"Biting Off More Than You Can Chew" is the topic of a one-hour seminar scheduled for Nov. 12 at the City of Las Vegas Mirabelli Community Center, 6200 Elton Ave. The adult-oriented workshop takes place at noon and covers stress management, goal setting and how to manage the day. The session is free. Call 229-6359 to reserve a seat.

Take a trip

The Nylon Zoo, a fantasy story and costume experience that provides hands-on activities for children ages 2 and up, will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Las Vegas Library. A zoo animator guides costumed participants through dance movements relating to their characters.

Be a mannequin

"Fundamentals of Modeling" is the topic of a six-week course being offered at the City of Las Vegas Mirabelli Community Center, 6200 Elton Ave. Designed for teens 12-16, the class begins Nov. 8 at 5 p.m. and continues each Friday thereafter. The cost is $15. Call 229-6359 to register.

Give to Goodwill

More of Las Vegas' needy will enjoy a traditional Thanksgiving meal because of a Goodwill Industries food drive, Nov. 1-23, 1991.

"Goodwill fed 100 families last Thanksgiving," said Executive Assistant Milli Clark of Goodwill Industries. "We would like to feed at least that many this year." Clark said elementary school children in approximately 15 Clark County schools will collect canned goods during November. The food drive will open to the public at 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Nov. 23, at the Winterwood Pavillion, on Sahara and Nellis.

Not only have the children of Clark County extended a helping hand to the needy, but the business community has volunteered support by donating prizes to the participating schools and a contest drawing for the public at the Winterwood Pavillion. UNLV students Deanne Marcano, Marilyn Ming, Allison Schreiber and Gwendolyn Watson are coordinating the Thanksgiving food drive as a part of a communication class project, which enables them to also help the community.

"The food drive helps families that cannot consistently afford the basic necessities," Clark said.

For additional information, contact Goodwill Industries of Nevada, Inc., at 367-7272.

Wisconsin professor to lecture

"The Wilderness Idea Revisited: The Sustainable Development Alternative," will be the topic when Wisconsin professor J. Baird Callicott speaks at the university Nov. 14.

Callicott, a professor of philosophy and natural resources at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, is set to speak at 7:30 p.m. in Room 241 of Frank and Estella Beam Hall as part of the University Forum lecture series. The speech is free and open to the public. Callicott's work has been at the center of the new field of environmental philosophy and ethics.

In 1973, he helped create the multi-disciplinary Letters and Science Environmental Studies Program at UWSP. He went on to serve as the program's director from 1980 until 1986.

The University Forum lecture series is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and underwritten by the UNLV Foundation.

Early Studies Night scheduled

Early Studies Night, an informational session to inform qualified high school juniors and seniors about UNLV's Early Studies Program, is set for Nov. 19.

Through the Early Studies Program, some high school students are allowed to take college courses at UNLV. To be eligible for the program, high school juniors must have a grade point average of 3.5 or higher, while high school seniors must have a grade point of 3.0 or higher.

The informational session is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the lobby of Artemus Ham Concert Hall. Registration for the program also will be conducted at that time. Parents are invited to accompany their children.

For more information about the program, call Sandra Williams, assistant director of the Student Development Center, at 739-3177.

Global Change

Graduate fellowships are available for entering and first year graduate students majoring in science disciplines and interested in pursuing research careers in areas pertaining to global change.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens and either entering or first year graduate students in appropriate disciplines. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) and administered by Oak Ridge Associated Universities, the Graduate Fellowships for Global Change Program includes full payment of tuition and fees at a DOE-approved institution, a $1,200 monthly stipend and a three-month practicum assignment at a DOE facility or research center associated with the Committee on Earth and Environmental Sciences.

Areas of study are interdisciplinary and may include climate and hydrologic systems, biogeochemical dynamics, ecological systems and dynamics, earth system history, human interactions, solid earth processes, solar influences and data management. Relevant academic disciplines include agricultural sciences, atmospheric sciences and meteorology, biology and biotechnology, chemistry, computer sciences, ecology, economics, environmental sciences, geology, geochemistry, geophysics, hydrology, instrumentation, mathematics and statistics, oceanography and ocean sciences and physics.

Selection is based on academic performance, GRE scores, recommendations, coursework, experience and a statement of career goals by the applicant. Fellowship appointments are for one year and may be renewed.

The application deadline is Jan. 31, 1992, and awards will be announced in May 1992, and awards will be announced in May 1992. For applications or more information, contact Sandra Beaulieu, Graduate Fellowships in Global Change Program, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Science/Engineering Education Division, P.O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, TN 37831-0117, or call (615)567-7393.

Chicago Botanic Garden Internship Program

Applications for the 1992 internship program at the Chicago Botanic Garden are now available. The internship program offers college students and recent graduates a unique opportunity to experience a wide range of botanic garden operations.

The program is designed to allow interns to work in a one-on-one setting with professionals sharing their experience and expertise, while gaining the work experience necessary to qualify for better jobs.

Horticultural interns at the Botanic Garden rotate through different work areas every two weeks. Internship positions are available in three to twelve-month increments and provide for a 40-hour work week. Besides working in the demonstration gardens, interns also work with greenhouse and nursery production, urban horticulture, education, research and conservation, and public garden administration.

Specialized internships are also available in horticultural therapy, conservation ecology, integrated pest management, graphic arts and public relations.

For more information about the intern program, write Cynthia Baker, intern coordinator, Chicago Botanic Garden, P.O. Box 400, Glencoe, Ill. 60022-0400.

The Chicago Botanic Garden is a 300-acre living museum owned by the Forest Preserve District of Cook County and managed by the Chicago Horticultural Society. It is located on Lake-Cook Road in Glencoe, one-half mile east of the Edens Expressway. The Chicago Botanic Garden is accredited by the American Association of Museums and a member of the Association of Science-Technology Centers.
