

SE OF THE STARS' ★

HAROLD

Valley, Oregon, November 6, 1913.

He is a bachelor and lives at 1410 Eastwood. He works about 80 hours a week but wouldn't want it any other way. He manages to be at all the theatres every day and most of the nights.

Harold says: "people who attend the movies are people with habits. You can expect the same customers almost weekly, and even those that sit in the back seat of the car." Yet there are many people who haven't attended a movie in years.

At the prices and the carful rates, Rose claims that it's still the biggest bargain in town, to see a movie.

He is 6 feet tall, weighs an even 200 pounds with blue eyes and gray thinning hair.

He is no snap-judgement guy. His favorite answer is: "Let's wait and see."

He likes to dress in sport shirts, slacks and sweaters. ("It's a comfortable way of being sloppy, but neat.") When dressed up, he could be called a member of the Ivy League set.

Rose is an apt pupil of anything that intrigues him. He likes people most who can contribute something to his knowledge.

He loves to promote, and with promotions he's successful.

Rose likes money and he admires success and he is trying for both.

While movies is his business he hardly ever sees a complete picture. The only time he does see a show from beginning to end is on his nite off and visits other theatres than his own.

When he was a youngster and attending high school he worked as a projectionist and did most of his home work while running off the picture.

He has telephone - ites. He can't stay away from the telephone long. He has an answering service to take care of his many calls when he's out.

He doesn't hold a grudge. ("If you don't want me, I don't want you.")

On weekends Harold runs the concession stand at the Stardust race track.

He never seeks out trouble. He is well liked by thos that know him.

He has a good appetite and will eat anything, especially Italian dishes: spaghetti, pizza, lasagna. His drinking is done usually only when he goes to dinner or parties. He likes to try new dishes ("I guess I'd eat anything set before me.")

He is pleasant, gracious, courteous. He can also let go with the shouts when displeased or angered.

But he is a known person for being considerate of others and without temperament, almost always.

He smokes two packs of cigarettes per day ("One of the bad hbits I have").

Rose has been around the movies so many years that he sometimes feels someone ought to discover him as a producer or director.

Once he's your friend, it's for keeps.
