Many Functions of Jewish Community Center

As a public service The Las Vegas Israelite presents this article as part of its continuing effort to interpret the various institutions in American Jewish life. One of the most complex agencies in the local Jewish community is the Jewish Community Center. To the casual observer, the JCC looks like a recreational facility with a wide variety of activities. But it is infinitely more. The range, extent and purpose of its program are not apparent on the surface. To give you some insight into the distinctiveness of the JCC, read 'Dayenu' with A Difference. former director of JWB's Personnel Services, is executive director of the Council on Social Work Education. Mr. Koppman is director of JWB Publications Services . . . THE EDITOR

If the Jewish Community Center did nothing else but help people develop their personalities and become secure within themselves, as Jews, DAYENU! It alone would be a worthwhile accomplishment. If the JCC only helped Jews become happy, informed, active and creative as Jews, DAYENU! It alone would be meeting a pressing need. If the Center only helped people prepare themselves for democratic group living, DAYENU! It would certainly serve a useful purpose. If the Jewish Community Center did nothing else but provide a common meeting ground for ALL Jews, DAYENU! It would be a constructive force for unity and harmony.

If the JCC only provided a wide variety of programs in the areas of informal education, Jewish culture, health and physical education or recreation, DAYENU! It would still add to the well-being of people.

If the Center only served young people, DAYENU! It would provide a service desired by the American Jewish community.

How much more, then, are we to recognize and appreciate the role and value of the Jewish Community Center since the JCC does not just perform only one of these functions but carries out all of them and with all age groups. The Jewish Community Center makes a unique contribution to the individual American Jew, to the survival and enhancement of Jewish life, and to the growth and development of American democracy and Jewish culture. It does these things under the direction of qualified professional social group workers and other specialists, with the active support and participation of lay leaders and with the cooperation and assistance of the Centers' national association, the National Jewish Welfare Board.

EDMONTON, Canada (WNS) The Ministry of Education has introduced a bill in the provincial legislature permitting grants to Jewish schools in the Province of Alberta.

JERUSALEM (WNS) New and permanent procedures for the election of Religious Councils were adopted here by Knesset after a brief debate which witnessed Ben Gurion's dissident Israel Worker's Party backing the government on the issue.

VIENNA (WNS) The need for stronger measures against anti-Semitism in Semitism in Austria was acknowledged in a parliamentary debate here centering around a bill introduced by Dr. Christian Broda, former Austrian Minister of Justice.
