missed also. The special teams needs improvement, so it can return to its usual form. Grade F

OFFENSE

The offense moved the ball well and, in scoring 25 points, put in a good showing. There were some downsides too. Jon Denton threw three interceptions and Roderick Johnson was hurt and is out for the season. The execution of the plays seemed to work well. The offense moved the ball and sustained several drives. Grade A-

DEFENSE

The defense did a good job throughout the whole game. They made an excellent stand right off the bat, getting a crucial fumble recovery at the goal line. The turnovers were important, and the defense caused them when they were needed. To only allow nine points in a game is excellent. Hawaii however, did move the ball fairly well on the Rebels. Grade A-

SPECIAL TEAMS

For the second week in a row, the special teams play was sub par. The very first kickoff was fumbled and recovered inside the five yard line. An extra point attempt was

COACHING

The coaching was fairly decent. To overcome the loss of a star like Roderick Johnson is important. Some teams with poorer coaching might have folded under such circumstances. But, the coaches of UNLV held the team together and kept them putting points on the board. Grade B+

ATMOSPHERE (FOR EVERY GAME THAT I PERSONALLY ATTEND)

The atmosphere of this game was intense, like any college conference game should be. Both teams needed a win. The fans sensed that and supported their teams. The student body was rowdy, as expected. However, several fights erupted. This should not have happened. Watch the game, enjoy the game, but remember, it is just a game. Neither of these teams is going to win the national championship soon, so let's not fight over trivial things. Grade D

The Rebel Yell

The UNLV athletic department announced that former UNLV men's swimmer Seun Harewood was honored as a recipient of the Arthur Ashe Jr. 1996-97 Sports Scholar Award, in recognition of outstanding academic and athletic achievement.

Harewood was a four-year member of the UNLV swimming team and an outstanding student. The Arthur Ashe, Jr. Sports Scholars Award recognizes minority student-athletes in intercollegiate athletics. Harewood is the first UNLV recipient in the five years that this program has been sponsored.

"The award couldn't have happened to a nicer young man," said UNLV Head Swimming Coach Jim Reitz. "Seun sure put a lot of work in the four years here at UNLV. He certainly deserves the recognition."

Seun was a three-time UNLV Scholar-Athlete and a two-time member of the UNLV Academic top-40. He was named last winter to the academic All-WAC team.

Harewood is majoring in pre-professional biology and has compiled a 3.60 GPA.
