

COMING TUESDAY...

Part 1 of a seven-part series concerning women's issues

Lifestyles

January 30, 1992

THE REBEL YELL

photo by Kimberly McGee

(Left) "If we had a Greek Row, wet rush would be fine, because...it could be contained," said the brothers of, Brian Huey, Rob Bonchi, Matt Ferris, Jim Sucliffe, Gerald Borja, Slick Sorenson and Mike Angell discussing the pro's and con's of dry rush. (Below) "Dry rush gives us a chance to get to know the fraternity," said Bret Dyke standing with Matt Kennedy.

photo by Kimberly McGee

photo by Rick Nielson

For AXA laughter is the foundation of brotherhood.

FRATERNITY RUSH '92

It's springin' up on us again...

by Tricia Ciaravino

The past has brought many ill-conceived notions of what rush is all about. But new policies and new responsible attitudes are replacing the Animal House image and many fraternities on campus are happy to leave the past behind.

Dry rush is now the norm and brothers and pledges alike accept it without question. Rush marshals from different fraternities patrol parties to make sure they are alcohol free. Fraternities risk suspension from rush as well as probation and a fine from their national chapters for having alcohol on the premises.

It's one for all and all for one as far as the Inter-Fraternity Council is concerned. If one member is drinking they all pay.

"You represent your fraternity," said Peter Weingartner, IFC president.

Dry rush means a safer, more brother-oriented event.

photo by Kimberly McGee

Andre Lagomarsino and George Ramirex of $\Phi\Theta\Theta$ wait to greet new members.

photo by Rick Nielson

EX brothers get reeeeeeved up for Spring Rush.