Did you ever see a dream walking? Well, I did, and about 700 guests who witnessed the marriage of Joy Rita Moss, daughter of Eddie Moss, and the late Eileen to Joseph Parsons of Hillsborough, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Parsons, which took place at the Sahara Hotel. Eddie was beaming and handsome, giving his daughter to Joe. Joy is his second and last daughter to be wed. Joy's bridal gown was elegant in its simplicity. Fashioned of Peau de Soie, off white in color, A-line skirt, empire bodice and round neck which was ringed with heavily encrusted seed pearls graduating to the bustline. Lace appliques were scattered over the skirt and also her circular train. Her bouffant veil which fell below her shoulders was held in place by a circle of pearls, framing a beautiful face. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Her bridal attendants were, Mrs. Brian Cram (her sister Teri) as matron of honor and Miss Hilary Goldwater, maid of honor. They wore floor length gowns of Peau de Soie in hot pink, A-line skirt with an Empire bodice and double bell cap sleeves. They carried white and pink carnations and mums fashioned in a large ball held by looped satin braided handles. Joy's bridesmaids were Misses Terry Parsons, sister of the groom, Susan Greenspun, Karen Spoon and Mmes. Larry Miller and Gady Jolley. They wore similar dresses in pale pink and carried similar floral bouquets but in paler shades. All the bridesmaids wore circulets of pearls with short bouffant veils. Joe's best man was Louis Power of San Francisco and the ushers were David and Donald Moss

(brothers of the bride) Brian Cram (the bride's brother-in-law), Barry Elchorn, Bill Diehl and Dave Hepburn. Junior attendants were Jill Rossi, flower girl, and Ricky Boss (Uncle Ben's son) was the ring bearer. The North Hall of the Sahara Hotel where the ceremony took place was bedecked with flowers and music played by Morry King and his Violins. Jean Renaldi, sang, "because" just before Judge Zenoff performed the ceremony. After the ceremony the guests assembled to the South Hall of the hotel which was beautifully decorated. Should mention that in the entrance to this room there were figures of sculptured pink ice in the shapes of a fawn and hearts. The tables were covered with dark and light tablecloths to carry out the pink and white color scheme, with matching flowers in candelabras with pink candles. Also on the tables were miniature champagne glasses filled with pink rice tied with pink satin ribbon and lillies of the valley with the names of Joe and Joy embossed on the ribbon as well as a parchment tied in pink ribbon with a message of thanks and gratitude for attending their wedding (a poem from the couple) as well as satin covered matches with a dove in flight all added to the prettiness of the tables. The wines

Applications for admittance to the Mt. Carmel Convalescent Center, which officially opens today, Sept. 1, are pouring in and the home is rapidly approaching the capacity stage. The Center, with full staff completely trained, is non-sectarian, but will serve Kosher meals to those who so desire. It is the first and only Jewish nursing home in the entire state of Nevada. Administrator is William Collins, who holds a degree in Nursing from Brooklyn State, in New York City.

served with a delicious dinner, the open bar all evening, the delicious huge cake, the very danceable music played by Dave Burton and his group, the entertainment, the gaiety of the guests really made this a wedding that will long be remembered and I am sure this is one wedding Eddie will never forget either. There were many out of town guests, too numerous to mention. Joy and Joe will honeymoon in Newport Beach, Calif. before taking up residence in Belmont, Calif. Joy will teach the 5th grade children in San Mateo, Calif. while Joe joins his father in the oil distributing business. Both are graduates of Arizona State University.
