

The Goldfarbs As We All Know Them

DANNY

School, and finally graduating from Newark College, a branch of Newark University. When he tells of the principal of the high school, who was of German origin, and whose ideals and standards were so high, they must have left a deep indent on all his pupils, one can guess how impressive he must have been. The respect on Danny's face leaves nothing to the imagination. He stayed in college for one year and in October 1941 went into the Army.

When he severed his active duties in 1945, he was 1st. Lieut., Commanding Officer of the Medical Administrator Corp., in Morrison, Louisiana. He may have severed his active duties, but not duty in its entirety, for he remained on the inactive reserves, with commission, for the next two years. Now there were threads to be picked up, and an education to complete, for as a youngster our friend had hoped to be in the optometrist profession, and like many another, due to circumstances he followed the financial road instead and was working towards becoming a C.P.A. Thus, in January, 1946, he went to Rutgers College to earn a Bachelor of Science in accounting, graduating in 1949.

This might sound very routine. Let me assure you that it wasn't, for he worked during the day, and went to school at night. Why? He had a family to raise, and his youngest offspring was already very much in the foreground when he achieved his dream. Strange to relate, it was his mother who saw him get his degree, for his spouse was not only busy with the babies, but felt that as his mother had helped him in prior years, it was the fairest gesture she could proffer.

You may ask at what did he work during the daytime? From 1945-48, he was the office manager in the B and Z Express Co., in West New York. He was offered a position with financial security for life, but his ideals were not in this direction, for he was determined to complete his education in the world of finance. Thence he went to Newark Farmers Market as accountant and buyer. 1956 saw him passing his C.P.A. examination in New Jersey and working for Granet & Granet (C.P.A.'s) until April, 1957.

A quirk of fate drew Danny to the West, and on May 3rd, 1957 he took the plunge coming to Las Vegas, where he went into an associate business with the late Julius Newman. Today he has his own C.P.A. office at 130 So. 4th street.

He met Annette Portnoy, in Nov., 1945 while she was training to be a registered nurse in the Newark Beth Israel Hospital. The first time was a blind date. In February, 1946, they met again and started going steady, to tie the knot on July 11th, 1946. The following year saw the arrival of daughter, Cele, and in 1949, their son, Mark.

Dan remembers obtaining his first car at the age of 16, from his earnings as assistant buyer in Bam--assistant buyer in Bam--burger & Co. His determination speaks for itself, for how else could one put in 16 and one half hours a day, working a full time job and studying at night to complete a degree....

Danny has a good voice, and was a member of the Glee Club at school. He was excellent at Track and won an award with the debating team. He was a member of the Phi Epsilon Fraternity. He also played the violin at the age of 12, and was in a regular band every Saturday night, playing with the "Dave Gordon Quintet". Dan has awards, from the Boy Scouts, and for being the Young Jewish Man of the year for B'nai Brith, receiving the latter in 1963. He has held the position of President of the Nevada State Certified Public Accountants. Trophies for bowling are among his collection, as part of the team in basketball, he has received acknowledgement on the regional championship. Golf is one of his favorites, and he won the D.I.C.C (part of a mixed foursome) trophy in March 1965. As for his other hobbies, he reads considerably, enjoys dancing, and if there is an opportunity to see good shows, he is right there.

Asked about his religious affiliation as a child, he remembers the Rabbi who came to the house to teach him, and how his Grandfather Cantor Louis Goldfarb, pushed him along the Orthodox route of Judaism. Upon his arrival in our own city he immediately joined the then Las Vegas Community Center. He has served on the Temple board for three consecutive years, stood aside for one, when a husband and wife could not serve jointly, and has since been re-elected back to it. He is a clown in the Shriners Clown Unit. He is a member of the Executive Lions Club, a past President of the Independent Bowling League, has worked as chairman on the U.S.Y. group since its inovation at the Temple in 1963, inspiring and helping the youngsters in their many activities.

He is the present chairman for the Mountain States Conference (which covers eight states of C.P.A.'s) and which will hold their convention here in May 1966.

There is much more that could be told about Danny Goldfarb, but he is a very quiet and modest man when it comes to telling of his own prowess. He shies away from the limelight to which he is really entitled.
