Hustlin' Rebels take two of three from 'Pack

The UNLV baseball team won two of three from upstate rival Nevada over the weekend. The Rebels won Friday night's opener, 9-4, before dropping a 14-10 decision Saturday. UNLV rebounded to win Sunday's rubber match, 10-6.

UNLV pounded out 42 hits in the series while the 'Pack had 31 safeties.

Ryan Plughoff hit a grand slam home run Sunday.

Kirk Kline (3-2) and Derek Cotton (4-4) were the winning UNLV hurlers.

The Rebels' final home series of the season will see New Mexico State Thursday through Saturday. Thursday and Friday's games begin at 7 p.m. while Saturday's finale will get underway at noon.

UNLV is 20-23 overall, 7-11 in Big West play while NMSU is 29-20, 8-10.

UNLV golf team hosting Big West Tournament

The UNLV golf team shoots for its second consecutive Big West Championship today at Spanish Trail Golf and Country Club.

The first two rounds were in scoring position, the Broncos, fearing the 4-4 performance of Stewart from the plate, intentionally walked the batter.

The ploy did them no good as designated player Hollie Chadwick came off the bench to knock in Smith, handing her the victory. Smith (20-2) is now only five short of tying her own record for wins in a season.

"Hollie Chadwick has been hitting well in practice," McDonald said, "but we've never really been able to work her in. We've been pretty consistent in going back to the same few (reserves). Sometimes you need to put a fresh person in there."

With three Big West doubleheaders remaining in the season, UNLV sports an overall mark of 32-12-1 overall, 20-5-1 in BWC. The Lady Rebels also split a doubleheader Saturday at home against Long Beach State 2-0, 3-4.

background, the shorthandedness at infield positions made Hewitt look like the more feasible choice. But according to McDonald, the chance simply hasn't come up yet.

"Cyndi has been injured and it's been really tough working her back in," McDonald said. "Our intention today was to also give her some pitching time. But in the second game, we didn't have the opportunity."

The opportunity never arose because UNLV's bats went flat for the second game. After a 12-for-30 performance in the opener, the Lady Rebels only mustered four hits in Game 2. McDonald said her batters hit about the same in both games, but better placement on the part of the Broncos changed the result.

Said McDonald: "I thought we hit the ball well in the second game, we just hit it at people."

"They made a few mistakes in the first game that cost them, but didn't make the same mistakes in Game 2."

To be exact, Cal Poly Pomona made five errors. Of the eight runs scored off Bronco pitcher Bonnie Ebenkamp, only three were earned. Cal Poly's Game 2 pitcher Carrie Evans was granted a much sounder defense that produced only one error.

Thus, neither team could put a run on the board through 4 1/2 innings.

Leading off the fifth inning, Smith smashed a double deep to center. A sacrifice by Sara Mallett sent Smith to third.

With only one out and Smith played Monday and the final round tees off today. The tournament is open to the public.

This tournament marks the last for Rebel senior Warren Schutte. Both Schutte and the Rebel team are heavy favorites.
