

GRIN AND BEAR IT — One of the many exhibits at the Las Vegas Museum of Natural History on the Strip.

An Invitation from the Pres

Dear Students,

Bet you've never been to a SOD PARTY before, have you? It's the event I know you've been waiting for!

Join UNLV students, faculty, staff, and other prominent Nevadans in a different kind of "Hoe down" on Saturday morning, October 17 beginning at 7 am until 1 pm at the Thomas and Mack's main entrance. Even though your time may be limited, drop by for what time you do have available whenever you can between 7 and 1.

We intend to lay down 80,000 square feet of sod, extending from Tropicana Avenue, along Swenson, to the main entrance of the Thomas and Mack arena. Due to the size of this project, we need as many volunteers as possible.

Johnny Ribeiro and I will be the foreman on the job. We invite you to put on your work shoes and lend us a helping hand in creating UNLV's biggest green spot.

Television and other media will be present to record this important community event, so don't miss the opportunity to roll out the sod! If you can assist us, please call the number below to let us know when and for how long.

Warm personal regards.
Dr. Robert C. Maxson

Vending

How many of you can relate to this experience?

I can, and I sure am grateful to know that no matter where I am on campus, one of 45 vending machines will be at my disposal.

You're probably asking yourself, "Gee, I wonder how much money is put into these machines each year?"

I'm glad you asked.

According to Joe Cathcart, Purchasing Administrator at Business Services, students, faculty, and staff spend between $175,000 and $200,000 a year on candy and soda. That's a lot of quarters.

I know what you're thinking, "Hey, I'm a college student. My jeans have holes in the knees and I wear my underwear three days in a row, and those bums are getting rich off me!"

Well, you can cool your jets because much of the money stays right here. As a matter of fact, Cathcart said he has turned away several companies wanting to set up vending machines on campus because they wanted to charge more. Good job Joe.

Anyway, a chunk of the money goes to the vending companies, a few dollars go to repairs and other necessities (the people at Business Services bought themselves a new typewriter), but you, the students, benefit the most.

How? Scholarships set up by the vending companies. When the scholarship program was established several years ago, there was only $20,000 in the kitty, in 1986 $36,000 was given away, and this year—are you ready for this?—$45,000 will be given away in scholarships!

Before I end this piece, I would like to answer one last question.

Mish Tell, the Yellin' Rebel's managing editor, whose main dietary staple is junk food, wants to know why none of the machines carry licorice anymore. Answer: probably because you were the only person on campus buying it.

What goes into these machines is decided by popular consensus. If enough students request a certain product, Business Services draws up a contract with the vending companies adding said product to the list of all the others.

At the beginning of the year Cherry Coke was in demand so Business Services picked it up. Unfortunately, once it was provided, nobody bought Cherry Coke so it was replaced.

As Cathcart said, those machines are here for the students. You know never know, your favorite machine might end up paying your way through college one of these days.
