

Political Science essay contest

The Department of Political Science is pleased to announce the First Annual Stimson Essay Contest.

The contest is open to all UNLV students at the freshman or sophomore level.

Participants must read The Law which is a 75-page book by Frederic Bastiat. They must then write an essay of no fewer than 1000 and no more than 2000 words. A free copy of the book will be provided for all participants.

The essay must be typed and double-spaced and must have a title sheet which is stapled to the body of the paper.

Each student's essay will be judged by three judges based on a formula of 20 percent for composition and format, 20 percent for original thought and 60 percent for the interpretation of The Law.

Essays must be turned in to Dr. Michael Bowers, of the Department of Political Science, no later than 5pm, on April 17, 1987.

Prizes will be awarded as follows:

1st prize	$300
2nd prize	$200
3rd prize	$100

For a copy of the book and a list of contest rules, please see Dr. Bowers, in the political science offices in Wright Hall.

1987 Mars contest entries sought

The Planetary Society's Mars Institute announces the 1987 Mars student contest. This year there will be prizes in two categories. The prizes are $750 plus an all expense paid trip to Boulder, Colorado in the summer of 1987 for the upcoming Mars conference. The two topics for this year are:

Contest 1. Consider the technological capabilities of the various space programs of the space faring nations: Design an international Mars mission (any mission from sample return/rover to development of a full Mars base) that uses these capabilities in a synergistic way.

Contest 2. What are the social, political, and economic benefits and problems with an international mission to Mars? How might the problems be overcome and the benefits maximized?

Students in any high school or college are eligible. Groups of student may work together, however this will be considered in the judging.

Entries must be submitted by May 1, 1987.

The winner will be selected by May 30, 1987.
