NAZI RAT STANGL SAYS HE HAD NOT KILLED EVEN ONE JEW

RIO DE JANEIRO (WNS) Nazi war criminal Franz Stangl, whose extradition from Brazil is being sought by West Germany, Austria and Poland, was quoted by police officials here of having told them that he had not killed "even one Jew."

Moreover, the former commandant of the notorious Treblinka and Sobibor death camps was alleged to have claimed that he disobeyed orders by the head of the Lublin reservation, General Odilo Globnik, Nazi chief of the Lublin reservation, to kill Jews.

Stangl has been held under arrest since March 2, when the Austrian Government asked for his extradition to stand trial as a war criminal. Later Poland asked for the criminal on the ground that Poland was the site of

'FROM THE HEART' of Jack Entratter President Temple Beth Shalom

Recently all members received in the mail a brochure entitled "Let's Get Acquainted".

It contains a resume of the story of our Temple as well as a description of the many segments of Temple activities. Too many people are prone to take things for granted and view the Temple as just another building. Many of us forget the value of the Temple and its members on the Jewish scene, until we personally have need for the services of the Rabbi, or the Cantor or the Executive Director, or any one of our staff. The story of the Temple, as outlined in the pamphlet, clearly indicates how many important things are made available to everyone by the Temple. It takes a concentrated effort on the part of interested and devoted members to keep the Temple vibrant and functioning properly.

We hope that you're not just paying your dues and then forgetting about the Temple for the rest of the year. We want to be a part of your daily lives. The Temple should be our "second home" where we can find spiritual relaxation and a haven for knowledge and culture. It should also serve as a personal meeting ground for all our people. I am happy to say that it does all these things well. Traditionally, Jewish people are responsible for one another. It's

Note to Jewish Friend Inspired Great Editorial

One winter day several years ago, William A. Aiken and his friend Mac Grogan were driving peacefully to the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, where both were advertising department employees. Suddenly, they noticed a nauseating display on a wall -- and then several others in various parts of the city.

Swastikas decorating the slogan "Jews Go Home" was the greeting that met their anguished eyes all along the route to work. Mr. Aiken was outraged, and Mr. Grogan, a Jew, was sick with disgust.

When they got to the office, Mr. Aiken relates that his Jewish friend was "in a blue funk, holding his head in his hands, staring at his desk, and not saying a word." To cheer up his co-worker, he sat down and spontaneously penned a five-paragraph note. When Mr. Grogan read it,
