Ethics workshop

The authors of a national handbook on media ethics will conduct a workshop Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Moyer Student Union, Room 202.

Jay Black, the Poynter-Jamison Chair in Media Ethics at the University of South Florida, and Ralph Barney, professor emeritus of communications at Brigham Young University, are two of the authors of "Doing Ethics in Journalism: A Handbook with Case Studies," along with Bob Steele, of the Poynter Institute for Media Studies. The book was published in 1993 by the Society of Professional Journalists and the Sigma Delta Chi Foundation. Black and Barney are also the co-editors of the Journal of Mass Media Ethics.

The workshop is sponsored by the Las Vegas Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, the Hank Greenspun School of Communication and the Southern Nevada Chapter of the BYU Communications Society.

Women's History Month continues

UNLV will continue to celebrate Women's History Month in April with several events on tap.

On April 1, prostitute Carol Leigh will speak on the topic, "Prostitution Politics: Issues, Images and Voices from within the Industry."

Leigh, who is also a poet, performance artist and filmmaker in San Francisco, will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Classroom Building Complex, Room A-108. Her talk will also include a video presentation.

The presentation will cover many topics of sex industry politics from a sex worker's rights perspective. These include diversity in the sex trade, laws and enforcement practices, immigrant prostitutes' rights, decriminalization versus legalization, Nevada's legal brothels, the San Francisco Task Force on Prostitution and the feminist controversy over women and the sex industry. A series of public forums titled, "Bodies, Boundaries & Bounty: A Public Forum on the Personal, Political, and Economic Realities of the Southern Nevada Sex Industries," is scheduled for April 2, 9, and 16. Each of the discussions will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Winchester Community Center, 3130 S. McLeod Drive.

The topics are:
-April 2: "Voices from within the Industry"
-April 9: "Voices from the Community"
-April 16: "Voices in Dialogue: The Future of Southern Nevada's Sex Industries"

All of the women's history month events are free and open to the public.

For additional information, call the Women's Studies Program at 895-0837.

University Forum lectures

Animal rights and the English of Western America will be topics presented by the University Forum lecture series in April.

Bruce G. Friedrich of People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) will speak on, "Animal Rights for the 21st Century," on April 4. The talk is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Classroom Building Complex, Room A-106.

Friedrich, PETA's international grassroots campaigns coordinator, proposes that "animals are not ours to eat, wear, or experiment upon." In his talk, he will explore the enormous implications of granting animals equality with humans.

"We Are Westerners: The English of Western America in the 20th Century" is the title of UNLV English professor Thomas L. Clark's lecture on April 10.

His presentation, which will feature slides illustrating the development of English in the western U.S., is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Frank and Estella Beam Hall, Room 241. Last year, Clark published a dictionary titled, "Western Lore and Language: A Dictionary for Enthusiasts of the American West."

In addition to cowboy lingo and ranchers' jargon, westerners have created new words to deal with skiing, mining, computers, fishing and logging, according to Clark. Westerners have also picked up terms from Spanish, Hopi, Japanese, Tlingit and dozens of other languages. The University Forum lecture series is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and is underwritten by the UNLV Foundation. All lectures are free and open to the public.

For more information, call the College of Liberal Arts at 895-3401.

Communication workshop planned

"Communication: Speaking with Authority" will be the topic of an April 8 workshop at UNLV.

Consultant and motivational speaker Deborah Wicker-Wright will conduct the workshop from 6-7:30 p.m. in the Moyer Student Union. The event is free and open to the public and is sponsored by the Jean Nidetch Women's Center.

To reserve a seat at the workshop or to obtain more information, call the women's center at 895-4475.

Barlow to join Graduate College

Harriet Wilson Barlow has been hired to serve as the director of recruitment/theses and dissertations for UNLV's Graduate College, beginning on April 15.

Barlow has spent the past eight years as associate director of student development at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. She also worked at SIU as acting director of the Illinois Minority Graduate Incentive Program, adjunct assistant professor of black American studies and adjunct assistant professor of social work.

Barlow earned a doctoral degree in education with a concentration in academic administration and budgeting from Southern Illinois University. She also earned a master's degree in guidance and educational psychology and a bachelor's degree in secondary education from SIU.

of the money so that it generates sufficient interest revenue to cover those costs.

Assemblyman David Goldwater, D-Las Vegas, questioned what makes the fund better than the programs offered by private investment counselors such as himself.

"Only state programs would be tax-exempt," said Seale. He pointed out that federal law already makes these state-run accounts tax-deferred, and Congress is considering a bill that would make the funds in them tax-exempt.

Jan Evans, D-Sparks, vice chairwoman of the committee, said the idea might help increase the percentage of Nevada high-school students who attend college. But she questioned what happens if a student decides not to attend one of Nevada's universities but one in another state.

"I felt portability is a very important issue here," said Seale. "Obviously, if the child elects to go to Yale or Harvard, we're not going to guarantee the tuition."

He said in those cases, the state would pay whatever it would have to at a Nevada university, and students or their families would have to make up the difference. R
