

Bench

from pg. 9
 matter how much the rest of NCAA world scoffs at the notion, the Rebels can win.

It's just a matter of how they do it.

First and foremost, the defense has to get off of their collective heels and start to play aggressive and with high emotion. Expect to see Paul Carrillo and Rossie Johnson have big games against the Wolfpack as they did last season. Johnson ran a 50-yard interception in for a TD in last season's game. Both players are seniors this year and would like nothing more than to beat Reno one last time.

The passing attack will be the key for the Rebels. If they can stop the air attack, half the battle is won. Next would be the ground game, where the Rebels have been devoured this season. They have to contain the 'Packs running game, but the main concentration should be on Maxwell and his throwing arm.

The best sound coming from Reno this weekend, besides all the Rebel fans whoopin' it up, will be hearing the Fremont Cannon fire when the Rebels score on the first drive of the game. You saw it in the "Bench" first: Kevin Crook to Shannon Wilson for a ten-yard touchdown run. Rebels up 7-0 with 10 minutes to go in the first quarter.

Then on the 'Pack's first possession, Maxwell will be intercepted by Jabbar Thomas and ran back for the Rebels second touchdown: Rebels up 14-0.

This is going to be UNLV's last season in the Big Worst Conference (whoops, I mean Big West). Next season the Rebels will leave Reno and the rest of the poor schmoees in the Big West to cross over to the WAC.

Watch for the upset at Mackay Stadium or on KUPN channel 21, Cable 2.

The Rebels win, 45-41.
 Beat Reno!
