

Harvard Medievalist to speak at UNLV

Derek Pearsall, the senior medievalist in the English Department at Harvard University, is scheduled to speak at UNLV Wednesday.

His lecture, "Writing the Chaucer Biography," will deal with the challenge of writing the life story of any literary figure-but particularly with strategies for writing a biography of a man dead for almost 600 years.

The lecture, which is set for 7:30 p.m. in Room 116 of Wright Hall, is free and open to the public.

Pearsall, who is British, has been at Harvard since 1985. He also has taught at the University of York, Victoria College at the University of Toronto, and King's College at the University of London.

He is a fellow of the Medieval Academy of America, past president of the New Chaucer Society, and former president of the International Association of University Professors of English.

Pearsall's lecture is sponsored by the UNLV English Department.
