JEWISH NEWS BRIEFS

STARSBOURG (WNS) Removal of Belgian Senator Victor Leemans as president of the European Parliament on the ground that he had been a faithful Nazi for more than fifteen years before World War II was demanded at a meeting at which "indignation" was voiced over the development.

PARIS (WNS) A Marc Chagall Museum in Olivetti Park was given approval by the municipality of Nice, thus making the Jewish artist the second man in the history of France to have a entire museum dedicated to his work. The first such honor went to Picasso.

FRANKFURT (WNS) More than 11,000 West Germans came to Israel as tourists in 1965. One of the stimulants to such tourism has been establishment of diplomatic ties between the two countries.

MONTREAL (WNS) The Canadian Jewish Congress, in a report by its research director Louis Rosenberg, disclosed that Jews in Montreal showed the lowest birth and highest death rate as compared to the rest of the population.

JERUSALEM (WNS) Israel because of insufficient high schools is facing the prospect of a serious shortage of technicians and professionals by 1969, it was reported by Hanoeh Smith, director of Israel's Manpower Planning Authority.
