Col. Aharon Davidi, Commander of Israeli Paratroop Forces, guest speaker for the occasion, amazed the audience with some never-before-told, inside stories of the Six-Day war in June. He explained of the absolute necessity of knocking out the Arab planes (mostly on the ground) at the very commencement of hostilities, to save Tel Aviv, Haifa, and other Israeli cities from the fate of bombing, and of course, the requisite of retaliation on Arab communities. Davidi spoke of a particular heroic incident where an Israeli helicopter landed within yards of gun-shooting Arabs to save a wounded officer from a fate of certain death. He recounted the story of the Israeli tank brigade that reached the Suez Canal ahead of the retreating Arab forces and held its ground against overwhelming odds until reinforcements arrived.
