AMES AIMS FOR FRONTIER

One successful career in show business would be satisfactory for any would-be performer in any of the arts. But Ed Ames has gone into a second phase of the business which will be highlighted in his first Las Vegas solo appearance at the Frontier Hotel.

His first success, a long range one, was as one of the famous Ames Brothers during the 1950s when their records were among the top sellers of all time. The dramatic field, and a series of theatrical roles on Broadway and on the road led to dramatic assignments on television. This, in turn, brought him back to Broadway and critical acclaim for his role in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." An immediate followup on television established him in the role of

"Mingo" on the "Daniel Boone" show, currently on TV.

Ames has now run the entire gauntlet of show business media, and his opening on December 22 in the Venus Room of the Frontier Hotel is certain to be a highlight on the Las Vegas entertainment scene.
