Forum on war and peace in Middle East

The Division of Continuing Education is sponsoring a free community forum on the prospects of continued war or peace in the Middle East on Wednesday, April 10, from 7-9 p.m. in Wright Hall Room 116.

UNLV faculty panelists for the forum will include forum coordinator Mehran Tamadonfar, political science; David Dickens, sociology; Joseph Fry, history; and Norman Milgram, visiting professor of counseling and psychology from Tel Aviv, Israel.

The panelists will discuss the history, religious traditions, foreign policy, conflicts and economics of the Middle East as well as the current deployment of Western military forces to the region and implications of any continued presence of those forces. Questions and comments from the audience will be encouraged.

The forum is free, but Continuing Education requests that those planning to attend RSVP at 739-3394.

$250 for vacation photos

VA announces 1991-92 health scholarships

The Department of Veterans' Affairs (VA) is announcing the availability of scholarships to nursing, occupational or physical therapy students for the 1991-92 school year.

Awards are for students in the final year of an associate's degree in nursing, as well as third- and fourth-year students in bachelor's and master's degree programs in nursing, and occupational and physical therapy.

Recipients receive tuition, educational expenses and a monthly stipend of $621. In exchange, participants agree to serve as a full-time registered nurse, or occupational or physical therapist in a VA medical center for a period of one year for each year of scholarship support. The maximum length of a scholarship award is two years.

Requests for applications may be made to the chief of nursing or chief of rehabilitation medicine at any VA medical center. Applications may also be requested from the dean of nursing, director of occupational or physical therapy, or the financial aid administrator at schools with accredited programs. Applications must be post-marked no later than May 28.

Additional information is available by writing to the VA Health Professional Scholarship Program (143C2), 810 Vermont Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20420, or by calling (202) 233-3652.

UNLVino wine tasting to raise scholarship funds

UNLV's William F. Harrah College of Hotel Administration and Southern Wine and Spirits of Nevada have announced plans for the 17th annual UNLVino wine tasting.

The event, which raises scholarship funds for the hotel college, is set for May 4, 3-9 p.m., at the Thomas & Mack Center. Tickets are $15 in advance and $25 at the door. For additional information, call 739-3616 or 876-4500.

Entrance to the wine tasting will be on the Swenson Street side of the Thomas & Mack Center. An elevator will be available for disabled persons at the street level of the Swenson entrance.

Participants will have the opportunity to taste foreign and domestic wines from more than 100 wineries. Cheese, bread and comestibles to help cleanse the palate between sips will also be served. Participants will also receive a free commemorative wine glass.

For those who taste too much wine, the hotel college is offering free transportation home.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the hotel college office in Frank and Estella Beam Hall, the Thomas & Mack box office or at Southern Wine and Spirits of Nevada.

R. F. Kennedy, Jr.—speaks about environment at UNLV

Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., son of the late U.S. senator, will speak on "Our Environmental Destiny" at Artemus Ham Hall April 20, 7:30 p.m., as part of the Earth Day 1991 events, co-sponsored by the U.S. Environmental Agency at UNLV. His talk is free and open to the public.

Kennedy continues his family's strong commitment to a tradition of service and has established his own personal agenda—an active and informed involvement in environmental issues.

Kennedy is a clinical professor and supervising attorney at the environmental litigation clinic at Pace University Law School in New York.

He also serves as senior staff attorney for the Hudson River Fishermen Association and project attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Kennedy is a graduate of Harvard University. He studied at the London School of Economics and received his law degree from the University of Virginia Law School. He received his master's degree in environmental law at Pace University School of Law.

Kennedy will speak about the environmental challenges of the 1990s and beyond, including river pollution, global warming and the greenhouse effect.

A news conference will immediately follow his presentation.

Communications educator will speak at UNLV

Dr. Sonja Foss, associate professor of communication at Ohio State University, is scheduled to lecture this week at UNLV.

In addition to her lecture, Foss will participate in an informal discussion and will be the guest at a reception honoring her new book, Women Speak: The Eloquence of Women's Lives.

All three events are free and open to the public.

Her UNLV lecture, titled "A Rhetorical Schema for the Judgment of Visual Imagery," is set for 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 10, in the Green Room of Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall.

On Thursday, April 11, Foss will host an informal discussion on the topic "Visual Imagery and Contemporary Criticism." The discussion will take place at 11:30 a.m., in the Gold Room of Wright Hall.

Also on Thursday, a reception and discussion centering on Foss' new book is set for 2:30 p.m., in the Gold Room of Wright Hall.

Foss is a prolific writer who has demonstrated a framework for investigating the influence of visual symbols by applying rhetorical criticism to different works, such as music visual symbols, by applying rhetorical criticism to different works such as music videos, architecture and historical memorials.

She received a doctorate degree in communications studies from Northwestern University in 1976. That same year she won the Earl Bradley Award at Northwestern for the best dissertation written in the area of rhetoric and public address.

All three events are sponsored by the Hank Greenspun School of Communications.

For more information, call Linda Stewart at 739-3964.
