The DANUBE Hungarian Kitchen located at 1700 East Charleston Blvd. is truly a landmark in Las Vegas.

The Hungarian-Bavarian-American foods are 'out of this world.'

Its owners are Gene Haspray, a 20 year resident of our town, and his partner and chef, Joe May.

The Danube first opened its doors in May of 1961. Since it has been doing a near capacity business every night except on Mondays, when everyone is given a much needed evening off. Hours are 5 to 11 p.m.

Gene was born in Hungary and was brought to this country while still an infant. He knows every corner of this town, mainly because he remembers when there were very few corners.

He is also a real estate broker and has been doing well, he modestly says, in buying land where it was unimaginable that people would ever want to make their homes.

Joe May is a food faddist. For breakfast it's coffee and a roll - a light lunch, but for dinner it's a production.

He may eat any number of the Danube specials, like: Paprikas Csirke - Chicken Paprikash, Kolbasz, Wiener Schnitzel, Marha Gulyas -

DANUBE RESTAURANT

Beef Goulash, Toltott Csirke - Roast Caponette or any number of fancy dishes on
