The 37-year-old company will present a full evening of works including "Faust Divertissement," "Sweet Sorrow," "Tell Me A Tale," and "Le Beau Danube."

Holiday music and art show to be presented at UNLV

Show to benefit Big Brothers and Big Sisters

Festive holiday music will be a part of the UNLV Wind Ensemble and Community Concert Band Fall Concert and Art Show. The two groups will share the evening at the Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall at 8 p.m., Nov. 20. The admission is free. Included in the program will be Alfred Reed's "Russian Christmas Music," James Kern's "God of Our Father's," and Johann Sebastian Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring."

To follow along with the holiday spirit of giving, the UNLV Music Department is dedicating the concert to the Big Brother/Big Sister program of Las Vegas. In co-operation with the Student Public Relations Organization of UNLV, the Big Brother/Big Sister participants will be invited to a special pre-concert reception in their honor where they will be able to view a selection of instruments presented by members of the wind ensemble.

In addition to the concert, there will be an art show in the lobby of the hall. The show will consist of art works from local high school art classes and will be available for viewing before and after the concert.

"It will be exciting to have such a wonderful group of young people here," said Tom Leslie, director of the wind ensemble. "It is essential to communicate with as many people as you can. This is our way of communicating with them, through music. It should be a fun filled evening."

Corrections:

In the issue of The Yellin' Rebel of Oct. 30, 1990, a misprint appeared in the review of the film, "Fantasia." The sentence should have read, "Each section is introduced by Deems Taylor, a musical dilettante of the period."

We apologize for the misprint and any inconvenience this may have caused. Debbie Tubbesing, entertainment editor.
