When asked if there had ever been any problem with student photographers in the past, Finrock replied, "I don't know about that."

Finrock did get in touch with Cava who told him that he had prints for The Yellin' Rebel but that nobody ever came and got them. He also said that Cava had told him that he had been out of town following the tournament. However, nothing was ever mentioned about the fact that Cava never returned calls or answered messages left; and he never forwarded any photos as he promised in Indianapolis.

"We had no trouble with the photos from Tucson," Munson said. "They were delivered to us. But we made several phone calls to Cava and none of them were returned. The only phone call we got was from a man who wanted to get photos from us and he said Cava told him to call us."

In addition to winning the tournament, Duke came out on top in another category. The three representatives sent by them were all students.

"The Sports Information Director in charge of basketball at Duke said that it was a learning experience and that's why Duke sent students," Munson said.
