizations related to French literature. In 1973, she was elected secretary of the French I Section of that year's meeting of the Rocky Mountain Modern Language Association, and is currently a member of the Executive Committee of that same group. Mme. Hilgar served as Chairman of the French I Section at that organization's 1974 convention. In 1975 she was elected Secretary of the French Section of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast, and became Chairman of that same group this year.

Professor Hilgar will serve as Chairperson of the French Section of next year's meeting of the Pacific Northwest Conference on Foreign Languages.

In addition to her membership in several learned societies, Dr. Hilgar is President of the French Alliance of Southern Nevada.

Basic Skills Missing In Many Students

(CPS)--When college students were the academic elite of their high school classes, college administrators and instructors assumed that entering freshmen knew basic grammar and composition cold. Now with more high school students going to college and admissions standards at many schools loosening, college administrators are recognizing the existence of a basic skills gap which handicaps many college students.

Colleges and universities across the country are setting up remedial programs to meet the needs of students who find they have never learned how to write in complete sentences. Basic skills programs are most prevalent at two-year and community colleges, but the problem has also surfaced at private four-year schools which have traditionally drawn the cream of the high school crop.

At the University of South Carolina (USC) where lower SAT scores prompted a remedial grammar class called English 100, the admissions director blamed the increasing popularity of college for decreasing proficiency in English skills. "A broader segment of people taking the test results in a broader base of ability being measured," he said, referring to the declining SAT scores.

The director of the English 100 program at USC called the program "a survival course" and accused high schools of over-emphasizing literature at the expense of grammar. "It isn't always the students' fault that they lack these skills," she said. "Most students tell us that the last time they had a grammar review was the eighth grade."

Other university officials have different explanations for the under-educated college student. Jerome Weber, University College Dean at Oklahoma University, attributed part of the problem to the shifts in high school goals from the three R's to more social and personal growth.

Others claimed it was a problem unique to this generation which was raised on television and radio. Instructors at the University of California have reported that students in their freshman English classes are not proficient in even the fundamentals of grammar. The remedial English or Subject A supervisor argued that this "illiteracy" was a "cultural problem, as students in an electronic society have little chance to acquire reading-writing skills."

According to the director of academic programs at UCLA, the television society is to blame for less educated college students. "Students today are more verbal," he said. "They don't read. They don't have the written skills they once did. They're TV educated."

But a recent report in the Christian Science Monitor holds the whole college-oriented society responsible for the lower level of skills of incoming freshmen. The report states that many officials feel the reason for the student skills gap is the fact that the whole post-secondary education system has become much less elite.

This has been particularly true in recent years when many colleges have begun admitting students who would not have met the minimum qualifications for admission several years ago when the competition for college space was fiercer. For instance, students with SAT verbal scores of 350 can be admitted to the University of South Carolina, but enrollment in a basic skills program is required for freshmen with verbal scores between 350 and 390.

Although hundreds of colleges and universities are making basic skills programs available to their students, it is often the student's choice to attend or not to attend. Unfortunately, many students do not recognize their own needs for remedial classes and spurn them. There is still a stigma attached to classes which set out to do no more than teach college students skills they should have acquired in secondary schools. And many colleges which offer basic skills classes give little or no college credit for the hours spent catching up.

But if the basic skills levels of incoming freshmen continues to decline, students may rush to the remedial English courses just to insure their survival in regular college classrooms.

Final Football Figures

Las Vegas, Nev.--Proving they could finally win on the road, the UNLV football team ended the 1975 season with a 7-4 record by defeating arch-rival University of Nevada, Reno 45-7. The Rebels of third-year head coach Ron Meyer set 24 individual and team records along the way and tied two more to give the school a very respectable 1975 season.

The Rebels must now mend their wounds from a very injury-prone season, which saw the Rebels have 23 players miss at least one game, and get ready for the 1976 season which will find the Rebels playing at home for eight regular season games.

Leading the most recent attack on the Rebel record book was junior All-America quarterback candidate Glenn Carano, who set 18 Rebel standards and tied one more during the course of his superb season. Carano, 6-3, 195, set records for TOTAL OFFENSE: Most Plays-Season - 309, career - 546; most yards gained - game 332, season - 2036, and career - 3214 and most yards total offense gained per game in a single season - 185.1. In PASSING: Most Passes Attempted - Season - 226, Most Passes Completed - Game - 19, Season - 128 and Career - 189; Most Yards Gained Passing: Game - 320, season - 2039, Career - 3071; Most Yards Gained Passing Per Game - 185.4; Most Touchdown Passes - season - 13, Career - 24; Most Passes Had Intercepted - Career - 25. Carano also tied the mark for best completion average - .566. In 1974 he set records for Most Passes Had Intercepted: game - four, season - 12, to give him 20 UNLV records, only two less than former Rebel All-America running back Mike Thomas.

