Spring break is a good time to get the Mexicali blues

by steve giddings

It's getting that time of the year again. The fall semester was rough but you survived. Christmas break gave you a reprieve, but the first month of the spring semester has already stressed you out.

Do you sit in class, thinking about your term paper? Do you think about your midterms? No, you have one thing on your mind...where you are going for Spring Break!

You're also thinking about how drunk you are going to get, and how much fun you are going to have when you get there.

Where are you going? Mazatlan.

"I've been to Ft. Lauderdale, Palm Springs, and Mazatlan.

Mazatlan is definitely better!

"As far as Palm Springs goes, let's face it, it is pretty much high school heaven. In Mazatlan there is something for everyone.

"There are good parties, good sun and beach, good food, and good shopping. At least that is what I remember from whenever I was sober enough," Ric Jimeney said, smiling all the while. If you are worried about your funds, which many students are, you could not pick a better place than Mexico. The peso is at an all time low.

The Holiday train from Nogales to Arizona to Mazatlan can be summed up in one word, "Outrageous!" Music and fun are out of control the entire journey.

The cocktail parties are where everybody meets every night to get free drinks, meet people and make the night plans.

Other activities are wet t-shirt contests, free t-shirts, the renting of the bullring for a wild party, bullfighting, cocktail parties, tug of war, best tan contest, beach volleyball tourney, free round trip return tickets, and much, much, more.

Most of those activities, however, are daytime events on the beach, but the Mazatlan night life is where it is really at.

You can dance the night away in a Mazatlan Disco, go to a restaurant like Senor Frog's where the whole crowd is singing and dancing on tables, (the Margaritas here are as big as buckets, two of them and you are stumbling), or you can take a romantic moonlight walk on the beach with your main 'squeeze.'

If you find all this hard to believe just ask some one who went last year.

"Every year we go down and see schools like

Chico State bring over 400 people, and they're just out of hand.

"That's what we want to do, bring about 200 UNLV students and get wild!" said James Coulthard.

There are also flights available to Mazatlan through Rebel Party Tours. These trips include everything. Going by train gives you two extra days in Mazatlan. However, you must book now before it is too late.

"The Spring Break experience is something every student should have to complete their college education."

Spring Break is April 11-18, don't miss the fun! Hasta Luego!

Remember, spring break is also a religious holiday

It is no secret that we are all happy that spring break is almost here, especially the staff of your Yellin' Rebel. But there are a couple of things that disturb me about spring break. First, as all of you are out their partying and drinking and drinking and drinking, remember one thing: UNLV's spring break is the same week as holy week.

Yes, holy week, the week in which the resurrection of Jesus Christ took place. Spring Break is also the time when the Jewish holiday of Passover begins.

Also during spring break is the time of Lent. For those of you who don't know, Lent is the six week period of time prior to Easter. During Lent you are suppose to refrain from partying and celebrating. Your also not supposed to eat meat on Wednesday's and Friday's. Take for example the annual Madi Gras in New Orleans. Partying continues up to the point when Lent begins.

Now you must be thinking to yourself this guy is some sort of religious fanatic. Or maybe you might think I'm a junior Oral Roberts. I am neither.

I do, however, think it is pretty stupid to have spring break at the same time holy week is going on. Why can't we have spring break in March, is that so hard? How many problems can that create?
