

RAISE OF THE STARS

4 QUEENS 3-3

The Four Queens Hotel will initiate a program of continuous entertainment beginning in the afternoons at 3 p.m. and running through 3 a.m.

The new policy, set for a July 29th opening, will feature Shirley Stevens, a relative newcomer to the show circuit, and with a deft talent for handling hecklers. A Rusty Warren protege, Shirley boasts, "All I ask is that you give me an audience with one man who's not afraid to open his mouth... and I'll guarantee that I'll close it every time."

Raising the curtain, Cristy Hines, a triple threat at the mike. Cristy features a Beat Ballad Blue Guitar, a Swing-in' banjo and a clever blend of song and comedy.

Ben Goffstein, Four Queens' president, hopes to make the Royal Lounge a showcase for rapidly rising top-notch talent who have not yet achieved "Big Name" stature. Goffstein came up with the idea while watching the Academy Awards recently. "More and more European entertainers are walking off with the top awards because they have had better training."