Junior wide receiver Kurt Schnabel also set a UNLV record with eight touchdown passes caught during the season and freshman return speedster Henry Vereen set two school marks with 824 yards in kickoff returns in 1975. His marks were for a season and a career as he nearly doubled the previous mark set by Thomas Bywaters in 1973 of 430 yards.

Soccer-style kicker Roy Sparks, who joined the team for the final three games of the season after playing for the UNLV soccer team, set a Rebel standard with a 45 yard field goal against Weber State.

Senior linebackers Mike Otto and Tony Sandone each tied the Rebel record for interceptions in a game as each picked off two in different games.

The two team records that fell were both in passing: Highest average gain per attempt (9.1 yards each attempt) and highest percentage completed: .566 (133 of 235).

Despite the injuries, UNLV still averaged 382.8 yards per game in total offense, scoring 30.2 points per game and allowing 19.3 per contest. Sophomore Darall Moore led the team in scoring (10 tds) and rushing (547 yards), appearing in only seven games.

The first spinning Jerry in the United States was made in 1787 in Providence, R.I.

Rebs Beat Oregon State

by George Staresinic
YELL Sports Editor

If last Saturday night's game is any indication, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas basketball team should have another good year.

The Rebels officially opened their 1975-76 season Saturday with a 96-85 victory over Oregon State University before a sellout crowd of 6,257. Jerry Tarkanian's Runnin' Rebels have now won 22 consecutive regular season games in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

UNLV needed a second-half surge to overcome the Beavers and hand their northern rivals their second defeat in two nights. Oregon State was defeated by Arizona 96-67 Friday night.

With the Rebels holding on to a slim 70-66 lead, Lewis Brown got the hot hand and scored eight of UNLV's next 10 points as the Rebs opened up a 80-68 lead with 3:54 left in the game.

Brown didn't start the game and didn't see any action until midway through the first half. But the 6'11 center made his presence felt as he scored 15 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the 17 minutes he played. Brown scored all 15 points in the final half and at one point did not miss on five straight field goal attempts.

The Beavers jumped to an early lead of 12-10 with just under five minutes gone in the game and didn't relinquish the lead until a Glen Gondrezick jumper with 16:23 left in the game gave the Rebels a brief 45-44 lead. The lead see-sawed for the next six minutes until Sam Smith connected on a jumper to give the Rebels a 59-58 lead and UNLV never trailed again.

Rocky Smith led the Beavers attack in the initial half as he scored 17 of his game-high 32 points. OSU once led by 12 points, 24-12, in the first half before the Rebels battled back to trail by only two at the first half, 39-37.

The Rebels shot 44% for the game hitting 42 of 95 field goals compared to Oregon State's 50%, 34 of 68, but UNLV out-rebounded the visitors 63-36. Eddie Owens grabbed a game-high 13 boards to go along with his 20 point performance.

UNLV still has a few problems to iron out in their running game. The Rebels turned the ball over to the Beavers on 19 occasions, but their man-to-man defense forced 17 miscues by OSU.

One problem that might exist for Jerry Tarkanian is giving his bench enough playing time. The Rebels have eight players who could start for quite a few teams in the country. To add to the five who started against the Beavers, Robert Smith, Owens, Gondrezick, Jackie Robinson, and Boyd Batts, on the bench were Brown, junior college transfer Sam Smith, and freshman Reggie Theus. But then again, any coach wouldn't mind having Tarkanian's troubles.

UNLV takes to the road this week and won't return to the Convention Center until December 10 when they open up a nine-game homestand against nationally-ranked Arizona.

On Wednesday the Rebels will be in Boulder, Colorado to play the University of Colorado. On Friday and Saturday nights, UNLV will be in Pittsburgh for the Steel Bowl Classic. The Rebels will face Syracuse with the winner playing the Pittsburgh-Duquesne victor on Saturday night for the championship. The two losers in the opening round will play in the consolation game prior to the championship game.

Poo Play

The Little Theatre at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas is once again being converted into a forest just as it was last year for the presentation of "Wind in the Willows."

This time, audiences are in store for another children's classic when "Winnie-the-Pooh" is presented under the direction of Ms. Jody Johnston beginning Dec. 5.

The play is the Kristin Sergel dramatization of A.A. Milne's book published in 1926.

"Winnie-the-Pooh" actually began as a series of letters written by Milne to his young son containing stories about characters named after the stuffed toys belonging to the boy.

Milne was reluctant to publish the letters, but at the insistence of his housekeeper they were submitted for publication.

