PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"As my fellow-Americans of the Jewish faith observe the coming of a New Year, I am happy to extend to each of you my warmest wishes for health and happiness.

"The High Holy Days exhort your people to sanctification through meditation, prayer, penitence, and love of God and neighbor. This mission lends inspiration to all men of goodwill.

"We are in the midst of a trying and troubled time -- a time that tests the bedrock beliefs of our fathers and the founders of this land. No citizens are better equipped than you to meet the challenge before us.

"For those who have sought the way of justice and mercy, the road has always been a thorny one. For every friend of freedom, the history of man records at least one foe. But in every corner darkened by despair, there has always been a human conscience to bear the burden of its inequity.

"Adversity and distress have been the constant companions of your people. But valor and endurance have been your constant friends and our own pathfinders in need.

"So, as you gather in these penitential days under the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man is enriched by a well-remembered past and a resurgent hope for that which is to come.

"And all of us are humbled, and heartened, by the sustaining faith of Judaism in our midst."

world, and Jewry will usher in the year 5728 with prayer and hopefulness. Perhaps therefore, we should at this time give some thought to the year past, and in retrospect analyze the important events which occurred in our lives.

Most significant to world Jewry is the fact that we were granted the privilege of seeing Israel succeed in yet another defense of its sovereign rights, against its hostile neighbors. And yet, while we gratefully acknowledge and proudly proclaim the magnificent Israeli victory in battle, we readily recognize the fact that this was only a milestone along the road, and that it will take yet another miracle before a true and lasting peace is es-
