University Singers perform Home Concert

The Rebel Yell

The UNLV University Singers conducted by David B. Weiller will present their 12th annual Home Concert performance Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall.

The Home Concert features the choir and pianist Lynn Trippy in their final performance of the season and also marks their return from a concert tour in Arizona that included performances in Phoenix, Tucson and Flagstaff.

A vivacious processional song of welcome from New Zealand, "Kua Rongo," opens the Home Concert and will be sung in its original Maori dialect. The dramatic theme for the concert centers around the themes of "Meditation, Celebration & Illumination."

The program encompasses masterworks by Sarah Hopkins, Jacob Handl, Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina, Johann Sebastian Bach, Johannes Brahms, Morten Lauridsen, Randall Stroope, Imant Ramnish and Daniel Gawthrop. Student soloists also will be featured.

The University Singers enjoy a reputation for excellent choral performances. During a recent concert tour, an enthusiastic music critic praised the choir for a performance in which "...the singers, conductor, accompanist, and audience members all but danced in the pews... The illustrious Robert Shaw would have a right to feel confident about the future."

Recent concert highlights include holiday performances with the world-renowned Boston Pops Orchestra as well as the choir's first tour to the East Coast and participation in a massed choir performance in New York City's Carnegie Hall.

David Weiller is in his fourteenth year on the university faculty where he serves as Director of Choral Studies. He is a past recipient of the UNLV William Morris Award for Excellence in Teaching and was recently honored with the UNLV Alumni Association's Outstanding Faculty Member of the Year Award.

Weiller is active as a guest conductor, clinician and adjudicator. For 14-years, he was a principal conductor for the College Light Opera Company at Highfield Theatre on Cape Cod, and he currently serves as director of music at Christ Lutheran Church in Las Vegas.

General admission for the April 24 University Singers Home Concert is $6. Students and seniors are $4. For further information, call the UNLV Performing Arts Center box office at 895-3801.