The cast of characters includes Winnie (Peter Schneider), Piglet (Dana Leitziger), Owl (Tom Barr), Eeyore (Robert Dixon), Kanga

(Barbara Brennan), Roo (Michael Proffit), Christopher Robin (Ernie Joe Buskirk) and Rabbit (Judy Bennet).

This particular episode deals with Kanga's arrival in the forest, and the show ends with a birthday party for Pooh and the entire audience.

Ms. Johnston, who teaches classes in children's theatre at UNLV and directed "Wind in the Willows," says the cast is comprised of actors ranging in age from a nine-year-old to a mother of four. She would like to tour the play locally to recreation centers, day care centers and hospitals.

The play is set for 7 p.m. Dec. 5, 12, 13, 19 and 20 and 2 p.m. Dec. 6, 7, 13, 14, 20 and 21.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12.

Tickets are available through the UNLV theatre arts department. Call 739-3641.

Student Loans

If you live in Nevada for a minimum of six months and plan to enroll for 12 credits or more in the Spring semester, you may be eligible to receive a loan through the United Student Aid Fund Program.

The maximum loan amount for freshmen is $500 per semester. College sophomores, juniors, seniors, and graduate students may borrow a maximum of $750 per semester.

Repayment at 7% simple interest begins nine months after graduation or withdrawal from school. If your annual income is below $15,000, the federal government will pay the interest on your loan while you are attending school.

The Financial Aid office, Frazier Hall Room 110, is now processing applications for USAF loans for the Spring semester. Applications should be completed by December 15 in order to receive the money by registration time.

Something To Make...

"Something to Make, Something to Give", three active sessions on holiday activities are presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday evenings, December 3 - 17 at the Downtown Library, 400 E. Mesquite.

Handcrafter Marilyn Davenport presents ideas and demonstrates techniques for creating lovely handmade holiday ornaments and decorations at 7 p.m. December 3rd. Several of Marilyn's original craft ideas have been published by McCalls Magazine in their special holiday features.

On Wednesday, December 10, Aggie Roberts of the Nevada

State Federation of Garden Clubs demonstrates the construction of terrariums for holiday giving, including instructions on wrapping a living gift.

During the final session on December 17th, Kathy Evanson of the Cooperative Extension Department demonstrates various craft activities parents can teach their children during the holiday season.

"Something to Make, Something to Give" is presented free to the public Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m., December 3 - 17. Free parking is available across from the library.

Law a Loser

by Kathy Thayer
Special to the YELL

The establishment of a Law School at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas looks grim for the near future, as the University does not anticipate submitting another proposal to the State Legislature in 1977.

The Law School proposal to the 1973 State Legislature was denied when the legislature failed to appropriate funds for its establishment.

Dr. Baepler, President of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, attributed the failure of the Law School to several factors.

He stated, "Due to the economic pressures of the state at the time of the proposal, Governor O'Callaghan took the approach not to implement any new programs."

Governor O'Callaghan did not allot funds for the Law School in his budget proposal submitted to the 1973 Legislature.

Dr. Baepler also attributed the "doom" of the Law School to the mixed attitudes of the Nevada State Bar. He said that only about half of the Bar were in favor of the Law School for Nevada.

HOLIDAY CARD TREE!

Here's how it works: instead of sending individual holiday cards to your University friends, send a contribution to the Scholarship Fund. A beautiful card will be custom designed and printed...with your name included...and sent to all faculty and staff members. Send your tax deductible gift enclosed in a holiday card, and that card will be displayed on a tree in the campus Student Union Building. Or send your gift now and your card later (a card will be provided if you wish).

Meanwhile, your name on the special Women's Club meeting will indicate your good wishes extend also to a deserving student worthy of scholarship assistance.

Last year's generous response enabled the Women's Club to give $1,500 in three scholarships to Bonnie Morton, Diane Syzdek and Patricia Schank.

We're counting on you to make this year's Holiday Card Tree Scholarship Fund the greatest ever.

Please send your generous check no later than Wednesday, December 5, to:

Prof Papers

Three professors at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas presented research papers at the recent joint national meeting here of the Operations Research Society of America and the Institute of Management Sciences.

Addressing the scientists with research papers in their specializations were UNLV staff members Dr. Frank Borsenik, professor of hotel administration; Dr. Bernard Malamud, associate professor of economics; and Dr. Philip E. Taylor, assistant professor of management.

Dr. Borsenik's paper dealt with the menu pricing strategies of fast food operations. Dr. Taylor reported on a computer program which is designed to minimize trim waste in paper cutting and Dr. Malamud examined a simulation model of zoning change decisions in Clark County.

LIBRARY SURVIVAL KIT

LIBRARY CIRCULATION COMPUTERIZES JANUARY 1st

by Chester K. Davis
Circulation Librarian

UNLV and the Clark County Library District are cooperating in the establishment of an automated joint library circulation system. Beginning January 1, 1976, all University library books will be charged through the system, which will check books out and in, produce overdue notices, compute fines, and compile statistics.

