

SINATRA SHOW

the slums of Jerusalem, in a section called Zichron Yosef. Here, children of working parents are cared for during the day by trained counselors who assist them toward a new and fulfilling life.

Hundreds of children have already benefited from these two Homes. Yet, there are so many more who are turned away only because of the lack of space and facilities. The Frank Sinatra Spectacular will now help to expand the original Homes, and also to build the DOROTHY ENTRATTER CHILDREN'S TOWN, which will be located at the entrance to Jerusalem.

The plans for the new undertaking propose a spacious children's community with every modern facility necessary for child care; well-appointed dormitories, dazzling-clean kitchens and dining rooms, swimming pools, a fully equipped hospital, play areas and, ...just all-around lovely surroundings. Jack Entratter, who may be a grandfather once again by the time this appears in print, his daughter Michelle Walkoff is expecting any minute, will make another trip to Israel within the next few months in connection with the above, his latest endeavor.

UNPRECEDENTED TV SERIES ON INTER-RELIGIOUS UNDERSTANDING, MARCH 5th 10:30 A.M. CHANNEL 3

An unprecedented demonstration in ecumenical and inter-religious understanding will be presented on the NBC Television Network next month when "Frontiers of Faith" brings together representatives of Judaism, the Greek Orthodox Church, Roman Catholicism and Protestantism for a four-week program series, "The Holy Seasons."

The series will be telecast in color on successive Sundays starting March 5 (10:30 to 11 A.M.). It is produced by the Television Religious Program unit of NBC News in cooperation with the National Council of Churches.

In "The Holy Seasons" there will be exchange about the meaning of liturgical customs and usages of the festival cycle that has developed around Passover-Easter and Shavuot - Pentecost. It will show how intimately the different traditions are linked through the Mass, the Jewish Seder for Passover, the Eastern Orthodox ritual, the observance of Shavuot (by the Jewish people) and Pentecost (by the Christians). Viewers will see, for example, a Roman Catholic couple given Holy Communion, a part of the Jewish Seder for Passover, a performance by a Russian Orthodox choir.

Dr. Hagen Staack will be host for the series. He is professor of religion at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and is familiar to "Frontiers of Faith" viewers for his previous appearances on the program as lecturer on Biblical and archaeological subjects.

Guests and interpreters for their own faith traditions will be the Rev. Thomas E. Ambrogi, S. J., professor of ecumenics, Woodstock (Md.) College; the Rev. Robert G. Stephanopoulos, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour, Rye, N.Y.; and Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, National Director of Interreligious Affairs, American Jewish Committee. All will appear on each of the four telecasts.

In Part One (March 5) the origins of the Passover and the birth of Israel as a nation are considered, as are Easter and the birth of the Christian Church. In Part Two (March 12) the rituals and symbolism of the Jewish Seder for Passover are portrayed and the relation of the Christian services of the Lord's Supper to Passover are discussed. In Part Three (March 19) the timing of Good Friday in relation to the Jewish Passover is noted, and the Orthodox ritual is performed. Music is by St. Vladimir's Theological Seminary Octet of Crestwood, N.Y. In Part Four (March 25) the completion of the Passover and Easter cycles with the observance of Shavuot and Pentecost, respectively, are examined.

All four participants have commented on the importance of the series.

Rabbi Tanenbaum said: "In light of the unprecedented character of 'The Holy Seasons' the National Council of Churches and the National Broadcasting Company are to be congratulated for their leadership in this pioneering undertaking. 'Mass media ecumenism' of this kind may well be the secret weapon of the entire ecumenical and interreligious movements. Mass media ecumenism represents one of the truly imaginative and powerful instruments to close the gaps between the generals and the ecumenical troops, and this series is a splendid and dramatic illustration of how it can be done."
