REBEL RELICS

October 7, 1986 The Yellin' Rebel— Softball loads up for another season—only three years after their last one. After the long lapse without a softball team, new Coach Shan McDonald is "recruited" to help strengthen the program and make the team contenders in their conference.

October 7, 1986 The Yellin' Rebel— "UNLV athletics as a business." Forbes magazine rips on UNLV's basketball program again; this time the report is not about the monetary aspect, but the academics. Forbes reported that UNLV graduated only 15 percent of the men's basketball players.

October 6, 1987 The Yellin'

Rebel— Valerie Pida returns to the sidelines of the Silver Bowl to cheer after spending the entire summer in the City of Hope Hospital. Pida was in the hospital receiving bone marrow transplants in order to combat a life threatening cancer. Pida suffered even more so because of her determination to live and her desire to continue shining her diamond-like smile on the crowd as she cheered on.

October 4, 1990 The Yellin' Rebel— Coach Jerry Tarkanian holds a press conference during which he offered to step down from coaching for the 1991 NCAA Tournament. Tark's offer is made in order to help the Rebels get into the post-season tournament, not as a confession of guilt.

October 11, 1990 The Yellin' Rebel— UNLV basketball players hold a conference in response to Tark's offer to step down from coaching. The players emphasized their support of Tark as a coach, and their opposition to his offer. Greg Anthony and Larry Johnson reiterated the team's desire to play under the direction of Tark, "the father of their family."

October 11, 1990 The Yellin' Rebel— A 39-year-old student dies after collapsing in the Dickinson Library. Two students find the body of Steve Plemons. He's taken to the hospital where doctors determined he died of heart failure.

Computer store offers contest

BY MARITESS ZURBANO
STAFF WRITER

The Computer Store, located in the Moyer Student Union inside Rebel Gear, is sponsoring a one-page essay contest called "Change The World." The grand prize is a free Macintosh Color Classic. Entry forms are available at The Computer Store, and the entry deadline is Friday Oct. 8.

Macintosh hardware and software are available at dramatically discounted rates at The Computer Store. This is available exclusively to Las Vegas community colleges and UNLV students, faculty, and staff.

Currently, they have several back-to-school specials in addition to their normal discounted rates. These additional discounts are available for a limited time only.

Some of the most current and advanced software and hardware are available at the store, these include Macintoshes that play compact discs and Macs that respond to voice commands.

If you are a Macintosh computer user and want to keep current in the today's changing technology, The Las Vegas Macintosh Users Group is interested in developing a chapter Macintosh club. They are currently recruiting members. Call Michael Fawcett at 734-3990 for more information.
