Dear Mr. Tell:
 I enjoyed your column of February 23 and was particularly pleased that I can be accepted as "Possibly Jewish" by Las Vegas Jews. As I wrote in my column, "It's fun being Jewish in Las Vegas."

If you are Jewish in Vegas - you have a bond with the other Jews there plus you can feel close to all the gentiles who gleefully remind you that some of their best friends are Jewish.

Yours truly,
 George Mason

PASSOVER PROGRAM

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- A new 68-page Passover Program Manual has been published by the National Jewish Welfare Board (JWB) in time for planning programs for the Festival of Freedom, which this year begins at sundown Friday, April 12.

Prepared by Norman Linzer, instructor at the Wurzweiler School of Social Work of Yeshiva University who has had extensive experience as a social worker at a number of Jewish Community Centers, the new Passover Program Manual includes tested Passover programs for all age groups, other suggested program ideas, a Sample Third Seder Service, an Article on Passover music by Leah Jaffa Rosenbluth, games, songs and poetry for Passover, and up-to-date selected lists of basic Passover books, Passover plays, music, arts and crafts, games and audio-visual aids.

Among the Passover programs described are a "Group Experience Toward Jewish Self - Acceptance," "Passover for the Pre-School Child," "Team Approach -- Junior Diorama."

Copies of the new Passover Program Manual are available at $2.95, pre-paid, from JWB's Publications Services, 15 East 26th Street, New York, N.Y. 10010.
