

Gin Tourney Winners

by Jack Tell

A total stranger, a former president of our Temple, and one of the loveliest ladies in our community ran one, two, three in the Men's Club gin rummy tournament last Sunday at Milton Prell's Aladdin.

Robert Colligan, an unemployed bartender making his first visit to one of our tourneys, ginned out at 2:45 a.m. to go over the 250 point mark and win the major prize in more than $1,000 in cash dispersed among the lucky winners. This will be a happy St. Patrick's Day for Colligan, and he can thank Temple Beth Shalom.

A close second, and the first time a former head of our Jewish Community Center ever got that near to the grand prize, was Harry Wallerstein, who had mowed down player after player, only to succumb, "from sheer exhaustion" to the prowess of Corrigan.

"I was tired," Harry confided to the Israelite.

In third spot, and probably more amazed than all of us who had faith in her cardmanship, was Barbara Greenspun, wife of a reckless Las Vegas publisher. Barbara had charmed her way through one opponent after the other, including Maury Zenoff, until she met cold, steely, man of nerves Wallerstein. Harry, thinking of his own wife, our darling Kay, twiddling her thumbs at home nursing a virus, showed no mercy in winning the semi-finals, a 200-point session, by the margin of 201 to 196. It was a squeaker.

So ended a wonderful evening in pleasant atmosphere, where the food was delicious and prepared appetizingly, and to top it off, host Sam Landy at the mike kept the smart chatter flowing.

At Candlelight Ball

DR. & MRS. JEROME H. SCHWARTZ

by Lee Schwartz

Going to the Candlelight Ball, that's the plunge this season. The evening starts with a visual swat; the approach to the hotel is a regal one, consisting of 18 Roman Fountains. Three of the fountains with imported marble statues flank each side of the main entrance. Imported Italian cypress trees line the roadway. Inside, the procession of men and women in the black, white, and brilliance of evening dress assemble in the magnificent Coliseum. That approach kicks the evening on. By now the thought of the Candlelight Ball has been flashed around the city, carried by the prominent, the professionals, the celebrated, the distinguished, the dignitaries, the doers and goers who refuse to miss this spectacular night. The kick of going, and seeing, and enjoying holds strong.

Sisterhood's first Candlelight Ball, held in the exclusive Terrace Room of the Desert Inn Country Club was a tremendous social success...the most beautifully dressed collection of women at any party in the season...candles fluttered everywhere ..... everybody danced, danced, danced. The guests loved every minute of the evening. The result was a gala of a party, and an inventive, affectionate, exuberant tribute to Sisterhood of Temple Beth Shalom. If this startling first Candlelight Ball was any test of an annual Ball, the Candlelight Ball won.

The annual fancy dress event is more than a party-- it's a "happening," it's an "experience," and Ball Co-Chairmen Dr. and Mrs. Jerome H. Schwartz said "this year's social event will be even more imaginative and successful than the last. The second Candlelight Ball is spattered with 'firsts'." Brightest lights of all will sparkle Sunday night, Purim night, March 26. The elaborate candlelit dinner-dance will be staged in a beautiful Greco-Roman setting.

Dr. and Mrs. Jerome H. Schwartz, Co-Chairmen for the second time, are being assisted by a group of unique and extraordinary committee members brilliantly organizing, polishing and plumping up plans for this season's elaborate dinner dance. Superb planning is the keynote here. Committee Chairmen are: Mesdames Max Goot, Louis Kravitz, Harry Levy, Murray Posin, William Weinberger, Harry Zumar, Messrs. and Mesdames Paul Eisenberg, Jerry Engel, Len Hornsby, Irving Waller and Paul Wolfshon. Other active committee members are: Daniel Goldfarb, Messrs. and Mesdames Philip Engle, Leonard Gang, Jack Laxer, Herbert Rousso, Philip Shapiro, Dr. Sol DeLee, Drs. and Mesdames Alan Feld, Jack Hirsh, Leon Steinberg, Neil Straus, and Rabbi and Mrs. Aaron Gold. Honorary Chairmen are: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cohen, Mrs. Daniel Goldfarb, Messrs. and Mesdames Mike Gordon, Jack Hepler, Stan Irwin, Lloyd Katz, David Messing, B. C. Saltzman, Will Schwartz, Samuel Speiser, and Harry Wallerstein. Hostesses for the evening are Mesdames Stanley Ames, Murray Artman, Leon Dantzig, Herbert Frey, Marlene Grawoig, Len Hornsby, Eugene Kirshbaum, Edwin Luboff, Stewart Mason, Jay Sarno, Max Shapiro, and Murton Strimling.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Max Goot 735-7698, Mrs. Harry Levy 735-4619 or Mrs. David Messing 735-6937.
