

Today, people with HIV are doing something most of us didn't think possible.

Living longer. Today, a person who is infected with HIV and receives prompt treatment can live longer. If you are at risk, now's the time to seek counseling and testing.

If you are infected with HIV, work with a doctor to understand medical options that may prolong your life. The earlier you do, the more effective medical treatments can be. You can pass the virus to others through sex or sharing drug needles and syringes.

If you test negative, take action to be sure you don't become infected in the future.

Today, more and more people are living with HIV infection and AIDS. Talk to a doctor, your health department, or your State or local AIDS hotline, or the National AIDS Hotline at 1-800-342-AIDS. Call 1-800-243-7889 (TTY) for deaf access.
