

Faculty Club encourages goodwill and cheer

Each year non-student members of the UNLV community contribute to a scholarship fund which provides financial assistance to three lucky students at UNLV.

The 1990 - 1991 school year marked the 21st year of the UNLV Faculty Club's Holiday Card Tree scholarship project. The recipients of the year were Stacia Halverson (accounting major), Chu-Shiong Huang (chemistry major), and Farzin Sabetian (computer Science major). Each student received a scholarship worth $1,104. Don and Grace Schmiedel, co-chairpersons of the scholarship committee, said that an excess of $2,800 were donated for the year.

Don Schmiedel says, "The idea is that any member of the university community - that's faculty, professional staff, classified staff-can send in a contribution of any size..." He also stated, "...contributions have ranged from $5 to $100."

Upon contributing to the scholarship fund, the person's name is included in the Faculty Club's Christmas card. The card has a brief holiday message and a long list of all who have given to the fund.

Don Schmiedel stated, "We've had people who have contributed every year since we started them (the scholarships)." He also said, "All types of employees contribute."

Schmiedel explained that the Holiday Card Tree scholarship has received support from the entire campus community. He mentioned that in the past, donations have been given by employees in areas such as Telemedia, the Thomas and Mack pavilion, the UNLV Foundation, and the Desert Research Institute. Secretaries and administrative personnel have also made contributions.

In addition, the UNLV Printing Services does the job at cost for the Faculty Club.

"We really appreciate the fact that Printing Services takes an interest in this and that they cooperate. And the mail room cooperates to deliver these things to everybody on campus and they've got plenty to do on their own."

This Christmas, the Faculty Club will be mailing out approximately 1,700 cards. The club's mailing list includes some retired faculty and staff and all current members of the university community.

Don Schmiedel said the cards are sent, "...to everybody."

This includes people at Thomas and Mack, he said. "It includes janitors as much as it does the vice presidents..."

As we all know, there are those who give and consequently, those who receive.

Don Schmiedel said, "The student doesn't apply directly (to the scholarship committee) for the Faculty Club scholarship. He added, "The students, in general, don't know much about the Faculty Club scholarship program until one of them gets it."

Those who wish to receive this scholarship, will be happy to know that there is not a long, essay-style application required. Anyone who regularly files an Undergraduate Scholarship and Grant-In-Aid Application with Student Financial Services (SFS) will automatically be considered by SFS. (SFS determines who will be awarded the scholarship - not the Faculty Club.)

There are other requirements which must be met. Two of these are a minimum 3.4 grade point average and full-time enrollment at UNLV.

The scholarship fund for the 1991 -1992 school year is expected to raise over $3,700, allowing the Faculty Club to award three scholarships during its 22nd year.
