

JEWISH NEWS BRIEFS

BONN (WNS) Dr. Joseph Neuberger, Minister of Justice in North Rhine-Westphalia, said here that 20,000 investigations of suspected Nazi activities were still pending in Germany.

JERUSALEM (WNS) A charge in Moscow by the Russian Orthodox Metropolitan Nikodim that Russian church property in Israel had been desecrated was hurled back by the Israel Foreign Ministry as "Slander" and "totally unfounded lies."

BOSTON (WNS) Dr. Dewey E. Stone and his brother Judge Harry K. Stone was honored by Boston University at Founders' Day Exercises at which they were made Associate Founders of the 99-year-old institution, the fourth largest private university in the country. This was the first time in the history of the university to extend that honor to Jews.

NEW YORK (WNS) The New York Times, in an editorial on the anti-Semitic outburst in Poland, said that "the current anti-Semitic campaign transparently masked as anti-Zionism" reflected "the moral and political bankruptcy of the Gomulka regime in Poland." The fact that Gomulka "chose to resort to this ugly tactic -- so reminiscent of Stalin's infamous 'doctors' plot' in 1953-- suggests that he is desperate," the editorial commented, adding that "the notion that a handful of Zionist agents could set masses of students and sympathetic workers against him would be comic if the implications were not so tragic for the few thousand Jews still remaining in Poland."

GENEVA (WNS) Former Premier David Ben Gurion of Israel has signed an agreement with a British movie producer consenting to the production of a documentary film on his life.

JOHANNESBURG (WNS) Israel Schlapobersky, a local businessman active in Jewish communal affairs, has been elected mayor by the Johannesburg City Council, thus becoming the tenth Jew to hold that office.
