DAVE BURTON

by Jack Tell

It has been said when a Simcha is being planned in Las Vegas, first you call Dave Burton, then you arrange for the hall, the caterer, the invitations and all the other incidentals.

If you danced at a wedding, it probably was to Dave's music. What kind of a Bar Mitzvah could it have been without Burton's band? From a Goot testimonial to a Hadassah birthday, you one-stepped your way to your table as you entered and hours later you waltzed out humming the latest melodies being played by one who knows

But Dave, whose music is the most, is far more than just a musician at these

Best Show Around

Ten of the most recognized Cantors on the West Coast will render a concert of Yiddish, Hebrew and English music at Temple Beth Sholom, Sunday, February 27, commencing at 7:30 p.m.

Those of you who have heard these concerts in the past know how exciting and stimulating they are. This one promises to be of at least the same caliber, with three brand new numbers, never before sung.

The artists, from Temples in lower California, give of their time and talents without remuneration.

Proceeds from this outstanding affair will benefit the Cantor's Assembly Scholarship Fund, and the Temple's Camp Ramah Fund. Tickets may be obtained for a nominal $2.50 donation, for general admission.

There are no reserved seats. Mail your check right now to Temple Beth Sholom, Concert, 1600 E. Oakey, Las Vegas. Sponsor's tickets are also available for $10 donation.

All members of the Congregation and music lovers in the general public are urged to secure their tickets well in advance.

(ED. NOTE: Darn Right. This is a highlight of Temple activity and guaranteed to be the best show in town that night, J.T.)

Frank's In Town

FRANK SINATRA

by Jack Tell

The Madhouse, on the Strip between Milton Prell's soon-to-open-full-blast new Alladin and the Desert Inn Hotels, popularly known as The Sands, is a combination these days of New Year's Eve on Times Square, Mardi Gras in Basin Street and VJ-Day along Constitution Ave., solely because an entertainer named Frank Sinatra appears there twice nightly.

The long, long lines stretching the full length of the casino, a city block, with anxious faces hoping to get in at every performance is ample proof of the man's drawing power, said to be the greatest in the history of night club show business. The acclamations in all mediums of communication have exhausted every known word and phrase of praise, and some that have been concocted for the occasion. What is there to say about the man that hasn't been said many times before by the best word masters in the literary world?

Although there are 20 men on stage, mainly Count Basie's orchestra, there could have been a million, or none. All eyes are constantly glued on Sinatra. You can't help but agree with everything you heard and read about the man as a performer, but you keep probing into your mind to find out why. You peer intently at each motion, facial expres-
