You are not forgotten.

This week, the 17th through the 21st, is National Prisoners of War/ Missing in Action week. The week is devoted to remembering those who were captured and those who are missing in World War I, II, Korea, and most recently, Vietnam.

There are still 2,337 men unaccounted for from the Vietnam conflict alone. Across the nation there are 2,337 families who have no idea what happened to their loved ones.

Some people feel that it is too late to do anything about it or "it's none of my concern." WRONG!

As long as there is a possibility of war it is your problem. It is important to be concerned, for history has a tendency to repeat itself. Unless our government and society are continually made aware that this a national concern, it could possibly happen again; maybe with the present Middle East crisis.

Please, make this your concern or face the possibility of someone you know or love being missing or captured.