To enable the two cooperating libraries to operate this program in the most efficient and economical manner, the following procedures have been adopted. Beginning December 8th, all UNLV students, faculty, and staff will be asked to fill out a brief registration form at the University library circulation desk on the 3rd floor. At that time a machine-readable number will be affixed to their permanent plastic UNLV ID card. This card must be presented each time a book is borrowed. The card will be honored at the UNLV Library and also at all branches of the Clark County Library District.

Students should have their ID cards properly updated at the Student Union each semester when they enroll. Faculty, staff, and DRI personnel who wish to borrow library books should acquire their permanent plastic ID's at the Student Union before January 1st if they have not already done so.

In order to economize on computer data space, Clark County Library cards now held by UNLV students and employees will not be honored after they receive their UNLV library registration number. Upon graduation, cessation of studies, or termination of employment at UNLV, application may be made at Clark County Library District branches for a new public library card.

Students and faculty of Clark County Community College and UNLV Continuing Education students will be extended borrowing privileges at the University library upon presentation of a Clark County Library District library card. CCLD adult card holders engaging in extensive research may also apply for UNLV borrowing privileges.

There is no reason to make a special visit to the library for registration purposes. Registration can be quickly accomplished the first time the patron wishes to borrow a book after December 8th.

The new system will eliminate the time-consuming writing of a charge card for each book borrowed by the patron. Also eliminated is the long search through card files when renewing books.

TIAKA Group

There is a new interest group established on the University of Nevada, Las Vegas campus known as TIAKA - those interested in Alpha Kappa Alpha. The group consists of 20 young women who are presently enrolled at the University as full-time students with the intention of obtaining a degree.

The main purpose of the group is to serve mankind in developing projects involved in health care, housing programs, consumer education, and the development of black economic stability, drug education, senior citizens, tutorial education, and career development programs. TIAKA wants to serve Nevada.

Hitchcock Loses

(ZNS/CPS)--A Loyola University psychologist has surveyed women to find the type of male body most likely to set them drooling.

From the results, Psychologist Paul Lavrakas has determined the most exciting male figure. The perfect male, Lavrakas claims, has thin legs, a medium-wide chest and medium-thin hips.

The "Alfred Hitchcock pear-shaped look"--a thin chest and large stomach and hips--is the least attractive male figure, according to women surveyed.

Commentary

was on duty for about an hour in the morning for those students who live in the dormitory, and that these students pay an extra fee to have the doctor's services. The other students must use the services of the school nurse.

I was also informed that there had been many complaints by students of this type of treatment by Dr. McKinnon and that I should forward my complaint to Dean Glennen of the University College.

I did just that. Dr. Glennen in turn informed me that he had complaints of this type before and he appreciated my informing him of the matter. Glennen also told me he would speak with Mrs. Kinn on Monday (Dec. 1) when she returned to the campus.

Other sources have told me that about two years ago, due to complaints and dissatisfaction with McKinnon's services, a recommendation was made to relieve him of his duties, but because of his "standing in the community...he's on the board of directors at Sunrise Hospital" the recommendation was rejected.

If McKinnon's services are reserved for the dormitory students, so be it. I personally had no idea that we even had a doctor on staff, and I went into the nurse's office to talk with the nurse herself and addressed my statements and problems to her. It was McKinnon who intervened into my conversation under his own volition.

If it disturbs Dr. McKinnon to treat non-dormitory students when they are ill, who needs him. He can either butt out of any conversation between a non-dorm student and the nurse or use some professional courtesy and plain old politeness in addressing someone who's only crime was the flu.

Any student who had had a similar problem should refer complaints to Dean Robert Glennen of the University College on the third floor of the Humanities Building.

It seems that a person can't get sick these days without someone giving him added grief. Is this what he's paid for? Furthermore, McKinnon is a cardiologist. What we need is a good general practitioner. If you can find one in Las Vegas.

Hilgar

And now Dr. Hilgar is turning much of her attention to the responsibilities involved in running the Department of Foreign Languages. In order to have enough time for this, she will probably teach one less course in the spring.

Professor Hilgar indicated her desire for better contact with other departments and colleges. Emphasizing that a foreign language is not only useful but necessary in order to have a well-balanced education, Dr. Hilgar stated that she foresaw "no real changes in the curriculum." As for the recent trend in the department while under Dr. Lindberg's chairmanship towards expansion, Dr. Hilgar indicated that the department would try to continue the eight languages now offered as long as there were sufficient student demand. Second year instruction in these classes (Arabic, Chinese, Hebrew, Japanese, and Latin) would also be attempted if students are willing to enroll.
