

Barney Glazer's "HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE"

Don't feel sorry . . . for yourself when your favorite television series is canceled. If other programs hadn't been canceled, your shows wouldn't have become favorites . . . for Eddie Fisher's canceled Dot recording contract. RCA Victor, his first love, signed Eddie again under the chupah and they hope it's for life.

People are wondering . . . why scientists can make a radar unit weighing 185 tons that detects and tracks a 16-inch piece of wire 1/32nd of an inch in diameter at a distance of 2500 miles but they can't come up with a simple solution to rid us of television commercial abuses . . . why Elke Sommer hasn't applied for U.S. citizenship . . . why more angle-Jewish newspapers don't publish a corner in Yiddish with accompanying instruction to preserve that beautiful language?

Reserve a suite in heaven . . . for Jack L. Warner, head of the studio bearing his name, who sends ailing Louella Parsons roses every week (she's in a rest home) . . . for young Gary Lewis who donated $500 to the Motion Picture Relief Committee for the building fund in memory of the late Ed Wynn.

Guess . . . who opens the door when tourists stop at Elvis Presley's house and yell, "Hey, Elvis, come on out!" Dick Shawn, the lessee, and very often he's wearing a yahmelka . . . who is the most popular motion picture star in Russia? The late Mario Lanza . . . what film star couldn't emcee a charity show because his top piece was locked in a beauty parlor and the owner had gone fishing. You guess.

Showbiz in bizbiz . . . Elmer Bernstein's horse Khan Ireland paid off by winning Hollywood Park's $50,000 Vanity Handicap . . . Larry Storch will buy a nightclub and of course he'll call it The Storch Club . . . Steve McQueen partnered a Spanish restaurant on the Sunset Strip . . . Sammy Davis, Jr., invested in a N.Y. nightclub and a personal management company.

Gossip and Truth . . . Gossip: The roadshow of "Funny Girl" is like one big happy family. The truth: So, so wrong. Marilyn Michaels (daughter of Freydele Oysher) said, "There's nothing funny backstage about 'Funny Girl'. Everyone's scrapping like iron."

Gossip: Tony Martin and Jerry Lewis will team for a nightclub act. The truth: The world isn't quite ready for another Martin and Lewis. Gossip: Studio visitors would rather watch film stars than television stars. The truth: Not so. For example, at Paramount Studio, visitors first request that they see the "Bonanza" set.

Sewing their wild quotes . . . Tony Curtis, after the birth of his fourth daughter, "I'll be a rich man. No bar mitzvah expense" . . . Ticket seller, "Only standing room left." Red Buttons, "That's fine. I'll take two as long as they're together" . . . Eddie Fisher at the Coconut Grove, "Dean Martin couldn't attend tonight. He's home getting into shape. Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow asked him to stand up at the wedding."

Milton Berle about his ABC-TV show this fall, "Financially, I don't need it. I'm doing it for the joy of doing it." Interpreted that means, "Just to be funny I don't need it. I'm doing it for the exercise I get out of walking to and from the bank."

Michael Landon, "When I was a kid, I used to leave the bathroom light on. Now, my kids leave the toothbrush on!"

Hollywood, Calif. (TCNS) Sid Kuller, the man who writes the laughs into the laugh lines recited by Hollywood's celebrated funny men, tells about the head of a syndicate who told Mr. Gould, a job applicant, "We have recently purchased a chain of 94 merchandise marts and will soon add 100 more. To start we'll pay you $100,000 per year, increasing it to $200,000 the following year. We'll also give you stock options plus a five-year contract. After that, for each 10 new stores we build, we'll increase your salary $10,000 per year."

"I trust this deal appeals to you as an equitable offer. By the way, Mr. Gould, are you Jewish?"

Mr. Gould reflected for a moment and replied, "Not necessarily."

ANOTHER KULLER favorite concerns the group of visiting Israeli engineers who intently observed an American engineering team supervising the scientific scooping out of a long tunnel between two mountainsides. "You Americans certainly have it made," said one Israeli. "You did that so quickly and efficiently."

"How do you fellows make a tunnel in Israel?" asked an American engineer.

"We put 1000 men on one side of the mountain and 1000 men on the other side," said the visitor, "and we tell them to start digging towards each other."

"What if they miss?"
"Then we have two tunnels."

Sandy Koufax prizes among his awards one by the Catholic newspaper, The Tidings. "It isn't everyday," said Sandy, "that a Jewish boy can attract that much attention. I'm indeed proud"
